Special Church Services.

In St. James' Anglican Church at Roseneath on Sunday afternoon special services were held in honor of the above event. Mr. W. Burns, now of Toronto, and a former rector, read the lesson and preached the sermon. The pastor, Rev. W. A. Pippen, had charge of the service.

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham of Peterboro, during the service, rendered "By Cool Siloam's Shady Rill," and Miss G. Cuffe of Peterboro sang "My Task."

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, which, after the service, were taken and placed on the graves of the departed members of the family, and in the meantime other members were singing very appropriate hymns. The hymns chosen for the service were all favorites of the family, and the heartiness of the whole affair is to be commended.

The church where the service was held was founded by Mr. Drope, and it was through his efforts that the church has been so successful.

RICE LAKE POPULAR

Many Motor Parties Camped Over Week-End and Holiday.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 6.—Many tourists came from the cities to enjoy Monday's holiday at Rice Lake.

Large crowds of city people motored out to Rice Lake on Saturday afternoon and evening, and erected tents along the lakeshore, and up the road sides near the lake at Barnard's Landing, to remain over the holiday on Monday and enjoy fishing in one of the best grounds in this part of the country.

Every available boat around the lake was hired and there were many persons who were unable to secure one at all, and had to amuse themselves by fishing off the dock.

The weather from Saturday until Monday was so very windy and rough, that the small boats did not venture out too far and possibly on this account there were no exceedingly large catches. There were numerous pickerel being caught, and also some good catches of bass and mud-cats.

This has been one of the largest crowds that has gathered at Rice Lake this season.

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. Get it in the house today. $1.25 at your druggist's.

THERMOMETER IS GIVING TROUBLE

Has Been Up and Down All Summer—But This Week Mostly Up.

Bounteous rains, waves of sweltering heat and an occasional cool spell have all figured in the weather conditions around Peterboro the past few weeks. In that regard, the hand of Providence has been most uncertain this season.

But, whatever else might be said, good sleeping weather has prevailed. The debutante has not been deprived of her beauty sleep or the toiler an opportunity to comfortably rest his fatigued body.

The mercury was low on Sunday, but sudden atmosphere changes caused the thermometer to nearly bust yesterday and to-day.

A much debated question in business offices these days is the limits of propriety to be exercised in removing hard collars, coats and vests. Some in strict observance of polished etiquette, at the expense of their own comfort, remain tightly boxed in high collars. Others, adversely, but in accordance with the thermometer, discard everything within the limits of propriety, and then some. Unconscious of appearance, they are determined to escape the suffering heat.

examination probably would require an hour.

Leopold High, Loeb Low in Tests.

Testifying as to various mental tests he had given the boys, and upon insistence by Mr. Crowe, Dr. Healy read voluminously into the record a report of the various questions and steps of the tests. Dr. Healy said that one test, usually requiring five minutes for the most intelligent persons, had been answered perfectly by Leopold in three minutes 15 seconds, the quickest he ever had heard of it being solved in.

"I found him a calm and well-built fellow," Dr. Healy said regarding Loeb. The doctor said that while Loeb measured up very high intellectually he fell down in a number of tests for an 18-year-old youth.

It is particularly clear that Leopold is enjoying immensely the part he is playing, said the doctor. "It is much like a drama, and he thought the best way to play the whole thing out, whatever the ending.

"He says he is a superman, and on the philosophy of Nietzsche. In jail he feels similar to Napoleon on St. Helena.

"Leopold's main concern seems to be, as he says, whether the reports say the right things about him. I saw no evidence of what one might expect of a normal emotional life in jail or related to his discussion of the crime."

Says Both Would Murder Again.

Dr. Healy testified that both boys had told him they would again go through with the Franks murder if their assosciations and the conditions were the same. He said Loeb told him he "found nothing to deter him," and that Leopold had said he would commit the crime again "if it gave him pleasure."

"Leopold ridicules our type of work as far as society is concerned," testified Dr. Healy. "He says he does not lack balance, nor have a mental disorder. He says his only difference from others is in his superiority. My idea of this is that his ideas show defective judgment, no normal attitude, and that he is not headed consistently toward alleged superiority."

The witness then cited the following expressions of Leopold:

"I revel in the fact I had no ground for conscience.

"I was trying to kill affection, to break down any feeling I had for my family."

"He doubted the existence of conscience," said Dr. Healy, "of things learned at his mother's knees. He said he could by experiment completely down it. He developed the superman idea."

The witness proceeded with an analysis of Leopold's character from early childhood, closely paralleling the testimony of Dr. White. He said a profound disorder of judgment was indicated by a boy of his marked attainments being "ready to go on with these utterly pernicious activities."

"I asked him what hardships he had in the world," the witness continued, "and he said he hadn't any, that he was not permitted to have any."

"He thought of himself as a complete individual, who might experiment with ideas of right and wrong of God," said Dr. Healy. "You remember he told authorities conscience was drilled into him until eight years and then he proceeded to drill it out."

History Repeats When the French and German Leaders Face Each Other.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—For the first time since 1871, a French Premier and a German Chancellor faced each other at a conference table, when Premier Herriot and Chancellor Marx met in London yesterday. The last time the heads of both States met was at Versailles, when Louis Adolphe Thiers and Bismarck, Germany's "Iron Chancellor," negotiated the preliminary for the peace of Frankfort, which officially concluded the Franco-Prussian war.

EXCURSIONS HAD GOOD PATRONAGE

Campbellford Folk Crowded to Picnic Grounds on Civic Holiday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 4.—The citizens of Campbellford spent Civic Holiday in various ways.

About two hundred and fifty people went on the excursion to Frankford by steamer Stoney Lake. The boat left the wharf about eight-thirty a.m. The weather was all it could be for a boat trip and all enjoyed the outing. Those in the booth were kept busy and the children especially were happy all day.

Those who wished had two hours to walk around at Frankford and enjoy the scenery, while others visited friends. On the return trip there was a shower of rain, but there was plenty of shelter on the boat for all.

The young people enjoyed the dancing both going and coming and the Hawaiian orchestra furnished the music for the dances. The L.T.B. Lodge were much pleased with the success of the day and no accident whatever marred the pleasures of the trip.

The Oddfellows' annual picnic at Percy Boom was another way of having an outing for many. Between seventy-five and a hundred of the Oddfellows and their families and the Rebekahs motored down for the day and had a most enjoyable day with games and races, also enjoying the many good things provided to eat.

The races were very interesting and enjoyable and those having them in charge are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

Folks who use RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA all agree that for quality, aside from its economy, it is the best that they have ever used. It is only 7c more a ½ lb. package than other package teas and it is well worth the difference in price. Have you tried it? Your grocer sells it.

MALE MOTHS DRUNKARDS

But Female Butterflies Shun Whisky in London Test

LONDON, August 4.—That male butterflies like to get drunk, while female ones shun liquor and are perfectly content with water as a beverage, is the discovery of the zoologist Sutt after experiments along these lines.

He kept all sort of butterflies in his wire-screened garden and exposed several bowls, containing either pure water or whisky of different brands. The males invariably took to the liquor bowls and sipped until they fell off the brim and rolled on the ground.

The females, however, behaved and without exception shunned the alcohol.

ed to the Boston. By this means the plane was hauled to the lee side of the cruiser.

Boom Wrecks Pant

The hoisting gear was attached to the plane and an attempt was being made to lift it when the strain of the 5,800 pounds weight stopped it and caused it to give way, the steel boom dropping, crashing through the plane and wrecking it.

Wade and Ogden, who had boarded the cruiser meanwhile, witnessed the accident from the deck of the Richmond. Wade and Ogden will remain on board her for the remainder of the trip to Boston by sea along the route of the Transatlantic flight. The Richmond which, had been making four knots an hour towing the wrecked plane, was within five miles of the light house on Suderoe island in the Faroes when she was obliged to abandon the machine.

GREENLAND ICE MENACES.

ICELAND, Aug. 6. — Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the American Army world flight expedition, does not care to predict the possible effect of the fliers being held up by the Greenland ice, but he is at least considering the alternative of a direct flight from Reykjavik, to Ivigtut, on the west coast of Greenland, with a possible halt at sea for refuelling if conditions are favorable.

"We will find some way of making it, in any event," he said.

Bon Ami

Keeps white shoes looking like new!

For all kinds of white shoes—except kid—Bon Ami works wonders.

Put it on with a wet brush—let it dry—then wipe it off with a dry cloth. You'll find that all the dirt, dust and grass stains have disappeared. Just the fresh original whiteness remains—without any pasty, chalky streaks.

When the original whiteness finally has worn off your shoes, clean them first with Bon Ami, then apply a good white dressing. This avoids the ugly, grimy, clogged-up appearance.

Bon Ami also cleans windows, mirrors, white woodwork, aluminium, kitchenware, bathtubs, etc.—in fact, it has scores of uses throughout the house.

A GARDEN PARTY AT DOWNEYVILLE

People From Many Miles Around Flocked to Annual Affair.

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 6.—The annual garden party under the auspices of St. Luke's Parish, Downeyville, which was held on Wednesday was a decided success. For the last number of years the people of Emily, Lindsay and surrounding districts look forward to that day. The committee of gentlemen and Rev. Father Galvin deserve the commendation of all by the splendid way the social was carried out.

The ladies and gentlemen of the parish worked hard to make it a success. The crowds began to gather about 2.30 p.m., and by six o'clock the beautiful grounds were filled with people. A sumptuous supper was served from 5 to 8 o'clock and the ladies provided a splendid supply of cakes, pies, salads, cold meats and plenty of chicken which was heartily enjoyed.

Basketball Game.

A basketball game between Downeyville and Lindsay resulted in a victory for the Lindsay girls. A number of other events during the day were also indulged in. A number of booths did a good business besides the wheel of fortune and the fish pond. A number of valuable prizes were won by all. Hooper's Orchestra from Lindsay provided music for the dancing in the beautiful hall and was enjoyed by old and young.

There were a number of clergy among those present, including: Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro, Rev. Father McAuley of Ennismore, Father Rogers of Detroit, Father Collins of Peterboro, Father Garvey of Lakefield, Father Guiry of Peterboro and Father Meagher of Lindsay.

TORONTO STATION GREATLY IMPROVED

Reception in Peterboro Revelation to Local Fans.

CFCA Toronto Star radio station has been removed from within the vicinity of Toronto's skyscrapers at the corner of Yonge and King streets to St. Clair avenue, one of the highest elevated areas of the city with the result that Peterboro radio fans are able to connect with Toronto more frequently.

J. M. Greene Music Co., Ltd., reports that the reception has been quite good, the concerts coming through loud and clear. Mr. Jack Bertram has been able to get the noon markets and weather reports daily.

The natural geographical situation makes Peterboro a poor radio receiving centre and formerly it was rarely that local fans were able to get CFCA. The reception from the new station has greatly improved and it is hoped that the Star concerts this coming winter will be accessible to Peterboro people.

LADY ASTOR PAINTING.

Removal From House Is At Request of the Donor.

LONDON, August 5 (Canadian Press). — The painting of Lady Astor, the introduction of which into the Lobby of the House of Commons raised such a hubbub recently, will be removed from the staircase, where it hangs during the Parliamentary vacation, according to the Lobby reports.

The Westminster Gazette says the removal is at the request of the donor, Lord Astor.

CHARLIE TAKES NO LONG CHANCES

Peterboro Banker Pitches a Game and Does His Own Umpiring.

Charlie Cummer, of the local Bank of Montreal, who spends his holidays in the Meaford district, has been figuring in the sporting limelight according to the following from the Meaford Express:

With the waning of July of each year comes the annual invasion of Charles Cummer with his all star troop of summer visitors and his noted baseball artists.

Much interest has already been created in local circles in the congenial, eastern financier's efforts on the staging of a two game series with his old time associate, the Express' editor, and his hand-picked gang of "never was beens," the first game of which was played on the Market Square on Friday evening last.

Lew Fields and his famous southern minstrels never did have anything on that game in the fun line.

This year, the affair was of the soft ball variety and the locals were much at sea as to the rules and regulations of the game and under this handicap the big visiting "mogul" had them all eating out of his hand, even to the umpire. To be able to pitch a game and do your own umpiring is a feat performed by very few twirlers nowadays. However, keen interest prevailed and even though the "pencil juggler" and one of his assistants actually "bought and paid" the umpire, the "smiling prince" had a way of his own and as Mother Nature pulled the shades of evening over the diamond, they romped off the field with the big end of a 15-16 score.

KILLED ON TRACK.

Boy Playing Mouth Organ Did Not Hear Approaching Train.

NIAGARA FALLS, August 5 (Canadian Press). — John Zaber, aged 15, of St. David's, was instantly killed early this morning on the Canadian National siding at St. David's by a pasenger train.

He apparently had been walking along the tracks playing a mouth organ, and did not hear the approaching train.

A jury was empanelled and viewed the remains, which were then brought to Niagara Falls.

DISEASED MINDS CAUSED MURDER

Crime Was a Direct Result of Loeb's Diseased Motivation Says Healey.

CHICAGO, August 5 (Canadian Press). — Dr. W. M. Sealey, Boston, second psychiatrist, testifying for the defence at the hearing to determine the punishment for Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., for murdering Robert Franks, testified to-day that the crime was "the direct result of Loeb's diseased motivation," and that from observation in the Court Room he had confirmed his opinion from examinations that they were mentally diseased.

The cross-examination of Dr. Healey began by Robert F. Crowe, States Attorney, seeking to bring out the basis of the "childish compact" between Loeb and Leopold, and the witness testified in a low voice only for Judge Caverly and the stenographers.

Dr. Healey said he had not been told which boy struck the fatal blow which killed young Franks.

WILL REPORT REPATRIATION OF PRISONERS

League of Nations to Hear Report of One of Biggest Humanitarian Tasks.

3 MILLION REFUGEES

Will Have to Be Cared for by League—Scattered Throughout World.

By HENRY WOOD.

GENEVA, Aug. 6.—(United Press).—With the meeting of the fifth annual assembly of the League of Nations on Sept. 1, the league's high commissioner, Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the Polar explorer, expects to be able to report the virtual completion of one of the biggest humanitarian tasks which the league has yet undertaken.

This is the repatriation of the war prisoners from Russia and the care of the war refugees that were left stranded over a goodly portion of the world by the great conflict of 1914-18. With the task as nearly completed now as it will probably ever be possible to complete it, a total of over 3,000,000 will have been cared for by the League of Nations in this one undertaking alone.

Roughly speaking, this total is divided into 400,000 war prisoners, mostly in Russia, all of whom have now been repatriated; 150,000 Russian war refugees scattered over Europe and Asia; and 1,000,000 Greek refugees from Asia Minor, besides some 300,000 to 400,000 Armenians whom the league is endeavoring to help in every way possible.

With the 400,000 war prisoners entirely out of the way, the next aspect of the league's undertaking to be completed as nearly as is possible to do so, is that of the Russian refugees. This latter, it is conceded, will constitute virtually a permanent problem for Europe, but all the temporary help having been extended to them through the league that is possible, it is now proposed to turn the permanent aspect of the problem over to the International Labor Bureau.

Find Them Employment.

This is due to the fact that about all that can be done for the Russian refugees is to find employment for them and to assist them in the matter of emigration into those countries where work exists. As both of these aspects of the problem come logically under the domain of the International Labor Bureau, which is at all times in contact with the world's labor markets and the emigration restrictions of each country, it is expected that the September assembly will accept Dr. Nansen's recommendation to turn what is left of this problem over to that organism.

According to the report that Dr. Nansen will make to the assembly, these 1,500,000 Russian refugees that still remain in Europe was dispersed as follows: France, 400,000; Belgium, 33,000; Turkey, 6,000; Germany, 500,000; Poland, 41,000; Ukrania, 29,000; Roumania, 20,000, with sprinklings of several thousand in nearly all of the other European countries, China and Japan.

During the four years that Dr. Nansen has occupied himself with this problem on behalf of the league, he provided for the evacuation of over 20,000 Russian refugees from Constantinople; arranged with the Soviets for a basis of repatriation for those who wished to return; co-ordinated the relief work in all of the leading European countries on behalf of the Russian refugees and arranged for a common certificate of identity that has now been adopted by 35 different states, including Mexico and Germany, which are not members of the league.

Minor Projects.

These, however, are only the broader lines of work done for the refugees by the league through Dr. Nansen, as his work over the period of four years included scores of minor projects such as finding employment in different countries for them; opening vocational training schools, in various countries, etc.

The next big aspect of the refugee problem which the league now has well under way is that of the 1,000,000 Greek refugees from Asia Minor, who, under the terms of the Lausanne Treaty, were turned back into Greece while all of the Turkish inhabitants of the latter country were repatriated into Turkey.

This problem, which the league took up in collaboration with Greece herself, is being handled from an entirely different point of view. The basic principle adopted is only to extend what charity is necessary to keep these people from starving until the general scheme of installing them in permanent homes on a self-supporting basis can be carried out.

This work is in charge of Henry Morgenthau, the league's high commissioner at Athens, and has already proceeded to a point where its final, successful solution is certain, but where, with Greece's population increased by nearly one-fifth on a productive basis, it is certain that Greece's whole international economic and financial position will be altered by the work undertaken.

Permanent Homes.

Up to the present time about 400,000 of these refugees have already been established in permanent homes, principally on farms, or in small communities where trades and minor industries can be developed. There are still about 600,000 to be cared for temporarily until a permanent installation can be found for them, but the work is so far along and so well provided for that the league, as far as it is concerned, regards the problems as virtually solved.

Greece will still have an international loan of 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds to float with which to temporarily finance the settlement of these refugees, but the progress made to date has been such that the Bank of England has already made heavy advances on the proposed loan, and no difficulty is expected in floating it before the end of the year.

The Armenians.

Finally the league is still giving as much attention as is possible to the Armenians pending some final solution of their problem such as the creation of a national home. For the present the league, on Dr. Nansen's recommendation, has launched a project for issuing identity certificates for them similar to that adopted by 35 states for the Russians. According to Dr. Nansen's latest figures there are some 320,000 Armenians who are now without passports or other means of national identification and the league is undertaking to provide this.

These will be the principal aspects of Dr. Nansen's report to the league which will virtually close this task that resulted from the war.

That a request of G. N. Gordon, M.P., for permission to place decorations and streamers on the streets on the occasion of the visit of the Prime Minister and other Cabinet Ministers August 28, be granted.

That a grant of $50.00 be made to the local fire brigade towards the expense of entertaining the Fire Fighters' Association at their meeting here.

MARX AWAKENED OPTIMISM ANEW

Speech of the German Chancellor Made Excellent Impression in England.

SPEEDY AGREEMENT.

LONDON, August 6. — (British United Press).—The Inter-Allied Conference will reach a full agreement on all the principal points before the present week end if the present encouraging atmosphere continues said a delegate to the conference discussing the matter after yesterday's meetings. The attitude of the Germans and the tone of their speeches indicated that they had come to the conference with the full est intentions of endeavoring to meet the Allies at all points.

The speech of Chancellor Marx created a really excellent impression I am informed. It produced a distinct feeling of optimism, the Germans concentrating their greatest endeavor on the evacuation of the Ruhr by the end of the year. They claim that unless full military exacuation is conceded the end of the present Berlin Government is only a matter of weeks and this would mean the succession to power of the Nationalist Opposition who would certainly veto the Dawes scheme as the first item of their program.

It is generally believed that the Germans are willing to pay additional amounts annually or to conclude a commercial treaty which would be advantageous to Franc and Belgium if they think that by so doing they will obtain further concessions.

CATFISH.

Catfish—six and a half million pounds in eight months—are taken from Lake Okeechobee in Florida and "shipped to distant markets."

We wonder under what name they appeared on the bill-of-fare. Did you ever see catfish on the menu? Maybe it's just as well we don't know the history of everything we eat in civilization. We might have an epidemic of voluntary starvation.

All of us know what we would do this vacation if we could afford it.

CHICAGO YOUTHS RULED AS SANE

Punishment Will Be Determined as Result of Present Hearing.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—The punishment of Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard A. Loeb for kidnapping and murdering fourteen year old Robert Franks, will be determined as a result of the present hearing before Judge John R. Caverley and the proceedings will not be turned in to trial by Jury with a plea of legal insantity, the court ruled yesterday.

"These boys are sane so far as this court is concerned. They have accepted responsibility and the only thing to be determined is their ground for mitigation. The Illinois supreme court has said that is a mandatory for me to hear any evidenc in mitigation."

The Pure Food Building, Canadian National Exhibition, is the most unique exhibition structure in America. It is 450 feet long and boasts among other novel features, sunken Italian gardens and open courts.

NEWFOUNDLAND MAY KILL PROHIBITION

Government Introduced Two Bills To Repeal the Present Act.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Aug. 6th. — The government yesterday introduced two bills which virtually repeal the present prohibition act.

The first and most important bill, amends the act, recognizes spirituous liquors as a beverage and permits adults to obtain a bottle a week without a physician's prescription.

The second bill provides for the sale of light wines and beers by hotels which will be licensed, and under government supervision.

It provides heavy penalties for violation of the act, which debars them from handling for sale spirituous liquor.

The last named bill receives popular approval, but the first, which is regarded as of major importance, recognizing spirits as a beverage, and abolishing physicians' prescriptions, is a bone of contention, and will encounter strong and influential opposition during the debate in both houses.

FARM NEWS

A FARMER BOY HASN'T ENOUGH OF WILD LIFE

Many Youths Look to Mother Nature for Their Amusement.

LIVE OWN LIVES

Government is to Restock the Woods and the Streams.

(By One of Them.)

CAVAN, Aug. 5.—Among the troubles of the boy on the farm is the scarcity of game. Boys, who live their own lives, unaided by societies, clubs and cliques, look to Nature for amusement, and just at present these boys are being somewhat disappointed, for the country streams are now almost denuded of trout.

Early in the season, before the city folks commence their holidays, is the only time trout are at all plentiful. As the season advances more and more people drift out for holidays and remain to fish. Especially on Sundays, many fishermen from the towns and city are found at the trout streams. In midsummer rainy days are the only time that trout can be caught readily.

Trout are not the wary fish some people would have us believe. The one, two or three-pound trout are almost unheard of now, and the summer trout, six inches long, will often bite at a piece of coloured gilt paper on a hook. Trout are not firm-fleshed fish at all times. Trout, which live in shallow streams only a foot or two across, become soft in very hot weather, and sometimes their flesh leave their bones with the least handling.

No Shooting.

As for shooting, the only game a farm boy has is rabbit, or ground hog. Wild ducks have become very scarce. Only three old pairs have been seen mating around this part of Cavan this year. Previous to last year, any bushy pond harboured a dozen or two of growing ducks.

Here, again, is a rub which hurts the boy on the farm: Wild duck shooting season does not open until sometime around September 1. The wild ducks which grow around small ponds leave about the middle of August, and stay at some lake until they migrate; if the farm boy breaks no law, he rarely shoots a duck. I have only shot one in my life, and yet every year, up to this year, over a dozen black ducks have been hatched yearly on ponds on my father's farm. Rice Lake is the nearest stopping place for the ducks, thirteen miles distant.

Sportsmen from cities and towns enjoy this sport, which the country boy should at least share.

Partridges also are scarce. Their open season is well arranged for a time when the farm staff are at work, harvesting and doing fall ploughing.

The law allows only five partridges in one day, or ten a year, to any one person. These birds are so cunning that very few boys have ever shot one, even though they have raised scores of them during their many tramps through the bush.

It remains again for the professional sportsman, with his pointer, to clear out the woods. The government is taking measures to restock the woods with game, and the streams with fish.

During his term in the Provincial house, Mr. S. S. Staples put 30,000 trout in the Cavan Creek and 30,000 in the creek at Millbrook. Mr. A. J. Fallis, the present member for the Toronto house, has been giving out settings of pheasant eggs throughout this district. When the young pheasants are large enough they are to be released in some woods. Whom these new stocks of birds will benefit is a question.

Mr. James Paul and Mr. Wm. Pudsey were two farmers in this immediate neighborhood who had each a setting of these eggs.

The young birds hatched from the setting obtained by Mr. Paul have proved very useful in keeping his potato patch free from bugs. They go up and down the rows diligently hunting and eating bugs.

FOREIGN COTTON.

Increased cotton acreage in foreign countries isn't worrying this country much. The reason is the larger cotton districts are far from European markets and in countries having more or less primitive agricultural methods.

AUSTRIA RECOVERS.

The Danube territory is recovering from the war decline as an important source of cereal supply. Gains have been made in wheat, barley and corn, although production is yet far short of pre-war figures.

BIG PEACH CROP.

Quality of the fruit on the peach trees in Georgia is best since 1918. The state expects to harvest this year the largest crop it has ever produced.

WATCH LEG BANDS.

Chicks suffer from tight leg bands. Bands should not be too loose, yet they should not be so tight as to cut off circulation. The best practice is to change them with growth of the chick.

When the potatoes fail to grow,
And we don't reap the things we sow,
When the clover fails fails to bloom
And every prospect's wrapped in gloom,
Who cheers us with a serenade,
Makes announcement that she's laid,
Who saves us from distress, despair,
Who's on her job, is always there?

Rise In Grain No Gain To Farmers

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6. — Despite the recent spectacular rise in grain prices, the Ohio farmer, for one, will probably show a greater loss this year than he had last year.

This prediction is made by rural economists at Ohio State University here.

They point to the fact that wheat production this year, in Ohio, is 20 per cent. below that of last, and that the corn crop is about two-third the 1923 yield. The result is higher prices, by the natural law of supply and demand, they say.

"The number of bushels sold as well as the price must be considered in calculating the value of a crop," they explain. "Twenty years' figures on Ohio crops show that the farmer has on an average received a greater return from big yields than from low yields, in spite of the high price during the bad crop years."

FARMERS LURED TO THE STORES

Farmers Have Started a Chain Store System of Great Strength.

NATION WIDE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6. — Farmers are going into the chain store business.

News of perhaps the largest retail merchandising combine ever organized has started the farmers' co-operatives toward development of a chain store system that would combat any monopolistic efforts of such a combination.

According to the All-American Co-operative Commission, whose headquarters are in this city, co-operative chain stores will be established soon in various parts of the country.

In a number of agricultural states farmers' co-operative chain stores have already proved successful. The Farmers' Union of Kentucky now announces the extension of its chain store system and the development of new district warehouses to supply their needs.

Recently New York and London bankers announced formation of the 14 biggest chain store systems in the country into perhaps the world's largest chain store system, with a total of 19,000 stores scattered throughout the country.

"The American Co-operative Movement is going to combat this monopolistic chain store menace with co-operative chain stores owned by the people instead of the big bankers," comes word from co-operative officials.

The co-operative movement has been growing tremendously throughout the world. There are more than 10,000 farmers' co-operatives in the United States. Business transacted by them is estimated to run well over the $2,000,000,000 mark.

These activities follow four main lines of marketing, besides considerable collective purchasing. There are 2600 grain co-operatives, 1841 for dairy products, 1182 for livestock and 956 for fruits and vegetables.

Co-operatives for purchasing farm and home supplies are doing a business of $50,000,000 annually. There are about 1000 of these in this country.

Russia has "rolling co-operatives"—trains of supplies for distribution among country folk. Denmark is famous for its advancement in this field and so are other countries in Europe.

WILL NOT ALLOW TEST OF PLAGUE

Experimentation With Foot and Mouth Disease Forbidden By U. S. Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Secretary Wallace has refused to permit any experimentation in the United States with the foot and mouth disease, which has recently caused such heavy losses in cattle in California, but which now is under control.

Suggestions from medical men, particularly the Los Angeles County Medical Association, urging the Department of Agriculture to carry out or authorize investigations, have been answered by Secretary Wallace with the statement that the disease already has been the subject of prolonged study.

"In view of its highly contagious nature, and especially the economic hardships caused by quarantine measures against localities in which the disease exists," Mr. Wallace said in a letter to the Los Angeles association, "it does not seem wise to entertain suggestions which contemplate keeping the disease in stock in any part of the United States or any islands adjacant.

"The methods of eradication which the department has followed have kept the United States from from the disease except for the occasional outbreaks."

France, Germany and Great Britain all had attempted to experiment with the disease but had found it impossible, notwithstanding the most careful precautions, to prevent its spread from experiment centres.

ELECTRICIAN NEEDED.

"I've just read an article about electricity, Henry," said his wife; "and it says that before long we shall get everything we want by just touching a button."

"Why not, Henry?"

"Because nothing would ever make you touch a button. Look at my shirt.

WEST IS BEING THREATENED BY ALFALFA WORMS

Pest is Spreading at Steady Rate Despite Combined Efforts.

SPRAYING HAY

Two Sprayings Necessary in Idaho to Kill the Weevils.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 6.—State and Federal authorities in the West have combined forces to fight the destructive alfalfa weevil. The pest threatens the greatest crop of the irrigated states, and incidently strikes at the livestock industry.

Since 1904, when this pest was discovered near Salt Lake City, Utah, it has spread into Idaho, Wyoming and Nevada. It has made such inroads on the hay industry that the government now has experts on the West studying the habits of the worm and insect to determine the best method of controlling if not exterminating it.

In Nevada and Idaho, Federal and State authorities have concentrated their war on the weevil. Around the Boise valley, Idaho, some 30,000 acres of hay were sprayed and in Nevada, where the weevil came but a few years ago, 650 acres were sprayed.

This work has been done under supervision of Sterling J. Snow, who first took up the fight against the weevil in Utah.

"In Idaho conditions have been so bad that two sprayings were necessary this year," says Snow.

Spraying and Dusting.

"The type of machine most satisfactory is a traction which sprays a swathe 20 feetwide.

"It requires at least three days after a field is sprayed to kill sufficient worms to give the alfalfa a new start, and it is a week or ten days before th field shows to any great extent the results of the spraying.

"A field attacked by the pest looks pretty bad directly after being sprayed, as the hay is more or less tramped and rolled down. But in a brief time, with no worms attacking it, it recovers and takes on new life, often bringing nearly a normal crop the first cutting and absolutely assuring a second crop, which would be a failure were it not for the spraying of the first crop.

"Calcium arsenate is the most effective spray material we have found. About two pounds to the acre is required and the cost ranges from 65 cents to $1 per acre, depending upon the field, its nearness to water and the team used."

In addition to spraying, dusting was tried. The number of worms killed with the calcium arsenic powder was found to be equal to the number found in sprayed fields. But it is feared that in a windy country dusting may not be as effective as spraying.

Two Forms.

It is recommended, however, in localities where water is hard to obtain. The cost of dusting is a trifle less than spraying.

The insect is most easily discovered, during the early years of its presence in new fields, in the form of the full-grown larva. It is then a green worm-like creature one-fourth of an inch long, with a black head and a faint white stripe down the middle of its back.

The adult is harder to find than the larva, but is present in the field throughout the whole year instead of the summer only. It is an oval brown beetle, three-sixteenths of an inch long, with a prominent snout projecting downward from the front of the head. The color of old, weathered specimens is nearly black.

The adult stays close to the ground during the early spring and late fall, but climbs about on the tops of the plants during the warm season. It is not readily seen by one walking through the fields, because it habitually drops to the ground when disturbed, and its color helps to make it invisible.

DROP IN WOOL PRICE.

American wool growers are receiving 20 cents a pound less for their wool now than a year ago, despite low world stocks, decreased imports and a decrease in sheep in the principal wool-producing countries.

Causes for this lower price are given as curtailed buying of woollen goods and clothing, due to:

High prices, backward seasons, high rents, changes in style of women's wear, two-pants suits, increased use of silk and cotton goods and purchase of automobiles on time.

The last is regarded by many interests in the woollen trade as evidence that auto owners must economize in other directions to meet their monthly payments.

FARMER LEANS ON CITY.

There was a time when city people depended mostly on the farmer and his products for living.

It's turn about now.

According to a state survey made by Prof. C. E. Lively of Ohio State University, the farm provides less than 40 per cent of the family's living directly, while the rest comes from the town.

In Texas, New York, Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee, the dependency on the farm varies from 36 to 41 per cent. But in all cases, the city holds the upper hand.

KEEP FLIES FROM COWS

Flies are responsible for low milk yields during summer and thin cattle in fall. Cows should therefore be protected from these insects. They should be kept in cool, darkened barns and they may be sprayed with 100 parts fish oil, 50 parts oil of tar and 1 part crude carbolic acid.

Picture Of Pep And a Winner.

Gigandra is the picture of "pep." He's the champion blue-blood horse of England. At any rate, he won first prize at the Royal Agriculture Show three years ago and expects to win it again this year. Look at his mane. When Gigandra begins to cut up, he cuts up all over. Horse fanciers will tell you that he gets that way because of his blue blood.

HOW TO TREAT BLOATING COW

Most Farmers Use an Ordinary Knife Blade in Emergency.

BE CAREFUL

When cattle or sheep are turned on fresh pasture and not fully accustomed to it, they often are attacked by a form of indigestion called bloating. These animals are ruminants and they store a good deal of unchewed food in the paunch or rumen section of the stomach. The condition most frequently occurs after rains or in the mornings when a heavy dew is on the forage and the cattle are just turned out. Clover and alfalfa are most likely of the pasture foods to cause the disturbance.

Symptoms.

The disease is characterized by the distention of the paunch, due to accumulation of gas. The animal shows pain, goes off to itself and breathes with some difficulty. Unless relief is secured the gas may continue to form, even over the back of the animal, and choking and death may follow. In mild cases tapping is necessary to release the gas.

An instrument known as the trochar and canula is used for the purpose, although many farmers use an ordinary knife blade in emergency. In tapping with trochar and canula the insertion is made on the left side, the instrument being pushed into the rumen or paunch, the incision being made half way between the point of the hip and the last rib. After the incision is made the trochar is withdrawn and the canula left in to furnish an opening through which the gas can escape.

Be Cautious.

The individuals most likely to be affected are those which eat too fast or otherwise are inclined to be troubled with indigestion. Yet if caution is not followed in turning to grass, many other cattle may be affected. A mixture of other grasses with clover and alfalfa tends to lessen the danger. In sections where large areas of alfalfa are pastured it is not uncommon to introduce strips of native grasses, so that a variety of feed may be available. As a rule, cattle will eat the grass in these strips or small fields and thus follow their own precautions in avoiding danger.

Until cattle and sheep are fully accustomed to new grass in the spring or to fields that are dense with new growth it is good precaution not to turn into such until late in an afternoon when the grass will be free from dew and the stock already have eaten beyond any point of hunger. Following this method is about the only precaution that is necessary for reasonable safety.

POTATO EXCHANGE.

Minnesota potato growers, numbering 12,420, have organized the Minnesota Potato Growers' Exchange, by which their products will be sold under a single marketing plan. The trustee consist of six directors and a seventh representing the public.

SCREENINGS VALUABLE.

Half barley and half screenings formerly considered valueless weed seed, have produced nearly as good gains when fed to lambs as barley alone, in tests recently conducted. Lambs fed on screenings alone made almost as good a showing as those fed on barley.

Dr. Fricker, of the Mendelssohn Choir, will again conduct the Exhibition Chorus at the Canadian National Exhibition. Over 2,500 choristers have four concerts will be given, August 23 and 28, September 2 and 6, all indoors in the Coliseum.

CHERRIES ROT ON THE TREES

Growers Find It Doesn't Pay to Pick Them at Present Low Price.

ON PENINSULA

Cherries rotting on the trees have marred the delights of the unsurpassed Summer scenery on the Niagara Peninsula lately, and the reason given for allowing the fruit to go bad is because it does not pay to pick it at the prices to be obtained in the open market.

"By the time I pay the pickers, the cost of the baskets, the freight and the commission to the wholesaler there is nothing in it for me. Labor is high and the baskets cost about ten cents apiece. I might make six or seven cents a basket, at best, with the chance of being money out of pocket when I come to settle up everything. That is the reason you see so many cherries left for the robins. You city people kick at paying a price that would permit of us making anything worth while out of the fruit. You do not figure out how many folks have to get a slice of the money you pay to the retailer, and you can take it from me that the grower's slice is the least."

What the farmer said was substantially concurred in by Dave Spence M.P., when interviewed. Mr. Spence is in the wholesale fruit business, and he deplored the fact that cherries and strawberries, which had been very plentiful this season, had been going begging on the market at what he termed ridiculously low prices. As far as the choice eating cherries were concerned, he said there had been an active market at prices which would allow the grower to get a fair return, and that the retailer's price of thirty cents a quart could not be considered unreasonable. If the retailer was able to sell them any cheaper he doubted if the grower could get profits worth while. He was confident that none of the sweet cherries were being allowed to rot on the trees, because there was a brisk market for them and he could have disposed of many more baskets than he was able to get.

CORN AND COB MEAL

Corn and cob meal has proved better and more economical than shelled corn and whole oats in feeding baby beeves, according to tests made at the University of Minnesota farm. Fed with linseed meal, corn silage and alfalfa hay the meal gave a large, average daily gain at lower cost.

GRASSHOPPER "FEED."

Poiso bran mash is an effective way of destroying grasshoppers. For five acres mix 20 pounds of bran, one pound of white arsenic, two quarts of syrup, three oranges and three and a half gallons of water and sow broadcast over the infested area.

WASH BUTTER WELL.

Pains should be taken to remove as much buttermilk from the butter as possible. The butter should be washed after the butter milk is drawn off, the churn revolved eight or ten times with the water, the water drained and washing repeated. Thus the undesirable buttermilk flavor will be avoided.

A mouth organ contest will be one of the features of Music Day at the Canadian National Exhibition. There are three classes, boys 12 and under, boys under 16, and an open class.

CHAMPION COW GAVE HER BODY TO LABORATORY

Sophie 19th, Best Milk Producer, is Now Being Examined.

JERSEY BREED

Cow Produced 100 Tons of Milk and 5 Tons Butter in Life.

BELTSVILLE, Md., Aug. 6.—Even in death, Sophie 19th, famous Jersey champion, has given herself over to science.

After nearly 20 years of service in milk and butter production, during which time she held many championships, Sophie was slaughtered recently on the government farm here, in the presence of many scientists interested in the study and improvement of domestic animals. She was a member of the famous Jersey herd at Hood Farm, Lowell, Mass.

But, killed because of old age, Sophie is still useful to science. Her body has been the object of study by scientists of the Department of Agriculture. Their special search is confined to high-yielding dairy cows, to see if there is some relationship between the sizes of their organs and their productivity. Also a new basis for judging dairy cattle may be developed.

During her lifetime Sophie produced nearly 100 tons of milk and almost five tons of butter. At the age of seven years she produced 999 pounds of butterfat, which means about 1200 pounds of butter in one year.

From January, 1914, to November, 1918, she was world champion Jersey and as late as 1920, when she was very old for a cow, she was eighth highest milk producer of the breed.

AUSTRALIA DESIRES MILLIONS CITIZENS

Government Guarantees Pay While Pioneering Goes On.

Australia is seeking suitable immigrants, and a scheme has been prepared to increase the population to 20,000,000, according to a statement just issued by the Department of Labor and Industry in Sydney, N. S. W. The population now is about 5,500,000.

The plan, devised by General Eames, is based on army methods, and will be brought before the Colonial Institute for Consideration. It is stated that big armies of British workers will be necessary to ensure a British basis for the new settlement, and those modern conveniences of civilization which make for permanency must be provided.

To feed and clothe the newcomers during pioneering and at the same time teach them up-to-date methods of earning a livelihood from the soil will call for order and discipline, hence the proposed adoption of army methods.

The Suggested Conditions.

The suggested conditions for settlers are: British origin or approved European nationality; voluntary agreement for three months as a pioneer worker; a deposit of $100 for six months' pay kept in hand; a basis of forty-eight hours' work a week; free transport, housing and feeding, care and instruction; hospital accommodation and medical attendance; pay of 75 cents per day of efficiency, deferred pay and, on completion of contract, a potential freehold, complete after three years' domicile as a citizen, with house and equipment in a closer settlement area and a bonus of $480.

At the same time the report of the Oversea Settlement Delegation, appointed by the British Government to secure information regarding the prospects of immigrants in Australia, expresses the opinion that the arrangements for the reception and care of immigrants constitutes a solid testimony of the States to shoulder their responsibilities and give the newcomer a fair start.

It is thought by members of the delegation that the nominating system is the safest that can be devised, and it was particularly impressed with the possibilities for the absorption of boys between 16 and 18 years of age. The delegation was also impressed with the extensive activities of the State Governments in the development of land settlement schemes.

The report dwells on the difficulties in the way of rapid settlement of immigrants, particularly married men with families, on farms of their own, but members of the delegation were struck by the evidence of the ability of townsmen to succeed on the land. It was thought that an absorption of 50,000 persons during the present year could be hoped for.

Plan for Farm Training Depots.

At a conference of State and Federal immigration officers held in Melbourne to consider methods for the training of assisted immigrants, it was decided to recommend that, where the number of arriving immigrants warranted action, farm training depots should be established and the cost should be borne equally by the Commonwealth and State Governments. The length of training was to be left to the State authorities.

During 1923 26,775 assisted immigrants left the United Kingdom for Australia. Victoria and Western Australia secured the largest numbers. In South Australia 1,200 boys were placed with farmers under an apprenticeship scheme.

Colonel Stanley of the British Church Army, on his return to London after a tour of Australia, said that his organization anticipated being able to send 10,000 immigrants to Australia within twelve months. He said he hoped the introduction of the churches into the immigration movement would overcome the homesickness experienced by the newcomers.

Within the last few weeks a new passage-money agreement has been entered into by the Commonwealth Director of Immigration. This will be of considerable advantage to Australia. The agreement will remain in effect until March, 1925, and the British and Australian Governments will pay half the assistance granted. The adult's fare will remain at a little more than $100, but children above 12 years and under 16 will be carried at half rates, while children under 12 will be carried free.

Lakefield Crops Well Under Way

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 6.—Fields are ripening to the harvest, and fall wheat and barley are being cut and are a good crop, much better than was anticipated. The heavy rains of the past fortnight have headed out well. Corn is slow this season apparently. Garden crops are good, and home-grown carrots, beet and tomatoes can be obtained, the latter being high in price. The crop of small fruits is abundant and well flovored and of moderate price.

DAIRY CATTLE GET A BUREAU

Government Recognizes the Importance of Milk Production.

HEAD A FARMER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The importance of the dairy cow and the growing compexity of American agriculture have finally been recognized with the establishment of the new bureau of dairying in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. C. W. Larson, head of the new bureau, was head of the dairy division of the bureau of animal industry, from which the bureau has sprung. He was born on a farm in Iowa and for the last 20 years has been actively interested in the improvement of dairying.

Although several European countries have been famous for their cows and dairy products, no country has gone forward in this industry as rapidly as the United States. Foreigners frequently comment on the safety of our milk supply and the marvelous machinery developed for handling milk from the time it is taken from the cow with the milking machine until it is delivered to the consumer in a sterilized bottle, cleaned, filled and capped by machinery.

Also the health of dairy cattle has been wonderfully improved, particularly in the eradication of tuberculosis, which is going on at an increasing rate. Each year shows an increase in the consumption of milk because it is becoming one of the safest foods and long has been recognized as one of the most nutritious.

Dr Dr. Larson says that, in spite of the progress which has been made, there is room for much more improvement, as many of the fundamental problems have not been solved. His bureau will study, among other things, the underlying principles of breeding to insure if possible the same results that breeders of grain, flowers and fruit are able to accomplish.

In addition to the laboratories, the dairy problems will be worked out on a large farm at Beltsville, Md., near Washington, at a commercial creamery and cheese factory at Grove City, Pa., and on experimental farms in various parts of the country.

RANGE COW ISN'T A GOOD MILKER

Young City Lady Started Something When She Asked For Milk.

By A. E. Stewart.

The young lady, with her automobile party of friends from the East, had just reached the ranch, and the foreman, anxious to do something for everybody, asked if he could do anything for her.

She was hungry, and yet she was puzzled to know for just what to ask. Thinking she was requesting a very simple favor, she said: "I should like a glass of fresh milk." She did not know that while ranchmen have plenty of cows they get their milk from tin cans.

The foreman, evincing no surprise, turned to a cowboy and said: "Shorty, the young lady would like some milk." A gleam of amusement shone in the eyes of Shorty McCune, but he went promptly to procure the milk.

Presently the company was disturbed by the bawling of calves, the bellowing of bulls, and the galloping of a horse. Rushing to the door, they saw a calf tied to the outside of the corral fence, while inside its mother charged back and forth with Shorty and his horse and rope in hot pursuit, while a dozen men on the fence laughed and shouted advice to the roper.

"Oh, what is he doing?" inquired the young lady, as Shorty, with a quick throw of his rope, brought the maddened cow to earth.

"Milking the cow; please be patient a moment," quietly replied the foreman. But the cow got to her feet and charged her enemy and Shorty had to beat an ignominicus retreat.

'Oh, don"t let her hurt him," pleaded the girl. "I didn't know you got it in that way."

"It's the only way to milk a range cow," declared the foreman.

"Do you really milk cows that way?"

"Yes, when they milk them at all, out here."

"Well, then, I'll never mention milk again—in this country."

And the girl drew a deep breath of relief when the foreman shouted: "That will do, Shorty; the young lady has decided she doesn't care for any milk."

Canadian flaxseed crop this year will be about 6,135,000 bushels, as against more than 7,000,000 last year.

FOUL BROOD MAKING ITS APPEARANCE

Millbrook Farmers Suffer Heavy Losses From This Bad Disease.

COMES FROM U. S.

One Man Has Lost 10 Hives Already This Year.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 5.—Foul brood has made its appearance in this neighborhood, and local apiarists, in common with others throughout the province, have suffered heavy losses from the disease.

Bees are shipped in from the States in pound packages, or in larger quantities as required, and in this way it is believed that brood diseases have found entry. Both European and American foul broods are complained of, and have apparently been working in the country for years, recently becoming steadily worse. F. McMahon has lost ten hives this year out of twenty-three, while W. P. Bell, Ola Williamson and Hilliard Lang are others in this immediate vicinity in whose apiaries the O.A.C. Inspector from Guelph, found infection. W. Williamson, 7th Line, Cavan, is apparently the only one in the vicinity whose apiary has so far escaped injury.

The government has issued warnings against carelessness because many beekeepers do not realize what a factor this is in spreading foul brood. All diseased colonies should be removed from the apiary as soon as discovered, and every frame connected with such destroyed. The greatest care should be taken to prevent the bees having access to infected combs or honey, and any equipment that comes from a district, or a single apiary, where the disease is known to exist, should be immediately done away with. If there is any possibility of a diseased colony being robbed, it should not be opened.

Hot lye water on the inner surfaces of all hives will act as a good preventive of the disease.

As far as human consumption is concerned the brood diseases have no ill effect on the honey, but the owners of apiaries suffer a decided loss through their presence. The hives have to be practically rebuilt, whole colonies of bees have to be destroyed, and in many cases sugar will have to be supplied to feed the remaining hives over the winter months.

The Ontario Honey Producers' Association, of which A. G. Halstead is general manager, is developing successfully as a co-operative enterprise. To prevent congestion in the Eastern Canadian market, Mr. Halstead has devoted considerable attention to developing a foreign trade so that large regular shipments are now made to Great Britain, British Honduras was supplied with a generous consignment, and an order for 30,000 pounds from Hambourg, Germany, was also filled. The Canadian market is not neglected and last month a carload shipment went direct by water from Toronto to Vancouver via the Panama Canal.

The idea of dividing the province into eleven districts, and appointing an official representative in each capable of giving advice regarding marketing problems, was acted upon at a recent meeting of the directors of the Co-operative, and a list of 95 shipping points is being prepared. A local beekeeper, of large experience, will likely be chosen for the representative who will be expected to give his fellow members reliable information in the matter of packing, loading, and marketing. The idea is to keep the producing and marketing ends in close contact that any difficulties may be removed without unnecessary friction, and that the local beekeepers may realize that the head office is in sympathy with them, and not merely an impersonal machine widely separated from their interests and troubles.

The fact that the beekeeping industry has been handicapped by a higher freight rate on honey than on corn products, maple syrup, molasses, etc., is causing much complaint and is being brought to the attention of the government by the railway committee of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association. A reduction had been promised according to R. F. Holterman, chairman of the committee, and was expected to take effect on August 1—now it appears as though the Railway Commission has given the matter a further hoist and at present no relief is in sight.

That an expansion of the bee industry will undoubtedly result if the proposed reduction becomes an actual fact, with great advantage to the country, is the claim advanced. Honey is a natural product which not only enriches the country to the extent that it sells for but as the bees, in gathering the honey, fertilise the blossoms of alsike, red and white clover, alfalfa, sweet clover, as well as buckwheat, cherry, plum, pear, and apple trees, it thus adds materially to these crops.

An experienced gardener has recently made discovery of the fact that old, large lettuce plants, if kept a few days in a cool, dark cellar, with the leaves dampened, will lose their bitter taste and be deliciously sweep and crisp.

From a florist comes the practical suggestion to dip the stems of flowers, which are to be worn, in paraffin wax, and thus avoid an unsightly stain on the dress, or coat lapel, from wet stems. The wax retains the sap in the stem an the flowers will keep fresh for some time.

WOODS GRAZING HURTS.

Opening the farm woods to pasture is harmful not only to the woods but to the stock. Grasses in the woods are sparse, unpalatable and lack the nutritive value of those that grow out in the open. At the same time, cattle and sheep grazing there are more liable to destroy the undergrowth than they are to feed on the grass.

This is a good week to cull your poultry. There are fifty-one other good weeksin the year.

TENNIS TALKS

No Guess Work When Experts Return the Ball.

BY MERCER BEASLEY
The A-toZ Man of Tennis

Nothing is so helpful to a player as to be able to guess where the next ball is coming—and to be there waiting for it. All the great stars in tennis have this faculty of guessing right. But is "guess" the word. I'd say it isn't.

In baseball you have seen this situation. A man on first and a veteran, smart pitcher, like Alexander in the box. A right-hand hitter. The shortstop keeps his position. The second baseman moves over toward the middle bag.

The pitcher winds up and delivers. The ball is hit to short. The runner is forced at second, the batter doubled at first. That wasn't all "guess" work. The pitcher threw the kind of ball the batter was most likely to hit on the ground and in the direction of shortstop.

It is much the same in tennis. A player who can control the ball and who makes a study of angles and distances can usually force his opponent to return the ball to a spot where he will be stationed.

Of our younger players Vincent Richards has this faculty developed to a high degree. Richards, craftily, will leave an opening. His opponent, lured, will bang away at that spot. To his keen surprise he will find, a moment later, that Richards was there before the ball.

To many spectators this appears as sheer guess work. "Richards was lucky to be there," they say. Occasionally luck will figure in this kind of play. But not always. Nobody ever got to be a champion on luck alone. Keen, intensive study gave Richards this gift.

You can have it too if you work hard enough. The next time you are on the court serve to your opponent's back hand and watch where the ball comes back.

LACROSSE FINALS.

Peterboro's Junior lacrosse team goes to Havelock on Friday for the first of the district playoffs. The team is requested to turn out at Ctntral Park this evening. The return game has not yet been decided upon, but it will likely be played in Campbellford. Havelock has already selected Jack Nesbitt, of Campbellford, as one of the officials. The local team feel they are forced to go out of town for their home game because of lack of interest here by the general public.

BELLEVILLE AND PETES NOW TIED

Oshawa's Victory Put Two Rivals on Even Terms.

When the Belleville Central Leaguers dropped into Peterboro on July 12th they were "sitting pretty" in the second half race with three wins and no defeats, while the Solomon crew had one win and two losses. Thus, the Trunks were two full games ahead of the Petes. The latter picked up one of these that afternoon by beating Beleville 8 to 3, and since then both teams have won steadily until yesterday, when Oshawa, aided by the rain, took a fallout of the Oulette-Mills gang, and the Trunks and Petes are now on even terms with four games left to play.

To-morrow the two outfits clash in Belleville and the winner will go to the top of the heap. The Belleville team will play the postponed game on Monday next, Civic Holiday and the championship of the second half, and the right to meet Kingston in the play off innings upon the result of these fixtures. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.
Peterboro	6	2
Belleville	6	2
Oshawa	4	5
Kingston	1	8

The quality of ball played in the Central League was revealed at Kingston yesterday when the Ponies who have only won one game in the Central race, took two exhibition games from the Toronto Hillcrests. Gallagher pitched the Ponies to a 5-2 victory in the morning and Cherry won the afternoon game 11-8.

TILDEN PICKS BOY AS TENNIS BUDDY

U. S. National Champion Shocks Experts By Naming 17-Year-Old Sandy Wiener as Doubles Partner.

SANDY WEINER (LEFT) TALKS IT OVER WITH HIS TUTOR, BILL TILDEN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A 17-year old youth will be William Tilden's partner in the national tennis doubles championship this season. Tilden admitted today his definite decision to team with young Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia, fellow townsman and protege of the champion.

Tilden scoffs at the suggestion that Wiener is too young for competition in the national event, or worse, too inefficient. "I think Wiener is just about as desirable a partner as I could wish for," Tilden says.

It is said Tilden had every intention of teaming with Wiener in the national doubles last fall but for some reason or other changed his mind at the eleventh hour and asked Brian Norton to take the place. Tilden and Norton then went on to win the championship.

Tilden and Wiener have been playing all season as doubles partners, and it must be admitted they have proved a formidable pair. Recently, in the national clay court championships the two gave a remarkable performance, winning in straight sets from two such stars as Clarence Griffin and Brian Norton.

Tilden, naturally, carries the brunt of the burden. It is probably true that he covers three-fourths of the court. This is not exactly good doubles play, since the play should be evenly distributed.

But it seems to work in Tilden's case. So great is his skill, speed and resourcefulness that he hardly needs a partner at all. Any player of medium skill will do. Wiener, however, is a young start who does not rank many strokes behind the older stars.

DUGAN'S NO-HIT GAME.

C. G. E. First Sacker Turned Pitcher Against Bohunks.

King Edward School grounds was the scene of a snappy ball game last evening when the Nightingales clashed with the Bonhunks, the former winning 10-1.

Eddie Dugan did the heaving for the Nightingales and turned in a great performance. The Bohunks could not collect a solitary hit off his delivery and he fanned seven of them. He was given excellent support in the field. His brother Harry did the receiving.

Baptie started for the losers but was touched for five hits and seven runs in the first inning and was relieved by Rollie Doughty who finished the game in good style.

"Tap" Thirnbeck was the fielding star, getting a couple of hard cathes in left field, while Stan Hensley was the heavy slugger for the Nights, having three doubles.

Kennealey behind the bat and Hendrie at first turned in nice fielding game for the Bohunks.

The players lined up as follows:

Nightingales—Galbraith, 2b; Hensley, ss; Baker, cf; H. Dugan, c; E. Dugan, p; Taylor, 1b; James, 3b; Thirnbeck, lf; McCarthy, rf.

Bohunks—Kennealey, c; Baptie, p, ss; Hardill, 1b; Sharpe, 2b; Currie, ss; McNeeley, 3b; Moore, lf; Doughtly, cf, p; White, rf.

INDIAN RIVER WON SOFTBALL

Douro Went Down to Defeat by 11 to 8—Winners Had Raw Players.

BIG CROWD OUT

INDIAN RIVER, Aug. 6.—Quite a large crowd turned out to witness a very exciting game of softball between, Douro and Indian River on Tuesday evening. Although the sky was black with clouds and it looked as if a downpour of rain might be expected any minute, the crowd stayed with the game till the last.

Many of the players on the Douro team were at one time members of the Douro hard ball team, who spent many years of service in the baseball leagues of East Peterboro.

While the Indian River team has never played a league game and is composed mostly of new players, being only organized last year. But in spite of their inexperience and all that goes with it, at the end of the fifth inning, when the game had to be stopped on account of darkness, the score stood at 11 to 8 in favor of Indian River. William Allen was umpire.

FONTAINE'S DEFEAT DOMINION EXPRESS

Score Was 11-4 In First Defeat of Express This Season.

The Dominion Express suffered their first defeat of the season, when Fontaines handed them a 11 to 4 beating. The game was a very good one up till the last inning when Fontaines drove in six of their eleven runs. The contest was marked by good fielding by both teams and heavy hitting by Fontaines. The Hunter street crew socked out eight doubles, three triples and a home run. "Tobe" Fredenburg hit the pill into deep left for a circuit clout, while "Babe" Cook hit it for three bases. Willis Rutherford, Grover Halpin, Bob O'Hern, and Adams all hit doubles.

The Dominion Express gang were held in check all the way four runs and five hits being their quota. Two hits in the first inning gave them a run while two walks and two hits in the third counted them two more.

Scates did the mound work for Fontaines and held Express gang in check all the way. He was given great support by his teammates who made only one error behind him, that one not being costly. Bob O'Hern who did the receiving turned in a good game. The rest of the team performed in faultless fashion.

Harvey Smith was again shooting them in for the Express crew. He was touched for twelve hits and his teammates made six errors behind him. McDonough at short and Cunningham at first were the fielding stars for the Express crew.

A good crowd of spectators attended the game which was staged at the Oval.

"Bill" Irwin umpired the game in good style.

YANKS BUY TEXAN.

Benny Bedford Is the Class of His League.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 6.—It was announced here that the world's champion Yankees have purchased Benny Bedford, star outfielder of the Austin Rangers.

Colonel Ruppert is to pay $25,000 in cash and three players to be delivered to Austin at the start of the 1025 season. Bob Connery, Yankee scout, handled the deal.

In the contract closed for Bedford, it is specified that the Yankees, with Babe Ruth and "Cick" Autry, former Rangers catcher now with Atlanta, in the line-up, are to play a 1925 exhibition game with the Rangers in Austin.

Bedford will report to the Yankees at the close of this season. He throws and bats right handed, weighs 190 pounds and is the fastest man in the league. During the first half of the season he led the circuit with an average of .365 at the bat. Bedford plays centrefield for Austin, though he shows to equal advantage back of the plate.

Olympic Marathon Stars Agree Not to Submit to Trainers in Future.

MELROSE, Mass., Aug. 6.—The marathon runners who represented the United States at the Paris Olympic games demand for runners in the long-distance events of future Olympics the right of self-determination in training and conditioning methods. Clarence H. Demar of this city, the American champion, who finished third at Paris, on his arrival at his home here said the marathon runners had agreed never again to submit to direction of coach or trainer in Olympic contests.

Asserting that the showing of the United States runners was unsatisfactory, Demar said he was not much involved in the criticism of conditions as were the other runners, because he had trained as he pleased under agreement with Lawson Robertson, head coach of the American team.

He said he believed that men selected for the team were themselves the best judges as to how they should train.

Explaining that the criticisms were directed not so much at the marathon coach Mike Ryan, as at the system. Demar said that "marathon runners are different and may feel like taking a long run when a short, fast workout is ordered."

He asserted that "there is no doubt in my mind that our boys would have done better without a trainer, and I am sure they were all in better condition three weeks before the event than they were on the race day."

Demar, 36 years old, said he was going to continue running marathon races.

FAST BANTAM GAME.

Young Cops Lost a Hard Fought Battle to Bob Mackey's Boys.

"Dimp" Trebilcock on the heaving line for the Kiwanis Bantams last night twirled a 2 to 1 victory over Jack Deannard's Young Cops. The Young Cops were not to be kept down and they plugged along giving the Kiwanis the most exciting time of their lives. In the last inning they started a rally tha looked as if they were going to pull the game out of the fire but only succeeded in chalking up one counter and making the score 2 to 1.

The Kiwanis scored their two in the second on a couple of hits and costly errors. Cripps on the mound for Jack Deannard's boys turned in a nice game and deserved a win but luck had it the other way round.

CLASSICS GIVE LEAFS A BATTLE

Loaded Sacks in the Fifth, With None Out, But Could Not Score.

HAD TO WORK HARD.

A big innings in the third, good for five runs, helped Maple Leafs to defeat Classics at Exhibition Park last evening by the score of 9 to 1. Classics were without the services of several of their regulars, but the Brooklynites made the Leafs exert themselves to get the verdict. Manager Vinette's ball tossers had Bradley in several tight holes, due to his streaks of wildness, but were unable to score. They had the bases loaded in the fifth on singles by Perdue and Smith and a pass to Weese. Maudsley was fanned. Dave Grant made a lucky catch on Vinette's waft to centre, and Bradley threw out Guerin to stop the rally.

The teams were given high-class umpiring from Ed. LeBarr and Jack McCarney, the latter showing up well as a base umpire, because of his willingness to step lively and get on top of the plays at all the bags.

HAMILTON, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Right Rev. Thomas Joseph Dowling, Bishop of Roman Catholic Diocese of Hamilton, died last night in his eighty fourth year. Though his death will bring grief to a great number of non-Catholics, who esteemed the venerable prelate, as well as to his own people, it did not came as a surprise. His Lordship had been in failing health and three times in the last couple of years he had been given the last sacrament as it was feared he could not rally but his remarkable vitality enabled him to recover and be about again on at least two occasions. SCIENTISTS DIFFER ON WHITE INDIANS

Some Visitors Declare That Marsh's Freaks Are Albions—Investigation Pending.

TORONTO, Aug. 6. —(Canadian Press).—Controversy as to the origin of Richard Marsh's white Indians found in the Isthmus of Darien, is by no means at the end. Despite the reports received yesterday by an explorer to the effect that certain of the visiting scientists had seen the Indians at Prescott, and pronounced them albinos, he feels that such an investigation made in his absence was by no means conclusive. This morning he has an appointment with O. J. R. Howarth, general secretary of the British Association and hopes to meet the same scientists who inspected the Indians at his summer home yesterday.

Dr. Cuthbert Christie of London who is a member of the Association and who is a member of the scientists to view the Indians on their arrival in New York, has definitely stated that the specimens are not Albinos says Mr. Marsh. A conference between Dr. Christie, who is in Toronto at present, and those who visited Prescott yesterday he believes should prove of much interest.

YOUNG BANKER TURNED BANDIT

Alleges Warrant—Left Note Stating He Would Pay Back $8,000.

DROVE OFF THUG.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., August 6 (Canadian Press). — A warrant was sworn out here to-day for the arrest of Charles Harold Morrow, the manager of the Sterling Bank at Straffordville, in Elgin County, who is alleged to have absconded on 1st July with $8,000 of the bank's funds.

Morrow left behind him a promissory note agreeing to pay back the money in three years.

He is believed to have crossed the border at Buffalo.

Morrow, who is 25, and unmarried, once frustrated the robbery of the branch here.

When told by the armed bandit to hand over a hundred $10.00-bills, he stalled long enough to get his revolver and drove the would-be robber off.

The Employees' Liability Assurance Company is seeking his arrest.

FORCED LANDING ENDED THE RACE

Maclaren Forced to Land in a Fog—Hours Floating on the Sea.

Aboard U. S. Coast Guard Cutter, "Algonquin." — Travelling one hundred miles an hour in a dense fog, within 100 feet of the ocean, off West Kamchatka, Siberia, Major Maclaren and his brother aviators, attempting a flight around the world, narrowly missed disaster when their plane avoided by two feet an island which appeared in their path, according to the major's story of their experience after leaving Petropavlosk, Siberia.

Fearing that the plane might dash against the cliffs of Bering Island, a forced landing was made, and in doing so the plane was so badly damaged that they were forced to abandon the flight.

After spending some hours in the sea, attempting to find land, they ultimately spied the shore through the breaking fog and made a landing.

They were discovered by a man named Rungall Miles who obtained aid, and a Russian wireless operator on Bering Island finally got in touch with the trawler Thiepval, which sailed for the island under forced steam. She took them on board and is now bringing the disappointed men to Vancouver.

Major Maclaren's story concludes: "Round the world flight, owing to the condition of the plane, must be abandoned. We are sorry, but it can't be helped, under the circumstances."

ARGENTINE STILL GOING.

ALLAHABAD, British India, Aug 66. — Major Zanni, the Argentine aviator, arrived here this morning on his attempted world flight. During his flight from Nasirabad, he was forced to descend at Cawnpore because of a storm. He plans to go to Calcutta to-morrow.

Major MacLaren said that when the forced landing was made both wing tips of the plane wer shattered and the fabric torn off the lower port wing.

His first order was for lifebelts, but they were unnecessary.

They started the engine, attempting to taxi in the direction which he thought would bring them to shore.

The wing tips dipped in the water, causing the plane to swerve, and Lieut. Broom and the commander were forced to run back and forth for two hours on the lower wings as the machine see-sawed and the weight of the engine threatened to capsize the ship.

When the wings started to break Broom sighted land dimly through the fog, and after much difficulty on account of exhaustion they started the engine again and made shore through the breakers.

JUVENILES PLAY FRIDAY.

Maple Leafs will have a workout at Exhibition Park on Thursday evening, and will play the second game with the Classics at the Oval on Friday evening, if arrangements can be made to play the game there.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

"GALLOPING FISH" IS BEST COMEDY HIT OF YEARS.

If you have laughs prepare to laugh them right now! There'll never be a better opportunity than Thomas H. Ince has afforded in his new comedy special, "The Galloping Fish," now running at the Royal Theatre.

Remember 'The Hottentot,' Ince's hilariously, hysterically funny racing comedy that was the laugh hit of the past season? "The Galloping Fish" is faster and funnier and that's saying a lot.

To-night is the last opportunity of local patrons to see the comedy sensation.

ROYAL GETS "EXCITEMENT," ANOTHER DE LUXE COMEDY

'Excitement' at the Royal Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It is a triple-geared farce comedy with all speeds ahead. The star plays the role of a girl who lived and thrived on excitement and thrills and a lot of ingenuity has been applied to portray in the picture the type of action which kept the dainty little girl in one continuous whirl of adventure.

"Excitement" will undoubtedly be one of the outstanding farce comedies of the season. Miss La Plante plays the role of a society girl who is immeasurably bored with her routine of life and starts out to create a little adventure. The things that she creates afford not only a lot of thrills for herself, but for the audience which views the film recording her exploits. Daring horseback rides, motorcycle racing, airplane stunts that take one's breath away, and a great "battle royal" for the heroine's hand are included in this ripping farce comedy.

In the cast of several well-known veteran comedians, Miss La Plante dominated the film due to her beauty and charm in abundance. She does it naturally, by virtue of several qualities. She is a natural comedienne. It is in the subtle touches that she excells, and her director Robert Hill, has skillfully taken advantage of this. In a scene where she deserts her husband, Edward Hearn, for a month's vacation from married life, there is some very delightful humor and some clever acting on the part of both the star and her good looking leading man.

Miss La Plante is a worthy product of Universal's dramatic training school. Less than three years ago she started as a comedy extra girl and during the three years that she has been in stock there has become one of the most popular of the screen's younger leading women. She did especially good work in support of Hoot Gibson in "Out of Luck" and as the romantic lead opposite Reginald Denny in "Sporting Youth."

The cast includes Rolfe Sedan, William Welsh, Albert Hart, Margaret Cullington, Bert Roach and others.

CANDY FOR THE KIDDIES AT THE ROYAL.

Another snappy programme that appeals to all and the kiddies will never forgive you if they do not see it; come to the Royal to-morrow. The big feature, "Excitement," in all the name implies. The comedy has Pal, the wounded dog, "The Eagle's Talons," and a Canadian Travelog, comprise worth-while entertainment too good to be overlooked.

FAST STEPPERS ADDED ATTRACTION AT THE ROYAL MONDAY.

Millions of people have read Gerald Beaumont's famous racing stories in the Red Book. Can now see them on the screen. True to life production from the fascinating romances of the Tra Juana race track. It's just like a seat in the grand stand. Each story is complete and will be shown every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Royal.

BEATEN TO DEATH BY HORSES' HOOFS

George Bradley, of Mountain Grove, Met Disaster—Aged Mother Escaped Miraculously.

KINGSTON, Aug. 6th.— Trampled under the feet of his horses when they ran away, and crushed by the wagon which passed over him, Geo. Bradley of Mountain Grove was killed yesterday afternoon at Clear Lake. Mr. Bradley was returning from Arden and stoped to water his horses at Clear lake. His aged mother, Mrs. James Bradley, and his niece Miss Aleta Suddard, were with him, and when the horses ran away they remained on the seat, being taken for about a mile before the team stopped. They clung to the seat as the horses galloped along and almost by a miracle they were not thrown to the road.

SETTLEMENT REACHED.

Great Britain and Soviet Russia Finally Agreed This Afternoon.

LONDON, Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press).—A settlement between Great Britain and Soviet Russia was finally reached at 3.30 this afternoon, it was announced in the House of Commons by Arthur Ponsonby, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. The breakdown of negotiations was reported yesterday. The commercial treaty and general treaty was negotiated.

Every person uses an average of 12 pounds of soap annually.

Well, Folks, we're about ready to leave the old town, and want to thank you for the way you laffed at our foolishness; and hope you will enjoy "EXCITEMENT," our next picture. It's a peach. Leaving to-night for the briny deep.

LOEB TOLD DR. HE STRUCK THE DEADLY BLOW

Both Confessed to Kidnapping and Slaying and Accused Each Other.

NEITHER TO TESTIFY.

Ten or Twelve Witnesses Will Follow Alienists on Stand.

CHICAGO, August 6 (Canadian Press). — Dr. Bernard Glueck, New York, testified at the Franks hearing to-day that Richard Loeb, throughout his mental examination of him, had admitted that he struck the blow which killed Bobbie Franks.

Throughout the investigation in connection with Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., with the murder, the matter of who actually struck the fatal blow had been an unsolved mystery.

Both youths while confessing to the kidnapping and slaying, accused each other.

Describing his conversation with Loeb, Dr. Glueck stated that the boy had related details regarding the planning and execution of the crime without squeamishness, remorse, regret, passion, or love.

He seemed to be devoid of emotional responses; he even did not take seriously his present situation.

Both Leopold and Loeb remained impassive during the hearing of Glueck's evidence, but the former leaned forward with a grimace when the doctor testified that Loeb had admitted the killing of Bobbie Franks.

Defence counsel Darrow made it clear to-day that neither of the accused will testify in an effort of the defence to show mitigating evidence to evade the death penalty.

Some ten or twelve witnesses will follow the alienists on the stand, including some fellow-students from the University of Michigan.

NO TIME LOST STARTING PAVING

Large Gangs Busy on Murray, Antrim and Water Streets.

GEORGE NEXT.

Operations on Murray and Antrim streets by the Warren Bituminous Paving Co., and on Water street north by John Carrol are under way to-day. Large gangs are busy digging up the road beds and with the enthusiasm shown in commencing activities, the work promises to be completed in short order.

Once the construction by-laws were passed the City Engineer's Department lost no time in seeing that the work was commenced with all possible speed. As the by-laws did not pass until Monday night last, City officials and the contractors must have spent a busy day yesterday, in signing and sealing the by-laws, executing contracts and turning over plans and specifications.

All the work outlined in the City's progressive paving programme is now either under way or completed The only other work in contemplation at the present time is the resurfacing of George street, from Charlotte south to the C.P.R. crossing and the patching of certain other portions of the City's paved streets, reported by City Engineer Parsons to be in poor shape.

At Monday's meeting the by-law authorizing the paving of Queen and Simcoe streets was given a hoist. Certain sewer construction and the installation of a pumping station at the foot of Simcoe by the Board of Works, makes it impracticable to do any paving on this area until the Board have completed the sewer construction.

For the Protection of the Buyer of a Used Ford Car

THERE is a standard cash price for a new Ford Car. There is also a standard price for a new Ford Car if purchased on terms.

This is in accordance with the well known policy of the Ford Motor Company—that no purchaser pays more for the same article than any other purchaser.

Heretofore there has been no standard price paid by the buyer of a used Ford Car. This price in many instances had no relation to the unused mileage in the used car.

The unfairness of this to the purchaser of the used car has been recognized by the Ford Motor Company. A resale price has therefore been authorized for each model of each year—which price will be charged by the Ford Dealers.

This authorized price is the value of the unused mileage in the used car and the purchaser has the assurance that the car he buys has been placed in normal running condition by the Ford Dealer from whom the purchase is made—if it has on it this Ford Gold Winged Pyramid Guarantee.

This is a GUARANTEED Ford USED CAR

Therefore, when in the market for a used Ford Car go to a Ford Dealer.

Look for the Gold Winged Pyramid on the windshield of the used Ford you buy—and do not buy one without it.

See the Nearest Authorized Ford Dealer

Ford Policies for protection of purchasers of cars are now extended to the purchasers of used Ford Cars purchased from Authorized Ford Dealers.

Chief Newhall asked for a remand until Saturday, so that he could investigate the young man's past history. "I think we will find he has a record," prophesied the chief.

AVOID CRISIS UNTIL AUTUMN

Thomas and Henderson Were Exhausted By Efforts in Irish Boundary Question.

STATEMENT MADE.

LONDON, Aug. 6. — (United Press).Confident that they have staved off an Irish crisis until the autumn at least, J. H. Thomas and Arthur Henderson Labor Cabinet Ministers returned to-day from Dublin, nearly exhausted with their labors in vainly trying to arrange a boundary settlement. "I'm dead tired", Thomas, the Minister for the Colonies said. "It was a strenuous day."

He and Henderson breakfasted with Ramsay MacDonald, after which Thomas conferred with Lord Londonderry at the Colonial office.

It is understood that yesterday's boundary conference was unproductive until Thomas took the floor and announced the limit of the British concessions.

If the position of President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State becomes desperate in the meantime he promised that Parliament would be convened earlier. Cosgrave accepted this proposition. The boundary crisis with the north and south of Ireland governments under severe pressure, came to a head last week after delegates from Ulster and the Free State were quite unable to agree. The disputes is over the dividing line in the vicinity of the Boyne, both sides claiming additional territory.

Reports to Parliament

Colonial Secretary Thomas announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that after full and frank discussion of the Irish boundary problem with members of the Free State Government the British Governent had decided to summon parliament to deal with the question on Septeber 30th unless by that time the Ulster government had nominated boundary commissioners in accordance with the provisions of the Anglo Irish treaty.

In the meantime, Mr. Thomas said, the government would introduce to-day a bill providing for settlement of the question along the lines previously indicated by the government spokesman. The second reading of the bill would be proceeded with and the bill pressed forward when Parliament met in September he added.

LIBERALS DISSATISFIED.

LONDON, August 6. Canadian Press. — Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George indicated the Liberal party's growing dissatisfaction with Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government, in a speech here this afternoon, in which he said: "The Laborites were elected on a clear and definite set of principles which they put in cold storage as soon as they reached Downing street."

SCIENTISTS I

TENT WAS FILLED.

Mushy Newly-Weds Get Into Trouble But Scramble Out Towards End of Last Scene.

The big Chautauqua tent was well filled last evening with an audience numbering about six hundred people, who turned out for the presentation of the sparkling metropolitan comedy, "Six Cylinder Love." During the three quickly-moving acts of the bright play, the watchers laughed at the presentation of the trials and difficulties of Gilbert and Marilyn Sterling, the vivacious newly-weds, who embarked on the sea of matrimony handicapped by a mortgage on their suburban home, and a car whose possession entailed various untoward happenings, such as heckling night parties, fines for speeding and finally, embezzlement of his employer's funds on the part of the young husband.

"Six Cylinder Love" is a comedy with a moral, but the moral has been so successfully sugar coated and camouflaged about with laughter that its significance does not spoil the clever play. The thought behind the story of the three acts of "Six Cylinder Love" is a sermon on the folly of living beyond one's means and trying to keep up with the Joneses. A bright atmosphere surrounds the play and a brand of snappy retort and rapid-fire conversation distinguishes a bright production.

A Motor Mix-Up.

The Sterlings are a couple of mushy newly-weds who live next door to the Burtons, Richard and Geraldine, a pair who have gone broke in an attempt to live up to the automobile whose purchase entailed much expensive entertaining of sponging friends. "When a boy buys a car he usually secures the position of host, and none of his friends ever question his right to it," said Richard Burton, as he surveyed the wreck of his finances and faced the necessity of giving up his home to move into a crowded city apartment. But William Donroy, a loquacious automobile salesman, who changes his brand of car as often as he appears on the scene, finds another "minute" man, a man who will buy a car whether he can afford it or not, and so called, "because there's one born every minute, you know," in the person of his next-door neighbor Gilbert Sterling, whose pretty wife is "sold" immediately on the idea of a car.

The second act shows ensuing developments. Marilyn Sterling, whose newly-married ideal of a year back had been one of extreme devotion to home and husband, has changed into a giddy creature whose main idea is the car, whose husband has just had to settle a five thousand dollar damage action because of an accident with the automobile, and whose friends are the same fast-moving, drinking set who formerly swarmed about the Burtons.

The Worm Turns.

Sterling's employer, George Stapleton, appears on the scene, and despite Gilbert's efforts to make things appear normal in his home life discovers that his trusted employee is leading an artificial life and is responsible for the casual transfer for a few days, until a second mortgage can be placed on the suburban home, of some thousands of dollars of his employer's money, to settle the damage action. Gilbert is discharged, and then the worm turns when she threatens to leave him, and tells her exactly what he thinks of her. The serving of a summons for speeding on Mrs. Sterling, closes a hectic scene.

The third act shows the chastened Sterlings, bereft of car and bank account and home, living in a fifth-floor flat in the city, with the husband holding down a temporary, ill-paid job. Marilyn strives to cook for her still cheerful husband and the Burtons live next door. They have simplified their lives until they regard a 'bus ride to New Jersey as an acceptable diversion, but Sterling still owes his employer one thousand dollars of the sum embezzled. An unexpected twist is given the finale by the purchase of the car by the building's janitor, Tom Johnson, a burly plutocrat, whose income from forty flat buildings is about $800 a month, and who buys a car for himself, his wife already owning a machine.

When Sterling pays off his indebtedness his employer takes him back to his old position, and all is serene with the curtain falling on a characteristic remark from his wife.

It is in the snappy style of production and the unobtrusive moral of the piece that "Six Cylinder Love" makes an impression. Its characters are homely, every-day people, who talk and think and act in every-day fashion, and go through every-day trials and difficulties. Tom Herbert has the role of Richard Burton, Ruth Hall that of Geraldine Burton, his wife, Robert Strauss and Lygia Bernard play the parts of Gilbert and Marilyn Sterling; Carl Reed is the automobile salesman, William Donroy, and Louis Ramsdell has a double role as George Stapleton, the employer, and Tom Johnson, the janitor.

Afternoon Programme.

The unique entertainment of the afternoon was the demonstration of pottery by J. Smith Damron, in a programme entitled "The Potter and the Clay." With a wheel patterned on the ancient instruments for pottery-making, in use in Testament times, Mr. Damron gave an interesting exhibition of the manufacture of clay vessels of different types. Pounding and kneading his plastic clay material, he proceeded to shape it on the swiftly moving wheel to the desired form, carrying out with his demonstration a talk, interspersed with apt poetical quotations, on the similarity of people to the articles shaped by the potter on the wheel.

"The two great fundamental principles of pottery-making are applicable to life-fashioning, as well. The clay must be brought to the true centre of the wheel first, then it must be kept level at the top," said the demonstrator, working with sponge and potter's "rib" on the revolving clay. Just as he was nearing the completion of a tall Egyptian water jug, it broke and fell to a shapeless mass on the wheel. Searching for the cause, a splinter of wood embedded in the material, the potted drew an analogy of life from this example, for the crumpled clay, designed for a beautiful vase, was compelled to finish its evolution as a common grey cuspidor.

China on View.

A description, with samples on view, of various types of china tableware, was interestingly given. That much of the beautiful, so-called "hand-painted" tableware in use is in reality only a factory product for foreign [illegible], the signature of the conference, announcement was made by John R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, that this explanation had been delayed until a late hour owing to the prospects of settlement of the issues involved.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Ponsonby was able to announce, much to the surprise of the members of the House, that the conferees had arrived at an agreement and that it was hoped a treaty would be signed that day. Mr. Ponsonby admitted it had been a race against time, because the Imperial Government was a[illegible]

HORSEMAN DIE[illegible]

[illegible] necessity of Canadians turning to the English products instead. Pieces of Royal Crown Derby, of English Coalport, plates whose gold decorations, with gold at $23 an ounce, made them worth $50 a dozen, while others, also on view, were emblazoned with enough of the precious metal to hoist their price to $500 a dozen, were shown.

Mr. Damron, busily turning his wheel to make a tall flower pot, recited Henry Van Dyke's "Handful of Clay," from "The Blue Flower," M. Ritchie's "At the Wheel of Life," also Longfellow's poem on the potter and his wheel. He likened the little piece of wood that marred the making of the tall vase to the cigarette in the mouth of a boy, and recommended, in the coming vote on the liquor question, that the liquor itself, rather than the manner of its marketing, should be discarded entirely. An interesting portion of his demonstration was the finishing of the tall jugs with tiny handles, the wet clay pulled and fashioned in the potter's hands, then apparently stuck on without any trouble.

The children's entertainment yesterday morning consisted of a programme by Miss Ada Ruth Jones, cartoonist, who illustrated stories on the little boy who wouldn't eat sensible things, and on "seein' things at night." Miss Jones also drew, from lines made by the children on the board, original pictures which delighted her young audience.

This evening, the fourth evening of the Chautauqua, has a programme that consists of a concert by the Laura Werno Ladies' Quartette and a lecture on "The Four-Square Builder," by Captain T. D. Upton.

Last evening, pledges for another year's Chautauqua programme were distributed among the audience, those collected after the performance numbering nearly two hundred from people desirous of seeing another season repeat the course.

FARM HOUSE BURNS.

BELLEVILLE Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Fire of mysterious orig in broke out in a garage conducted by Walter Gerow, Front street, early to-day and besides destroying the building consumed five motor cars.

FRENCH LIKELY TO YIELD RUHR AS COMPROMISE

Germans Consider Withdrawal of Military as Essential to Acceptance of Dawes Plan.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT

German Views On Conference Report Regarded With Satisfaction—No Time Wasted.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Compromise talk is general among delegates to the international conference, and strong efforts are being made in private and unofficial meetings to effect an agreement on the military evacuation of the Ruhr, which will satisfy the Germans and enable them to return to Berlin to face the Reichstag with the hope of getting the Dawes plan endorsed.

It would be impossible, it is generally understood, to have the military evacuation of the Ruhr begin before the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission has completed its inspection, which it is now conducting in Germany to decide whether Germany is actually disarmed in accordance with the Versailles Treaty.

Evacuate In Year.

This inspection probably will end about September 15, and since the Germans apparently are quite unwilling to accept any arrangement which does not fix a definite date for the beginning of the evacuation, an effort is being made to get an agreement on that date with a provision that the evacuation be completed within one year. The French are stoutly insisting that the military evacuation of the Ruhr is not a subject for discussion here, but the opinion is gaining ground in official circles that the French will yield this point as they are standing practically alone.

Discuss Sanctions.

Last night the delegates met in Premier MacDonald's room in the House of Commons to consider with the Germans the plans which have been adopted for defaults and sanctions under the Dawes project.

Throughout conference circles there was favorable comment on the speed with which the German delegation complied in formulating their views on what has been accomplished in London. A high United States authority who had read the German memorandum, characterized it as "excellent," and as "much better than I had expected." After studying the German objections carefully, the United States authority said there existed a good basis for the settlement of every objection the Germans had raised. He added that the issues outside the purview of the conference, such as military evacuation of the Ruhr and regarding allied railwaymen on the German railroads, would cause more trouble, but he was optimistic that there would be a satisfactory settlement of these problems.

ASSASSINS OF MRS. EVANS ARE REPORTED CAPTURED AND HELD IN CITY OF PUEBLA

Mexican War Department Issues Statement From Military Commander of the State of Pueblo—Another Hacienda Attacked By Outlaws.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—The assassins of Mrs. Rosalie Evans have been captured, according to a report given out yesterday afternoon at the War Department. The report came from General Roberto Cruz, Military Commander in the State of Puebla, where Mrs. Evans was shot and killed, near her hacienda, last Saturday.

"I take pleasure in reporting that General Antonio Gomez Velasco, my Chief of Staff, informs me from Texmelucan that the assassins of Mrs. Evans have been captured," said the message from General Cruz.

"Valente Quintana, Chief of the Mexico City Secret Service, co-operated efficiently in carrying out his mission to capture the assassins. The guilty men have been brought to the city of Puebla, adequately guarded. Accompanying General Velasco and Senor Quintana, came the secretary of the British Legation, who is well informed of the active efforts which have been made to clear rup the crime. I shall continue to keep you informed."

LONDON, Aug. [illegible] (Canadian Press Cable).—The bitter complaints of many of the British harvesters in Western Canada last year after the harvest season there are not forgotten here, and even if the stories of unfavorable conditions in the prairie provinces were exaggerated, as doubt less many of them were, the stories are regarded as likely to have a somewhat deterient effect on the complete carrying out of the scheme of the Alberta government to train 150 British youths in the provincial agricultural school at Vermilion with a view to their settling down as Canadian farmers.

Probably a stronger deterrent however than the "hard luck" stories sent back home by the British harvesters from Western Canada last autumn and early winter, is the stipulation that each of the 150 boys selected for farm life in Alberta under government auspices shall possess about £50 at the outset. This is regarded as a large sum for a lad to get to gether, hence the emigration agencies here are not over-sanguine that there will be a rush of eligible youths under the scheme although the passages of the boys will be paid. The overseas settlement committee will advance half the cost of the transportation of the boys.

The Alberta government's scheme to train 150 British youths in the provincial agricultural school was advocated in this country recently by Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture for Alberta.

WHEAT CUTTING BEGUN BY 23RD

Harvest Will Be Delayed Until Sept. 1 in Parts of Manitoba.

DAMAGE NEGLIGIBLE.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat cutting will be general in Manitoba by August 23, according to the official crop report of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, issued yesterday.

In a few isolated sections where crops are particularly late, the wheat harvest will be delayed until about September 1, the report says.

Continuing, the report adds that the crops are maturing gradually and that the filling out stage is well progressed.

The recent rust scare is characterized as "greatly exaggerated," and unless the rust develops faster from now on, it should be only a small factor in connection with the earliest crop, the report states.

Damage from saw-fly and hail and frost are reported as "negligible."

Bread Price Advance.

Bread prices in Winnipeg advanced one cent a loaf yesterday, the 16-ounce loaf now retailing at seven cents and 20-ounce at eight cents.

Bakers attributed the rise directly to the recent advance of wheat and flour. They intimated, however, that there was no immediate likelihood of a further increase in the price of bread.

SWEDEN SEEKS OLD SUBJECTS

Five Years' Residence Before You Can Be Naturalized.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 7.—It will be harder to become a citizen of Sweden and easier to remain one after the beginning of next year, according to a new law which has just been passed.

The new citizenship regulation requires five years' residence, instead of three, for the naturalization of immigrants. According to the old law a Swedish woman lost her citizenship upon marriage to a man who was not a Swedish citizen. But under the new law such a married woman retains her national allegiance to Sweden until she becomes naturalized under the laws of some other country.

Under the old law Swedes residing abroad for a period of ten years automatically lost their citizenship, even though they had not become naturalized in the country of residence. But under the new law a Swedish citizen by birth who has been domiciled in Sweden retains his political status wherever he resides unless he should become naturalized in some other country. Persons whose Swedish citizenship has lapsed under the old law may have it renewed so as to come within the scope of the new law by a simple written application to any Swedish consulate or legation.

SEEK RIVER'S SOURCE.

Four Professors From United States on Northern Trip.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Aug. 6. — In an attempt to trace the source of the Ogaki river, a stream which runs in a northerly direction from the height of land, but whose source, according to geologists has never been determined, a party comprising four professors from the University of Chicago and Wisconsin, left to-day for Collins, Ont.

From Collins they will put out in canoes with the intention of covering the whole river and mapping it out. It is expected the trip will occupy about eight weeks. In the party are John R. Price, and S. L. Larson, of Madison, and D. Stewart and D. J. Stewart of Rockford, Ill. It is understood the trip is being financed by the National Geographic Society and all records, photographs and Maps taken will be filled in the archives of the Society.

WIDELY MOURNED

RT. REV. T. J. DOWLING, D.D.
Bishop of Hamilton, and former Bishop of Peterborough, who died last night. He was beloved by Catholics and non-Catholics alike for his largeness of heart and indomitable spirit.

WELL TRAINED.

"Did you give the man the third degree?" asked the police officer.

"Yes. We browbeat and badgered him with every question we could think of."

"What did he do?"

"He dozed off and merely said now and then, 'Yes, my dear, you are perfectly right.'"—Everybody's Magazine.

FORMER BISHOP OF PETERBORO' DIED YESTERDAY

Rt. Rev. Thomas Joseph Dowling Passed Away in Hamilton.

OLDEST IN AMERICA.

Report Says That Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro, May Succeed to Hamilton See.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 7. — (Special to the Examiner).—Rt. Rev. Thomas Joseph Dowling, Bishop of Hamilton, former Bishop of Peterboro and claimed as the oldest active bishop in America died at his palace here last night. Had he lived until Thursday morning he would have celebrated the 60th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Bishop Dowling, was concecrated bishop of Peterboro, in 1887 and remained there until 1889 during which time Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro, served as an altar boy for him. His lordship who was 84 years old last January, had passed through several serious illnesses during the last few years all of which were at times considered his last. Only last week, on February on the eve of his birthday it was thought his illness was so serious that attending physicians gave him a few hours to live. A few days ago he was stricken with pneumonia but rallied considerably so that it was thought that he would once again overcome the attack. Yesterday afternoon, however, he suffered a relapse and died shortly after six o'clock last night.

Distinguished Career

He was born in Limerick County Ireland, in 1840, and came to Canada when 11 years old. For several years he was a professor of Classics in St Michael's College, Toronto, but commenced his theological studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, in 1862. He was ordained by Bishop Farrell, exactly 60 years ago to-day, in St. Mary's Cathedral here, where his body now lies in state. During the early years of his priesthood at Paris, Glen Morris, Ayr, Harrisburg, Hespler, and Preston, he was most energetic, erecting churches and school buildings and building these parishes up greatly.

Letter From Pope

He has made several journeys to Rome and only yesterday a personal letter arrived from Pope Pius XI congratulating His Lordship upon the celebration of His Diamond Jubilee. He participated in the Golden Jubilee Leo XIII in 1893, the year he accompanied the Canadian Pilgrims to Rome. On this occasion the ship was missing for several months on the return journey and the pilgrims were given up as lost.

It has long been reported here that Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro will be moved to Hamilton to succeed Bishop Dowling.

Bishop Dowling's Life.

On October 5, 1864, he was appointed pastor of Paris and Galt, with the missions of Burford, North and South Dumfries, the villages of Ayr, Glenmorris and Harrisburg, and for a time, the villages of Hespeler and Preston. As the church at Paris was unfinished, and in serious financial difficulties, he travelled to Chicago and to the oil districts of Pennsylvania, on a lecturing and collecting tour, and in two years succeeded, by the aid of his congregation and friends, in paying off the debt. Some years after he renovated, enlarged and decorated the church, at an outlay of $20,000. It was dedicated under the name of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, by Right Rev. Bishop Crinnon, on February 6, 1881, on which occasion His Lordship Bishop Crinnon appointed Father Dowling vicar-general of the diocese. On September 6, 1883, Vicar-General Dowling purchased the property on which is situated the Paris separate school, and residence for the Sisters of St. Joseph. In 1877, when Vicar-General Dowling accompanied the Canadian pilgrims to Rome, and assisted at the golden jubilee of Pope Pius IX., he presented an offering to the Pope on behalf of the clergy and the laity of the diocese of Hamilton. In 1880 he built St. Patrick's Church in Galt and then resigned the charge of that parish. In 1883, after the death of Bishop Crinnon, he was elected by the clergy of Hamilton, vicar capitular, which office he retained until the arrival of His Lordship Rt. Rev. Dr. Carberry, who re-appointed him vicar-general. In 1887 Vicar-General Dowling was chosen as bishop of the diocese of Peterboro and was consecrated in St. Mary's Cathedral on May 1. Two years later, in May, 1889, he was transferred to the diocese of Hamilton as bishop. His record since then may be read in the tremendous progress of the diocese, which has now a Catholic population of 70,000.

Bishop Dowling owns the distinction of having been ordained a priest and later a bishop in the old cathedral of St. Mary's, where he had served as an altar boy.

The year 1900 marked the golden anniversary of the erection of the diocese of Hamilton. The year 1912 gave the clergy and laity of the diocese the opportunity of celebrating the silver jubilee of Bishop Dowling. The year 1914 brought the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the holy priesthood. To-day he would have observed the diamond jubilee of his priesthood.

His Lordship Bishop Dowling was the Dean of the Canadian Episcopate. In spite of his years and several very serious illnesses, he continued to make his official visits up to two or three years ago in double quick time throughout his extensive diocese without the least sign of fatigue or weakness.

SCIENTISTS IN TORONTO TO-DAY AT CONVENTION

Business Began This Morning With Reading of 26 Papers.

IMPORTANT SESSION.

Prince of Wales Sent Cable to Inaugural Meeting of Association.

TORONTO, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press). — Business of various sections of the British Association for the Advancement of Science began this morning with the reading of 26 papers which treated widely diversified subjects. One of the most interesting papers was the report of the Committee on Educational Training in the secondary school of Great Britain for life overseas. The work of the schools is one in which the Prince of Wales is deeply interested, and he particularly referred to it in the cable which he sent to inaugurate the meeting of the association at Convocation Hall last night.

Opening Last Night.

Science plays an important, though perhaps secret, part, in the life of every citizen, and it was in appreciation of that fact that a large number of Toronto people turned out to Convocation Hall last night to accord a fine send-off to the inaugural meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and to hear Major-General Sir David Bruce, president, give out the line of recent advance of medical science.

In view of the fact that last night marked the opening ceremonies of the conference, it was fitting that a leading place should be given to Sir David Bruce, whose contributions to the advance of science have come closer to the lives of the citizens in general than any other, for Sir David has devoted a lifetime to the battle against the diseases of mankind, and the results he has achieved stand out as a long line of victories against the enemies of man. In addition to having made man practical master of sleeping sickness and malaria fever, Sir David has many other triumphs, for he has assisted in such victories as the subduing of diphtheria, yellow fever, typhoid and trench fever.

Advocates Examination.

In presenting the cause of medical science, Sir David Bruce pointed out that upwards of twenty million weeks of work are lost every year through sickness by the insured workers of England. That is equivalent to the work of 375,000 people for a whole year lost to the State. Sir David used that as an illustration to show the value of preventive work in medicine.

Estimating the value of medical prevention in money, Sir David pointed out that the loss in England and Wales from sickness and disability amounts to £150,000,000 a year, and in the United States the annual loss was put down at 600,000,000 pounds. So his appeal was that in future the medical practitioner must frequently examine people while they were apparently well in order to detect any incipient departure from normal and to work out a cure before the disease developed.

FLOUR MILLS TRANSFER.

British Company Secure a Plant in Calgary.

CALGARY, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A cable was received on Wednesday afternoon from Spillers, London England, by Lloyd Tanner, director of Spillers Overseas Inustries, Limited, that the actual transfer in connection with the Alberta Flour Mills Ltd. will take place within the next day or two. The name of the new company will be Spillers' Canadian Milling Limited.

Mr. Tanner stated that news would probably be received shortly regarding plans for the construction of the new mill.

THE WEATHER.

There was a heavy rainfall last night. In fact, it was one of the few big rainfalls of the last thirty years. The total that fell on the level was one inch and 84-100ths of an inch. As has been mentioned before one inch of rain on the level is equal to 100 tons of water to the acre. A farmer who is the possessor of a 100-acre farm received last night a total of 29,400 tons of water on his land. That our atmosphere is capable of sustaining such an immense weight is almost unbelievable, but there is no question of its truth. There should be no outcry because of lack of moisture now, for there have been two heavy rains lately. — W. F.

BRITISH ARRANGE TREATY WITH SOVIET WHEN NEGOTIATIONS SEEMED ABORTIVE

Liability For Russian Bonds Admitted by Moscow's Representatives as Basis of Agreement—Surprise to House Expecting Explanation of Reported Failure.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—After months of negotiations, a commercial treaty and a general treaty have been arranged between Great Britain and Soviet Russia.

The proceedings in the Anglo-Russian conference underwent a sudden change Wednesday afternoon following the announcement made on Tuesday of a breakdown in the negotiations. Just when the House of Commons was preparing to listen yesterday to an explanation by Arthur Ponsonby, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, regarding the failure of the conference, announcement was made by John R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, that this explanation had been delayed until a later hour owing to the prospects of a settlement of the issues involved.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Ponsonby was able to announce, much to the surprise of the members of the House, that the conferees had arrived at an agreement and that he hoped a treaty would be signed today. Mr. Ponsonby admitted it had been a race against time, because the Imperial Government was anxious to reach a settlement of the controversy before Parliament adjourned for the summer recess.

The Under-Secretary also explained the somewhat unorthodox method that had been used during the conference, inasmuch as the negotiations had been largely in the nature of conversations between himself and M. Rakovsky, the chief Russian representative. He considered this method justified, however, if it advanced matters better than a formal conference.

"There is an unusual departure in the commercial treaty," Mr. Ponsonby declared. "We are taking into account the monopoly on foreign trade held by the Soviet Government, and we are granting to a limited number of members of the trade delegation diplomatic immunity for themselves and for the existing office of the trade delegation."

Mr. Ponsonby told the House that the general treaty contained an admission by the Soviet Government of liability to the holders of Russian bonds and an assurance from the Soviets that they would negotiate with the bondholders.

HORSEMAN DIED WINNING HEAT

Frank Ragsdale Toppled From Sulky After Passing Under the Wire.

AT STRATFORD RACES.

STRATFORD, Ont., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Frank Ragsdale, veteran horseman, known over the whole continent, and of late with the Goodison Stock Farm, Sarnia, fell dead from his sulky here yesterday afternoon after winning the first heat of the 2.30 pace, the first event on the race programme in connection with the Old Boys' Reunion celebration. His horse had just come under the wire when Ragsdale was observed to sway. Throngs in the stand thought he was pulling up his horse, and were shocked to see him fall from his sulky a few yards further down the track. Medical aid was immediately summoned, but death ensued almost instantly.

Mr. Ragsdale was well-known in Canada and the United States, where he has raced for years. He was a driver on the Grand Circuit, and was known as the "Pop Geers" of the half-mile tracks.

Despite the heavy rain of Tuesday night the track was in fairly good condition, a bit heavy at first, but fast toward the close. The three events were keenly contested, two being decided in four heats. A crowd of about 1,500 spectators was in attendance.

BROKE TEMPERANCE ACT

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Frank Fowlie, manager of the Brunswick Hotel, Winnipeg, was sentenced yesterday to three months in jail for violation of the Manitoba Temperance Act.

Three charges, all second offence counts were laid against the Brunswick manager. One charge was dismissed while he was convicted on two counts. The conviction will be appealed.

Several other second offence cases were remanded for one week.

CONSUL DENIES NARCOTIC PLOT

Defendant in Montreal Case Says Alcohol Export Was Destined For U.S.A.

ENCOURAGING TRADE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Niguel De Maluquer, Consul for Spain in Montreal, who with Ramon Tey De Torrents, Spanish importer, is charged with smuggling alcohol into Canada, and with conspiracy to smuggle narcotics, went into the witness box Wednesday afternoon at the resumption of the trial. Mr. Maluquer, in explanation of his alleged smuggling transactions with Robino, alias Sergeant Brown of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Dufresne, an agent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said that he was most anxious to increase the trade relations between Canada and Spain, and when he was told that the three men who owned several millions between them were about to interest themselves in the importing business, he thought it his business to encourage them as much as possible.

He swore that he had never discussed smuggling with Brown and Dufresne, but that there had been a lot of talk of exporting alcohol to the United States via Canada from Spain. He declared that it was also proposed that an importation company should be formed, and witness mentioned among those willing to connect up with this scheme, the name of Achille Bergevin, ex-M.L.A.

HUGE ORGAN TO BE BUILT.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—What is described as the largest orchestral organ in the world is to be installed in Hollywood Bowl, a natural open-air amphitheatre in the foothills of Hollywood. It is said that the organ will have pipes as long as 64 feet, with enough lumber in one of them to build a bungalow, and that the vibration in the bass chambers will have so great an intensity that if it should strike a human being, without interfering tones, it would knock him unconscious.

THEIR FEARS FOR DADDY ENDED

NEW IRISH BILL INTRODUCED IN BRITISH HOUSE

Provides For Appointment of Commissioner as Representing Government of the North.

EARNEST OF FAITH.

J. H. Thomas Says Government Is Determined to Fulfil Treaty.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary, addressed the House of Commons yesterday in regard to his recent trip to Dublin, and at the conclusion introduced a new bill to set up an Irish boundary commission.

Mr. Thomas, after outlining the events which led to his visit to Dublin, said that the British Government, in order to leave no doubt in the minds of the Irish people, and of the world, of its determination to carry the treaty into effect, had decided to ask Parliament to meet September 30, instead of October 21. On that day the Government would move the second reading of the Irish bill, unless by that time the Ulster Government had nominated its members of the Boundary Commission.

Will Support Bill.

Thereafter, in priority to any other business, the Government would make use of all of its available powers to pass the bill into law, although the Free State Government is not fully satisfied with this decision, and has in no way receded from its own position on the matter.

Mr. Thomas hoped, however, that the authorities of the Free State would be able to satisfy their people that the British Government and the British people want to keep faith with them and to afford no shadow of an excuse for the accusation that Great Britain had been false in any way to the treaty solemnly entered into with the people of the Free State.

Issue Is Grave.

Mr. Thomas said the issues of the questions were grave, involving the honor and good faith of this country. They were too serious to be the sport of party controversy. He hoped during the interval the press and the people of this country would refrain from any action which would awaken old suspicions or rekindle old prejudices. It was his hope that these suspicions and prejudices might before long be forgotten for ever.

Bill Introduced.

The Secretary then formally introduced the bill which will authorize Parliament to set up a Boundary Commission in the absence of a nominee for the Commission from the Government of Northern Ireland and the bill was read for the first time. The measure is quite brief. It provides that, subject to confirmation of an agreement by the British Parliament and the Dail, the Northern Irish Government's power to appoint a commissioner shall be transferred to and exercised by the British Government, and for the purpose of Artircle XII. of the Treaty, any commissioner so appointed shall be deemed to be a commissioner appointed by the Northern Government.

The bill says nothing about modifying or restricting the powers of the Boundary Commission.

BOY'S SCHEME FAILED.

Planned Free Trip on Hamonic, But Was Left on Dock.

SARNIA, Ont., August 6.—Arthur Burnell, the eight year old son of Mr and Mr. Robert Burnell, Dundas St., hit on a good plan for a free trip to Port Arthur and back to Sarnia, and only when the Hamonic was blowing its departing blast did his plans go astray.

Arthur was found in the ship by the officers and then his imagination took flight. He said that he was with his mother making the round trip, and was unable to find her.

Search was made for his mother, but she could not be found. Finally as the gang planks were being drawn in it was decided to leave Arthur in Sarnia in proper care, and Sergeant Byerley, rushing to the dock, recognizing him as a Sarnia boy, and the voyage was over before it started.

Arthur said he had seen the big ships go up and down and longed for a sea voyage. He had his story pat, and nearly made the trip. He said that once he got to Port Arthur he knew the ship would have to take him bak.

LOOK FOR THE PACKAGE

Look for the gold and orange package in your grocer's store—probably right on the show case where he displays his best goods—and you'll see RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA printed plainly on it. A fine looking package, you will say, and a fine quality tea—and only 45c a ½ lb., but little more than other packages, and well worth the difference.

IMPORTANT EVENT IN A CHILD'S LIFE

Sparks' Circus the First Big Show to Reduce Prices For Children.

Realizing that circus day is one of the most important events in a child's life, Manager Charles Sparks of the Sparks Circus which will exhibit in Peterboro on Thursday, August 14, announces a radical departure in prices that should prove most attractive to the youngsters.

At both performances here children under the age of 9 are to be admitted for 30 cents.

Mr. Sparks writes: "Owing to the high cost of practically everything used by our circus, we are unable at present to reduce the price of adults' tickets for which we charge the standard price of 75 cents. Knowing that the circus is primarily a children's entertainment, we give the little ones first consideration when we felt that business conditions warranted a price reduction and believe that a far greater number of children will now be able to attend the circus."

That this important announcement will be popular with the kids goes without saying.

Greatly enlarged this season and even more lavishly equipped in former years, the Sparks Circus is preceded here by most complimentary newspaper reviews from [illegible] in which it has recently exhibited.

Several brand new features and many surprises are promised in son elaborate performances which Mr. commence at 2 and 8 p.m. C Day. The doors will be opened hour earlier to allow the p sive menagerie.

Seats can be secured Circus at Payne's Drug Store, 362 G street, same price as at grounds. Sparks Circus will exhi at Exhibition Grounds.

FATHER TRIES KIDNAP CHILD AT MILLBROOK

Harry Pallister, Separated From His Wife, Knocks Down Mother-in-law and Steals Earle.

FOILED BY NEIGHBORS.

Companion Stood By With Revolver — Kidnapper Forced to Seek Food and Was Captured.

MILLBROOK, August 7. — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hunter, Falis Line, was the scene of a kidnapping yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock, when Harry Pallister, of Toronto, husband of Mr. Hunter's second daughter, who has been separated from his wife, attempted to gain possession of their child, Earle Pallister, a boy about three years of age.

The mother is the legal custodian of the child, and on account of ill-treatment was granted separation and alimony in a trial at Peterborough last spring.

Palister, armed with a revolver, and accompanied by another man, Marshall Lotter, said to be a university student, arrived at the Hunter home, and offered physical violence to his wife and her mother when they resisted his attempt to take the child.

The man struck Mrs. Hunter, knocking her down, blackening her eye, and then forcibly took the boy, while Lotter stood with the revolver.

The cries attracted a neighbour, Archie Johnston, who in the excitement took the key from the car Pallister and his accomplice had arrived in, and also destroyed the ignition wiring, preventing a quick getaway.

Unable to leave by motor as they had intended, the two men ran for the railway track not far distant, going in opposite directions, Pallister taking the child with him.

The younger of the two, who came toward Millbrook, was captured by J. W. Hutchison and Allen Pitt near Carmel around 6 p.m. and was lodged in the local gaol.

Palister was arrested later in the evening at Harry Lang's farm, where he had gone to ask food for the little boy.

His whereabouts was telephoned in, and Constable H. Nattrass went out to make the arrest.

Both prisoners were taken to Cobourg last night to await trial.

The child was restored to his mother the same evening.

The affair caused intense excitement throughout the countryside, and a number of men lent willing help in the pursuit of the kidnappers.

Council Met.

The regular meeting of Millbrook Council held on Monday evening, Reeve Wood in the chair, and members all present except Councillor Sayles, who is absent from the village on holidays.

Reeve Wood gave a report to the Council of the meeting of the Advisory Board, held recently at Cobourg, in connection with the matter of improving the county roads.

George Wallace addressed Council re extending the sidewalk on Queen Street to the residential limit, and Council agreed to view same and decide on course to be taken.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Alex. Hunter, $9.24; F. McIvor, $2; W. Budd, $6.50; W. G. Russell & Sons, $7.51; H. Nattrass, $22; P. L. Bentley, $6.48; Millbrook Telephone Co., $4.50; F. Rowe, $18; S. Sloan, $2.50; M. McCorry, $4.13; A. McCorry, $2.25; G. Ward, $4.50; A. Wilson, $1.50; S. Donnelly, $45.85; Attwooll & Sheppard, $25.21; J. J. Clarke, $13.50; L. H. Gibson, $363.23.

Necessary by-laws were passed striking the rate for the current year at 45 mills, an increase of 5 mills over last year:

County rate, 6 mills, $1,627.38.
Sidewalk debentures, 2 mills, $515.06.
Street lighting, 3 mills, $772.50.
Local improvements, 13 mills, $3,380.
School expenses, 21 mills, $5,398.

The increase in school rate this year is 5 mills, 16 mills being the tax in 1923.

C. W. Richards was appointed collector for the ensuing year.

Council adjourned to meet again at the call of the Reeve.

Born — At Dr. H. A. Turner's Private Hospital, Millbrook, on Friday, August 1st, 1924, to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dawson, a daughter.

Rev. and Mrs. Allan Hunter, of Palisade, N.J., spent the week-end as guests of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hunter, Cavan.

REVOLT IN SPAIN THREATENS TO-DAY

King Alfonso May Demand Resignation of Dictator—Crisis Develops.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(United Press).—Well-informed Spanish circles expect a crisis in Madrid to-day, that will force the resignation of the military dictatorship established by Captain General Prime Rivera ten months ago. King Alfonso, according to these sources, expects to demand the dictator's resignation during the day and the resumption of constitutional government. A military revolt is probable if the dictator refuses.

HUGE EMILY FIRE A TOTAL LOSS

No Insurance—Origin of the Blaze a Mystery.

EAST EMILY, August 6. — The disastrous fire that destroyed the large barn and contents on the farm of Thomas Westlake, in East Emily, on Sunday afternoon, gave passers-by and the residents of the community who came to the rescue a strenuous struggle, in an effort to save the house.

Were it not for the fact that the fire occurred at 4 p.m., just as the people were returning from Bethel and the Anglican churches, the house would not have been saved.

Mr. Wiliam Harrison, who had the farm rented, drove past the farm at five minutes to four, and about five minutes later, as he was turning into his own home about one-half mile away, he noticed the smoke rising from the barn.

When he and others arrived at the scene of the fire, the blaze would not allow anyone to go near because of the heat, and all hands turned their attention to the house, and after a heroic effort, amidst the terrible heat, the results of their efforts were in evidence.

The flames were dying and the house was saved.

Unfortunately neither the contents nor the barn were covered by insurance.

The contents, which belonged to Mr. Harrison, and which were destroyed, are valued at $1,000, besides the loss of the barn to Mr. Westlake, the owner.

The structure was 120 feet by 30 feet, and was set on a fine stone foundation. It included stables and was one of the largest barns in Emily.

The contents destroyed included 300 bushels of last year's oats, 10 loads of hay, 5 acres of peas, 4 loads of fall wheat, 1 binder (purchased new last year), roller, spreader, disc, set of sleighs, and other minor machinery.

BAD ELECTRIC STORM.

Windsor Was Hit Hard By a Terrific Storm Yesterday Afternoon.

WINDSOR, August 7. — An electrical storm, accompanied by a drenching rain and wind, the velocity of which for a few seconds reached 60 miles per hour, swept over the city yesterday afternoon, leaving in its wake a trail of broken trees, uprooted shrubs and flattened buildings, some of which were in course of construction. The damage, however, is not expected to reach more than

SON NOT LICENSED.

Father Charged With Manslaughter Committed By Son Driving Car.

THREE RIVERS, Que., August 7 (Canadian Press). — Lucien Dessuresult, of Ste. Theole, was arraigned here in Enquette Court yesterday, charged with manslaughter, following the death on 12th July of Raymond Piamondon, who was struck by Dessuresult's car when the automobile was being driven by the latter's 13-year-old son.

The charge, which is signed by the Attorney-General of the Province, says that Dessuresult knew or should have known that his son had no license and could not drive a car by reason of his age.

Dessureault furnished $2,000 bail, and the preliminary hearing was fixed for 13th August.

HAMILTON BISHOP DIED LAST NIGHT

His Death Will Bring Grief To a Great Number of All Denominations.

HAMILTON, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Right Rev. Thomas Joseph Dowling, Bishop of Roman Catholic Diocese of Hamilton, died last night in his eighty fourth year. Though his death will bring grief to a great number of non-Catholics, who esteemed the venerable prelate, as well as to his own people it did not came as a surprise. His Lordship had been in failing health and three times in the last couple of years he had been given the last sacrament as it was feared he could not rally but his remarkable vitality enabled him to recover and be about again on at least two occasions. Had Bishop Dowling lived until Thursday he would have completed sixty years in the ministry

Preparations had been made to celebrate this event. The last seizure came quite suddenly.

Born in the County Limerick, Ireland in 1840, Bishop Dowling came to Hamilton at the age of 11 years with his father.

KAWARTHA PARK REGATTA DANCE

The Summer Crowd From Around the Lakes Enjoyed Park's Hospitality.

BARN DANCE AUG. 16.

KAWARTHA PARK, Aug. 7—The regatta dance at Kawartha Park was a very successful affair, being attended by young people from Crowe's Landing, Chemong, Stoney Lake points, Lakefield and Peterboro. The committee had spared no trouble to make the affair a success and their efforts were rewarded by the very pleasant time which old and young enjoyed. Follis' four-piece orchestra supplied the music, and the novelty numbers were popular as usual. One could not help but remarking on the large number of extremely pretty girls, and in their dainty dance frocks of various hues, they presented an agreeable picture.

This is the big night at Kawartha, and in spite of the rather threatening weather, the response of cottagers and their friends was very large.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. F. Belford, M.PP., and Miss Helen Baker played the wedding music.

The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father, and wore a gown of rust georgette, with shoes and stockings to match, and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

PROTECT CHILDREN.

New Traffic Regulations Were Also Passed By the Council—A Long List.

COBOURG, August 7. — The Cobourg Town Council has delivered itself of a drastic resolution debarring horses and dogs from the beautiful bathing beach here to the south of Victoria Park. The fact that so many children are at the park and that recently a horse broke loose when taken down to the beach with the purpose of making it go in, is one reason for it. Now, not only the horses are forbidden to go there, but dogs as well. This led a wag to ask "if cats were debarred also." But feline tastes do not lie in the direction of water and a bathing beach.

Traffic Regulations.

Cobourg Town Council has also passed a long list of traffic regulations, some twenty-nine or thirty all told, which are to regulate the conduct of motorists, teamsters, bicyclists, and pedestrians upon our streets and are calculated to secure greater safety and convenience for all. There are also full directions for the parking of cars.

Police to Control.

The absolute control of vehicular and pedestrian traffic is placed in the hands of the Mayor and the Chief of Police through their constables and officers, who have the duty of enforcing the regulations of the by-law. The by-law requires vehicles other than motor vehicles to keep as near the curb as circumstances and weather conditions will allow. Entrances to theatres, hotel auditoriums, and office buildings are to be kept clear. Lanes and driveways are to be unobstructed, and no parking is allowed near the fire hydrants. Tractors and tractor engines are prohibited from travelling on paved streets. Horses are not to be left standing unless weighted or otherwise sufficiently secured. Bicyclists when riding must keep their feet on the pedals and keep hold of the handle-bars. Carrying children on bicycles is forbidden, unless it be that of one child carried on an apparatus supplied for the purpose and attached to the bicycle. It is required also that vehicles for use for delivery purposes have the owner's name and address painted or otherwise attached for purpose of identification. All vehicles are notified to keep to the right, and "cutting corners" is strictly prohibited. The by-law comes into force just as soon as the marking of streets, etc., can be carried out.

Wheat Harvest General.

Several Samples of Grain Inspected Were Badly Affected By Rust.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—In an official statement issued yesterday the Department of Agriculture of Manitoba forecasts the wheat harvest as general by August 23rd. In a few isolated sections where crops are particularly late the wheat harvest will be delayed until about September 1st, the report says.

Continuing, the report adds that the crops are maturing gradually and that the filling stage is well progressed.

The damage from saw fly and hail and frost is reported as negligible.

FLOODS THREATEN CITIES IN CHINA

Thirty Thousand Soldiers Build Dykes Around Villages—Big Damage Anticipated.

(By Ray G. Marshall—United Press Staff Correspondent).

PEKIN, Aug. 7.—Floods again today threatened the city of Pekin. The Yung Tin River burst its dykes west of the city and poured down upon the capital, reaching the south walls, where troops of the Christian General, Feng Yuh Siang, were endeavoring to stem the flood.

Thirty thousand soldiers were detailed by Feng Yuh Siang to build dykes around Nan Yuan village and across the low lands between Nan Yuan and Pekin.

Secondary dykes held the river waters and the River Commission was optimistic that Pekin would be saved. No loss of life in the capital is anticipated in any event, although property damage in the event of a flood would be severe.

VISITORS AGAIN LOSE.

Corinthians Are Not Up To Their Best—Heat is Too Much.

TORONTO, August 7. Canadian Press. — Corinthians sustained their second defeat of their tour when they were defeated by a Toronto and district representative soccer eleven last evening by 4 goals to 2 before 5,000 spectators, and while the standard of the play by the visitors was hardly up to that expected of a club with the record of the famous British amateurs, there was sufficient to show that they have not yet struck their stride.

The heat was oppressive, especially to players who are not accustomed to it, and some of the players showed the effects of the two previous games.

The Corinthians have had a strenuous time so far, arriving at Quebec and playing three games inside of five days.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—The moving picture as a means for entertainment has met with wonderful success, and its possibilities financially are exceeding anything at first thought possible. Many productions are eminently instructive and as an educative feature take very high rank. For while we may read of occurrences depicted with the utmost realism and detail we are impressed most and are likely to remember longest what we see. What is all-important is that the show is in every respect clean, intellectually and morally, and it is very much to be regretted that much is passed by the censor that should be cut out. At this writing I will mention only one feature, viz., the fight picture. After the Willard-Johnson fight at Reno, about fourteen years ago, there was a demand to have it shown in the picture theatres, and at that time the Provincial Government put a ban on any of these fight pictures in Ontario. Then why should ringside pictures, with all their disgusting details, have a place in our picture shows alongside otherwise first-class productions? Very few, if any, in this community would allow their wives and children to go to the ringside, then why should they be forced to see such exhibitions when attending our picture shows?

—Yours, etc., J. F. Lillicrap.

POISON IVY.

Poison ivy, that rather attractive looking plant which in the case of susceptible people has a kick like an army mule, is generally considered as a drawback that only affects those citizens lucky enough to get away to some river or lake resort for their vacation.

It is not always a product of the sylvan glen, however, for the Examiner has been informed by a citizen, who rightly thinks the authorities should take immediate steps to irradicate it, that this pestiential plant is to be found in considerable quantity on Park street south, and its presence on other streets have been reported.

Unquestionably, it should be stamped out, for many people are very susceptible, and once poisoned cannot come near the ivy without suffering infinite discomfort.

The injury caused by the poison of the ivy is very similar to a burn, and in some cases people are attacked year after year, with very painful results.

Poison ivy grows rapidly, and if there is much of it on the streets reported the quantity will soon increase if steps are not taken to kill the plant.

To those who are imnune from the effects of ivy poisoning this may seem a matter of very minor importance, but victims will realize the necessity of a speedy campaign against the plant.

THE WOONSOCKET INCIDENT.

The latest outrage credited to the Ku Klux Klan was reported by the Examiner on Tuesday in a dispatch from Woonsocket, R. I., telling of a reporter being branded on the forehead and arm with the letter "K" by Klansmen who found him hiding near the scene of a meeting of the hooded organization.

Do Canadians want anything to do with an order that will take the law into its own hands and inflict such barbarous injuries upon a man guilty only of obeying his orders.

These Klansmen must have known that their victim was merely carrying out the instructions of his superior in trying to secure information about the Klan.

Yet these masked gentry calmly marked him for life.

The whole idea of the Klan spirit is abnoxious to people brought up under the Union Jack, and, fortunately, there seems little danger of the movement ever spreading northward, although it behooves Canadians to be constantly on their guard against the insidious influence of the organization.

We have confidence in the administration of our laws and in the operating machinery of justice in this country, and we do not propose to barter these things for a secret organization that dispenses mob justice and rarely gives a suspected person even the semblance of a trial.

The Woonsocket incident is but one link in a long chain of indictments against the Klan.

BRITAIN'S COAL PROBLEM.

A contribution to the study of the coal situation in Great Britain has been made by Lloyd George and some of his fellow Liberals which ought to help in the solution of a problem now complicated by questions of capital, union wages, mine royalties, overpaid labor and underpaid management, export hindrances, transport difficulties and a number of other conditions, each making up a formidable problem in itself, says Barron's. Their conclusion seems to be a scheme to buy out the owners now receiving royalties, with what may be called an economic adjustment of production and the largest possible mechanical saving in the use of coal. It is true that since the collapse following the war the per-capita production of the miners has moderately improved, perhaps 17 per cent. Wages have been well maintained, even in comparison with the war level. The consumer is paying high prices for coal and still higher prices for all the return he gets out of the coal.

One suggestion is better worth consideration than it would be in this country. This really amounts to the electrification of all the railroads in Great Britain, with the conversion of the coal to power as near the pit's mouth as possible. At points remote from the coal areas of Wales, the west of Scotland or the north of England, in the present state of electric transmission, it is doubtful if electricity would have any advantage over the direct use of coal in the locomotive. But over the greater part of a railroad system now consolidated into four groups the plan would be feasible and economical after the first capital outlay. The result would be to leave a larger exportable surplus, although it is best to remember that England, while rich in coal, is poor in available water-power and would be obliged alternatively to buy oil fuel entirely outside the country. The labor leaders do not like the plan, which is nothing to its disadvantage, because any labor leader believes that a settlement of any question whatever would automatically endanger his job. The problem is being approached in a sensible way, and discussion along the present lines is likely to do good.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

There are varying predictions as to the Western wheat crop and as to conditions in Canada generally—some perhaps exuberantly optimistic, others too gloomy.

The monthly statement of the Royal Bank of Canada possibly comes closer to the actual truth than most of the other prophecies when it declares that "if reasonably large grain crops are harvested and sold at prices somewhere in the neighborhood of those now prevailing, business throughout the Dominion will improve in the autumn; otherwise, continued quietness may be looked for during 1924."

And here is how the general situation is sized up:

"Reports on the progress of the wheat crop are conflicting, with some districts looking for a normal yield and others urgently in need of moisture. Manitoba is in the most favourable position; Central and Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta have been seriously affected by the lack of rain. While the total crop in the Western Provinces will undoubtedly be substantially lower than the record one of last year, there is as yet no justification for the very pessimistic reports which have been circulated on days when a rapid marking up of wheat prices was in progress. The Western crop got off to a late start, and so much now depends on weather conditions at the close of the growing season that no close estimate can yet be made as to the final outcome of the year.

"The case price of $1.42 3-4 per bushel for No. 1 Northern wheat, which was reached in Winnipeg on July 23rd, represents an increase of practically 50 per cent. over 1913 prices, bringing wheat almost into line with commodities in general, although the price disparity between it and manufactured goods has not yet been entirely overcome. As speculators have undoubtedly had a hand in bringing about a part of the recent rise in prices, the approximate average which will be received for the 1924 crop is still very uncertain. It is interesting to note that the severe criticisms of speculation, which were made in 1921, when wheat prices were declining, are not being repeated, in North America at least, now that speculative interest is on the "bull" side of the market.

"Business throughout Canada continues to be comparatively quiet. Conditions in the lumber trade, both east and west, are unfavourable. In the manufacturing industries, factories in general are working at reduced capacity, although the automobile and allied trdaes are fairly well employed, and activity continues in the pulp and paper industry. In the wholesale trades, a fair volume of business is apparently being done, although in the West there is a tendency to avoid making commitments until crop prospects are more definite. Retail trade has been helped somewhat by warmer weather."

SAVING THE BOY.

Members of the local Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, like service organizations elsewhere throughout Ontario, have been asked to support the Ontario Government in its establishment of a boys' farm and training school at Bowmanville based on the same lines as the institution at Shawbridge, Que., which promises to be a wonderful success.

At Shawbridge an effort is being made to minister to the boy well positioned but poorly endowed and to those whose position and endowment are both poor.

The effort is being made on a large farm ideally located in the Laurentians. The principle adopted is the axiom that the underprivileged boy of whatever type who goes there has through lack of endowment or the influence of unfortunate surroundings been handicapped in the past and needs help to either achieve normalcy for the first time or to return to normal.

Fundamental in the attempt is a comprehensive medical examination followed by such treatment as will give him the fullest use of his body and provide him with normal health. With the kindly co-operation of specialists in all branches of medical practice and trained nurses this work is being carried on in the Kiwanis Hospital (a gift of the Montreal Kiwanis Club) containing three sick and two detention wards, and operating, first aid and dental rooms.

Next his mentality is measured by close observation of his ability as shown in the school rooms, his adaptibility to the great variety of tasks which occupy his working hours and his adroitness in the sports of his recreation time.

The conviction that every Canadian citizen is entitled to the use of the common tools of life is father to an effort to have every boy pass through at least the first six grades of the common school curriculum before he leaves the farm, additional instruction is given as far as the second grade of high school, including practical instruction in agriculture.

His activities during work hours include all the different branches of house work, cookery, bread making, laundry work, the operation of the power engines, heat and electric light plant, plumbing and steam fitting repair work, construction of the buildings, cement walks, etc., stock raising, dairy practice, hog raising, curing and smoking of pork products, care of horses, poultry raising and raising and harvesting of all kinds of farm crops.

His recreation in winter includes skiing, skating, hockey, coasting and indoor games. In spring, summer and fall fishing, swimming, baseball, football and track sports. Band and orchestra provide splendid musical training and help to pass many pleasant hours for the whole school.

All of this, however, is incidental and preparatory to the real work of the institution, namely the reformation of the boy's personality.

Only a marginal per cent. of the boys fail, because of the lack of sufficient mentality, to make good in the ordinary walks of life, very many of them are brilliant scholars but most of them are temperamentally so constituted that they are incapable of long continued effort; they lack the power to withstand the temptations which are the common inheritance of all mankind; they lack ambition and often personal pride. Unfortunately, they think mostly in terms of the present rather than of the future, and in addition to these deficiencies in their personality, they are often endowed with strong tendencies toward lawlessness, turbulance, viciousness and sometimes degeneracy, some of these tendencies being developed until they seem to become driving forces in their lives.

The Boys' Farm receives them all in the same spirit that all hospitals receive their inmates, as patients needing help.

They are given the largest possible degree of freedom commensurate with safety, and while enjoying this freedom their acts and words are observed and recorded, their attitude towards education, work, honesty, co-operation and responsibility are valued, an attempt is made to motivate these manifestations, and when sufficient recorded data is at hand a course of treatment for each case is mapped out and tried. If it fails another is attempted. These efforts are at all times accompanied with kindly suggestion and firm but kindly coersion if necessary, until one by one the unfortunate tendencies are eliminated and other and more valuable qualities developed.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—For this week a good number of feeders have been taken for export. These were the 900-lb. kind and cost from $5.25 to $5.75 a cwt. A load of choice fat steers, 1,265 lbs. each from the Eaton farm, sold for export at $7.85 a cwt. Choice handyweight butchers were wanted around $6.75 a cwt. and good mixed butchers at $6.25 to $6.50. Below these grades the market was not as good and $5 a cwt. was only bid for a bunch of fair killers about 800 lbs. each. These like many others would have been better on the grass for a few weeks longer.

A load of 800-lb. stockers sold at $4 a cwt. and a load of 500-lb. Western heifers at $3. Common butchers are not easily sold and a number were disposed off this morning at $2.50 to $3.50. Carsons & Bowman sold a good Holstein springer today at $98, a record recent price. Butchers' cows remain steady with choice tops at $5 and good cows $4.25 to $4.50. The top for today's baby beeves was $8.50. Bunches of scrub bulls went for bolgonas at $2.00 and $3 a cwt. Trade was fairly active and there will not be many cattle unsold at the day's end.

With the Jews out of the market this week calves are not as good a sale but are holding steady at the decline. Tops today were 9 cents and good calves 8 cents. Medium sealers brought 6 to 7 cents.

Lambs are showing heavier receipts and prices are feeling the weight. Tuesday's top was 14¾ cents but it was difficult to get 14 cents at the close. Opening sales were made at 13¼ and 13½ cents today for ewes, but the price quickly fell to 13 cents for ewes and 11 cents for bucks.

Hogs are holding steady and receipts are light enough to prevent a cut. The bid of $9.25 a cwt. f.o.b. stands out for today and some holders are standing out for $9.50.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, August 7 (Canadian Press). — The market remains firm. Receipts are very light and dealers are compelled to take some eggs out of coolers for immediate consumption. The storage market is firm and many holders anticipate an advance in prices. They also claim that it will not be possible to import United States refrigerators under 38 cents delivered figuring upon the present basis of the United States markets.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 7 (Canadian Press). — Wheat prices underwent something of a collapse at the last yesterday after an advance due largely to assertions that purchases for shipment to Europe had been made on a big scale. Heavy offerings which suddenly developed found the market without adequate support.

Wheat closing quotations were weak, 3-4c to 1 3-8c net lower, September $1.27 1-8 to $1.27 1-4 and December $1.31 to $1.31 1-8.

Corn finished unchanged to 1 1-4c lower; oats varying from 7-8c off to 1-4c gain; and provisions at 5c to 10c decline.

A THOUGHT

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS

What this country needs is not a new birth of freedom, but the old-fashioned $2.00 lower berth.

It isn't more liberty, but less people who take liberties with our liberty.

It is not a job for every man, but a real man for every job.

It isn't to get more taxes from the people, but for the people to get more from the taxes.

It is not more miles of territory, but more miles to the gallon.

It is more tractors and less detractors.

It isn't more young men making speed, but more young men planting spuds.

It is more paint on the old place and less paint on the young face.

It isn't a lower rate of interest on money, but a higher interest in work.

It is to follow the footprints of the fathers instead of the footsteps of the dancing master.—St. Paul "Crescent."

LANDED 17-LB. LUNGE.

H. E. Scott, of Rochester, Catches Big One at Stoney Lake.

Mr. H. E. Stott of Rochester, N.Y. while fishing last Saturday landed a 17-pound lunge, one of the biggest caught this year on the south side of the lake. His guide was young Jack Strickland, son of J. C. Strickland of "The Victoria," McCracken's Landing, who went about his business in a very optimistic manner, assuring Mr. Stott that he knew the depths favored by the biggest fish.

Mr. Stott's luck did not end with this prize. The next time out with his guide he hooked a nine-pounder. Both fish gave him quite a battle and it was with considerable difficulty that he hauled them aboard without upsetting the canoe. Who says fishing at Stoney Lake isn't good?

FLIERS AT ICELAND.

Smith and Nelson Will Remain at Reykjavik For Several Days.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, August 7.—Lieuts. Lowell H. Smith and Eric Nelson, the United States army world aviators, expect to remain here for several days, following their stormy trip from Hornafjord, on the eastern Icelandic coast.

The fliers said that they would start at once on their Greenland flight except for the uncertainty of the situation at Angmagsalik, where the worst ice conditions in years are reported.

The airmen do not like the prospect of a 480 mile flight over open water with no certainty of a proper landing place.

Reports from Angmagsalik are conflicting, there being no assurance as yet that the supply steamer Gertrude Rask, that was reported as caught in the ice 15 miles off shore, had been able to deliver her supplies for the airmen's next stop.

WILL HOLLYWOOD LOSE THE STUDIOS?

New York is Expected to be Next Stop of the Movies.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. .—(United Press). — Aside from the buzzing comment on whether or not Gloriana Charming's affair with her director will really lead to the altar after all—and if not, why not—there is always one topic which may be assured of an audience in any "filmdumb" gathering.

Will the movies quit Hollywood cold and go to New York?

A good, old reliable question to chat about, and right now it's finding renewed interest in any gathering of studio folk whenever gossip about this or that star of either sex who happens to be absent, languishes for the moment.

The whole new argument started over the telephone, or, to be more explicit, over a recent application by the Southern California Telephone Co. for permission to boost telephone rates in Los Angeles and adjacent areas.

It's no niggardly boost the telephone company wants; merely a flat $5 per month rate on residence "fones" and a metered service on all used for business, with a 5-cent tax on every call over 70 placed on a business telephone during any month. Statisticians have figured out that the increase, if granted, will boost the company's annual income in Los Angeles alone by some $20,000,000.

And just as an idea of how certain the corporation is, the railroad commission will approve the petition when it was presented, telephone company attorneys advised the commission that the "meters" have already been installed on several thousand telephones, anticipating approval of the request.

The increase, to be sure, would hit everyone who uses telephones, but the film studios are leading the fight against the proposal, many big film men claiming that such a "gouge" will just naturally compel them to pull out and hie for the east coast.

Mayer Raises a Protest.

The loudest voice of protest comes from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio at Culver City, southwest of Hollywood and outside of the Los Angeles city limits. Louis B. Mayer, vice-president in charge of production at this newly combined plant, rated as one of the finest in the country, declares the telephone company's scheme would increase the studio's monthly telephone bill by many thousand dollars.

"The rate increase demand is the last straw that, if it doesn't break the cinema camel's back, at least will do much to break away Los Angeles' film foundation from the super-structure of metropolitan success it has reared," Mayer declared.

He goes on to say that abandonment of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer 48-acre local plant would be effected gradually, with activities transferred to the east coast as rapidly as possible. A tentative site for a new studio has already been selected on Long Island, he said.

Film production in New York is being accomplished at least 25 per cent. cheaper than in Hollywood, Mayer declared, and with another item such as the telephone increase proposes, added to the debit side of the ledger, the proposition of moving will receive immediate action, he stated.

Others Back Him Up.

Other studio executives are understood to be strongly backing Mayer in his stand, and have chosen him for their spokesman in the arguments on the proposition before the railroad commission.

Whether or not the protest is just talk, designed to, if possible, influence the commission to disapprove the telephone company's petition, remains to be seen. Many say that it is.

It is pointed out that the studios have too much money tied up in Hollywood to think of moving. Millions of dollars invested in studio sites, in homes and equipment, will keep them here as long as films are made, Hollywood's strongest boosters declare.

But there's no denying the fact that two years ago 95 per cent. of motion pictures made in America were turned out in Hollywood, while to-day only 80 per cent. come from here.

DUKE IS NOT COMING.

Prince of Wales Will Not Be Accompanied by His Brother—Latter Going to Africa.

LONDON, August 7. (Canadian Press.) — It was learned yesterday by the Canadian Press that there is absolutely no foundation for the suggestion that the Duke of York will accompany the Prince of Wales on his forthcoming trip to the United States and Canada, on which the Prince sails for New York on 23rd August.

The Duke and Duchess of York are to sail for South Africa in November.

TRENCHES BUNKERS.

Golf Course Occupies Site of the Battle of Yorktown.

YORKTOWN, Va., Aug. 6.—A new golf course occupies the site of the Battle of Yorktown, victorious closing engagement of the Revolutionary War, with fairways, bunkers green and traps interspersed among the grass covered remains of the British and American trenches.

The course was laid out by the Yorktown Manor and Country Club which boasts on its roster of members many notables, including President Coolidge, John W. Davis, General Pershing, Admiral Eberle, members of the cabinet and Governor Trinkle of Virginia. The dedication of the course on the last 4th of July was the first step in a campaign to make the entire village of Yorktown and its environs into a National Park. The surrender of Cornwallis will be observed Oct. 9 by a mass meeting sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution to further the movement to make the battlefield a national park.

Many of the buildings of Yorktown, standing at the time of the surrender of Cornwallis, are still in existence, bearing the marks of American shell-fire during the seige. The old entrenchments of the opposing forces are also remarkably well preserved, being still clearly defined in many places, in spite of the lapse of a century and a half.

Though famous principally as the scene of the winning battle of the evolution, Yorktown has a long history. It was one of the earliest settlements in America and for a long period before the Revolution was one of the foremost business centres in the colonies. The village has now dwindled, however, to a population of three hundred.

TUG-OF-WAR AT PICNIC.

Exhibition Park Chosen as Scene For Mammoth Liberal Rally.

"We will meet all comers," said John Murphy, captain of the Board of Works' team, which now holds Mr. Roland Denne's cup, donated to the champion tug-of-war team in the county, as a result of the contest at the last Peterboro Industrial Exhibition.

Glad of an opportunity to engage in the strenuous sport, the Board of Works team have entered in the tug-of-war contest, to be staged Thursday afternoon, August 28, on the occasion of the big Liberal demonstration, when the Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King, Hon. G. P. Graham and Hon. Charles Murphy will be here.

The tug-of-war contest promises to be one of the liveliest attractions on the programme, and it is expected that entries will come in, representative of all parts of the county.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

ABOUT LIQUOR.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,— Many were surprised to read in The Examiner, in the police court records on Saturday that to have a mash in the house is against the law. The Examiner says that a mash is as much against the law as a still. I want to ask you on behalf of a very large number of people if it is against the law for people to have a mash in the house to make home-made wine of. Also if people are liable to have the inspector call on them and if he finds a mash for making home-made wine are the parties liable to a $200 fine and costs. A great many people make home-made wine out of dandelions, wheat, raisins, etc., etc., and most of it is of course over 2 1-2 per cent. If people are liable they don't know it and it will surprise many who have made lots of home-made wine for years. Please what is the law about a mash for making home-made wine

INQUIRER.

Answer.

It would seem harsh, if the law precluded housewives from making the mild beverages that you have named, but fortunately, if the regulations are followed, the law will allow any individual to brew beer, ale or wine, provided he has never been convicted on an offence in breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, and provided the product of the manufacture is made only for the personal consumption of the maker.

Any person desirous of brewing beer, ale or wine should give notice of his intention to the local Inland Revenue Officer, Mr. William Buller, submitting at the same time a list of the utensils to be used in the manufacture. Then, if your notice doesn't meet with approval, you will be notified. No strength is defined by the Act, thus it is within the law for a person who has given notice to make real hard liquor, provided the Inland Revenue Officer approves of the composition of the mash used. When giving notice, it is necessary to include a list of the ingredients you intend using in your mash, thus once approval is obtained, it matters not what strength of alcoholic spirits is contained in your product.

The utensils generally used by persons, who brew for their own personal use, consist of either crockery or granitewear and a copper kettle. However, it is not necessary that you hold to this apparatus, so long as you obtain the approval of the Inland Revenue Officer.

It is illegal at any time to have a still in your possession, whether notice has been given or not.

According to the definition of "beer," and "brewery," as cited in the Inland Revenue Act, it is plainly evident that the possession of a mash, without a permit, is sufficient to warrant a conviction, under the Ontario Temperance Act, for which a penalty is provided rendering the possessor liable to a fine of $200, or 6 months' imprisonment.

The possession of any material to be used in the manufacture of beer or malt liquor is in contravention of the Ontario Temperance Act for which the possessor may be convicted, unless he has given proper notice and followed the above regulations.

The matter brought to the Examiner's attention by the foregoing communication is one of public interest and in obtaining the information herein contained, the Examiner has consulted J. W. Wearing, Crown Prosecutor for all offences in B.O.T.A. in the City of Peterborough and the local branch of the Department of Inland Revenue.

DISASTROUS FLOODS.

100 Killed and 50,000 Are Homeless Following India Floods.

MADRAS, India, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Floods in Southern India which, according to previous reports, flooded the State of Cochin, caused at least one hundred deaths at Malabar, according to official reports. The loss of life elsewhere was comparatively small. It is estimated that fifty thousand persons are homeless, while thousands of acres of crops have been ruined.

BRITISH PLANE'S ENGINE FAILED

Major MacLaren So Confident of Its Performance That No Spare Parts Were Carried.

HIT BY HEAVY SEA.

CORDOVA, Alaska, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Engine failure was the primary cause of wrecking of the British airplane flying around the world and thus frustrating the expedition a wireless message caught here in the night indicated.

This message was sent by Major A. Stuart MacLaren, Commander of the expedition, from the trawler Thiepval of the Canadjan fisheries patrol. Major MacLaren and two men who are with him, when the plane was ruined by hitting a heavy sea Saturday off the Komandorski Islands, Siberia, are bound for Vancouver, B.C. on the Thiepval.

The message said that the three men had difficulty to keep the engine running until they reached shore at the foot of Bering Island cliffs after hitting the water.

"Sorry have failed last moment," read the message. "Engine had been perfectly magnificent, having run hundred hours under all conditions of climate without replacement of any kind. We had to frequently fly above fog where engine failure meant certain death. Previous gear trouble due to machine being too heavily loaded."

The message added that confidence in the engine had been so great that no spare parts were carrie after the plane was put into flight at Akyab, India, a machine in which the expedition left England, March 25, having been wrecked near Akyab, and that no parts had been required until the Komandorski disaster.

TERMS IN JAIL FOR SMUGGLERS

Illicit Traffic in Garments and Textiles Seriously Affects Home Industries.

CABINET TO ACT.

OTTAWA, August 7. — Jail sentences for professional smugglers were advocated by a deputation representing the textile and other industries of Canada, which waited upon Premier Mackenzie King and the members of the Cabinet on Wednesday to emphasize the gravity of the situation resulting from the growth of smuggling of goods into this country.

R. Percy Sparks, president of the association of garment makers acted as spokesman for the deputation, and stressed the enormous extent to which smuggling had grown. The loss in revenue to the country, through smuggling, he said, was tremendous, and the time had come for immediate steps to stamp out the evil.

The deputation advocated stern measures to deal with the professional smuggler, and suggested that if such measures were adopted steps would be taken by interested parties to form a bureau to co-operate with the government in the detection and arrest of such persons.

Following the conference, members of the deputation stated that they had received an excellent hearing and that the government had promised that immediate attention would be given to the matter.

In addition to Premier King, Hon. George P. Graham, Hon. J. H. King, Hon. K. M. MacDonald, Hon. Jacques Bureau and Hon. Ernest Lapointe listened to the representations of the deputation.

There are only three others above the 20,000 mark—Innsbruck with 56,000, Salzburg 39,000 and Klagenfurt 27,000.

MOFFATT FUNNEL IS GREAT ASSET

When Completed It Will Open Up Large Fertile Section.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 6.—(United Press).—Another transcontinental railroad system for the United States and development of an area half as large as the New England states, endowed with more resources than Nature usually gives one section, will be the direct result of the completion of the Moffat tunnel now being bored straight through the heart of snow-clad James Peak, in continental divide.

The continental divide in Colorado has always been a barrier to a direct railroad route from New York to San Francisco. Transcontinental systems have been obliged to lay their tracks to the north and south of this state ,traversing Wyoming and New Mexico.

Northwestern Colorado is composed of fertile mountain valleys, hemmed in by towering mountains. The only outlet has been by way of the Denver and Salt Lake railroad which spirals its way up to and over Corona pass at an elevation of 11,660 feet.

In winter the road is closed for weeks at a time by snows which pack the divide. In the early summer when the snow begins to melt, rockslides from the mountain cliffs block the road at frequent intervals. Trains loaded with freight, and their crews have been known to plunge into chasms of the pass when hit by rock slides jarred loose by the throbbing of laboring engines.

The tunnel will be 6.04 miles long and will eliminate twenty-three miles of railroad over Corona pass. It burrows into James peak at an elevation of 9,100 feet. Its center will be 4,160 feet below the top of James peak.

On the authority of the United States Geological survey more than one-half of the nation's coal supply is in this region. The only anthracite coal beds west of the Mississippi river are found there. Oil land to the extend of 45,000 acres has been withdrawn by the government on behalf of the navy.

Zinc, lead, molybdenum, gypsum, fluorspar, uranium, vanadium, radium, iron and gold deposits have been found there .Lumbering, stock raising and agriculture are among other industries.

The railroad tunnel will be electrified when completed, and will care for automobile traffic as well as traffic by rail. Autos, and other miscellaneous freight, will be carried through the tunnel on flat cars.

Running by the side of the main tunnel will be a water tunnel built to carry to eastern Colorado some of the surplus water on the western slope of the divide.

The problem of building the tunnel has been entrusted by the state of Colorado to W. F. Robinson, an old business associate of David H. Moffat, the man after whom the tunnel is named. Moffat himself, tried to put the tunnel through but was blocked by lack of money. He will, however, see his dream realized in the work of his former associate.

STIRLING RATE WRONGLY NAMED

Tax Rate of Village is Reduced This Year From 45 to 44 Mills.

ASSESSMENT $441,531.26

Through a correspondent's error the tax rate for Stirling fixed by the village council on Monday night was given as 45 mills instead of 44 mills as the tabulation showed to be the correct figure. Last year's tax rate was 45 mills, and as stated this year's is reduced one mill.

Through a typographical error in the same report the total assessment for 1924 was given at $441,5531.26. This should have read $441,531.26.

Turned Their Backs on the Royal Photograph.

THE HAGUE, Holland, August 7. — Queen Wilhelmina, her consort, Prince Henry and the young Princess Juliana have selected a holiday resort which is somewhat out of the usual where royalty is concerned.

They are spending a month in Northern Lapland, well above the Arctic Circle, where they are living the simple life, making excursions on foot, visiting the Lapp reindeer camps and sleeping in tourist huts like ordinary folk.

The Queen has a passion for photography, but a violent dislike to being snapshotted herself. According to letters received here, the Queen found her dislike shared in an unexpected manner by the picturesque Lapp nomads whose objection to being "snapped" is based on religious grounds. Every time Queen Wilhelmina levelled her camera at them they at once turned their backs and fled.

The royal party will return to Holland by way of the Norwegian fjords.

Withstands punishment

RAILWAY crossings," stony roads, curb bumps, sudden braking and steep down-grade are typical of the numberless punishments that cause internal heat so destructive to both rubber and cords.

In Dominion Cord Tires you have always had the greatest dependability—but now, by our exclusive new Web Cord process, internal friction and heat caused by cross threads are eliminated.

Our new Sprayed Rubber process increases the elasticity and strength of the treads and side walls, because Sprayed Rubber is the purest rubber in the world. It is used exclusively in Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires in Canada.

The extra mileage and dependability of these new features in Dominion Cord Tires are thoroughly proven by years of actual road tests. They mean no increase in the price of Dominion Cord Tires.

WILL USE POWER IN OREGON MTS.

Coolidge to Open Power Development Plant.

By Frank H. Bartholomew
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 6. — (United Press).—Pressing an electric button at his desk in the White House at 3 o'clock this afternoon, President Coolidge will set in motion in the heart of the Cascade Mountains of Oregon one of the greatest power development plants in western America.

Twelve hundred excursionists, including Governor Pierce of Oregon and President Franklin T. Griffith of the National Electric Light Association, leave Portland to-day on a three- section "Red-White-and-Blue Special" for the Oak Grove plant, in the mountains, 60 miles east of this city, to attend the formal dedication.

The Oak Grove power development marks one of the most dogged and picturesque conquests which engineering skill has gained over the forces of nature in all the wild north west country.

Nine million dollars has already been spent upon the mammoth industrial enterprise in the past three years. It is located in one of the most inaccessible regions of Oregon where until 1921, only a few mountain trails pierced the wilderness. Forest rangers only occasionally broke the solitude of the river canyons and the towering mountains.

Costly and extremely hazardous adventures marked the preliminary work of the project engineers owing to the frequent playful tricks of the elements, which destroyed trails, washed out footbridges and sometimes carried away whole mountain sides in periods of violent storm.

30-mile Railroad

Before a pound of material for the upper works far into the interior, could be delivered it was necessary to build a standard guage railroad nearly 30 miles in length at a total cost of approximately $2,000,000. During the construction of this transportation artery both war tanks and commercial tractors played their first part in engineering operations in this section of the country. They negotiated right-of-way construction stunts that conventional railroad building equipment was not capable of mastering.

The engineers were forced to use scouting airplanes for topographical study and reconnaissance.

One of the interesting features of the project is the "two-million-dollar snake"— the giant steel pipeline which brings water overland six and a half miles from the diversion dam at the intake to the massive surge tank crowning the crest of Crippel Creek Knoll—nearly 1,000 feet above the power plant in the mountain gorge below.

Flivver Could Drive Through

It is said that an ordinary flivver could drive through the entire length of this great pipeline, which contains 10,000 tons of steel.

The new project contains the high est-headed reaction turbine in the world. It receives the great column of water as it plunges down the 900 foot penstock from Cripple Creek Knoll with a momentum creating an effective capacity of 35,000 horse power and operates at 514 revolutions a minute.

The project is being constructed in three units the ultimate capacity of which will be 105,000 horsepower The first unit of 35,000 horsepower, will be set in operation by the small white button on President Coolidge's desk at 3 o'clock this afternoon, eastern standard time.

A local concern, the Portland Electric Power Co., is the owner and builder of the development.

Much adverse criticism is heard in reference to the paving just completed on George Street, from Romaine south to Lansdowne.

Citizens who have motored over the new concrete have expressed their disapproval of the quality of the work, surprised to find the surface undulating and uneven.

One member of the City Council, who for the first time travelled over the new road last night, declared that the City Engineer and inspectors shouldn't have certified to the work, unless the construction was of a high order and the surface level. He plainly stated that he was disappointed with the pavement.

The Examiner learned to-day that the City Engineer, who supervises all civic construction, and the inspectors have approved of the construction, and that the contractor has received a portion of the contract price from the City Treasurer.

REBEL WRITES TO NEWSPAPER

Macedonian Rebel Leader Writes Story on Front Page of Paper.

BELGRADE, August 7. — While the Serbian Government is offering a price for him dead or alive, Todor Alexandroff, the Macedonian rebel leader, entered into Serbian politics the other day with an article on the first page of the "Republica," which made Belgradians rub their eyes.

After pointing out that in his opinion Serbians mistakenly ascribe the unrest in Macedonia to the incompetent Pashitch administration, to provocatons from Bulgaria, to the "traitor" Raditch or to the cruel Alexandroff, Alexandroff writes, over his signature as a member of the Central Commitee of the Internal Macedonian organisation:

"All oppressed nationalities who jealously guard their nationality are struggling shoulder to shoulder to attain their right to self-determination. After they have won their autonomy, they will be in a position to organise a great federated state, with equal rights for all nationalities.

"Neither a powerful Government, able to repress the activities of revolutionary bands, nor a good administration, can prevent the dissolution of imperialistic Jugoslavia. The oppressed nationalities in Serbia are struggling neither for the attainment of a strong chauvinistic government nor for a wise Serbian administration (two incompatible terms) but for their liberties.

"In closing I wish to quote the words of Mazzini in 1848 about the Austrians:

"'That you govern well is not what we desire, but that you depart.'"

PARCEL POST AID TO EXPORT TRADE

New Development Means More Than Just Profits for Manufacturer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(United Press).—Parcel post has revolutionized the export trade.

On the basis of partial figures, exporters using this method are shown to have sold $8,300,425 worth of goods in foreign countries during the first five months of 1924.

From shipments valued only at $1,936,500 in January, the business has grown to an average of more than $2,000,000 — and it is still pushing forward.

Dr. Julius Klein of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, who in augurated the service, believes these figures extremely significant in the trade world.

"The average American business man considered foreign sales as some fantastical super-mysterious impossibility in the old days," he said.

"Now a mail order from Timbuctoo or Teheran for a parced post package causes no more excitement than a similar request from Boston or Grand Rapids.

"Our main street manufacturers in inland towns, many of whom have never seen salt water, are sending their goods abroad as nonchalantly and as expertly as the supposed better informed and experienced seaboard rivals.

"Parcel post is responsible. Now the doorway of a good foreign customer is no farther away than the nearest post office."

The new development means more than just profits for the small manufacturer, according to Klein. He believes it may be the medicine that will correct the present unsteadiness in the business situation.

"By this method, the products of American farms and factories will be offered for sale on foreign shelves instead of piling up in domestic ware houses awaiting the readjustment of the home market," he said.

COUNCIL BREAKS UP

Woman's Suffrage Isn't as Popular as in Former Years.

LONDON. — Women's suffrage isn't as popular in the town of Hastings as it used to be. And all because of so simple a matter as a cigarette.

The Hastings Town Council had been in session for five solid hours, wrestling with some weighty local problem, and men members were famished for a smoke. Several members had started to smoke—as they used to do before women became members of the Council—but they had been stopped by the Deputy Mayor, Miss Abagail Lile. Then a man member moved to amend the rules, so as to allow smoking. The motion prevailed by a masculine majority, but the Deputy Mayoress continued to refuse her permission. Then a man moved that the meeting adjourn—and the men's vote carried that motion, too, and everybody went home, the municipal business unfinished—but, anyhow, they could smoke.

TAKE DIRECTORS AS INDIVIDUALS

Home Bank Officials Will Be Proceeded Against Individually By the Crown.

TORONTO, August 7 (Canadian Press). — So far as charges laid under Section 153 of the Bank Act against the Home Bank directors and officials are concerned, each one of the accused will be proceeded against individually by the Crown when the trial opens in September.

Such was the announcement made yesterday by D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special Crown prosecutor, during the hearing in Judge Coatsworth's Chambers, of the argument on the request by the defence counsel for further particulars of the charges.

Section 153 of the Bank Act refers to the making of false or deceptive returns.

Judgment was reserved by Judge Coatsworth on application of the defence counsel for further particulars.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

MRS. PORCUPINE AND ROLLER COASTER

"Hello, Mrs. Porcupine," called Nick.

Mrs. Prickles Porcupine came to Happy Go Lucky Park one day all dressed up in her Sunday best.

"Hello, Mrs. Porcupine," called Nick. "How nice you look!"

"I should say so," remarked Nancy kindly. "Where in the world did you get such a becoming hat?"

"Why, I got it at the store," said Mrs. Porcupine, modestly. "But really, I couldn't make up my mind whether to take it or not. Yellow never was becoming to me and these brown-eyed Susans on the hat make me look sallow, I think."

"Oh, no, they don't," said Nancy. "They look lovely on your straw hat. Really they look exactly as though they were growing right out of a flower pot.

"Well, I'm glad of that," said Mrs. Porcupine, in a relieved voice. "I do hope it won't rain, for I came without an umbrella and I'd hate to get my best hat spoiled."

"How do you do, Mrs. Porcupine," said Mister Zip, the fairyman. "Welcome to Happy Go Lucky Park. We haven't seen you here much."

"No, this is my first visit," said Mrs. Porcupine, looking around. "I didn't want to come until I got my new hat. I just got it this morning."

At that Mister Zip said how becoming it was 'n' everything, but he added to himself, "I do hope she saved enough money to spend." For Mister Zip liked to have people spend money in Happy Go Lucky Park. The more they spent the quicker he would make his fortune.

"Show Mrs. Porcupine around, Nan," he said out loud. "And see that she has a good time."

"What's that thing?" asked Mrs. Porcupine when they came to the roller coaster.

"That's a roller coaster," said Nancy. "You pay 10 cents and get into one of those little cars and it takes you for a lovely ride on a track."

"I think I'll take a ticket," said the porcupine lady, fishing around in her pocketbook for a dime.

Nancy got her a ticket and put her into one of the cars and away went Mrs. Porcupine all aflutter with excitement.

She didn't notice the sign which said "Hold your hats."

Indeed, when the little car began to shoot around curves and whiz through tunnels and dip into hollows, and leap over bumps, it was all she could do to hold herself in. She grabbed the sides of the car with both hands and held on for dear life.

"My goodness! Mercy me!" she cried. "Oh, dear me!"

And suddenly off went her hat.

"Help! Help!" she screamed as it disappeared over the edge of the roller coaster. And she was still screaming "help" when the little car brought her back to the starting place.

"Why, where is your hat?" cried Nancy.

"That's what I'd like to know!" declared Mrs. Porcupine, tearfully. "It blew off."

"We'll go and look for it," said Nick. "It can't be far away."

"A hat!" cried Bossy Cow, who was eating grass over in a field. "No, I didn't see any hat. A bunch of straw and some brown-eyed Susans fell out of the sky and I ate it. That's all I saw."

"Oh, dear me!" wailed Mrs. Porcupine.

"I'll pay you for the hat," said Mister Zip, kindly. "Don't worry."

"That was luck," said Mrs. Porcupine to herself on her way home. "I didn't like that hat, and I couldn't take it back. Now I can buy a new one."

GIRLS BREAK CAMP.

Millbrook and Cavan "Gleaners" Home From Otonabee's Bank.

CAVAN, Aug. 6.—The Cavan and Millbrook girls belonging to "The Gleaners" C.G.I.T. Group of the Presbyterian Church, Millbrook, returned from their camp on the Oton abee River on Saturday afternoon.

The girls returned a couple of days sooner than they intended because the larger tent which had been kindly loaned them by Mr. W. Coombe, was wanted by another party.

The pleasure of the outing for the group was much greater because of the fact, that Rev. G. S. and Mrs. Gervin and family occupied a cottage near the girl's camp.

They proved efficient and kindly chaperons.

During their stay there the girls took many hikes around the locality.

The camp was beneficial as well as full of pleasure; many of the girls learning to swim, Mr. Gervan having cleaned out a swimming place not far from the camp.

Many sing-songs were enjoyed by the girls with Mr. and Mrs. Gervan.

Rev. R. T. and Mrs. Richards have returned from their vacation. Mr. Richards occupied his own pulpit on Sunday.

Mr. Vernon McIntyre and friend W. Campbell, Toronto, motored down and spent the week end and holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matchett.

Mr. Kenneth Syer, Toronto, spent the week end at his home, motoring down with his cousin, Mr. J. Syer, who visited his mother and sisters in Millbrook.

Mr. Osborne Staples visited his friend, Mr. K. Madill, Lakefield, over the week-end.

Mrs. Richardson with her daughters Miriam of Janetville and Mrs. Rowan of Edmonton, visited Mr. and Mrs. Matchett on Tuesday, motoring over from Janetville.

TUMACACORI MISSION

Mission in Arizonal Will Be Rebuilt Before Ruined.

WASHINGTON, August 6. — Within a short time the Department of the Interior will have completed restoration of one of America's show spots.

It is the Tumacacori Mission in Arizona, built by the Spanish mission aries in the 17th century and for many years in a state of decay.

The National Park Service obtained a congressional appropriation to restore the structure and make it a national monument. Double doors between the sanctuary and the sacristy have been replaced.

The mission presented a problem to architects who directed its restoration. The original doors were carried away many years ago and it was impossible to find anyone who could describe them from personal observation.

The architects did the next best thing. The doors of San Xavier Mission, another historic ruin, were used as a guide. San Xavier was built a little before Tumacacori and probably by the same workmen.

They were made of Spanish cedar and without nails. Instead, stiles and rails were mortised together and held with wedges driven home in the tenons.

Then six hinges were needed, and once more American ingenuity met the occasion. To preserve the atmosphere and appearance of age they were made from old quarter inch wagon tires—relics of an antedated prairie schooner which had fallen into ruin on the messa.

SAN FRANCISCO TO LENGTHEN HARBOR

Waterfront Will Be Extended About Twenty Miles.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 7. — The water front of San Francisco will be extended 20 miles beyond its present limits for the development of a great industrial section if the United States Government approves plans for dredging a deep-water ship canal south from Hunter's Point, in San Francisco, to Ravenswood in San Mateo County.

The project is being pushed not only by San Francisco, but by every city and district for 50 miles down the peninsula to San Jose.

Besides dredging the channel, it is planned to reclaim 20,000 acres of tidelands for industrial sites. The land would be reclaimed through the use of the dredged earth.

Government aid has been asked only for the channel. The reclamation and wharfage improvements are to be undertaken by private interests, together with the state and the counties involved. The entire project will involve many millions of dollars.

San Francisco has a water front that is owned and operated by the public. Title to the property is in the state of California and harbour affairs are administered by a board of three harbour commissioners.

The city at present has 15 miles of berthing space for vessels, with 5,000,000 square feet of cargo space. The new facilities are intended to increase the harbour space to more than double and to provide a vast number of potential factory sites.

AUTO SENSE - - MORE TROUBLE - - - By Williamson

For a clean, powerful explosion, the spark should take place when the piston has just started down on the power stroke and the compression is high. The lower the compression the slower the mixture burns and the more heat it gives off.

Retarding the spark causes the spark to take place later or further down in the cylinder and on a lower compression. That is why a retarded spark causes overheating and a loss of power. There are several joints in the spark control and unless these are given a little attention the wear on them may cause the ball to drop out of the socket.

A broken connection in this control may cause more trouble than the one Doc deals with this week in the accompanying pictures.

If the connection breaks when the spark is in an advanced position you are likely to have a backfire or premature explosion in starting the next time. Backfires at this time are likely to be expensive, as they may strip the gears on the starter pinion or the flywheel.

If the spark is advanced too far it will cause the engine to knock when on a hard pull.

An occasional inspection of these joints and a drop of oil once in a while may save you a lot of trouble and a big repair bill.

PEOPLE STOOD ON CHAIRS AT NIGHT SESSION

Chautauqua Lecturer's Flood of Oratory in Vain Battled Against Flood of Rain.

STERLING TALK.

"Father of a Hundred Thousand Boys" Told Audience of Their Ways and Needs.

The elements entered into competition with the programme at the Chautauqua tent last evening. The flood of eloquence of the speaker was literally drowned out by the contra flood of waters that beat with a swift tatoo on the tight drum of the roof. The last words of Captain Upton were delivered in pantomimic fashion his thoughts lost beneath the roar of the descending torrent. The audience stood on the seats as the waters made deep pools on the ground, and waded forth ankle-deep during pauses in the downpour.

Captain T. Dinsmore Upton, "the father of a hundred thousand boys," was the lecturer last evening. His address, delivered at a tempo that would have sent the best-intentioned of metronomes into nervous prostration long before its finish, was one of voluble eloquence, packed with common sense, practical bits of wisdom and flecked with humour springing from an evident highly optimistic and cheerful viewpoint.

The Four-Square Builder.

His discourse, entitled "The Four-Square Builder," was mainly concerned with the welfare of the growing boys, and there were many boys in his audience. The Chautauqua course this year has been marked by the attendance of young boys, some of them quite little lads, who listen in decorous fashion to the words of wisdom issuing from the mouths of the various speakers, and depart silently at different times, apparently in obedience to parental admonitions as to time of returning home. The hour of ten had evidently been set as the period for one small neighboring youth last evening, and promptly on the stroke, he faded into the wet exterior, minus coat or umbrella.

Prefacing his talk with an allusion to the various modes of speech of the average boy, a linguist in four languages, "angry, smiling, slang and English," Captain Upton spoke of the importance of a smile, and the harassment to an orator of the type of man who will not smile, "and makes one wonder whether it's annoyed or adenoids that ails him. It's the common, everyday things of life that are the miracles after all, like the red cow that eats green grass to give white milk and yellow butter."

The importance of games in the life of the boy was emphasized, the speaker referring to the use of such in military training to obtain proper mental and muscular co-ordination.

Tribute to His Father.

Captain Upton paid a glowing tribute to his father, a man who, "in a record that has never been surpassed," has written to his son daily throughout the fifteen years the latter has been away from home, and whom he characterized as "the biggest, broadest, best man that ever was born. The most pitiful creature in the world, in my opinion, is the man who has attained riches and power, but whose children do not look up to him because they do not respect him." To take time to listen to the exploits and the ambitions of your own boy was the advice of the speaker, who said "it isn't the number of years that you live that counts but what you have put across while you are here. The only thing we know about Methusaleh is that he lived for 969 years. Jesus, the greatest man who ever existed, had only thirty-three years of life behind Him when He left the world forever. Do you know why so many fathers are not chummy with their sons? Because they are afraid that by close association, the boys will find out just what sort of fathers they are."

"It isn't the kind of game that you play that counts, but the kind of a player that you are. The boy who plays wrongly in a game will play the same sort of trick in the game of life, and the same thing applies to a man or a woman. If you want to know the sort of man your friend is, take him on a fishing trip. If you want to discover a child's character, watch that child at play."

Too Little Bridget.

Destructive gossip, the sort that helps to put grease, instead of sand, on the toboggan slide on which a boy's or girl's character has been placed by critics, was deplored, also the "habitual opposers" who make a habit of knocking any community enterprise. "Teach your boy the love of God and home and country. More cases of juvenile delinquency are due to the lack of proper influence or the wrong sort of influence in the home than to any other cause. In the lives of many fathers, there is too much auto and too little wheelbarrow, and in the lives of too many mothers, too much bridge and too little Bridget. I have heard men who would be ashamed in later years if you told them that they had encouraged dishonesty in their sons boast in their child's hearing of getting away with quantities of towels and soap from hotels, and I have seen a mother on a railway train slap her child because he told the conductor his age, and forced her to buy another ticket for him. The time will come when those children will be so mixed up about what is the right and the wrong time to tell the truth that they will be without proper moral conceptions of any sort."

"You should take a vital interest in your own children, and in the children of others who may need your help, in the boy who requires a friend, in the girl who is sliding down the wrong path, and to the women, I would say, don't help that girl just because you want to tell your ladies' aid society or your ladies' club all about it, and retail the items you have learned about the case."

"Start something in the community. There are never more than twenty or thirty people who start things in any community, and about half of that number go through with the undertaking, because only about that many can stand the criticism of the rest of us who stand around and knock them."

Increase in Juvenile Crime

Gymnasiums in the graded schools playgrounds for the children, wading pools for the kiddies, plenty of sandpiles and places to play in municipal skating rinks, were some of the community enterprises advocated by the speaker, who referred to the 52,360 children killed by automobiles in the United States and Canada last year, to the 400 people killed while trying to avoid running down children at play on the streets, and to the Canadian woman mutiliated for life through facial cuts from a stone hurled by a child through the window of her car. Alluding also to the increase in juvenile crime, during the last year to eighteen per cent. increase in crimes against the person, fifty per cent. increase in accidents caused while drivers of cars were under the influence of liquor and the thirty-three per cent. increase in violations of prohibition enactments, Captain Upton spoke of the figures which showed that seventeen out of twenty of the crimes committed in the Dominion last year were the work of people under sixteen years of age. That the average age of criminals in Canada was twenty-one years and seven months, with the United States average just one year lower, was the declaration of the speaker.

"Don't patronize the boys and girls Don't adopt a "holier than thou" attitude with them. I have never been in a community yet where you could not only take half the money that was spent here last year for bootleg whiskey, you would have the finest playgrounds anywhere."

Captain Upton spoke of the neglect of opportuuity and duty evidenced in some cases, where parents were glad to get rid of their children and send them to industrial homes on any pretext, of one instance where a mother was trying to think of some reason for putting her two boys in a reform school, because their stepfather refused to have them in the house, and spoke strongly of the influence that might be exerted by a good woman on her home and family.

Fine Musical Programme

A popular portion of the evening programme was the concert prelude by the members of the Laura Werno Ladies' Quartet, who also gave the entire entertainment of the afternoon The talented group of young ladies were received with a hearty response from their auditors, who applauded every number in a varied offering of violin, 'cello, piano and vocal numbers and readings.

In the afternoon, Miss Laura Werno the leader, gave a bright pianologue "Call the Doctor," Miss Bessie Andrus, soprano, sang the "Doll Song", from "The Tales of Hoffman' Miss Idah Naftzger gave a 'cello number, "Tarantella," with an encore in "The Last Rose of Summer," and Miss Dora Andreas, contralto, sang "Maybe", and "Sweet Little Norman". Several vocal quartets and instrumental trios were also a portion of the afternoon's programme.

In the evening, the opening number was a vocal quartet, in "Sweet Spring is Here," with the four pretty, melodious voices in an attractive selection ,whose encore was "In the Shadows." A violin solo with clear, smooth, artistic delivery and tone, was Borowski's "Adoration". An exceptionally lovely offering was a trio for piano, violin and 'cello, in an arrangement by Fritz Kreisler of "Londonderry Air," the strings bringing out the poignant sweetness of the fine-toned music, and a brief, gay encore for the three instruments was Schubert's "Moment Musical," followed by some popular dance music.

Miss Werno gave a much-appreciated reading, in the comments on a baseball game of a lady with a pronounced Irish accent, and an encore, "My Boy". The musical programme concluded with a vocal quartet, "Jingle Bells", and "The Year's at the Spring".

Yesterday morning, the third and concluding entertainment for the children was given when the Columbia Marionettes entertained the little boys and girls. The little mechanical dolls amused the children vastly with their presentation of the nursery-days story of Hans and Gretel, the lost children of the woods, and the romantic tale of the lovely Princess Snow White, with her fairy prince.

This evening, the concluding session of this year's Chautauqua course will be held, when an especially elaborate entertainment is promised in "An evening in Hawaii", a scenic production, with Vierra's Hawaiian musicians portraying the melody and rhythm of the South Sea Islands.

PENCIL MARKS DEFACE LADY ASTOR PORTRAIT

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(United Press)—Lady Astor's Common's portrait, which has caused a storm of controversy since it was hung in the corridor of the House of Parliament, was covered with a dark green canvas today to conceal the pencil marks with which unknown persons defaced it last night. There have been many objections to the hanging of a portrait of a living member of Parliament, contrary to custom, and assertions that the picture was "sneaked" in without the knowledge of the authorities.

Lord Astor assumed responsibility for placing the portrait in the House, and said the authorities had consented. He had already agreed to the removal of the picture to end the controversy.

Some persons marked the hands of the portrait with pencil scrawls.

BALLOT TO BE SIMPLE.

Rainey Says Ballot Shouldn't Be Cross Examination.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.— Canadian Press.)— In an open letter to the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario, Hon. W. E. Raney, former Attorney General, declares that the only question to be submitted to the electors of Ontario in the plebiscite in October next should be a simple one, "Are you in favor of prohibition." Mr. Raney gives the opinion that whatever answer is given by the people of Ontario to this question will give a definite indication to the Legislature and leave that body free to strengthen the present Ontario Temperance Act as may be thought desirable. The ballot paper, says Mr. Raney, should not be a "cross examination," for the electors.

EMOTION THWARTED INSTINCT.

That both psychic and physiological factors come into play in human emotion was the conclusion of Prof. J. W Bridges of McGill University, who harmonized the current theories of emotion championed by psychologists, in an address to the psychological section of the British Association to-day Ever since William James and his followers turned their attention to investigating the nature of human emotion, the subject has been one of the most hotly debated in the field of psychology, Prof. Bridges said, in showing that there are still points of difference to be reconciled in the views of the present leaders. Exponents of the "behavioristic school" in psychology reduce all questions of emotion to an objective account of what goes on in the physical organism when it experiences the sensation of anger or of sorrow, for example, and according to this view, the question resolves itself into a physiological process. "This attitude requires some modification", Prof. Bridges stated. "Emotion is a psycho-physiological response, which has a subjective as well as an objective side."

Emotion is similar to, but not identical with instinct, in Prof. Bridges' opinion. "Probably when instinct is thwarted, energy is diverted into other channels and appears as emotion", he concluded.

INSTINCTS IN TWO MAIN GROUPS.

Instincts can be divided into two main groups, in the opinion of William D. Tait, Experimental Psychologist of Harvard University, who addressed the psychology section of the British Association to-day. "There are two primary instincts which make for preservation of the race and of the individual", he said. "The former may be termed the sex instinct; the latter is the self instinct.

"They are mutually complimentary although either one may be very indistinct in some individuals.

"Other instincts with well marked emotional accompaniments may be considered as subsidiary to these two, and the expressions of the latter as dependent upon the particular structure which the organism may possess.

"The food instinct may be considered part of the self instinct; nest building appears part of the sex instinct; hunting may belong to both."

Curiosity and fear are secondary instincts under this scheme, according to Dr. Tait, while the instinct of acquisition is a derived instinct. "No instinct should be considered as either primary or secondary unless it has a well marked emotional attitude", he said. The exact basis on which instincts should be classified is still, however, a matter of debate among the psychologists, it would appear.

GLACIERS AT TORONTO.

Geological formations exposed in the vicinity of Toronto, being examples of the type of rocks laid down in the intervals between the great glacier invasions of the continent, are among the most interesting cross cuts of strata which scientists have explored, according to Prof. A. P. Coleman of the University of Toronto, who addressed geologists at the British Association to-day. Dr. Coleman told how the surface of the Toronto region consists of a series of alternating beds of boulder clay laid down by the ice of the glacial period, and of stratified sands and clays deposited under water when the glaciers had retreated to the north and lakes occupied the district. There are five sheets of boulder clay in all, Dr. Coleman said, with four interglacial deposits of sands and clays representing five different advances of the ice and four periods when the front had receded to the north, or perhaps had disappeared completely as at present. On the top of the last boulder clay lie the sand and gravels of the body of water formed after the last retreat, named Lake Iroquois, the predecessor of Ontario.

"The first of the interglacial deposits is perhaps the most interesting", Dr Coleman said. "From its excellent exposure here, it has been called the Toronto formation. It is much the most extensive and important interglacial formation in America.

"The remains of nearly 200 species of plants and animals have been well preserved in it, including numerous trees indicating a climate like that of Pennsylvania to-day."

Good sections of the interglacial beds are to be seen at the Don Valley brick yards, and also at Scarboro Heights, the scientist stated.

MAKE NITROGEN AVAILABLE.

Similarities in the construction of the molecules of carbon monoxide and nitrogen gases, is the development of research reported in the chemical section of the British Association to-day by W. A. Bone, professor of chemical technology at the Imperial College of Science. By exploding mixtures of air and carbon monoxide—familiar as "fire damp"—stored at high pressures in strong steel bombs, Prof. Bone has discovered that an unusual reaction on the nitrogen gas of the air is caused by the combination of the carbon monoxide with the oxygen to form carbon dioxide. It is well known that gaseous nitrogen, under ordinary conditions, is extremely lazy chemically speaking, and declines to take part in chemical reactions. It forms the inert four-fifths of the atmosphere, declining to take part in the economy of animals, and having little to do with either rocks or the oceans, and it is this characteristic of the gas which is utilized in the "nitrogen filled" electric bulbs.

The energy liberated by the sudden burning of the carbon monoxide appears to be in a form to which the nitrogen is particularly susceptible, according to Prof. Bone's researches, the result being that the nitrogen is awakened from its lethargy and combines with some of the remaining oxygen.

This phenomenon is peculiar to the burning of the carbon compound, and it is for this reason that similar configuration of the molecules of the nitrogen and carbon monoxide gases is assumed. The "activation" does not take place in the case of explosions of hydrogen and air, although the pressures before the explosion are the same as with monoxide, and the same residual temperature is obtained.

"The vibrational energy emitted when the one burns, is of such a quality as can be readily absorbed by the other, the two thus acting in resonance", the chemist explained. "The nitrogen becomes chemically activated in carbon monoxide-air explosions at high initial pressures, and in such a state, is able to combine with oxygen more readily than does nitrogen which has merely been raised to a correspondingly high temperature in a hydrogen-air explosion", he said.

Pressures as great as 100 atmospheres were used, in conducting the experiments.

The discovery may have an important bearing on the fixation of nitrogen for fertilizer purposes, it is pointed out. Nitrogen for agricultural purposes is derived chiefly at present from nitre beds and animal waste, but a small quantity has been produced successfully on a commercial scale by causing combination of the oxygen and nitrogen of the air through the agency of powerful electric sparks. Prof. Bone's technic would provide a simple method of persuading the two elements to combine, however, the chief raw materials for the process being natural gas, and the boundless atmosphere. Although he was not optimistic about the possibility of putting his process on a factory scale, the discovery is one which may come in for consideration when it becomes necessary to replace the natural sources of fertilizer nitrogen by artificial supplies, Prof. Bone indicated.

DISPUTE WARMS OVER BOUNDARY

Little Likelihood That Ulster Will Fall in With Government Pressure.

STATEMENTS CONFLICT

LONDON, August 7 (British United Press). — There seems to be little likelihood that Ulster will react to the Government pressure to appoint a member of the Boundary Commission before the legislation amending the Treaty passes the House of Commons.

Feeling throughout the North of Ireland is hardening owing to the encouragement given to the Unionist attitude here.

The statement is being widely and continuously circulated that the Free State is demanding the entire area of the Ulster counties in dispute, but this is warmly denied by Dublin.

The Minister of Justice of the Irish Free State has announced that their Government is not making any territorial demands.

The Freeman's Journal states that the Free State is "simply claiming judicial interpretation of the clause of the treaty by the appointed tribunal."

Further discussing the issue, the same journal says that the Free State has not motive of aggrandisement in its demands, and has "no desire to cripple the Northern Government."

It is freely stated by observers that the demands of Ulster and her fears that she will not obtain what she regards as the irreducible minimum before the Boundary Commission are slowly forcing the hands of Tyrone and Fermanagh and driving them into the arms of the Free State.

It is believed that Cosgrave intends to introduce a Bill immediately to ensure the passage of his amending measure in the Dail before further delay gives the Opposition a chance of strengthening their hands.

"Billy" Leeds' Troubles With His Down-and-Out Relations

How Hundreds of Unhappy In-Laws With No Money or Jobs Made Europe Quite Unbearable for the Young American Millionaire

Twelve—count 'em—twelve daughters and nieces of kicked-out King Constantine of Greece. And these are only a few of the titled girls who claim "Billy" as a cousin

"Billy" Leeds on his wedding day, with his bride, Princess Xenia, and the most important in-law of all—Xenia's mother, Grand Duchess Marie

WHY has young "Billy" Leeds decided to settle down with his bride in the land where he was born and where his shrewd old father's millions were piled up?

"Billy" himself says it is because both he and his wife, pretty little Princess Xenia, of Russia, think the United States the best country in all this partly green earth, and would rather live here than anywhere else.

But this sudden enthusiasm for American life seems rather surprising, in view of the fact that young Mr. Leeds has passed so much of his young manhood in Europe and that his late mother got along very nicely there for many years, both before and after her marriage to Prince Christopher of Greece.

And the gossips are whispering that while undoubtedly "Billy" is really very fond of America, there is quite a different reason for his quitting Europe and coming here to make a home for himself and his bride.

According to the rumors that are filtering across the Atlantic from London and the other European capitals, life in Europe has been made quite unbearable for "Billy" Leeds by the down-and-out condition of the swarm of titled in-laws whom he acquired through his mother's marriage, and later augmented very considerably through his own love match.

Nobody has ever taken the trouble to count up these relations by marriage, but the number must run high into the hundreds. Neither in Russia nor in Greece is there any tendency to race suicide, and in both countries families of eight or ten or even more children are nothing unusual.

This little army of relations whom the Leeds mother and son fastened on themselves when they married is now scattered over the length and breadth of Europe. There is hardly one of them who is not homeless, jobless and either quite destitute of money, or perilously near so.

The fortunes of war have swept away their positions in the government, their great estates and their ancestral jewels. Their high-sounding titles are all they have left, and these will not buy food or clothes or pay the rent. The countries where they once cut such a grand figure have no more use for them. In fact, in many cases they are forbidden to return there on penalty of death.

What more natural than for these poverty-stricken unhappy exiles to turn to their rich American kinsman by marriage to relieve their poverty and distress?

Why should they not look to this young millionaire when they need money to pay their hotel bills or get their furs out of pawn or buy the baby some shoes?

How could they fail to expect that this young hero from the land of plenty would tide them over until things are more favorable at home or until they can establish themselves somewhere else?

This, it is said, is exactly what most of them do expect and demand. And their demands are believed to have become so persistent and often so exorbitant that "Billy" Leeds finally decided he just couldn't live in Europe a minute longer.

It wasn't so bad while Princess Anastasia, the former Mrs. Leeds, was alive. She took on her own capable shoulders the burden of dispensing charity to the unfortunate in-laws, and her son had little idea what an unbelievable number of them there were or how much money they were everlastingly in need of. He found out quickly enough after his mother's death, for the whole lot of Greek and Russian poor relations promptly transferred their attentions to him.

As long as he remained in Europe there was no escaping them. Every capital and all the leading summer and winter resorts swarmed with them, and when "Billy" Leeds tried to get a few days' respite from their importunities by hiding himself and his bride away in some obscure, out-of-the-way place, some of the hard up in-laws were sure to follow there.

London, where young Leeds had planned to settle down with his bride in his magnificent gray stone mansion in Mayfair, was as full of them as every other large city. And among the most impecunious of those who have chosen this as their refuge are "Billy's" mother-in-law, Grand Duchess Marie, and his wife's sister, the former Princess Nina.

The latter and her husband are so poor that, in spite of the liberal aid they are believed to have received from the Leeds' pockets, they have not yet been able to afford a home large enough to hold a quarter of the wedding gifts they received.

But to the credit of Nina's young husband it should be said that he has had the courage and good sense to go to work. At last accounts he was doing his best to keep the home fires burning on the meager salary and commissions he received as salesman for a fashionable firm of interior decorators.

The in-laws who were unable to put their demands for help to "Billy" Leeds in person pursued him by telephone and telegraph, by wireless, cable and mail.

There were appeals from Grand Duke Hoozis for money to complete his children's education; from Grand Duchess Hoozat, who must have a few thousands to pay for a needed operation or die; and from this, that and the other one for all sorts of purposes. It is said that "Billy" Leeds's morning mail resembled that of the head of some great charity relief organization.

Now, all this was very embarrassing for the young millionaire. "Billy" Leeds is a generous, good-hearted fellow, and he was particularly anxious to do the right thing by his innumerable in-laws, since his mother had been so liberal with them.

In fact, the gossips are whispering that a great many of the young man's difficulties are due to Princess Anastasia having been overgenerous with her unfortunate relations. It is hinted that she spoiled a good many of them long before the war brought them to ruin.

"Billy" Leeds soon discovered that even the large income he draws from the trust fund his late father established would not be enough to begin to satisfy the demands of this enormous collection of down-and-out families. One great difficulty was the fact that, although for the most part absolutely penniless, a great many of them still insist upon living in much of the luxury they formerly enjoyed.

At first distracted young Mr. Leeds tried to be discriminating and hand out checks and cash and letters of credit only to the most deserving of his in-laws. But he soon saw that this would never do.

Those to whom he gave liberally wanted more, and those to whom he shut his pocketbook made more fuss than if he had given nothing at all. Also he found that the task of determining with any justice just who deserved aid and how much they deserved would be a job to keep more than one man busy for a lifetime.

Prince Chavchavadze, "Billy's" brother-in-law, who had to go to selling wallpaper to support his wife, Princess Nina (on the left)

The family trees with which "Billy" Leeds and his mother became linked through their marriages are so very old and so wide-branching that he was often perplexed to know just what relationship those who sought his aid bore to him and his wife and his stepfather, Prince Christopher. He was continually worried for fear he would turn down the appeal of some really close and deserving in-law and hand over a few thousand dollars to some impostor who had no legitimate claim to even the most distant relationship.

"Is Prince Ivan a third or only a fourth cousin?"

"Is Grand Duchess Elinka really your mother's aunt or only a friend of the family?"

"How many nephews and nieces has Prince Christopher when every nose is counted?"

Questions like these the young American is said to have been continually asking his wife. But even Xenia was unable to answer more than a few of them.

The forest of genealogical trees that her Greek and Russian relations present was too much for her, and, torn between her duty to her husband and the duty she felt she owed her down-and-out kinsfolk, she was still more perplexed and distressed by the situation than he.

What a complicated problem the combined families present can be seen from the fact that through his marriage young Leeds is related to the late Czar of Russia, the former royal house of Germany and the former crowned heads of Greece, as well as to the reigning royalties of England, Denmark and Rumania. Of course, the English, Danish, German and Rumanian connections are seeking no charity, but it's a different story with the Greeks and Russians. They are fast becoming the world's most distinguished beggars.

At last "Billy" Leeds grew brain and heart weary of the impossible task of trying to keep all his impoverished in-laws in funds and reasonably happy. Much as he likes Europe, he decided it would never do for a permanent home—at least not until his poor relations either go to the poorhouse or get on their financial feet.

So he shut up his London mansion, Spencer House, wound up all his affairs and set out with his pretty young wife for his native America.

But if Mr. Leeds thought he was going to rid himself of all his bothersome in-laws simply by crossing the Atlantic he must have had a sad awakening.

Although the Leeds' departure from England is said to have been very quickly and quietly arranged, at least one of the numerous relations, Prince Dmitri, managed to hear about it and to act accordingly. When "Billy" and Xenia went on board the liner on which they had engaged passage they found Dmitri occupying a stateroom close to theirs and all set to "see America" along with them.

And this was not all. According to reports received here, among the first familiar faces "Billy" Leeds encountered when he was introducing his wife to New York's Fifth Avenue were those of Prince and Princess Youssoupoff, the latter another of young Mrs. Leeds's unfortunate kinswomen.

The Youssoupoffs had come to America about the same time as the Leedses, to attempt to rehabilitate their fortunes by disposing of valuable jewels and by trying to recover $500,000 worth of paintings which the Prince pawned some time ago to Joseph E. Widener, the Philadelphia millionaire, and over whose final ownership a serious misunderstanding has arisen.

Many suspect that it may have been these two meetings which inspired "Billy" Leeds to make his stay in the United States proper a very brief one for the present. At any rate, after he and his wife had paid their respects to his American relations—all well-to-do, as he must feel thankful to know—they hurried straight across the continent and over the Pacific to Honolulu.

In far-away Hawaii, Mr. Leeds announces, he and Xenia will pass the winter. There evidently he thinks he will be able to find a measure of peace that even New York does not at present afford.

But will he find that peace? Will not the appeals of the unhappy in-laws who are believed to have made life in Europe quite unendurable follow him and charming Xenia even across the Pacific and make their laments heard above the wailing of the ukuleles?

It's a hard matter to escape such a large and persistent bunch of poor relations as "Billy" Leeds has.

SWEET VICTORY IN BELLEVILLE SIXTH STRAIGHT

Petes Out in Front of Second Half With Full Game Over Trunks.

WON IN NINTH, 5-4.

Harrison's Single Sent Legon Across With Winning Run —Bitter Contest.

Coming from behind after a bad start and finally shoving the winning tally over in the last frame, the battling Petes clawed their way to the top of the Central Ontario heap and hung up their sixth victory in a row by beating Belleville 5 runs to 4 in the Quinte City yesterday before a large and far from friendly crowd.

The fight for the second half honors is far from being over and the Petes are far from regarding it as so, but yesterday's sweet victory leaves the Solomon aggregation in a very favourable position in the race.

They are now a full game in front with but three games left to play and in the Petes case two of these fixtures are on their home lot, one with Belleville and one with Oshawa, while the Trunks have but one engagement in Belleville.

Yesterday's battle was a bitterly fought affair.

There was no love lost between the two teams and the Belleville crew grew very peevish as the tide turned against them, several of them being guilty of acts that were far from sportsmanlike while the rooting of the Belleville fans was even more rabid than usual.

But these things only helped to make the victory the sweeter.

It was a peculiar game.

At the start Heckman looked to be in for a sound beating for his speed was lacking and his control none too good. The result was that the Trunks combined a walk and five singles for three runs in the first inning and the crowd gave the Petes hurler the merry ha! ha!

For the balance of the game the losers collected only three singles and one run, Heck using his curve to such good advantage that Belleville could do little but hoist flies or hit easy grounders.

The Petes twirler took a world of abuse from the hostile fans, stuck to his guns and finally had the satisfaction of walking off the mound victorious.

"Peeney" Peeved.

Johnny Oulette receiving his second beating of the week took it without showing many visible signs of joy. To be precise Johnny looked decidedly cross at certain stages of the proceedings and his battery mate Peeney Mills was so peeved that on one occasion he threw down the big mitt and said that he was through.

Oulette has pitched better games against the Petes, who yesterday touched him up for nine hits while he walked three and hit two in addition wild pitched one run home and had a costly error on a bunt giving the Petes another counter. His support was good, except for Williams who had three misplays at third, one of them being of service to the winners.

Tied in Eighth.

The Petes fought every inch of the journey. Behind 3 to 1 at the end of the first, they climbed up on even terms in the third and took the lead in the fourth. The figures remained at 4 to 3 with the visitors in front until the Trunks tied it up in the eighth, only to have the Petes come back in the final frame and drive home the "million dollar" counter.

Red Legon and Hap Harrison were the heroes of the ninth. It was the left fielder who with one out, slammed a double to left centre and it was the big first baseman who, with two down and two strikes on himself, shot a clean single into centre to send the winning counter in.

Jimmy Hall was another of the Petes in the limelight. The young centre fielder smothered no fewer than seven flies during the engagement and the middle suburb was a fatal spot for Belleville hitters. In addition he had two hits in four trips to the plate and altogether had a most useful day.

Holyman and Legon contributed some nice fielding, the latter's running catch of Ross's hard hit liner in the eighth being a feature.

For Belleville, sparkling plays were furnished by Ross and Weir. The centre fielder pulled down a drive from Harrison that started like a home run and Weir's catch of Heckman's high fly was big league.

Ahead—And Then Behind.

The Petes momentarily took the lead in the first inning. Holyman struck out but Legon drew a pass, stole second cleanly, went to third while Weir was tossing out Swanston and scored when Oulette obligingly wil dpitched a hook past Mills. Harrison was hit on the elbow with a pitched ball but died stealing.

Belleville had a big inning in their half. Heckman's speed was missing on the go-in and he had difficulty in finding the plate for Ross who walked. The Trunks got a break on the next batter when Weir slashed a hard one at Holyman that might have ended in a double play but instead "bad hopped" itself into a single off the shortstop's knee. Peeney Mills lined a single to left scoring Ross. Harry Mills singled over second and when W. Mills ran Weir off third the Belleville shortstop was trapped and finally tagged out by Swanston. W. Mills reached third and H. Mills second on the play. Hagerman fanned and the worst looked to be over but Williams shot a single into right centre scoring the Mills brothers and Meagher followed with another safety into right, the fifth hit off Heckman. Casey wound up the frame by lining to Holyman but the Trunks were 3 to 1 in front.

Heckman got a life on Williams' fumble to start the second. Johnston bunted a foul to Mills. Collins flied to Williams who threw high to first trying to double Heckman and the Petes pitcher reached second. Meagher made a nice catch of Hall's good bid for a hit.

For Belleville Oulette flied to Hall, Ross bounded to Heckman and Weir's short fly to centre was taken on the run by Hall.

Tied in the Third.

The Petes tied it up in the third. Turner was called out on strikes. Holyman singled to left and stole second, fooling Meagher with a beautiful slide. Legon was called out on a foul ball which struck him while standing in the batter's box, but the Petes put up a strenuous argument and Umpire Hallinan after consulting his fellow arbitrator Benson allowed Legon to complete his trem at bat. He rolled to Williams whose throw pulled Mills off first. Legon htole second. Swanston was hit, filling the bases. Harrison struck out, the third one called but Heckman supplied a passage for the tieing runs by rifling a single between short and third scoring Holyman and Legon. Johnston walked, again filling the bases, but Collins bounded to Oulette.

In Belleville's half W. Mills flied to Hall in deep centre. H. Mills was hit. Hagerman rolled to Holyman who made a fast play on a slow roller. Williams' drive to left found Legon waiting for it.

The Solomon outfit shot to the front in the fourth. Hall opened hostilities with a single to right and Turner walked. Holyman moved the pair along with a perfect sacrifice and Legon squeezed Hall in with a bunt which Oulette fumbled, the batter being also safe. When Legon stole second Turner took too big a lead off third and Mills' quick throw to Williams resulted in his being run down. This play lost a run as Swanston followed with a single to left, Legon being held at third. Harrison's tap in front of the plate was fielded by Mills who got Legon coming home.

In Belleville's half Meagher scratched a hit on a roller in front of the plate and Casey walked. Oulette flied to Hall and the young centre fielder also gathered in Ross's smash. A sun shower drove the teams to cover for a minute or two and when play was resumed Weir rolled to Holyman, forcing Casey at second.

Heckman opened the fifth with a single through short and Johnston sacrificed him to second. Collins' long high fly was nailed by Ross. Hall singled to left, Heckman stopping at third. Hall was thrown out stealing.

W. Mills first up for the Trunks lined to centre, Hall making a fine catch of a hard hit ball for his sixth put out. Harrison gathered in H. Mills' smash down the first base line and Hagerman fanned.

In the sixth Turner by good sprinting beat out a roller to H. Mills. Holyman and Legon moved him around to third on sacrifice bunts but Swanston was tossed out by Meagher.

For Belleville Williams and Meagher were tossed out by Heckman. Casey got a life on Holyman's high throw but Oulette rolled to Holyman, who stepped on second to force out Casey.

Some Nice Fielding.

Ross robbed Harrison of a homer by a fine catch of his hard hit ball to deep centre. On top of that play Weir ran far into left to gather in Heckman's fly and Meagher made a good play on Johnston's hard smash to second.

In the Quinte half of the frame Ross walked and Collins mussed up Weir's sacrifice bunt, leaving two on. W. Mills, however, rolled one to Holyman who tossed to Johnston, forcing out Weir and when Mills rounded first and started for second Johnston's peg to Harrison nailed him before he could get back, completing a very timely double. Harry Mills popped weakly to Collins, leaving Ross with the tieing run on third.

The Petes went out in order in the eighth, Collins rolling to Williams, Hall being called out on strikes and Turner flying to Hagerman.

The Trunks amid wild excitement sewed up the game in their half. Hagerman started with a single over second. Williams flied to Hall and Meagher was called out for bunting foul on his third strike. Casey, however, walked and Oulette did his bit to save his own game by singling to centre, scoring Hagerman. Ross drove viciously to left but Legon came up on the run and made a beautiful catch.

Win in the Ninth.

It was up to tthe Petes to win out in the final frame. The inning opened badly when Holyman struck out but Legon crashed one to left centre for two bases. Swanston expired on strikes. Legon went to third on a passed ball and the verdict was up to Hap Harrison. The big fellow with two strikes on him placed a pretty single into centre and Legon carried the winning counter over. Harrison died stealing.

Belleville got a good start in their half when Collins fumbled Weir's tap and W. Mills sacrificed him to second. However, Harry Mills rolled feebly to Johnston and Hagerman hit another of similar type to the same player whose throw to Harrison terminated the game.

Alex. Kay's Protegees Pounded the Ball For 23 Hits.

Max Board's Kiwanis team, a juvenile outfit from Lindsay, played the Curlers here yesterday afternoon the locals winning 12 to 1.

"Inky" Woods struck out eight of the first nine men to face him, and the other tipped out to the catcher. Woods then eased up and Lindsay began hitting the ball. Alex Baird had eight chances and only mussed up one opportunity. The Lindsay shortstop was the shining light on the visitor's line up.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7 .—Montreal police carried off the honors of the day in the annual field day of the Ottawa Police Amateur Athletic Association at Lansdowne Park here yesterday afternoon. Maranda of the Montreal police force won the most honours having 14 points to his credit, Lajoie, Montreal, came second with ten points and Dodds, Toronto, had eight points.

One of the added attractions of the day was the display given by Eugene Pilon of the Montreal police force with his champion "Canada" a police dog of international fame. The animal with seeming uncanny intelligence defended his master against revolver attacks, climbed a fence 11 feet high and performed other feats.

Prizes were presented by Private Desmond Burke, of the G. C. F.G. winner of the King's Prize at the Bisley shoot.

BIG SPORT DAY WAS HELD BY A MADOC SOCIETY

Weekly Half Holiday Gave Opportunity to Raise Fund For Exhibition Ground.

BIG PROGRAMME.

Horse Races and Amateur Sports Provided Splendid Entertainment.

The weekly half-holiday yesterday was enlivened by the program of sports held at the Fair grounds under the auspices of the Agricultural Society. The purpose of the celebration was to help pay off the debt on the Exhibition grounds which were purchased two years ago this summer. Situated about one mile from the village on the Queensboro road, the spot chosen was well fitted for Fall Fairs. Springs of pure water flow through one section of the grounds, which is a great convenience for watering the cattle brought for exhibition. The grounds are large affording plenty of space for the half-mile race-track which has been constructed, for a very fair base-ball diamond and the buildings, besides leaving room for the crowds to move freely about, and to park their cars. So far one general building has been erected, a judges' stand by the race course ticket-office at the gate and stalls for the cattle. The intention is to increase the number of buildings for the exhibits as time and finances permit.

Weather Uncertain

Yesterday the crowd and consequently the receipts were not quite up to expectations. This was partly the fault of the weather which was very uncertain all morning with a shower a little before noon.

About one o'clock however, old Sol decided to favor the day and made the warmth of his influence felt Shortly after two the horse races began. Some of the owners of the animals were: Messrs. Garrison, Frankford; McCuaig and Armstrong Havelock; Sherman and Gifford, Plainfield; Wellman, Marmora and Coulter, Thomasburg. The 2.27 class stood as follows—

1 Leo Stewart	1	1	1
3 Sy Mack	3	3	3

The 2.40 class:

Peter Raven	1	1	1
Dolly K.	2	2	2
Tim Alert	3	4	3
Nellie Patch	4	3	4

Football Game

A very good game of foot-ball was played between Cooper and Harts, Cooper winning by a small margin.

An exhibition game of baseball was played between Deloro and Tweed, both teams doing very nice work. The score was in favor of Deloro.

An amusing foot race by boys under fifteen gave the spectators a hearty laugh. At the time of starting two hens were loosened and immediately flew along the track and over the fence with the boys in hot pursuit. Finally Moorecroft of Madoc and Lafontaine of Tweed, were the lucky captors and went proudly off holding their prisonsrs firmly by the legs.

During the last half-hour of the program a thunder- storm was sending forth its threatening growls and though it finally passed around it had the effect of scattering the people promptly. None the worse for their alarm, however, a large number gathered in the evening and filled the Masonic Hall to capacity for the Arlie Marks show. Following it, there was a dance in the Armouries to complete the day.

The Gathering of the Mortons.

An interesting event took place yesterday in the holding of the Morton family picnic at James Haggerty's Grove, West Huntingdon. Seven Morton brothers came out from Ireland and settled in this country, and now their descendants have instituted this picnic as a means of cementing the family ties, and of meeting the scattered relatives at least once a year. A much larger crowd attended this year than last, as last year not half the people were notified in time. Among those attending from Madoc this year are: Mr. Robert Allt, Mr. and Mrs. Lough and family, Mrs. Comerford, Mrs. Cleveland Mon, Mrs. Wm. Allt and family and Miss Margaret Kerr. Mr. and Mrs J. Hailstone are also members of the Morton family, but were unable to be present at the gathering.

Home on Vacation.

Miss Jennie Wright, sister of Mr. George Wright, is home on an extended vacation. Miss Wright has not been in Madoc for a number of years, as she has held a responsible position as buyer for the Johnston-Walker Co., Limited, of Edmonton. Her many friends here are pleased to welcome her back again.

Mrs. J. S. Headry of Perth, is the guest of Miss Sinclair.

Mrs. Campbell of Clinton, is visiting her sister, Miss Ida Brown.

Mr. Herbert Tudhope, of Toronto, is spending his holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Milne.

Dr. Young of Toronto, president of the Medical Association of Ontario, is at his summer home at Mora Lake with his family.

Mrs. John Sherman, Miss Nora and Master Carl, of Toronto, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George West.

Mrs. Wallbridge and Miss Wallbridge, of Toronto, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Wallbridge.

Mrs. Kirby of Fuller, returned home to-day after a short visit with her mother, Mrs. J. Stewart.

School Closes.

The summer Model school closes to-day and the girls who have brightened the streets for the last month will be very much missed.

REGATTA HELD FOR CHILDREN

The second annual regatta for children at Juniper Island, Stoney Lake, was held Wednesday afternoon. In every particular it exceeded last year's. The crowd was more numerous and so were the entries. A ten-minute downpour of rain provided an unwelcome overture, but the afternoon turned out fair and favorable.

The results of the races were as follows:

OSHAWA DROPS GAME BY A RUN TO THE PONIES

Win Was Second in the Second Half That Kingston Won.

MORRISON PITCHED.

Ponies Kicked Out Twelve Hits To the Motor Town Six.

KINGSTON, Aug. 7.—(Special to The Examiner.)—Kingston won its second game in the second half here last night when the Ponies defeated Oshawa five to four in a rather listless encounter. Dainty was not with Oshawa, and Morrison, erstwhile shortstop, was doing mound duty. Kelly hurled for the Ponies.

The twelve hits of Kingston, compared with the Oshawa six, is a fair estimate of the game. Kelly did not exert himself and in the seventh the visitors found him for four hits, one of them for two bases. Then he pulled himself together and started to pitch ball.

Compeau, the Kingston shortstop, had nine chances, but lost one of them when he made a bad throw. Cherry did some fine fielding for the locals, as did Daley in left. Cherry had a perfect day at bat, with a walk, two singles and a triple in his four trips. "Jackie" Broad, Oshawa's youthful utility, collected a triple and a double off Kelly and scored two runs.

The line-up of the spark plugs was generally twisted around, Walter Fair appearing at third, Ward at short and Palmer on second. Kingston worked a double steal for a run in the sixth, Purvis and Rickman doing the stunt, while the Fair brothers retaliated with the same thing in the seventh.

Kingston's first baseman, Purvis, continued to show the improvement evident since "Knotty" Lee took him in hand.

BELLEVILLE NOW LOOKS FOR HELP FROM PRESIDENT

Mr. Duff Obligingly Postpones Kingston Fixture and Cancels Petes' Game.

NOT SETTLED YET.

Peterboro Fans Will See a League Game on Holiday, Anyway.

Apparently Belleville is trying to play every card in their attempt to win the second half honours for following yesterdays' defeat at the hands of the Petes, word was received this morning that President Duff of the Central League who is a resident of Belleville had postponed the Belleville-Kingston game scheduled for Kingston to-morrow night until Monday this knocking out the Belleville visit to Peterboro on Civic Holiday.

Apparently the idea is to give Oulette a longer rest before tackling the Ponies in Kingston and to post pone the game with Peterboro until the end in the hope that the Trunks may yet be able to wrest the decision from the Solomon crew.

When the Belleville fixture was rained out here two weeks ago it was understood that the game would be played here on Peterboro's Civic Holiday. This arrangement was confirmed by Secretary Nott when he visited Peterboro last Saturday and the umpires were notified. The Peterboro club has its advertising printed and everything was set until this morning.

The Peterboro management is putting up a strenuous complaint against the sudden shift in the arrangement and the matter will not be definitely decided until to-night.

Should President Duff have his way, however there will be a League game on Civic Holiday nevertheless as the Oshawa fixture will be changed to that date.

The Petes go to Oshawa on Saturday their last scheduled away from home game.

As a result of yesterday's game, the League standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Peterboro	7	2	.778
Belleville	6	2	.667
Oshawa	4	6	.400
Kingston	2	8	.200

CAMPBELLFORD WAS SHORT OF PLAYERS

For First Time in History the Trent Town Couldn't Muster a Team.

CAMPBELLFORD Aug. 7 — For the first time since its organization the Campbellford Baseball team was unable to muster nine men for the game with Colborne yesterday. Pitcher Scott has a sore arm, Holmes the second baseman is laid up, and other members of the team were out of town. Only four regular players reported for duty, Hume, Eggleson, Ibey and Poyser.

Unless Colborne consents to play the game on some future date it will go to that team by default.

THIS IS A FAKE

Lloyd George Denounces the Agreement Made With Soviets—House Amazed.

LONDON, August 7. Canadian Press. — "This is a fake—a contract in which every essential figure is left blank, exclaimed former Premier Lloyd George, in the House of Commons last night, in the course of a sharp criticism of the proposed agreement with Soviet Russia.

His phrase is endorsed by a majority of the morning newspapers, which fully share in amazement with which Conservatives and most of the Liberals received the announcement by Arthur Ponsonby that a commercial treaty and a general treaty had been arranged with the Soviets.

Favorable comment is found only in the Daily Herald, the Labor organ, the Daily News and the Westminster Gazette.

CRICKET NOTES

The members of De Laval C.C. are requested to turn out at the Exhibition Grounds, Saturday afternoon, at 2.30 when a game is assured. At the conclusion, a team will be selected to play against Peterboro C.C. Monday forenoon.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

"What has become of the fast ball?"

Ed Walsh, one of the greatest pitchers that ever stepped on the rubber, recently made that remark to me.

"In the old days the fast ball was the most used of all deliveries," continued Walsh, "yet the other day in a pitchers' battle between two major league clubs I don't believe either pitcher threw over 20 fast ones."

Walsh believes that pitchers are making a vital mistake in passing up the use of the fast ball for the new-fangled stuff.

Incidentally he blames the freak styles for the lack of control that is now the prevailing fault of most pitchers.

The former White Sox star ridicules the generally accepted belief that fast-ball pitching would be soft for the batters with the lively ball now in use.

Cy Young, whose record of 500 major league victories will probably never be equaled, expressed a similar opinion of that of Walsh's in a recent discussion of pitchers past and present.

Young achieved fame largely through the use of a fast ball. It was his best asset.

The freak deliveries, such as the knuckle ball and others of that type, were unknown to Young. He had a fair curve, little or no change of place, but plenty of "swift" on his fast one.

Depending almost entirely on the fast ball, with the curve mixed in occasionally, Young was able to establish many pitching records.

Most of the other great pitchers of the past and present depended largely on the fast ball, Walter Johnson for instance.

Yet, despite the admitted value of a fast ball, pitchers at present are passing it up to a great extent.

The impression prevails among pitchers that a fast ball diet today would not be successful, due to the lively ball. Old-time pitchers scoff at the belief.

With the present day pitchers the fast ball is merely a weapon, a thrust used merely to remind the batsman that the pitcher working has plenty of speed.

Knowing that it is largely used as a threat the batsman lets it go by, crowds the plate and seeks to pick on the other offerings.

Like Ed Walsh and Cy Young, I am of the opinion that the game would be helped by a revival of fast-ball pitching. It is a colorful style, carries a punch.

The fan likes the pitcher with the fast-ball punch as much as the batsman with the home-run wallop.

BALL GAME.

The Mackey-Cognawaga game on Friday evening will be played at the Exhibition grounds and not at the Riverside Park as announced last night. This is the first game of the play off for the league championship, the winner to go into the O.A.B.A. finals.

Damp sawdust sprinkled on a dusty floor before sweeping will prevent the dust from rising.

LABOR COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Favor Free Text Books For Schools—Discuss the Peck Cup To Be Played For on Labor Day.

WELL ATTENDED.

A well-attended meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held in the Labor Hall, George Street, last evening, and a large amount of business was disposed of. A communication was read from Miss Jessie Stevens, of Bermondsey, London, England, who is touring Canada in the interests of the Labor movement, and was proffering her services at a proposed open meeting to be held in the fall, if it could be arranged. Springfield Typographical Union requested the Council to call to the attention of the members of the affiliated unions that publications printed by the Crowell Publishing Co., of Springfield, Ohio, were being turned out under unfair conditions, and requested the members to refrain from purchasing the journals having quite a large sale in Canada.

Free Text Books.

A communication was received dealing with the subject of free text books in the public schools, and the members were all in favor of same. A discussion arose in regard to the Peck trophy, which is being played for under the auspices of the Peterboro Football Association, and it was found that an agreement was signed by last year's cup-winners to the effect that the trophy would be returned by August 16, so that it could be presented to the victors in this year's competition, the final for which has to be played on Labor Day.

Other business was dealt with, and the Council adjourned, to meet again on August 20, the next regular meeting night.

LAKEVIEWS PLAY A TORONTO TEAM

Fast Game Will Be Staged on Riverside Park Saturday Afternoon at 2.45.

Many fans who have been waiting for a long time to see the Lakeviews, last year's junior Ontario champions, in action against a fast team, will be given that opportunity on Saturday afternoon, when the St. Christopher Juniors of Toronto, and League leaders of the T.A.B.A, will clash with the local team at the Riverside Park, at 2.45. There will be no Central league game here and the fans should turn out and give the boys the once over.

The St. Christopher gang are a highly recommended team and are picked as the winners of the Toronto Junior League, which plays very fast ball. Last year the Toronto winners were not in the O.B.A.A. finals, but this year they expect to carry off the honours. This game on Saturday will give the fans an idea what kind of a team the Lakeviews are, and with Frank Whitehouse in the best shape possible the Lakeviews should come through with a win, as they have at present a much stronger team than last year, while last season they walked away with the best team in the province.

A trip to Toronto, Ottawa or Niagara Falls, or any other place that is off any distance is very costly and and if the club that has to make these trips hasn't any money on hand it goes very hard on the persons who is managing the team. If there is not enough money in the club to pay the expenses the remainder comes out of the pocket of the manager. This is an opportunity to turn out and root for the boys that will be representing the city of Peterboro in a few days when they start into the finals.

KINGSTON PARTY RAN INTO DITCH

Lightning Flash Blinded the Driver, Who Lost Control of Automobile.

KINGSTON, August 7 (Special to The Examiner). — The storm last night was responsible for an automobile accident on the Gananoque road.

Mis Florence Pollitt, of this city, was driving to Kingston with a party, when the driver lost control of the car during a flash of lightning and the automobile went into the ditch.

Miss Pollitt suffered a broken leg, and other members of the party escaped with minor injuries.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

Cars Hit Head On, On the Chemong Road—Nobody Hurt.

John Killen, accompanied by Francis and Edward Harrington, of Ennismore, when driving north on the Chemong Road, and while on his own side of the road, was hit by a south-bound car driven by William H. Elmhirst of Indian River, accompanied by a young man and two ladies.

Mr. Killen's car was taken that night to Mr. Bell's garage in Bridgenorth for repairs, while the other car was towed to a garage in Peterborough. Fortunately the occupants escaped uninjured.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

"HOODMAN BLIND" FIRST PRODUCED IN PRINCESS THEATRE, LONDON. BELLEW STARRED IN PLAY.

Intensely interesting melodrama is to be found in "Hoodman Blind," the play by Henry Arthur Jones and Wilson Barrett, which William Fox has produced in film form under the direction of John Ford. This picture is now running for three days at the Regent Theatre.

The story of "Hoodman Blind" calls for an elaborate scenic equipment and a particularly able acting company. The play was produced first in London at the Princess Theatre, Auguust 18, 1885, with Wilson Barrett in the leading male role. On November 30, of the same year, it was put on in New York by Lester Wallack at his famous theatre at the corner of Broadway and Thirteenth street, Kyrle Bellew being the Jack Yeulette of the cast. In later years this accomplished actor toured the world as a co-star with Mrs. James Brown Potter. In the Fox screen version of the play the part of the hero falls to David Butler.

In the Wallack company the dual role of Nance and Jess was given to the lovely and talented Annie Robe. For the Fox cast, Gladys Hulette has been selected.

One of the great acting roles of the play is that of the "heavy" Mark Lezzard. George Clark, an actor with a wide range of experience and known for the strength and artistic finish of his impersonations, added largely to his fame by is skilful handling of the part. Frank Campeau, known for his long line of screen characterizations, is Mr. Clarke's successor. He has exchanged the rough and ready garments of the western badman for the correct dress of a respected member of society, Lezzard being "under cover" until exposed by his own double-dealing.

AT THE ROYAL.

"EXCITEMENT" AT ROYAL.

When six men love one girl there is bound to be excitement. Six nice young men an their minds made up to win Nina Lyons—what was the poor girl to do? Here's a picture that typifies the average modern girl —full of fast action, clean comedy and plenty of excitement. The programmes at the Royal are steadily improving in quality, and the management assures us that "Excitement" is one of the comedy hits of the year. It starts to-day for the balance of the week.

FREE CANDY FOR THE KIDDIES EVERY MATINEE AT THE ROYAL.

Pal, the wonder dog, in "Deliver the Goods" is a comedy that the little ones will not forget. It is also on the programme to-day with "Excitement," also Fred Thompson, the famous athlete, in "The Eagle's Talons." A bag of candy is given free to every child attending the matinees.

BUSTER KEATON'S BIG FEATURE COMING

Prepare yourself for a really hilarious evening. Buster Keaton in his newest Metro picture "Sherlock Jr." is coming to the Royal Theatre for three days beginning Monday. The star's latest effort is described as a "nutt" comedy in several million episodes that fizz with concentrated pep and are flavored with unlimited touches of humor.

Buster plays the part of a small-town movie theatre helper who yearns for the glory of Hollywood and the hand of "Hollywood's Sweat heart," a pampered, but pulchritudinous, darling. He realizes all of his desires, and a few more for good measure, but in a delirious way that promises a hogshead of fun for the spectators.

"Sherlock Jr.," is presented by Joseph M. Schenck through Metro, and was directed by Keaton himself. The story was evolved by Jean Havez Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman.

The Old Order Changeth Giving Place To New

Time was when women were thought of as the weaker vessel, and it is sometimes heard of a lady fainting, as if it were her prerogative—Men fainting! Never!

But all this has changed with the new order of bobbed hair which appears to have strengthened the female race in direct contrast to history, which states that Samson lost his strength when shorn of his locks.

Yesterday, one of our young ladies stepped into a local barber shop to have her locks trimmed, and while there rendered first aid to a man, who had fainted in the next chair.

It is left to the reader's imagination whether cutting the gentleman's hair or the heat of the day made him faint. Without arguing the point, is this queer incident a foreshadow of a new era? At any rate, it makes one wonder if the men of the country are getting weaker and the women stronger, and whether "first aid" will be part and parcel of our tonsorial establishments, in the days to come.

MOHAWK VICTORS.

Defeated the Mervin All Stars By Score of 4 To 0.

Last night the Bonner-Worth field was the scene of a clash between the Mohawks and the Mervin All-Stars. The Mohawks played a snappy game. Creary turned in a no-hit no-run game. The Mohawks bunched their hits off the All-Stars pitcher, The Mohawks' infield turned in several plays. S. Adamson and Crary had home runs. Gange had several bad errors.

BURNBRAE MAN DIED TUESDAY

Herbert Ketcheson, Whose Father Donated the Land For Burnbrae Church, Passed Away.

AT BLOOMFIELD.

BURNBRAE, August 7. — Word has reached here of the death at Bloomfield, near Picton, of Herbert Ketcheson, who passed away at his home in that place on Tuesday evening after a long illness.

The deceased was born on the Ketcheson homestead between Burnbrae and Menie, 76 years ago, and was a son of one of the first settlers in the district.

It was his father who donated the land upon which St. Andrew's Church and manse at Burnbrae are located.

The late Mr. Ketcheson was a progressive farmer. He left this district twenty years ago, and had resided at Bloomfield ever since.

He is survived by his wife and by four brothers, William of Chicago, Robert, Gilbert and James of Burnbrae district. The latter has been assessor for the township of Seymour for a number of years.

One widowed sister, Mrs. Rockwell, who keeps house for their brother Gilbert, also survives.

Mrs. Rockwell is president of the society that has made the Burnbrae Cemetery one of the most beautiful resting-places of the dead in Ontario.

Storm Was Inopportune.

Last Night's Electrical Disturbance, With Accompanying Rain, Held Up Harvesting.

TORONTO, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Last night's electrical storm general over the Central counties of Ontario, while not spectacular came at most inopportune tim e for the farmers of Toronto district who are becoming increasingly anxious at the long delay in haying and harvesting operations. Fall wheat is uncut on many farms and what is cut is standing unharvested.

Reports from many points indicate that property damage as a result of the storm was practically neglible.

LOCK MAKERS WIN.

Lefty Donnelly Won Second Battle For His Team on Tuesday.

"Lefty" Donnelly, on the mound for the Lock Works on Tuesday night, pulled through with a great victory over the Bankers, with Frank Whitehouse on the mound, when he piloted his team to a 7 to 0 victory. He is coming along in leaps and bounds, and last week he won a 6 to 2 victory over Herbie Wolff and his gang of sluggers from the Westclox. With Whitehouse on the mound, the Bankers were picked as easy winners over the Lock Makers, but the tables changed and Donnelly whiffed them in the old groove at a mile a minute and won his game handily, while the players behind Whitehouse gave him very ragged support.

ENGINEER WAS AWAKE.

Freight Train Engineer Slammed on Brakes to Save Child's Life.

MONTREAL, August 7. — A report made to the C.P.R. covering an inquiry into the cause of delay of a freight train at Versailles last Sunday has uncovered an act of heroism on the part of the fireman of the train, J. A. Griffin of this city.

When approaching Versailles at a fairly high rate of speed, the engineer saw what he thought to be a newspaper fluttering in front of the train. Coming to within a few hundred feet it was seen to be a child. The engineer applied the emergency brakes, while Griffin crawled along the running board, and though nearly jerked off the engine by bumping of the train under the brakes, he managed to push the child to safety between the track and the platform of the station. When the train was stopped the child was found to be unharmed under the cylinder of the engine. The youngster was not yet two years old.

Several of the members of the local police force took part with Provincial Constable N. F. Both men were finally rounded up, and taken to Cobourg by the county constable to await trial.

Small Hope For Moffatt

MIDLAND, Aug. 7 — (Canadian Press). Hospital authorities said this morning that the condition of J. G. Mrs. Moffatt is with her husband.

PETERBOROUGH IS ADVERTISED

Wiring System Originated by Manager H. O. Fisk, of Utilites, Gains Much Publicity.

BEST METHOD.

Peterborough is getting considerable gratuitous advertising these days in one way and another, and not the least of these are two pictures, showing one of the fine business streets before and after the electrical re-construction work had been completed.

The pictures are being broadcasted from coast to coast by one of the makers of the best pole line hardware on the market to-day, and besides appearing on circulars are being printed in such magazines as interest municipalities, engineers, and manufacturers and buyers of all classes of merchandise.

Outside the advertising value of the photographs of George Street, a more valuable and orceful fact is the originating of the system advertised by a Peterborough man, H. O. Fisk, manager of the Utilities Commission here.

It is claimed by those who advertise the system that this method of wiring will carry the greatest amount of current, with the least amount of copper.

This means efficiency. It will also be noted that during the last very severe ligtning storm this particular system was not affected in the least, much to the satisfaction of merchants and others.

While Mr. Fisk does not gain any personal credit through the advertising of the system of wiring he originated, he has brought a great deal of the best kind of publicity to the progressiveness of Peterborough.

CANADIANS ARE NOW RETURNING

Official Figures Show That Workmen Have Returned in Large Numbers To Native Land.

FAVORABLE BALANCE.

TORONTO, August 7. — Canadian Press. — Contrary to a statement made by 'Labour,' the official organ of the United States Labor Unions, that large numbers of Canadians are crossing the border because there is lack of work in Canada, recent statements here, based on official Canadian immigration figures, are to the effect that many Canadian workmen who left Canada last year to work in the States have returned to the homeland this year. Outside of the tourist traffic, figures recently published showed that more Canadians were now returning to Canada than were leaving for the States.

SAYS A WITNESS GUILTY PERJURY

Defense Counsel Shouted His Charge in Hearing of the Franks' Slayers To-day.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—The introduction of lay witnesses by the defence in seeking mitigation of punishment for Nathan F. Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed murderers of Bobbie Franks, brought from Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, the shouted charge that one of them "had committed deliberate perjury." Miss Lorraine Nathan, "school-day" friend of Loeb was on the witness stand when Mr. Crowe, in seeking to impeach her testimony, charged that she was varying her remarks from statements she had made in his office shortly after Loeb had been arrested for the Franks murder.

Miss Nathan had testified that she previously was fond of Loeb as he was of her, but that she did not feel "that way now," and that being a lady, would not lie to aid Loeb. Mr. Crowe's denial of the defence's right to have Miss Nathan read her earlier statements led to an early recess of the court. The defence and State were directed to bring in authorities on the defence's contention that Miss Nathan should see the record of her earlier remarks before proceeding as a witness.

DROWNED IN EXCAVATION

Baby Girl of Eighteen Months Toddled Into a Hole—Found By Mother.

COBOURG, August 7. — A sad accident happened at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, who reside on the Provincial Highway between Grafton and Wicklow, when their baby daughter Elsie, aged 18 months, toddled into an excavation, containing water, where once a house had stood, and was drowned.

The little one was shortly afterwards discovered by the mother, and was quickly conveyed to the office of a physician in Grafton, which was only a short distance away.

All efforts at resuscitation failed.

The funeral was largely attended by friends and neighbours, who strove to show their sympathy with the family in their sore bereavement.

Church Will Preserve a True Continuity, Declares Presbyterian Association Manifesto.

CONTINUE MISSIONS.

TORONTO, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Although a union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches of Canada, ratified by the Canadian Parliament at its recent session, comes into effect on June 10, 1925, the Presbyterian Church of Canada will continue "preserving a true continuity and in fellowship with the millions of Presbyterians throughout the world," declares a manifesto issued by the Presbyterian Association to all churches of that denomination in Canada.

This is the first official statement of the Presbyterian Church Association since the passing of the bill.

The pronouncement is issued by the Executive.

It points out that voting by congregations to decide whether or not they will enter the united church may commence on December 10, and the Executive counsels Presbyterians to take the vote as early as possible after that date.

"Plans are being perfected," says the statement, "for a meeting of our General Assembly on the above date, June 10, 1925," for the prosecution of the work of the Presbyterian Church. The statement says that the Church will continue to engage in missionary and other connexional activities that have signalized the Presbyterian Church to this date.

WAVE OF CRIME UNWELCOMED BY CAMPBELLFORD

Many Minor and Some Major Infractions of the Law Recently.

BANDITS MISSING.

Bobbed Hair Girl With the Three Men Who Held Up Garage Man, is a Mystery.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 7.—Up to midnight last night Chief Duncalfe had received no report of the capture of the young man, Richard Measer, and the girl, members of the quartet of bandits who held up Charles Todd, the garageman, at Hoard's Station, Wednesday morning, and who escaped in the car, after two of their companions, Sullivan and John Sanderson, had been captured by the Provincial Police at Stirling. The wires all through the district fairly hummed all day and evening with inquiries and interchanges of official reports.

Nobody in this vicinity appears to have any knowledge of the identity of the bandits, beyond the fact that they are said to be wanted in Lindsay on a similar charge. The two prisoners were taken so quickly from Stirling that it was impossible to get any information from them.

It is now said that the party spent Tuesday night in the Masson Schoolhouse, near Hoard's Station, and that they started out after daylight.

Crime Wave

A wave of crime has swept over Campbellford within the past two weeks. On the night of July 22 the garage of Garnet Cassan was broken into and the sum of $22 stolen. On the same night the barn of John Jeffs, manager of the Dominion store was enterd and a spare tire on the auto of a relative from Cincinnati, who was visiting him, was stolen.

On the following day Chief Duncalfe arrested Ed. Ellis and Sam Seabourne on a charge of breaking into the Casson Garage aind both men were committed, one being sentenced to 25 days and the other to two months in the Cobourg jail.

On Wednesday afternoon Ellis' wife who resides at Havelock, accompanied by some friends, came to town in an auto and had a tire which she carried put on at a local garage. Chief Duncalfe noticed the car on the street and on examining the new tire found it bore the same number as the one that was stolen from Mr. Jeffs' barn.

The officer believes that both thefts were committed by the same men and it is likely that Ellis and Seaborne will be tried on the latter charge when they complete their terms at Cobourg. The Chief has been informed that on the night of the burglaries, Ellis drove to his wife's home in Havelock and left there, the tire which was reclaimed yesterday. Mrs. Ellis was allowed to go but may be called as a witness.

A Serious Charge

Constables Millar and Wight of Trenton came to Campbellford shortly after midnight yesterday morning and arrested Charles Brown on a charge of rape, the complainant being a girl about 17 years old. Brown went to Trenton on Tuesday to attend a funeral and it is alleged that the offence was committee when he called with a friend at the home of an acquaintance. He was taken before a magistrate at Trenton yesterady and remanded for a week.

Brown is a young coloured man, who is engaged as a driver by the Cereal Company. The complainant in the case is a white girl.

MACDONALD SCORED VICTORY IN HOUSE

Pressed For Immediate Signing of Russo-British Treaty and Won His Point.

LONDON, August 7 (Canadian Press). — The proposal of Premier MacDonald to sign forthwith the treaty between Great Britain and Soviet Russia, which was drawn up by the Anglo-Russian Conference yesterday, drew a vigorous attack from the Opposition when the debate on the question was resumed in the House of Commons this morning, but the Premier refused to yield one inch to the onslaught, and finally scored a victory when an amendment proposing adjournment of the House until to-morrow for further discussion ofthe question was defeated by 157 to 77.

The Premier said he insisted upon signing the treaty immediately.

The debate was opened by Sir Robert Horne with an attack on the Premier's procedure, and the characterisation of the treaty as an illusion.

Meantime, in the House of Lords, Marquis Curzon made an address along similar lines.

BOY OF EIGHT WAS DROWNING VICTIM TO-DAY

William Baldry Slipped From George Street Wharf This Afternoon To His Death.

PETERBORO' BOY.

Companions Called For Help, But When F. E. Dunford Pulled the Child Out It Was Too Late.

The Otonabee River claimed another life this afternoon at 2 o'clock when little Billy Baldry son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baldry of 53 Park street lost his life at the George Street Government Wharf.

The boy who was 8 years old was playing with several other boys about the wharf. While running along the south edge near water's edge he slipped and fell into the muddy water and sank to the bottom where he filled his lungs with the slime and dirt from the river bed. His playmates at once yelled for help but was to late, for by the time he was pulled out on shore he was dead, his heart having stopped beating.

F. E. Dunford of 231 Wescott street, was riding past on a street car when he saw people running along the wharf with pike poles. He jumped from the street car and succeeded in hauling the boy out on the shore by the use of a pole, but the boy had been in the water about 10 minutes before rescued. Mr. Dunford said that when he found the boy he was lying face down in the water and he thought that the boy was dead before he came up the first time as there was so much mud in the bottom of the river.

A doctor was called and he gave the boy an injection to try to start his heart beating but it was fruitless as the boy's lungs were filled right up with water.

Pulmotor Failed

A call was sent to the Fire Station and in a few minutes the pulmotor was at the scene of the tragedy. By the aid of this and artificial respiration by the doctor and the firemen, considerable water was taken out of the boy's lungs.

The firemen worked on the body until fifteen minutes to three but not one spark of life was shown and the ambulance was called and the body was taken to Comstock's Undertaking Parours.

The boy who was a son of Mr. John E. Baldry, a fitter in the Canadian General Electric Company, is said to have been a very bright boy in school and was always full of life and fun.

MONTHLY MEETING OF CHEESE BOARD

Campbellford Cheese Board Met Last Night In Interesting Session.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 7. — The August meeting of the Cheese Board was held last night, with President R. Innes in the chair, the members present being Dairy Instructor Murray, William Grills, C. Yule, George Van Volkenburg, Wm. Ross, W. M. Stephens, George Ivey, and Fred Barnum.

No cheese were offered for sale as the Board now confines itself to the discussion of questions affecting the dairy industry.

At a previous meeting a resolution was adopted asking the Department at Toronto to arrange for the holding of a meeting in Campbellford by the Agricultural Inquiry Committee to discuss the marketing of cheese.

A reply was received from Deputy Minister Roadhouse stating that no more meetings would be held until September, when the sessions are resumed. If the committee is unable to hold a meeting here the Board will be advised as to the nearest point at which a session is being held.

Acting on instructions received from the Board, Secretary Kingston had written the Dairy Department at Ottawa asking that a grader be sent to Campbellford one day a week.

Acting Dairy Commissioner Singleton wrote to say that J. L. Irwin, the grader at Belleville, is too busy at present to give one day a week to Campbellford

Informal Discussion.

Among the questions informally discussed was one raised by W. Ross as to whether spraying cows to protect them from flies just before milking had an injurious effect upon the supply.

On this point there was a difference of opinion.

Mr. Ross concluded that an additional dairy instructor is required, as Mr. Murray has too much to do in instructing the makers and testing the milk.

Attention was called to the fact that the practice of carrying whey from the factory to their homes by patrons in milk cans taints these receptacles unless they are thoroughly cleansed, and lowers the standard of the milk. Some of the factories have a hard and fast rule prohibiting the use of cans for such a purpose.

The next meeting of the Board will be held on the first Wednesday in September at 8 p.m.

SQUAW 120 YEARS OLD.

YOSEMITE, Cal., Aug. 7. — (Associated Press). — Apparently authentic records indicate that "Indian Lucy," a squaw living in the Yosemite Valley, is 120 years old. She is believed to be one of the oldest women in the world.

Lucy lives in a typical Indian tepee not far from Camp Curry, but keeps out of sight of the tourists. She has difficulty in walking, but otherwise retains full possession of her faculties. She can remember clearly the events of 100 years ago. She was living in the valley when the first white men made their entrance and finds pleasure in relating the details of their occupation.

CANADA TO JOIN CONFERENCE ON EMPIRE POLICY

Send Delegates to Meeting of Dominion Representatives Proposed by J. H. Thomas.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT

Agreement Desired on Procedure in Handling Foreign Questions.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada stands ready to appoint delegates to the proposed conference in London next Fall to find a basis for future discussions of foreign policy of the Empire. Despatches to this effect were sent by the Canadian government last night to Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary.

In this connection, Premier Mackenzie-King issued the following statement:

"Some weeks ago in a communication sent to the various Dominions, the British Government suggested the desirability of further consideration of the difficulties met with in consultations and negotiations on questions of foreign policy. It was suggested that a meeting might be arranged in London, possibly in October, of representatives from each of the parts of the empire concerned, to make a preliminary examination of these problems and to prepare a report as a basis for further discussions. It was not thought advisable, it was added, at this time either to revive the idea of a constitutional conference or to call a special meeting of the Imperial Conference. The purpose was expressed as solely that of considering the problem, and presenting a report as a basis for further discussion.

Canada Approves.

"The Canadian Government has expressed approval of this proposal and its readiness to appoint representatives to take part in such a discussion if agreed upon by the other self-governing Dominions and a time convenient to the various Governments can be arranged. Thus far there has been no intimation as to when this preliminary meeting will be held. As to who the Canadian representatives may be will depend on the time that may be fixed and the particular persons who may be chosen to represent the other Governments of the Empire. No suggestion has been made that representatives of the opposition should participate in the proposed conference, though the attendance of opposition leaders at future Imperial Conferences has been put forward by the Colonial Secretary for discussion as one possible method of preventing reversal of agreements reached at Imperial Conferences. The Canadian Government will not make any decision as to its representatives until the meeting itself is finally decided upon and the question of the time of meeting is definitely settled."

Three Suggested.

In the course of a discussion last night, Premier Mackenzie-King said that if the conference was held, Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government Leader in the Senate, and Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of Defence, would probably be the Government's representatives, with Dr. O. D. Skelton, counsellor to the Department of Eternal Affairs, acting as adviser. These three will be in Europe for the League of Nations Council in September.

The Canadian Government reserved the right to appoint its delegates, Premier King state in answer to a qquestion as to whether he favored the idea of sending leaders of oppositions to Empire conferences. The conference now under discussion was a preliminary one and did not call for the attendance of Government Leaders. But his general attitude to the quqestion was that since the Government must be responsible for any policy adopted and the leader of the opposition must preforce reserve the right to criticize such a policy, there could be no useful purpose served by the attendance of leaders of the opposition at formal Empire conferences.

HABITANTS RETURN

Many Quebec Farmers Return From New England Factories.

QUEBEC, Aug. 8.— (Canadian Press).—Convinced that after all they were better off in their native province, hundreds of French Canadians who went to New England in the last two years are returning either to their farms or to their former jobs here, according to officials of the colonization department.

Hon. J. E. Perrault, minister of colonization, mines and fisheries, said that there was no official statistics on hand to show to what extent the movement had developed, but the information he had obtained was to the effect that the repatriation movement was the most significant in years.

Most of the farmers who went to New England factories had prudently kept their farms here and many of them have returned early enough to garner this year's crop, it is said.

RUM TO CANADA ACROSS BORDER

Smugglers Carry No Empties in Their Traffic—Return Trade Develops.

TO DRY PROVINCES

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 8.—(By Canadian Press). — That liquor is being smuggled from the United States into Canada for consumption is one of the curious revelations of the investigation of border activities which the Canadian and United States Governments have been conducting for some time.

Moonshine is being regularly brought over into the dry provinces of Canada, it was stated last night by a high official of the Government, who added that a pipe-line seemed to be the next logical step in the highly organized smuggling traffic which is going on. The smuggling industry on the border has developed a return traffic for its land and water vehicles and nothing short of an army and navy can cope with the smugglers.

The Department of Customs has made special appropriation to cover the expense of increased protection at all border points and seaports. The length of the international boundary and the potential profit in smuggled liquor, drugs, tobacco and textiles, however, makes it difficult for the excise men of the two countries to deal with the daring and numerous smugglers who are making a living in the ancient trade.

TRAIN HIT FARMER

Hurled Into Ditch While Chasing Some Cattle.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 7. — Benjamin Sager, Thurlow township farmer was seriously perhaps fatally hurt to-day when hit by a passenger train.

He was driving cattle across the tracks which bisect his farm at the time. One of the animals ran back and Sager after it. The buffer beam of engine hit him and hurled into water filled ditch. The train stopped in less than its length. Sager was picked up and brought to hospital here. The first his family knew of the affair was a message from the City hospital.

PRINCE ON BERENGARIA

Sails August 23 for United States And Canada.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales, who will sail for the United States and Canada on the Berengaria August 23, and will spend some time at his ranch in Alberta, expects to return to England about the middle of October. He has several engagements in Scotland after his return.

While aboard the Berengaria the Prince will have his breakfast in private, but otherwise he will mix freely with the other passengers. His rooms on the Berengaria are the ones formerly used by the ex-Kaiser when cruising, and consist of a breakfast room, two bedrooms, a bathroom and a verandah.

REVENUES LESS THAN EXPENSES IN FOUR MONTHS

Adverse Balance Shown in Dominion's Statement for July and First Quarter.

EXCISE TAX DECLINE

Interest Payments on Public Debt Heavy—Customs Receipts Are Lower.

OTTAWA, Aug 8. — (Canadian Press).—Decreased revenues and increased expenditures of the Dominion during the month of July are shown in the statement issued Thursday by the Department of Finance. The statement shows a falling off in revenue if the Dominion during July of $3,887,413 when comparison is made with revenue for July 1923. Revenue for July, 1923, was $32,759,524 while for July 1924, it amounted to $28,872,111.

Ordinary expenditures for the month of July of the present year, show an increase of $4,140,489 over the ordinary expenditures in July 1923. Expenditures on ordinary account this year amount to $22,497,209 as against $18,356,720 in July, 1923. The net debt of Canada now stands at $2,391,451,680 or an increase of $1,539,438 during July. Last year the debt showed a decrease of $5,765,962 during the same month.

First Quarter Figures

With the end of July, the first four months of the present fiscal year closed. Ordinary revenue collected during the four month period of the present year was $138,807,253 or a decrease of $13,458,390 from the total for the corresponding period last year when revenue totalled $152,265,643. Ordinary expenditures for the four months of the present year totalled $96,546,541, as compared with $91,145,399 in 1923. This is an increase of $5,401,142. Heavy interest payments on the public debt are responsible to a degree, for the increased expenditure.

Excise Shrinkage

The drop in revenue is accounted for by the falling off in excise tax collections during the four month period of the present year as compared with 1923. Excise taxes were collected to the total of $39,495,715 during the first four months of the last fiscal year. Thus far this year collections total but $25,916,573. Customs revenue this year also shows a drop. For the four month period of 1923 revenue from customs totalled $41,719,017, while this year it amounted to $38,687, 616. Income tax collections this year are about three millions larger than during the four months of 1923. The total collected up to July 31 was $46,383,696.

Interest payments on the public debt, which constitute the major item in the expenditure column, totalled for the four months of the present year $51,395,485, as compared with $48,755,549 a year ago.

ARRESTED IN BAR

Winnipeg Police in Campaign Against Liquor Sales.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—Two men found drinking in a hotel bar which was raided by the police last night, were each fined $50 and costs Thursday. Arrest and prosecution of bar frequenters is the latest move in the present campaign against illegal sale of liquor and it promises to make bar premises exceedingly unpopular.

More than one hundred liquor cases now are pending in the police court and the list is being increased daily. Most of the bars in the city are said to be closed.

THREE MEXICANS CONFESS EVANS CRIME OBREGON DENIES AGRARIANS INVOLVED

"Simple Case of Highway Robbery and Murder," President Asserts—No International Complications Expected by Government—Obligations Fulfilled.

MEXICO CITY, August 8.—(By Canadian Press.)—With the arrest of seven persons charged with being the actual murderers of Mrs. Rosalie Evans and the alleged positive identification of three of them, the Mexican government considers the incident of the slaying closed so far as its international aspects are concerned.

The accused men have been consigned for trial on the charge of murder and the government considers that it has carried out its obligations through the prompt apprehension of the culprits and its evident demand that no lack of energy will be shown in the punishmeht of the guilty.

Upon the receipt of official communications describing the arrests of the murderers, General Aaron Saenz, foreign minister, immediatetly communicated the facts to United States Charge d'Affaires Schoenfeld, and through him to the British Consul General Norman King.

Agrarians not Implicated.

President Obregon, as quoted by El Universal, declared upon receipt of official reports describing the arrest of Mrs. Evans' slayers, that he had always been convinced that the agrarians had nothing to do with the crime. He said that he felt sure that suspected leaders of the recent revolution inspired the attack and robbery for the purpose of discrediting the agrarian movement and the government which the agrarians supported throughout the revolt.

He added that it had been declared that the crime was a simple case of murder and highway robbery.

Expression of the belief that the incident of the murder of Mrs. Evans (who was the widow of a British subject) is now closed, was made by Enrique Colunge, secretary of the Interior, after he had received reports from the Puebla State officials, who were charged with the investigation of the crime. Secretary Colunga's belief that the slaying incident was closed internationally, was based upon almost identical reports made to the president, Secretary of the Interior, Ministry of Foreign Relations, the War epartmeht and the Chief of Police of Mexico.

Thorough Inquiry.

General Roberto Cruz, Military Commander of the State of Puebla, in which the crime was committed, has commissioned his Chief of Staff, General Gomez Velasco, to co-operate with the various investigators assigned by the government to make a thorough inquiry into the murder.

Reports from Puebla state that the vigorous following up of various clues brought about the arrest of Francisco Ruiz, Ahdres Rodriguez and Alejo Garcia, who are said to have been identified as participants in the actual killin gof Mrs. Evans, and the wounding of her hacienda manager, John Strauss.

The identificatioh is declared to have been made by Strauss, who is in a hospital at Puebla.

Three Confessed.

The nature of te evidence against the other four being held as the slayers has not yet been revealed, but it is declared that three men have already confessed. The authorities found property at the home of Ruiz which was identified, it was stated, by a Syrian peddler as having been stolen from him some weeks ago. The bag in which the payroll for the Evans hacienda was contained, which was taken by the assassins was also said to have been found at the home of Garcia.

Those being held by the police live in the village of Tiaguismanalco, which is near by the Evans hacienda and a short distance from the spot upon the road between Texmelucan and the hacienda where the attack was staged.

Suspects Released.

Sixty three prisoners who were rounded up by the police dragnet on Monday, most of them Indian farm workers living in the vicinity, have been released and have returned to their homes from Puebla.

With power of attorney from Mrs. Evans' heirs, Attorney Salvado Espindola, has taken temporary possession of the slain woman's hacienda. Possession was taken in the presence of Captain H. Holcombe, representing the British Consulate General of Mexico City, who has accompanied the investigatoes throughout the entire inquiry. It is pointed out at the Foreign Office that the Evans heirs still have recourse to civil action for damages because of the slaying of Mrs. Evans, although Federal responsibility, it is claimed, ended with the arrest of the slayers.

Scheme to Drain Albany River Watershed to South Approved.

ENGINEER'S OPINION

MONTREAL, Aug. 8. — "It is quite possibly feasible; I am frankly in favor of the proposal—subject to thorough investigation," was the comment of F. W. Cowie, consulting engineer of the Montreal Harbor Commission concerning the scheme of Ralph Keemle, Chatham, Ont., engineer, by which the level of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river would be raised 12 to 18 inches by a judicious placing of dams on the Albany and Ogoki rivers at the height of land north of Lake Superior. This would cause a diversion into the Great Lakes, Mr. Keemie says, of a flow of water from a watershed of some twenty thousand square miles, and would make up for the loss of water caused by the Chicago drainage canal and allow that city the 10,000 cubic feet per second quota which it wishes. He thinks that the city of Chicago, would be willing to bear part of the costs of the undertaking. Mr. Keemle has presented his scheme to the Montreal Harbor Harbor Commission for its consideration.

Vital to Canada.

Further commenting on the Lake Superior scheme, Mr. Cowie said:

"There is nothing more vital to Canada than the raising of the level of her waterways. We have a tremendous east-to-west water traffic, and some of our greatest producing centres are 2,500 miles from a seaport.

"Ralph Keemle's estimate of five million dollars, for the cost of the scheme is, I think, low. I am of the opinion that such a development

CONVENT GIFT TO ANTICOSTI

Island in St. Lawrence Benefits From French Chocolate King.

EDUCATION FREE

QUEBEC, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Through the beneficence of Senator Menier, the French chocolate king, and owner of Anticosti Island, the island will shortly have a convent, at which the children of residents may receive an education free of charge. Word to this effect was brought here by Valmore Bienvenue, who, in company with Edgar Rochette and Dr. Emile Beauleu, has just returned from the island, where they were received by Senator Menier.

It is the French senator's purpose to endow the island with an educational institution of the highest order, and, while for a time the student body will be comprised solely of residents of the island, it is expected that later residents of the north shore will be admitted and tuition will be given to them at a minimum cost. Four nuns from the Sisters of Charity will constitute the teaching staff of the convent, but later their number will be added to as the need arises.

BUMPS ON HEAD MEAN NOTHING, SCIENTIST SAYS

And Broad High Brow Like Shakespeare's Offers No Guage of Mentality.

SIZE NOT AN INDEX

Highest Intelligence May Come From Slums, Lowest From Mansions.

TORONTO, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Let not the person of high and "noble" forehead, a la Hall Caine and the avon bard, continue in the belief that he or she possesses "the brains of the earth," and let not the person of low and receding forehead despair of his mentality, for the popular belief that the person with a high forehead was ultra intelligent has been exploded. The size of a person's head does not in any way indicate his mental capacity according to the experiments of Dr. Wingate Todd, of Cleveland, who spoke before the section on Anthropology this afternoon.

The person with the large head may have water on the brain, or his head may be poorly filled; that is, he may have just the same amount of gray matter as the person with a small head, but it is distributed over a larger area.

Phrenology A Delusion.

Another theory which Dr. Todd exploded is that there is no such thing as phrenology. And really these people who are susceptible to the claims of phrenologists that the head indicates the future life or what vocation would be best to follow are deficient in gray matter.

"There is nothing whatever on the outside of a person's head to indicate what brains he posseses," he declared. "Neither does nature discriminate in placing brain matter. The highest possible intelligence may be found in the lowest slums and lowest type of mental deficiency can readily be found in the homes of the nobility.

Mental deficiency is explained by the fact that the person so lacking in brain power is unable to establish a connection between the physical basis and the associate memory, in other words, there is no link between cause and effect. That is why some criminals are beyond reformation. They belong to the type that commits a crime and forgets. They continue committing crime of increasing seriousness and are unable to retain the fact that they have already committed numerous crimes. There is no such thing as reforming the habitual criminal. When a person became a menace to society he should be placed under strong supervision and not paroled; otherwise, he will continue in his crime and end on the gallows.

Brain To Be Decent.

"Many efforts have been unsuccessfully made to correlate intelligence with the size of the head," stated Dr. Todd. "In spite of this lack of success there is no doubt that, even with the crude methods of measurement in use hitherto, and upon the imperfect knowledge we have had of the relation of skull dimensions to brain volume, there is on the average a real relation in average brain volume to the grade of individual when the grading chosen really indicates social valuation. The relation between physique and social valuation has been emphasized by many workers, notably Barry, of Melbourne, on Australian criminals. Daveport on epileptics and the various workers in the Vineland training school. One may state the case simply by saying that it requires very little brains to be a cattle stealer, more brains to be a forger, and still more brains to be a decent member of society. Comparison fails in such investigations as those made in Karl Pearson's laboratory upon Oxford undergraduates and enlisted men in the Royal Engineers and the reason for this is not far to seek. Both Oxford undergraduates and enlisted men are making a success of life. A mere accident of birth or fortune separates these two groups; there is between them no fundamental distinction of real value."

INDIAN ARRESTED

Fired on Constable Who Raided "Club" Near Pembroke.

PEMBROKE, Ont., Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Following an all-night chase Provincial Police constable R. Cox yesterday captured William Tennisco, an Indian, who with three companions opened fire on the constable in the woods near Whitney, where they were discovered in an alleged state of intoxication in a hut know as "The Indians' Club". The other three Indians escaped.

Constable Cox was searching for some stolen property at the time. Seeing the officer approaching the Indians took to the woods and when Cox pursued them they opened fire with rifles. Volley after volley was fired at the officer who was armed only with a revolver, but he remained on their trail until he apprehended Tennisco. He escaped injury by lying prone on the ground.

RAIL SERVICE HIT BY MERGER

British Travellers Complain of Inconvenience From Fewer Trains.

RESORTS SUFFER

LONDON, Aug. 8.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—The merging of the big lines of railways not long ago may have been a good thing from the point of view of the finances of the railways concerned, although even that is doubted in view of the fact that the railway companies are drawing on their reserves to maintain their dividends, but the merger certainly was not a good thing for the travelling public, judging from complaints by travellers. There is a noticeable loss of the former efficient transportation and general convenience.

Trains which for years ran regularly have been lopped off in a wholesale manner, one result being that holiday makers are compelled to travel 100 miles or more standing. This condition of lack of proper accommodation for the travelling public is especially bad on the City and South London railway and one result is that harm is being done to the southern resorts.

The minister of transport, Harry Gosling, ascribed the present unsatisfatcory railway accommodation to the abnormal traffic in connection with the British empire exhibition, but this explanation is received somewhat sceptically by the inconvenienced travelling public.

STERLING UP 6½c.

Sensational Gain in New York Market—Exchanges in Sympathy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. — News that the Allies and Germans had come to a complete agreement on the manner in which defaults are to be declared under the Dawes' plan yesterday resulted in a sensational gain of 6 1-2 cents in Sterling exchange to $4.51 5-8, a new high record for the year, and stimulated the buying of French governmental and municipal bonds, nine of which broke through their previous high prices on gains of one to three points.

Heavy buying of Sterling was reported from European centers where the financial markets had closed when the reparations news came out. Local foreign exchange dealers also declared there considerable speculation on the part of merchants anxious to secure a long position in Sterling for trade purposes. Additional buying was stimulated by the reduction in the local Federal Reserve re-discount rate.

French and other European exchanges advanced in sympathy with Sterling, although the gains were of a more nominal nature.

COMMANDS 22ND REGIMENT.

QUEBEC, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press). — It is announced from a reliable source here that Major J. P. J. Archambault, at present aide de camp to His Excellency the Governor-General, Baron Byng of Vimy, has been named officer in command of the Royal 22nd Regimet, replacing Lieut.-Col. Henri Chasse, who will become a member of the general staff of military district No. 5, with headquarters at Montreal. Col. Chasse will succeed Col. Leduc, who is retiring after thirty years of military service.

PROPAGANDA OF SOVIETS SEIZED BY GOVERNMENT

Pamphlets Consigned to Russian Trade Mission at Montreal Held in Customs.

EXPLANATION WANTED

Communistic Doctrines and Un-British Religious Creed —Premier's Warning.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 8.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada's recognition of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, confirmed last March when its agency was established in Montreal, tends only to trade matters. A sharp reminder of this was conveyed by Premier Mackenzie King to the Soviet Agen, Alexander Yazikoff, in the course of conferences which have been progressing in the last two days in Ottawa.

The Prime Minister stated last night that there was no serious clash between the Russian agent and the Canadian Government. It had been necessary, however, to define the extent of the angency's status in Canada, because of the seizure some time ago of a sheaf of printed matter used as packing for some documents and effects of the Soviet agency shipped from Leningrad to Montreal.

The questionable literature dealt in Communistic doctrines, broadly differing from orthodox British religious and political creeds. This literature has been held up by the Department of Customs, while the rest of the consignment has been handed over to M. Yazikoff. Canadian authorities thought it only fair to the Russian Government that the Communistic pamphlets should be held until some official explanation is forthcoming from Leningrad.

The explanation given by the Russian agency here is that official Russia had no knowledge of the inclusion of these pamphlets in the consignment sent from Russia, and that they were used as packing because they happened to be samples of a cheap form of printing now in the experimental stage in Russia.

"LABOR DISMAYED"

Comment of Socialist Review on Recent Naval Display.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The Socialist Review this week contains a bitter attack on the Labor Socialist members of Parliament for attending the recent British naval review.

Attention is directed by the Review to the fact that Charles Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, who formerly held office in the peace group of Labor leaders, "now sits at his desk initialling approval of these displays."

"Labor throughout the land will be profoundly dismayed," the writer adds, with reference to Secretary Ammon's present course.

RAINY WEATHER RETARDS CROPS

Shipments Held Back in This District—Prices of Farm and Orchard Commodities.

GOOD HAY CROP.

The intermittent wet weather of the past few weeks has exercised a retarding influence on the movement of crops in this district, according to grain merchants. Local prices still remain in a state of flux. However, everything in the country looks well, according to a traveller who asserted that he had seen a second crop of hay taken off recently "that would have done credit to a first crop anywhere."

Despite the backward season, the orchards are bearing splendid harvests of fruit. Although there are rumours of a bumper crop of cherries resulting in a condition which leaves them rotting on the trees, some of the fruit growers in the Grimsby district have adopted different measures, and are allowing careful pickers to come into their orchards and pick the small fruit for twenty-five cents a basket. This seems a more sensible procedure than that of the owner who refuses to allow anything of the sort, and yet will not attempt to garner his harvest on a falling market, or the action of some of the Southern States' peach growers, who dumped carloads of peaches into the ditch recently, when unable to obtain their price for the fruit.

Heavy shipments of blueberries into wholesale houses during the past few weeks depressed the price temporarily. Berries of all sorts seem to be plentiful this year, the raspberries having recovered from last season's condition, when the canes were first frozen by the sharp winter frosts then dried up by excessive warm weather heat. In the retail fruit stores, varying berry prices are apparent. The quotations range from 16 cents a box by the crate lot, for the red berries, to 20 cents a box for choice samples. A local grower who asserts that he will have successive strawberry crops until late summer, is selling strawberries at the doors for 25 cents a box.

Green gages are the latest arrival in the plum family, at 90 cents for a six quart basket. Ripe figs from California are a delicacy at a nickel apiece. Big "William Red" apples from Delaware are another table adjunct costing 40 cents a dozen. Peaches still remain at 30 to 60 cents for twelve, and Montmorenci cherries are selling in six and eleven quart baskets, at 75 and 95 cents.

Vegetable marrows are in the stores, at 10 and 15 cents apiece, and the succulent squash is another new comer. The crook-neck Hubbard variety is a yellow member of the great squash clan, and there is its cross-breed first cousin, the green, rounded sample that started out in life with the best of intentions of being a pumpkin and got mixed up, through the pollen carried on a bee's legs with a vegetable marrow.

Potatoes still remain fairly stationary at 35 to 45 cents a peck. The hearty Bermuda onion has replaced by the strong Spanish variety, and tomatoes still remain rather scarce The cucumber has come off its perch and now consorts with those humbler vegetables that one can buy for a nickel in the fruit stores.

In the dairy line, butter has firmed up considerably, the dairy variety unexpectedly topping its creamery rival by a cent on the pound this week. Eggs have taken a jump to around 32 cents a dozen.

With the ascending price of wheat and corn, lard has raised itself in price by a cent or two on the pound and dressed hogs have jumped $2 on the hundredweight over their wholesale quotations of a fortnight back. Live hogs also have increased consid erably in the past week or so.

In the wholesale grocery establishments, canned goods are firm in price with short stocks. The new pack which comes in during the late fall, with the exception of the canned peas, will arrive on what is called a "bare" market, with old stocks cleaned out entirely.

Poor crops in Southern European countries indicate a very firm coming market in shelled and whole nuts

Bulk cereals and starches and syrups, in fact, any of the products of corn, or wheat or oats, show a strong market.

Sugar remains a fluctuating quantity. The peculiar rotation of cause and effect, and the relation that one part of the great universe bears to other regions, is evidenced in the fact that the conference now considering in London the application of the Dawes report to Old World conditions has a direct bearing on the price of many commodities, and the cost of the sugar with which miladi sweetens her tea and puts up her winter stock of preserves may rise or fall in direct ratio to the results of a political conference in a distant land.

A MYSTERY MAN SHOWS HIMSELF

Calls on Matthews in Jail and Confers With Jailers—Keeps Identity Secret.

CANADIAN OFFICIAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8—(Canadian Press).A development in connection with the case of Charles A. Matthews Jr., former deputy provincial treasurer of Ontario, awaiting in custody here while official routine clears the way for his return to Toronto for trial was the arrival yesterday of a Canadian Officer who is keeping his identity concealed. His visits to the chief of police, immigration officers and to Charles Matthews at the jail, excited curiosity and it was difficult to understand why he should make his presence here such a mysterious event. Matthews recognized him when he called but like the local officers, declined to reveal his identity. The fact that Matthews knew him and greeted him made it clear to the jail officials that the "mystery man" is an officer from Toronto and that he has come to take Matthews back just as soon as one or more of the immigration officers have papers from Washington authorizing the deportation at the Canadian border where it is expected the former deputy minister will be formally passed over to the officer who came here yesterday.

MASQUERADE AT SUMMER RESORT

Many Pretty Impersonations —Even Honeymooners Included in Costume Effects.

DANCE AT VIAMEDE

CROWE'S LANDING, Stoney Lake, Wednesday Aug. 6—The annual masquerade at Crowe's Landing was held on Wednesday night and in spite of threatening rain, which later developed into a heavy downpour, there was a large attendance. The percentage of those in costume was rather larger than last year and the costumes quite as good. The threatening weather prevented many from the lower part of the lake attending but the pavilion was well filled by the resident cottagers and islanders from the upper lake. Costumes varied from the gay gypsies of both sexes to the dignified attire of the college professor. The clown who usually is seen all too often at these affairs, was not present, and the rather overdone pierrot was also missing. There were a number of young girls in the dainty Colonial dresses, which are always attractive. One young lady representing the Daily Telegram and another as the long faced midget were original costumes. One young lady was a bride and groom one side of her costume being the white satin veil and white slipper of the bride and the other the frock coat and black trousers of the groom. Another "half and halfer" was half an old fashioned lady and half a jester. It was a difficult combination well carried out. The entry of a young couple carrying a club bag and wearing a sign "Just Married" caused a laugh all over the hall, the bride wore the usual bride's costume wearing a lace curtain as a veil, ala Miss Hazy of the Mrs. Wiggs stories and the groom a very natty outfit topped by a straw sailor hat. The "vogue of Valentino" was seen in the popularity of Italian costumes. The hit of the evening was the Italian organ grinder with his monkey, they were the sensation of the evening and won many flattering remarks from the audience to whom their identity remained a secret for some time. These two enlivened the proceedings by an occasional "tune on the organ."

Good music was provided for the dancing by the Bon Ton Orchestra of Belleville who have supplied music for the special dances all summer.

Among those in costume were:

John Dow and Jimmy Simpson—Italian Organ Grinder and Monkey.

Miss Margaret Burke—Red Riding Hood.

Miss Mary Roxborough—Colonial Gentleman.

Miss Dorothy Moir—Half Old Fashioned Lady and half Jester.

Miss Anna Glassey—Cleopatra.

Viamede Masquerade.

Tuesday, August 5.—The annual masquerade was held at the "Viamede" pavilion on Tuesday evening and was attended by great success. About two hundred were present, about half the number being in costume and although a list of those in costume is not available, those present report that the costumes were good and very unique. A good orchestra furnished music and the dancers tripped the light fantastic till shortly after midnight. The attendance was augmented by a number of cottagers and a large delegation from McCracken's, who went over with Mr. J. C. Strickland in "The Twin."

The costumes were varied and ranged from the seventy classic to the latest jazz creation. Many were pretty and many were funny and the combination made the scene a kaliedescope of bright colors passing before the eye. The task of the judges was a difficult one as the costumes were all very good. The gentleman's prize was awarded to J. C. Strickland of "The Victoria," McCracken's Landing who represented a Turkish gentleman. The ladies' prize was awarded to Mrs. Bilkey of Montreal, who represented a "Fisherman." Master Jimmy Bilkey, who represented a clown was the winner of the child's prize.

The judges were: Mr. J. C. Sloan of Toronto, Mrs. G. E. Oxley of Toronto and Dr. J. H. Belt of Cleveland.

1824—JUST 100 YEARS AGO.

A British officer leading his men against a hill tribe Northern India, discovered the tea plant growing wild in Assam. To-day there are 1000 tea estates in Assam, which produce some of the finest teas in the world. From the best gardens come most of the teas in RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA. That's why it is so rich and strong. Your grocer sells it. Try a package.

Threat of Death Failed to Worry Park Street Miss

She was a nice-looking little girl, about six or seven years old, and appeared quite normal to the casual eye. She was dressed respectably, and seemed to possess the rounded contour that betokens an appreciation of three or more good meals per day. Outside of her extraordinary occupation of the moment, there was nothing to distinguish her from any of the other cropped-hair, gingham-clad little things that stroll or run down Park Street any day of the week in pursuit of their various avocations in life.

"You will die, you will die," shrieked her two small companions, vainly trying to make her desist in the fell purpose which engaged her concentrated attention. But the lure of the prize attracted her. Perhaps she was remembering the old formula that it is necessary for each man to eat a peck of dirt before he dies.

When we saw what she was doing, we remembered that health authorities in China just now are greatly perturbed over the newly-introduced practice in the Celestial Kingdom which has to do with the consumption of large quantities of iced tea. What disturbs the health people is the fact that Chinese water is not good water, and "without the sanitary precautions taken by the Western peoples," it is feared that the Orientals will shortly suffer greatly by their un-pasteurized tea-drinking.

The little girl was determinedly scraping off and transferring to her small mouth a large wad of chewing gum that had become attached to the pavement.

MERMAIDS FROM RICE LAKE WON CHEMONG RACES

Misses Wallace of Toronto Repeat Victories Scored at Kawartha Park.

TILTING WAS FEATURE

Harold Knapman First Home in "Cygnet" in Open Sailing —Chemong Invaded.

To Chemong Park residents, yesterday was the day of the year, the occasion of Chemong regatta, when the holiday spirit reaches its peak.

Late yesterday morning, the sky threatened to duplicate the flood of the night before, and with the apprehension that the dazzling clouds would pour from their dark heights a rain of silver spears upon the early gathering that swarmed the banks at one o'clock, Providence relented before the optimism of Chairman Jack Patte, with the result that the sky opened, permitting the sun to reflect its glory upon the wide stretch of lake, never again to be intercepted.

Stoney Lake despatched the cream of her aquatic athletes, and a number of imposing craft from Sturgeon Point, Bobcaygeon and Lindsay also participated.

But, despite the invasion from foreign waters, home talent triumphed on the whole.

The Lintonia from Sturgeon Point and the Empress from Stoney Lake steamed past the Club House, carrying two shouting throngs, that swelled the crowd, adding to the mob of happy youngsters that clamoured for positions along the beach front and the older folk who had settled here and there, to far back in the park, in full view of the course.

The weather was ideal for sailing, a brisk breeze, with sudden gales, demanding the utmost of skilled craftsmanship at the crucial moments.

Knapman Won Sailing.

In this regard, the open sailing was the premier event, Harold Knapman sailing Cygnet to success, after two circuits of a three-mile triangular course. Alemeta, sailed by Jim Pierdon from Kawartha Park, finished a close second, gaining considerably on the last lap. Gull, sailed by OOxley, of Stoney Lake, and Alemeta, a Sturgeon Point craft, sailed by Flavelle, were also entrants, finishing far in the rear.

Reg. Dixon, Ross Thompson, and Willoughby battled for honours in the dinghy sailing race, which proved a spectacular event. Although Thompson got off to a fine start, Dixon won handily.

With the exception of a thorough soaking while fully attired in the tilting event, Reg. Dixon had a horse shoe hanging around his neck all afternoon.

After winning the dinghy sailing race for the Peterborough Canoe Company Challenge Cup, he also captured the Trent Valley Canal Navigation Cup for dinghy sailing, winning in a walk.

Probably the most exciting race in the sailing events was the canoe sailing for the Patte Cup, over a six-mile stretch . Dixon and Gliddon pulled up together after the last turn. The latter had the inner course. Dixon, who had the lead, in an attempt to cut in behind and blanket Gliddon, who was abaft, in tacking, went away out of the course. Gliddon won, displaying a fine exhibition of sailing.

Motor Boat Race.

The open motor boat six-mile race brought five contestants into the fray, Dodsworth of Stoney Lake winning easily. A. Nichols of Bobcaygeon finished second. The victor in this class looked like a destroyer ploughing through the water. At least Dodsworth's boat had so much speed, it proved a destroyer of hopes.

As usual, the tilting provided the thrills. Whether or not it is confidence that inspires young men to enter this event, clad in evening raiment, with bow tie and all, at any rate it gives the crowd pleasure to see a proud individual get a ducking.

Reeves and Davis corralled the pennant after downing three opponents. Beal and Dunsford were the runners-up, winning their place in the finals in short order, only submerging after a merry battle with the winners.

Wallace Sisters Win.

The Wallace sisters and the Ridpath brothers were fine family representatives, although they kept the scorekeepers in a state of conjecture The Wallace sisters carried off the honours in the ladies' swimming, but Jerry McClelland has not learned yet which one came in first, Miss M. or Miss W. Wallace.

As a climax to the day's activities the Regatta dance featured the evening performance. Largely attended, the dancers did not slacken until near midnight, and the spectators surrounding the pavilion amassed the largest audience of the season.

Chairman Jack Patte, summoning the gathering around him, thanked the crowd for their attendance, and expressed the committee's appreciation to the participants. He was in high spirits, overjoyed with the success of the regatta, which surpassed the fondest expectations of the committee.

Mr. Charles McClelland kindly loaned his clubhouse, which was used as a judges' stand and the officials' headquarters.

Mr. Gordon Fraser was present with his seagoing yacht, which was stationed directly in front of the clubhouse, lending the appearance of coastguard cutter.

Presented Prizes.

Mrs. W. H. Bradburn was deputed to perform the pleasant duty of presenting the prizes. Many trophies changed hands, and it was rumoured that the silver cups presented would prove of real service after 23rd October next.

The Committee.

The members of the Regatta Committee, whose efforts were largely responsible for the success of the affair, were J. E. Patte (chairman), R. Dixon, R. J. Breyfogle, H. I. Bradburn, R. Thompson, W. A. Breyfogle, and D. V. Rutherford.

E. Dixon and the late Alex. Elliott, who numbered amongst the pioneers of the Park and whom for many years were prominent in the activities of the community.

Trophies Won Outright

It was also announced by Mr. Bradburn that the G. N. Gordon Trophy for open sailing and the J. E. Patte Trophy for canoe sailing had been won outright.

Mr. W. H. Hill has consented to donate a cup to substitute the Gordon Trophy and Mr. Bradburn graciously stated that he himself would donate a trophy for canoe sailing.

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Leaping, fully dressed, from the dock at Erie Beach Miss Ruth Cameron effected thrilling rescue of her young brother, Kingsley and his playmate Joyce Chamberlain. Miss Cameron secured the little girl by the ear and dragged her to safety, the boy hanging on to his playmate. Both children had sunk the second time when the elder girl went to their rescue. The children, in bathing suits, had been hanging on to a rope from which they were jerked by some unknown person.

Mr. McFarlane, county road inspector, has been in this vicinity a good deal lately. The stone crusher is working near Sugar Loaf now.

The regular Woman's Institute will be held on Thursday afternoon, 14th August. Miss Ella Dewart will give an address to girls.

Entrance Pupils Pass.

Miss Ella Dewart had fourteen entrance pupils, all of whom passed, three with honours.

Need Fire Bell.

A regular fire call seems a necessity in this district. On Friday night, when Samuel Bell's house was totally destroyed by fire, people on the different lines heard the telephone ringing, but as it was not their number they did not notice. Some could have been on hand inside five minutes. In this particular case, perhaps nothing more could have been done, but there are times when a distinct fire call, in connection with the number at the place where the fire is, or if there be no 'phone there, the 'phone nearest it would let all the people on the lines know at once that there is a fire and where it is.

The sun is so hot that even broken glass thrown on rubbish, paper, etc., may cause a fire, that may not be noticed until a breeze springs up and fans it into a flame.

DECEPTION.

"Certainly not!"

SEVENTY PLUS AIM OF LIVES

Life May Be Prolonged Beyond Three Score Years And Ten.

CARE IN FOOD

A journal published by one of the state departments of health has taken for its slogan "70 Plus." This is to remind people that it is possible to prolong life beyond the limit of three score years and ten. This publication states that the five diseases of middle and after middle life, which exact the heaviest toll from mankind, are: Bright's disease, cancer, diabetes, heart disease and tuberculosis. All are slow of development; all are preventable, and all yield, in a greater or lesser degree, to treatment.

What is the treatment for tuberculosis?—rest, fresh air and proper food. For diabetes?—primarily a special diet. For Bright's disease?—special diet.

If diet is an important factor in the treatment of disease, is it not even more important in the prevention of disease? Can many ills of the flesh be avoided by an intelligent food program from birth to the age of 70 plus?

During infancy a mother is usually careful to see that the baby gets the right food at definite intervals. As the child grows older and begins to ask for tastes of the things the adults are eating, his routine is too often upset. Tastes of highly flavored, or sweet foods, will spoil his appetite for milk and vegetables. Often the result is a child who will not eat those foods which keep him in health, and which help to insure a long and pleasant life.

The majority of persons eat too much and are inclined to overdo white bread, meat and potato meals. These are constipating—and constipation is said to be responsible for many serious diseases.

Probably the best general rule for keeping fit is to avoid constipation. Eat more coarse foods, fruits and vegetables.

WEDDING BELLS.

SHEEHAN—GARVEY.

At St. Joseph's Church, Douro, on Tuesday morning, at nine o'clock, the wedding of Miss Loretto Garvey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Garvey, and Mr. Thomas Sheehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sheehan, took place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Garvey, of Lakefield, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a lovely dress of white georgette, with trimmings of Arabian lace and satin rose-buds, and a white crepe hat with lace and flower trimming. Her bouquet was sweet peas and bridal rose, tied with white ribbon. Miss Catherine Garvey, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid, and wore orchid georgette with embroidery and velvet ribbon trimming, and leghorn hat with ribbon trimming. She wore a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and white roses. Mr. Joseph Sheehan assisted his brother as groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold bar pin with pearl setting, to the bridesmaid onyx earrings, and to the groomsman a gold tie-pin. The wedding dinner at the home of the bride's parents was attended by a large number of guests.

The young couple left on the 3.50 train for a honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara, the bride travelling in a dress of brown roshanara crepe, with brown coat and brown felt hat. On their return they will reside on their farm in Douro, where a new residence has lately been erected. Many lovely gifts were received by the young couple.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1924.

NOT DETERIORATING.

For the pessimist citizen of the British Empire and the unfriendly foreign critic who strikes common ground in declaring that the British race is going to the dogs in so far as physical fitness and mental development are concerned, the presidential address of Dr. F. C. Shrubsall, President of the Anthropological Section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, now in session in Toronto, will afford some solid food for reflection.

Dr. Shrubsall knocks that idea into the proverbial "cocked hat."

The British are not deteriorating; he declares their stature and weight are not a fraction below those of their forefathers of Agincourt and Waterloo.

They revealed powers of resistance never before equalled in the Great War, general health is greatly improved, the expectation of life is longer, and advances in education are guarantees of the future intelligence and the physical well-being of future generations.

True, there is a tendency toward smaller families. But if there are fewer children they have a better chance to grow up, because of better housing, feeding, care and environment.

The British people do little advertising, so that when a scientist like Dr. Shrubsall comes along with a blunt statement of this nature his words carry conviction.

MORE ACCOMMODATION WANTED.

Among the items that the City Council should have jotted down in its 1925 diary should be the provision of more adequate and more suitable dressing-room accommodation for the bathers who frequent the civic beach at Inverlea Park.

The present arrangements are far from satisfactory, and there are many complaints, especially from the women bathers.

The accommodation for the fair sex can only be described as make-shift.

The only dressing-room provided is a small tent with no floor, no place to hang garments, no light at night.

It is described as hot in the day-time, and in crowded hours as totally unfit for the purpose.

The male bathers are somewhat better off, although their building is difficult to keep clean, and is most inadequately ventilated.

Next year should see better accommodation provided.

Swimming is yearly becoming a more popular pastime, and the hundreds of citizens who relish a dip in the cooling waters of the Otonabee have a right to consideration.

The arrangements at least should be such as to make it possible for citizens to invite their visitors to the park.

Most of them are ashamed to do so with the present accommodation all there is to offer.

A NEW POLICY.

The announcement from London that as a result of negotiations carried on by Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Immigration, the British Government will advance money to British settlers coming to Canada in order to assist them in settling on the land, is of much interest.

Hitherto the British Government has shared with Canada half the cost of the transportation offer to settlers engaging in farming.

The new plan is likely to give much better results, as it affords a chance to immigrants to establish themselves under the most favourable auspices.

Lack of capital has kept many desirable immigrants from trying their luck as Canadian farmers.

Getting out to Canada was not the most difficult end of the problem.

The pinch came when it was realized that it was impossible to make a successful start without a certain amount of capital.

The new policy proposes to provide this capital, the British Government to supply it and the Canadian immigration authorities to superintend the settling of the immigrants and to take charge of the collections and refunds to go back to the British.

The advantages of his plan are apparent, and it may be the means of bringing to Canada of a large number of excellent citizens who presence will be welcomed.

THE PLEBISCITE.

Hon. W. E. Raney will not find anything like unanimous support for his contention in connection with the Ontario Temperance Act plebiscite that there should be only one question, "Are you in favour of prohibition?"

Just what questions the Government proposes to submit to the people has not been officially divulged, but the majority of electors undoubtedly are of the opinion that an opportunity should be given to indicate what method of handling the liquor problem is favoured in the event of the elector deciding to vote against prohibition.

Mr. Raney holds that the Government would be dodging its responsibility by asking a series of questions, and declares that it should merely ascertain whether or not the majority favour prohibition.

If the decision is against prohibition the former Attorney-General argues that the Government should frame on its own initiative new legislation to deal with the liquor question.

Why not consult the people when a plebiscite is being taken?

If the majority want Government control and say so with their ballots that settles the matter.

If the majority want beer and wine to be sold in licensed premises they should have a right to declare themselves.

A Government, of course, must take responsibility for its own legislation, and continuous appeals to the people are not desirable, but in this case when the fate of prohibition is to be decided by a vote why not follow the business-like course of finding what substitute the people want if they are not satisfied wtih prohibition?

It will add little to the cost of the plebiscite and will be decisive.

THE CHURCH ON VACATION.

We are in the very midst of the vacation season, and people who have gone through the year's work with zest and faithfulness are glad to be away from the strain and routine of daily tasks. It is such people who appreciate the value of a vacation. It has been said that three small brothers were once noticed by a passing stranger. Two of the boys were full of exuberance, while the third seemed to be in despair. When the grief-stricken little chap was asked the cause of his sorrow, he said: "My brothers have got a vacation and I haven't any." When asked why he was so deprived, he replied: "Because I don't go to school." All vacation is truly no vacation. The most dejected people in the world are those who never work. The real requisite to a happy vacation is a year of hard work.

It is a question whether people are always sane in their methods of taking a vacation. So many people seem to simply slump into it, and settle down to sheer idleness until mind and body fail to function properly. Others rush from place to place, losing sleep and rest, returning to their task depleted of resources they ought to have replenished in order to commence a new year with reserve strength.

The vacation idea is not confined to individuals. It is common to institutions such as schools, universities, and one might include churches. Especially is this true of the churches in our larger cities. For three months of the year about the best some of them can do is to mark time. Prayer-meetings are discontinued, the various organizations cease to function and church attendance dwindles to its lowest ebb.

The question to be asked is whether the churches are justified in yielding to the vacation idea? Why should the summer be looked upon as a most unprofitable season for religious work? The forces of evil do not relax because it is summer time. They may change their methods and their form of appeal to the people, but they carry on. The world of sport doesn't close or slacken because the summer has come. It prepares an entire change of program suited to conditions and carries on. Are the children of this world wiser in their day and generation than the children of light? Should not the churches face the seasonal problem seriously, and change their methods so as to carry on with the same degree of enthusiarm that characterizes their winter activities?

The summer time certainly has its unsuspected possibilities for the Christian church. The parks and open spaces of our cities are thronged with people during the holiday season. The churches might well consider following these people with their messages and music. It is a real tonic to have religion brought into the open air. Prayer meetings ought to be as easily kept up as in the severe weather. The social outings of the church can be of great value, while the vacation school, along with summer assemblies, prove vital forces for good. The music of the churches could be more effective in summer. It surely is not necessary for churches to leave the leadership of praise to the solitary organist for two months of the year, giving visitors to churches little other by way of music than the constant sound of loud organs.

The summer preaching ought to receive special attention rather than suffer through neglect. It is to be expected that beauty and brightness should be given careful attention. It should be reverent and restful, devoid of dullness and depression, but it should be virile and given in the strength and care which the ministers feel the winter months demand. The people who attend church, as a rule, come to worship, and have a desire to keep their souls alive. Then spiritual needs are as great in summer as in winter, and the churches should ever be awake to meet these needs.

We are not saying that Christian people, whether in the ministry or out of it, should not have a vacation. They ought to, and are better equipped for their tasks as a result, but we do say that Christianity has no right to take a vacation. Both in the life of the individual and the church. Christianity ought to be kept robust. There is a danger of people, when on vacation, not only neglecting church, but forgetting some of the vital things of Christianity, and resorting to questionable things they would not think of doing at home, as they live their normal life. A change of environment should not mean a change of Christian convictions. The great vital things of Christianity cannot afford to be laid aside three months of the year as though they had no connection with vacation. Such an attitude turn vacations into undesirable reactions. Do not allow holidays to take all holiness from life, nor should we allow the summer season to sap the church of spiritual life and energy. Christianity knows no vacation.—London Free Press.

Gives complete relief from perspiration annoyance

IT is no longer necessary to endure the annoyance of excessive perspiration. Every woman can have complete freedom from the embarrassment and discomfort which it causes.

Extreme perspiration of one part of the body, such as the underarms, is due to local irregularities of the sweat glands. The underarm perspiration glands are very sensitive and easily stimulated to unusual activity by excitement, heat or nervousness. Clothing and the hollow of the underarm make normal evaporation impossible, so that in order to maintain scrupulous personal daintiness, corrective measures are necessary. Soap and water alone are not sufficient.

Odorono, an antiseptic toilet water, was formulated by a physician for the special purpose of correcting this condition harmlessly, without affecting the natural healthful perspiration of the rest of the body. It is a clear, rosy-coloured liquid, and comes to you in a smart little uniquely shaped bottle. It is delightfully easy to use, and quite harmless. You simply pat it on to the underarm, with a piece of soft cloth, or absorbent cotton, or with the tips of the fingers. One application does away with all perspiration odor and moisture for at least three days. Two or three applications a week will keep your underarms always dry and immaculate. For sale at all toilet counters—three sizes, 35c., 60c. and $1.00.

BARGE MIAMI WAS BURNED YESTERDAY

Captain and 11 Members of Crew Were Taken to Cheboygan, Michigan.

CHEYBOYGAN, Mich., Aug. 8. — The captain and 11 members of the crew of the barge Miami, were rescued and brought to Cheboygan last Wednesday night, when the barge burned in Lake Huron eleven miles south of Mississougi Straits.

The men had abandoned the burning boat and were adrift on the lake in two row boats when they were picked up by the crew of the fishing tug, Edna A.

Captain Chauncey Johnson, of the Edna A., said that he sighted the burning barge while returning to Cheboygan from Great Duck Island, and he immediately went to the rescue of the crew. Two row boats were heading away from the barge, when the fishing tug picked them up.

Captain Charles Garey said that the crew had fought the fire for an hour before he gave the order to abandon the ship.

CHURCH PICNIC GAVE OCCASION FOR OLD TALES

Reminiscences of Early Days on English Line, Near Campbellford.

NO AUTO BANDITS.

Well Attended Social Function on Lawn of W. M. Stephen Last Night.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 8. — W. M. Stephens and others of the older members of the large crowd that attended the annual garden party of the Tabernacle Church on the English Line, which was held last night on the well-kept lawn of Willis N. Stephens, gathered in a sociable group and indulged in reminiscences of the early days in that prosperous community when one of the outstanding figures in the business life of the neighborhood was the late Robert White.

It was Mr. Scott who was the original owner of what is now the Stephens farm, he securing a Crown deed of 200 acres of land upon which not a single tree had been cut. He lived to see it one of the most valuable farms in Seymour Township, improved in every way and equipped with large and comfortable buildings by his thrift and energy.

The English Line has always been listed as a dairying section, and the founder of the industry was the late Mr. White. The first cheese factory was erected over 45 years ago, and Mr. White was the first president, a position which he held almost up to the time of his death.

The dairy business at that time was conducted differently from what it is to-day, the patrons receiving their money only at the end of the season instead of once a month. By virtue of his office as president, Mr. White was salesman. There was no railway through Campbellford at that time or no banks in what was then a small village. The cheese produced in the pioneer factory had to be carried every week to Belleville by wagon, over roads that at the best were difficult to travel, and at certain seasons were almost impassible. Mr. White accompanied the shipment to market to conduct the sales. The trip, 33 miles each way, occupied a day and a night, and sometimes three teams were required to move the output.

When Mr. White received the money for the cheese he deposited it in one of the Belleville banks, where it was permitted to remain until the close of the season. On his last trip he drew the entire amount and carried it back home in a satchel. One year he had $14,000 in his grip, an enormous sum of money in those days, and this was divided among the hundred or more patrons.

There were at least no auto bandits at that period of the township's history but there were occasional cases of high way robbery reported. To carry so large a sum was attended with considerable risk and Mr. White always recognized the danger to which he was exposed but in all the years of his service he was never molested.

After Mr. White's death the farm was carried on by his son-in-law, John Wallace, who two years ago sold out to the present owner and took up his residence in Campbellford. The spacious lawn, one of the beauty spots of the neighborhood has been the place where for years the annual garden party was held, an even that never fails to attract a crowd from far and near, and which draws back to there former homes those who have left the country for town or city. Last night it presented a festive appearance, being brightly illuminated with torches and laid out with long tables burdened with dainties. There were besides, a number of booths that did a thriving business.

Four Straight Victories

The husky baseball team from the English line won their four consecutive victory every game they have played this year—when they defeated the Rylstone nine last evening, in the opening event of the garden party programme by a score of 15 to 5. Rev. D. C. Daniel, the young pastor who came here recently to take charge of the Seymour circuit was in the box for the home team and aided by the excellent support which he received from E. Craighead, who worked behind the bat, pitched his team to victory. Leslie Shillinglaw, who plays with the Northumberland League team of Campbellford, was on second base for the victors and made a hit every time he faced the pitcher. The opposing teams were made up as follows:

English line — Harry Grills, 3b; Douglas Maybee cf; Leslie Shillinglaw, ss; Kenneth Godden, lf; Rev. C. D. Daniels, p; Howard Fairman cf; Stanley Little ss;1 Earl Godden 1b; E. Craighead, c.

Rylstone—F. aBrnum rf; W. Durf; Roy Fry lf; M. Swanger, p; G. Kerr, rf; C. Burkitt, 3b; F. Gibson 1b; W. Spencer 2b; Ray Fry ss.

Good Band Music

The Northumberland Regimental Band rendered one of their excellent musical programmes which included classical and familiar folk songs and popular hymn tunes.

The total receipts could not be computed lasto night but the church will have a handsome revenue from the entertainment.

Birthday Party.

A. F. Spafford, of Bradley's Corners, received a surprise Wednesday when a number of his friends dropped in upon him to help celebrate his 75th birthday, all of the visitors bringing floral gifts until the Spafford home was a perfect wilderness of flowers. Among those in the party were: Mrs. David Sayles and Mrs. Fred Simmons of Colborne, Mr. Spafford's daughters; the latter a grand-daughter; Mr. Sayles, a grandson, and Mrs. Sayles, Mrs. H. J. White, R. M. Sayles, Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Parks, William Jordan and daughter, Mrs. Shapter of Campbellford, John Cox of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Clarke, of Morganston. Refreshments were served on the lawn.

Mr. Spafford is a son-in-law of the late Minerva Benedict, who died at his home last February, aged 100 years, the centenary of her birth being celebrated by a gathering of relatives a few weeks before she passed away.

Hearing in Campbellford.

It is understood that the two young men who fell into the hands of the police after the holdup at Hoard's Station, and the man and woman who escaped in the car, if captured, will be given their preliminary hearing before the Magistrate in Campbellford, as the offence with which they are charged was committed in Northumberland County.

Personals.

Master Garnet Davis of Peterboro is visiting his sister, Mrs. Cecil Stephens, and his friends, Melvin and Donald Dunk.

FAMOUS RACE HORSE HAS MANY U. S. KIN

Epinard, French Champion, Has Blood of Kentucky Horses.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8. — (Associated Press).—Blood of Kentucky thoroughbreds courses in the veins of Epinard, French champion, V. Sanders, Louisville turf writer, declared after a study of the long pedigree of the Pierre Wertheimer colt, who is in this country for three races against America's best.

Epinard's dam, Epine Blanche, was bred by Major August Belmont at the time he had Rock Sand at his Legington, Ky., stud farm. Epine Blanche was out of White Thorne, who brought to the racing world a colt named Hawthorne. Hawthorne was the favorite for the Kentucky Derby of 1913, but was stricken shortly before that race and did not start in the classic. He was an extremely fast two-year-old and was easily the best of his age, according to Sanders.

Hawthorne's mother, White Thorn, was out of Nasturtium, a stock horse who begat many fast sprinters and good brood mares that have produced high-class thoroughbreds in this country and abroad.

Hawthorne's sire, Hastings, by Spendthrift, was the sire of Fair Play, who sired many of the champions of the American turf, including Man o' War, Mad Hatter, Mad Play and Ladkin. Man o' War, incidentally, is out of Mahubah, a daughter of Rock Sand.

Epinard, therefore, says the writer, has many kinsfolk in America, although he himself is stoutly English bred. His sire, Badojoz, goes back on his mother's side to the unbeaten St. Simon. In fact, Epinard has a double-cross of St. Simon, as the mother of Rock Sand was Roquebrune, by St. Simon.

REPARATIONS PAYMENTS.

U. S. Government Wants to Participate in Proposed Meeting of Finance Ministers.

WASHINGTON, D.C., August 8 (Canadian Press). — The United States Government, through Ambassador Kellogg at London, has informed the conference of Premiers, in which he is representing the United States, that this Government wishes to participate in the proposed meeting of the Finance Ministers to be held in Paris for the purpose of discussing the allocation of German reparations payments.

This marks one more important step in the direction of closer co-operation.

Such participation by the United States is held by Coolidge administration to be advisable in view of the fact that the United States is directly interested in any agreement which may be reached as to the allocation of the German payments under the Dawes plan.

ODDS OF 2 TO 1 ON GIBBONS

Gibbons and Bloomfield Will Fight To-morrow Before 100,000 Fight Fans.

LONDON, August 8 (United Press). — Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul heavyweight, and Jack Bloomfield, the recognised British champion, who are to meet to-morrow afternoon in a twenty-round bout in the huge Wembley Stadium, have finished their training, and were resting to-day.

Tremendous interest has been developed in the contest, and Major Arnold Wilson, the promoter, expects a crowd of at least 100,000, with a possibility that the capacity of 125,000 might be reached.

Popular prices of $1.50 to $10.00 prevail, and more than 60,000 tickets have already been sold.

Bloomfield is a great favourite in London, and is regarded as the best British heavyweight developed in years, but his backers seem to have little confidence in him, Gibbons ruling a 2 to 1 favourite in the bettiig.

Large sums are wagered on trick bets concerning the number of rounds the contest will go.

Gibbons seems to be in splendid condition. He has been mixing the hard grind of training with a lot of golf, a game at which he is more than ordinarily skilled.

British critics have found great amusement in watching Gibbons dispose of quartsb of ice-cream, his favourite dissipation.

The main bout of the programme is scheduled to start at 4 p.m. (11 a.m. Eastern daylight time).

They are expected to weigh about 178 pounds.

In body measurements they are almost identical.

GERMANS BOB HAIR.

ROSENTHAL, Germany, Aug. 8. —The police have recently completed a long investigation of a reported attack upon Charlotte Fenster, a young stenographer, by a human monster, who cut off her braids and was prevented from doing further harm by the appearance of the girl's dog, according to Charlotte.

The police, pressing Charlotte closely for the facts learned that the girl wanted to have her hair bobbed and was forbidden by her parents; that Charlotte held up herself and cut off her own braids and then reported the alleged attack to the police.

MANY ACCIDENTS TO ORLAND CARS

Hastings Man Had Double Mishap, and Orland Car Broke Down Going to Funeral.

ORLAND, Aug. 8.—As Mr. Clifford Herrington, of Hastings, was returning from Mr. Tennyson Adams, where he had taken Harry Herrington and wife to see his mother who is very ill there, he met another car with bright lights at Mr. D. R. Hennessy's bridge and got out a little too far and struck one of the posts of the bridge, breaking it off and striking the second post, which stopped the car. Mr. Hennessy came to his assistance with a horse and got him safely back into the road again and he proceeded on his way till he came near the old Huff place, where he ran head first into the marsh on the side of the road, evidently this accident was due to his having bent the steering device.

Another One.

W. J. Latimer of this place, was on his way to the funeral of Miss Florence Simpson yesterday, where he was to take the pallbearers to the cemetery, when his car gradually slowed up and stopped on the level road.

On getting it towed home by Mr. Geo. Rodgers, it was found that the drive shaft was broken. While it was an expensive break it was very fortunate that it occurred then and not when he was leading the procession on Houlihan's long, steep hill, where, had it broken, it would have been disastrous, endangering the lives of many.

Mrs. Margaret Matchett assisted Mrs. Hunter at the tea hour. The evening was spent in Music and games.

Mr. Hartly Stewart formerly one of the C.P.R. agents at Dranoel is spending with his wife, a week's vacation in this vicinity.

A PICNIC AT HAPPY GO LUCKY PARK

"Why, somebody's left a basket here," she said.

After Mrs. Woodchuck decided to keep her sons, Wally and Wooly and Willy, home for the summer, the next thing was to find things for them to do.

And my, but they did love picnics!

So one day she said, "Boys, we're going to have a picnic. How would you like that?"

"Fine!" cried all the little woodchucks. "Just fine. Where is it going to be?"

"At Happy Go Lucky Park," said their mother.

I know you'll be surprised at that because the last time Mrs. Woodchuck went to Happy Go Lucky Park she vowed up and down that she never, never, never would go back again.

But then the days got so hot and Happy Go Lucky Park was so cool that she changed her mind.

"Hooray for Happy Go Lucky Park!" cried all the little woodchucks.

So Mrs. Woodchuck made a chocolate cake and three kinds of sandwiches and ice cream and a meat loaf and salad and fixed deviled eggs and everything, and put it all in a great big basket.

And off they started.

"Good morning, Mrs. Woodchuck," said Nick when he saw them coming. "Let me help you with your basket."

"I don't care if I do," panted Mrs. Woodchuck, for the day was warm and her basket was heavy with goodies.

So Nick took the basket and hid it under some bushes. Mister Woodchuck was to come in the evening in time for supper.

"Do you think it is safe there?" asked Mrs. Woodchuck. "I would hate to have it stolen."

"Sure," said Nick. "Don't worry any more about it."

Mrs. Woodchuck hunted up a swing and got out her knitting and watched the boys.

Wally and Willy and Wooly Woodchuck had the time of their lives.

First they played in the sandpile for awhile and made tunnels and mountains and bridges and forts.

Then they slid down the sliding board about 50 times apiece.

Next they went in wading in a little puddle pond.

And they all got a ride on the merry-go-round and everything.

All this time something was happening to Mrs. Woodchuck's picnic basket and this was it:

When Nick put the basket under the bushes no one knew that a pair of greedy eyes were watching him.

Those greedy eyes belonged to Reddy Fox, and you may be sure that Mister Fox licked his chops when he saw such a gorgeous meal not 10 steps away, and all his for the taking.

"Um, yum!" he grinned. "I always did love picnics. I'll wait until everybody goes away and then I'll feast."

But just when he was slipping quietly one step at a time toward the basket, Nancy happened along.

"Why, somebody's left a basket here," she said. "I'll have to put it where it's safe."

And she picked it up and walked off.

I'll tell you the rest tomorrow.

AVIATION HAS GAINED PLACE

Commerce Adopts Latest Scientific Mode of Travel in Canadian Gold Fields.

AT HAILEYBUBY.

The great possibilities of commercial aviation in Canada and the valuable services it renders, already are illustrated by the popularity of the new air route opened between Haileybury, Ontario and the gold fields of Quebec. Since the Laurentide Air Service Limited has established a new base of operation at Haileybury—the first and only Canadian town to have its own air harbor with refueling station and mooring facilities—they have carried over 250 passengers and 10 tons of freight to Reuyn and the surrounding gold fields.

Every day, owners of mines or capitalists interested in the recently discovered rich mining area, avail themselves of the facilities of the air route the most direct and quickest way to the districts of Reuyn, Cowganda, Matabitcheuan and other mining localities. Reaching Haileybury by the Canadian National Railways Transcontinental train, they make their connection there with one of the three H.S. 21, hydroplanes operated by the Lauerntide Air Service Limited and in an hour or so are landed gently in Lake Osiska in front of the new town of Reuyn, 85 miles distant. Otherwise the journey to Reuyn by canoe, with the usual hardships of portages, flies, etc., would take two days and a half. Now they enjoy the view of this wild thickly wooded country, dotted with innumerable lakes from an altitude of 2,500 feet. And as far as safety is concerned, airman who followed the Haileybury-Reuyn air route, are unanimous in declaring it one of the safest in Canada. Lake Temiskaming, with its many miles of open water, offers an ideal place for a "take-off" and from the head of the lake the big lying boats of the L.A.S. service, follows a completely watered route providing excellent facilities under all conditions. Machines are under the constant supervision of expert engineers and all pilots have war records, followed by many years of experience in commercial aviation. Mr. B. W. Breatch, who is in charge of this aviation service, is himself a pilot of reputation, having served with the R.N.A.S., R.A.F. and R.C.A.F.

Bringing passengers from civilization into the wilderness inside of 75 minutes is not the only feat accomplished by the Haileybury-Reuyn Air service. One instance is given when a mining camp which ran short of supplies and was confronted with temporary starvation, sent a message which brought in a short time a hydroplane loaded with food. Recently a big mining transaction was carried through in a few hours by the help of the flying boat. A deal, involving many hundreds of thousands of dollars, which had to be signed before the closing of the bank on a Saturday morning, and two hours and a quarter later, the document properly executed, was returned to the office of the sender and the transaction went through.

Working in cooperation with the Canadian Nati[illegible] Railways, the Lauerntide [illegible] now proposes to en[illegible]vities to meet the de[illegible]blic and should the [illegible]ple now availing them[illegible]ultra modern system of [illegible]tion keep increasing in the same proportion, a little fleet of flying boats will be seen plying between Haileybury and the new gold fields.

Among recent passengers were, Col. Sam Thompson of New York a mining man of international reputation, and Mr. Hugh Park, general manager of the Nipissing mine at Cobalt.

GERMANS LIKE SHAKESPEARE.

WEIMAR, Germany, August 8.—Shakespeare is more popular in Germany than in England according to the German Association of Theatrical Managers. During 1923, the association points out, Shakespeare was produced in the German Republic 2,017 times, which included "The Merchant of Venice" 247 times and "Othello" 207 times.

Examiner Is Giving a Specially Complete Service In Entrancing Stories Of Scientific Achievements

"Interesting as a novel" is an expression often heard in praise of some story of achievement, and it may, though trite, be well applied to the stories coming in daily over the wire from the convention of scientists in Toronto. "Dry as dust" treatises are forgotten in the glamour of the discoveries of modern scientists and chemists; unentertaining geography is unthought of in reading of the findings of today's geogolists; and that threatened visit to the doctor fades into the pleasurable distance when an eminent scientist declares that certain organs of the body do not mind the extra labor imposed upon them.

The Examiner is receiving a specially complete service on the convention, at which every day matters of vital interest are being discussed. The findings that are given out are the result of years of work by the eminent scientists and represent the highest peak to which knowledge of the earth, the universe, the functions of mind and body, the development of natural resources the invention of machinery; the planning of cities and the combating of diseases has progressed.

Today and on succeeding days, as delivered in Toronto, the stories will be told in The Examiner of these achievements. Some of the subjects to be discussed are:

Canada may not require imported oil when shale is developed; Toronto scientists reverse process of human digestion; Experiments show that metals get tired; Apples and aeroplanes, Newton's law appealed in showing why aeroplane fly; Explosives do not bark at chemist who knows their tricks; Subconcious forecasting of events explained; Classics must remain in school programs; Mastodons roved Ontario not long ago; Dust in the city's air excludes the sunlight, and Workers in gold use the force that molds the raindrop.

To the man who is more interested in his own physical well-being than in the broader questions outlined above, perhaps the following discussions will be interesting: 'Whole body sympathizes when vital are injured; Says kidneys don't mind extra work; It disturbs your complexes when you write too fast.

And everyone will read the story of the men who chip to pieces the earth's old rocks and weave from them the history of the world's past ages.

HARRY GRANFIELD GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

"My health has undergone such a wonderful improvement that I must say Tanlac is an unusual medicine and tonic," states Harry Granfield, 153 Havety St., Toronto, Ont.

"For two years past I have been troubled with indigestion to such an extent that I felt unfit for anything. My nerves became all undone and my sleep was unsound. My energy had about all left me and I would tire out easily.

"Since taking Tanlac I have a wonderful appetite and my stomach never troubles me any more. My sleep is sound and restful and I get up mornings with renewed energy and really feel like active work for the first time in two years. I am strong for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

FABLES ON HEALTH

CONSCIOUS BREATHING.

"Conscious breathing" was a term Mr. Mann of Anytown had never heard before.

"As long as there is air and a person's lungs are all right, he'll breathe—whether he's conscious of it or not," Mr. Mann reasoned.

Which is perfectly true. If it were not we'd all suffocate in our sleep.

But there's a proper way to breathe, and a lazy man's way. The lazy man breathes enough air to keep him alive—and that's about all.

Then the doctor told Mr. Mann about the benefits of "conscious breathing."

"On your way to the car in the morning," said the doctor, "just fill your lungs to their capacity about a dozen times. Try long, quick breaths—gasps, so to speak. Exhale forcibly through the nostrils. Exercise your diaphragm.

"You'll be surprised how your chest expansion will increase if you cultivate this habit. Your circulation will improve and you'll feel like a new man.

"It's the easiest kind of exercise I know of—and one of the best."

CHURCH SOCIAL AT LAKEFIELD

Young's Point and Lakefield Parishes Joined in Garden Party at Fair Grounds.

LARGELY ATTENDED

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 8.—St. Paul's parish of Lakefield and St. Mary's of Young's Point co-operated yesterday in their annual social which was held for the first time at the fair grounds. The changed location proved a decided asset as the throng reminiscent of the fall exhibition attended. Rev. Father Garvey, pastor of the two parishes, marked up a real success, due to his own efforts, the tireless efforts of his many helpers, and the general patronage of the townspeople together with those from Young's Point, Peterboro and the nearby country.

It was a pleasant social gathering increasing steadily towards evening, and from the appearances of the brisk trade at the various booths and the hundreds who partook of the fowl supper, the financial side of the affair should be gratifying to Father Garvey and his parishioners.

Those in charge of the soft drinks booth were Miss Mona Fortier and Mr. Francis Condon and Mr. L. J. Garvey.

At the ice cream stand were Miss Mary Johnston, Miss Margaret Charlton and Miss Margaret Lawless.

At the fancy booth—Mrs. Elmsley, Miss Kennedy and Miss Lillian Condon.

At the fish pond Miss Veronica Johnston, Lauretta Harrington, Pearl Charlton and Margaret Darcy.

Mr. Thomas Turcotte and Jas. Howarth ran the wheel of fortune where many articles were disposed of including a Pommeranian puppy, donated by a little boy, who carried it in his arms. His sister gave it a parting kiss as it changed hands.

Prize winners in the drawing were Mrs. P. Farley of Indian River, Pauline Sturgeon, Peterboro; Matthew Young of Young's Point, Mrs. Robert Young of Young's Point, Mrs. Sam Duval Lakefield, five dollars each, and H. J. McCaskey of Glenalda 100 pounds of flour, E. Allen of Lakefield a spring lamb, Jos. H. Nolan of Lakefield a fountain pen. Master Douglas Smith of Lakefield drew the tickets. Other prizes were a hand made bag won by Rev. Father Butler a down comforter by J. T. Ayotte of Young's Point and table runner by Roger Moloney. The attendance prize went to Ed Allen of Lakefield.

The afternoon attraction was a baseball game in which Lakefield defeated the Curve Lake team by the score of 6-3. The line-up was:

Lakefield—Northey, p; Simpson, c; McMahon, 1b; Grier, 2b; Hull, 3b; Manning ss; Payne, cf; Connell lf; Dench, rf; Sherin and Hurl, subs.

Curve Lake—Henry Taylor, c; R. Muskrat, p; W. Crow, 1b; J. Johnston, 2b; M. McCue, 3b; D. Jacobs ss; Taylor rf; Stevenson lf.

Umpires—Dr. J. C. Smith at the plate and Dr. S. J. Gibson on the bases.

Connell's timely hitting for two triples was a feature.

Among those present were: Monsignor McColl and Rev. J. J. O'Brien of Peterboro; Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore; Rev. P. J. Galvin, Downeyville; Rev. J. J. McCarthy of Norwood and Rev. McGuire of Douro. Mr. J. J. Duffus and F. R. J. McPherson of Peterboro and Rev. Walter Cox and Mrs. Cox of Lakefield.

An interesting display of fireworks concluded the evening's attractions.

CHAUTAUQUA IS PLANNING NEXT YEAR'S RETURN

Closed This Season's Programme Last Night and To-day Announced Signing Up For Next.

HAWAIIAN MUSIC.

Audience Charmed By Musical Selections of Five South Seas Players.

The 1924 Chautauua course closed last evening, with a good attendance of over five hundred people, who received with evident hearty appreciation the excellent musical programme of Vierra's Hawaiians.

A group of five clever players from the South Sea Islands entertained their audience with an entire evening of the music of their romantic land. They were all extremely good musicians. The atmosphere of their native country was reproduced to a certain extent by an ingenious back drop, where, under subdued lights, moving waters and a volcano that broke into a red-fired, simulated eruption gave an impression of the native setting. The men, clad in cream suits with black, gold-fringed sashes and red leis about their necks, played a variety of instruments, including the Hawaiian ukelele, harp guitar and steel guitar and also gave solo violin and piano numbers.

The enthusiastic applause that followed every offering was an evidence of the appreciation felt by their hearers.

Steel Guitar Good.

Perhaps the most loudly-encored numbers of an exceptionally entertaining evening of native music were those of the performer on the steel guitar. The haunting, plaintive cadences of the music of those lovely isles of the Southern Seas held enthralled the hearers of the art of the little native who pulled, in harp-like trills, the echoing strings of his instrument, playing first "The Rosary,' 'with its jaunty encore in a falsetto imitation of a litle child reciting about Mary and her lamb, and some jazzy Hawaiian dance music.

This steel guitar artiste was an outstanding member of a quintette who were distinguished by their cheerful demeanour, and their apparent absorption in their own brilliant music. With the harp guitar he played a lovely setting of the melodious "Isle of Golden Dreams," and did an eccentric dance step for the quartette medley arrangement of "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More." One of his major efforts was a very good yodelling effort that finished off a quaint lullaby, and he had a number of stories that also pleased his auditors immensely.

The programme opened with a couple of bright quintette vocal numbers to piano accompaniment, one in Hawaiian and one in English, which were followed by two brilliantly-played pianoforte selections. Another group vocal number, "Rose of Honolulu," was sung, then a tenor solo in fine voice, "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses, and its encore, "Just a Girl That Men Forget."

Against the background where a simulated volcanic eruption took place, with lowered lights, the men sang together the memorable farewell song, the "Aloha Oe" of the "Bird of Paradise," and its encore, "My Nice Little Honolulu Tomboy.'

Ukelele numbers were "Mighty Lak a Rose' and medley of popular selections, and there was a beautiful violin solo, played in seldom-heard artistic fashion, with a muted, rich, soft tone that recalled the native temperament of its player, with an extremely sympathetic and effective piano accompaniment. These men seem to play as if they are heart and soul in their music, and are performing not so much for the entertainment of their auditors as to satisfy their own need of musical expression.

Brief Hawaiian Sketch.

One of the group introduced the various perormers by name to their audience, and gave a brief sketch of the Isles from which they hail. Annexed to the United States in 1898, the Hawaiian schools make a specialty of teaching English to the native children. The isles themselves, twelve in number, of which four are uninhabited, were discovered by Captain Cook, and were by him named the Sandwich Islands, in honour of his employer, the Earl of Sandwich, the name being changed later by the inhabitants. They are situated 2,100 miles south of San Francisco. The lei, or neck chain, which is a national emblem, signifies sympathy. friendship and love.

"Married people," said the musician, "do not wear them."

The history of the ukelele, whose name means "bouncing flea," was also briefly reviewed, and that of the steel guitar, whose originator first played on it with a comb, then a piece of wood, then the steel bar which gives it its name.

Afternoon Programme.

The first portion of the afternoon entertainment was also given by these Hawaiians, whose music evoked a similar response to that accorded it last night. A dramatic entertainment by Miss iVrginia Slade composed the second part of the afternoon's programme, in which the talented young lady reader gave in its entirety a recital of the four acts of the well-known play, "Within the Law." Her grasp of her subject and the manner in which she went through an exacting task, portraying the sixteen different characters in the play, were exceptional.

Last evening a canvass of the audience for pledges in connection with another season's Chautauqua was made, resulting in the receipt of over one hundred, several ladies pledging five and ten tickets apiece.

Invited by the manager, Mr. Rockwood, to the platform, Mr. G. A. Gillespie and Dr. J. J. Craig spoke in turn on the excellence of the Chautauqua programmes. In the canvass which followed, it was announced that this year's ticket sale had totalled 340 season tickets. A total of 500 was needed to cover the guaranteed expenses of the course, so that the cost of the balance, 160 season tickets, at $2.50 each, would have to be borne by the fifty or more guarantors of this year.

Last evening, announcement was made of an offer by Mr. Gillespie to supplement the sum of pledges by 100 tickets, should the audience bring the total up to 400. This aim was not achieved at last evening's session, the grand total of a little over 300 tickets remaining the same at the close, but the manager announced that other interested gentlemen were considering taking up the remainder.

Mr. Rockwood also expressed himself as being very pleased with the treatment accorded the Chautauqua artistes during their stay in Peterborough, and paid an eloquent tribute to the co-operation afforded by The Examiner in its reports of the meetings.

Some twenty Chautauqua programmes are functioning on or about the present time throughout Ontario. Those in Kingston, Napanee, and Oshawa, like the local course, close this week.

This morning, Mr. H. L. Rockwood, manager for this year's Chautauqua course, told The Examiner that contracts for next season's Chautauqua had been signed up, with pledges for the necessary five hundred season tickets received, the chief guarantors for the extra two hundred tickets being Mr. G. A. Gillespie and Dr. J. J. Craig.

MANUFACTURE OF STAINLESS STEEL

Stainless Steel Has Been Made For Small Cutlery.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 9. United Press.—American steel men are watching with interest the oucome of tests being made here of a new process for making stainless steel and iron. The tests have been under way for some time.

Upon the outcome of these experiments hangs the solution of a problem that has puzzled the best minds in the steel industry for years

Stainless steel has been made but it has been confined to cutlery, and small fittings because the cost of production has made extensive application prohibitive

It still is too early to predict the effect it will have commercialy on the steel industry but if the tests are successful at the reduced cost rustless tubes, automobiles and even ships are possible The new process is protected by patent in every country where steel is made

The process is the invention of Ronald Wild of Sheffield, England, and is being demonstrated here by a brother, A H. Wild, who is said to be the owner of one of the largest steel product plants in England. A group of New York capitalists are said to be looking after the Amreican rights.

The tests here have been witnessed by prominent metallurgists, chemists and practical steel men, and while they have not committed themselves they hold out great hopes for rustless steel and iron.

The Sheffield men say their process is beyond the experimental stage, and they are certain of its success.

ROBERT TANNAHILL, POET

150th Anniversary To Be Held in Paisley This Year.

Among the special anniversaries of the present year some will be interested to note that the Scottish poet, Robert Tannahill, was born 150 years ago last month. This event will be honoured in Paisley, Scotland, in the near future.

Robert Tannahill was a genuine poet, if a minor one. Like his greater fellow-countryman, Robert Burns, he was of humble origin.

A native of Paisley, he worked as a handloom weaver and composed his poems as he wove.

For a period of years concerts in his memory were held annually at the Braes of Gleniffer, near his native town. But owing to the war and other causes these concerts were discontinued, until this year they were revived for the 150th anniversary.

Among the best known of Tannahills songs are, as local Scotsmen, and especially those who claim the thread town as their birthplace, "Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane" and "Gloomy Winter's Noo Awa'."

BRITAIN HAS NEW WAR TERRORS

Ray and Rocket.

Scientists Finishing Work on New Death-Dealing

By MILTON BRONNER.

SHEFFIELD, England, Aug. 8.—Grindell-Matthews may sell his so-called death ray secret to France, but England will be safe all the same, with Professor T. F. Wall zooming his own death ray at any hostile air force and Ernest Welsh making the skies untenable by a deadly rain of fire far more terrible than anything a volcano ever emits.

I found Dr. Wall in the electrical research laboratory of Sheffield University. This laboratory is his own domain in the great school.

Unlike many men who have been loudly proclaiming their discoveries, Wall is painfully modest. My request to him to tell me all about it was met by this:

"I can only say I have discovered a means of transmitting electrical energy in any desired direction across space without the use of intermediate wires. I have patented it to protect protect myself and my country.

"I may go a step farther and say that I believe by this form of energy I have discovered a means to kill living things at great distances. I haven't tried this as yet, but am confident it can be done.

"The third step—that of destroying or stopping machines—is one which I am not prepared to discuss. Electrical energy conceivably might kill a living thing, but not seriously affect a piece of mechanism.

Germans Are Busy, Too.

"However, you can readily see the possibilities of what I have already discovered. If this ray of electrical energy can kill living things over great distances, it will make abortive any attempt by an enemy to attack England from the air. We could kill the crews in the airplanes and airships and the mere machines would then be of little danger to us.

"But my first tests will be made by and with the experts of my own government. If the thing proves out, I want Great Britain to have the benefit of whatever defensive and offensive value it has.

"Scientific minds all over the world have been at work on this problem. I was educated at Karlsruhe in Germany, and since the war have got into touch with people over there again. From something recently communicated to me, I am quite confident the Germans have already discovered a ray that is so powerful it will stop a motor five miles away.

"And I believe the Germans have many chemical and physical secrets stored away in their archives, and already tested out. They probably have things that will make our present methods of warfare trivial."

Over at the little village of Ferriby, near Hull, I found a different kind of scientist—Ernest W. Welsh, who came near being a Brooklynite. But his parents moved back to the old country, and so Welsh is a Briton.

During the war he discovered the first Verey light, invented a method of hearthe approach of submarines, and the antidote to German chlorine poison gas. His claims against his government for these things still are pending. At Ferriby he is manufacturing a non-inflammable movie film, and is just closing a deal for the scale of the American rights.

And Now the Death Rocket.

Said he: "I have invented a rocket which will put out of business any airplane or airship that an enemy power could send over. My rocket is a tailless one, shot from a tube by a charge of explosive I have invented. I can regulate it so I can send the rocket up into the air anywhere from 1,000 feet to 22,000 feet.

"When this rocket is at the top of its carrying power—that is, when it reaches the zenith of its upward flight—there is an explosion in the rocket which scatters in every direction between 300 and 400 little receptacles. These, in turn, explode, sending a rain of red hot molten metal in every direction.

"This metallic substance is an alloy of aluminium and some other things that I have invented. The heat of these metallic pellets is so intense that it will cut right through steel.

"Now, figure an enemy power sends a fleet of airplanes over London. So soon as the signal is given men stationed in various parts of the city shoot up my rockets. The air becomes untenable for the enemy. These blazing pellets destroy the wings of the airplanes, cut through the metallic parts, set fire to airships and explode them, terribly burning and even killing the crews.

"No machine and no man can live in that fiery shower.

"But there is no danger to the people and the buildings beolw, because these fiery pellets float about for quite a while. They burn themselves out and fall back to earth in harmless, almost impalpable dust.

"The rocket would be between two and three feet long. For my tests I have used a rocket one foot long with a different charge of powder for each inch of length. Most of these powders I have invented myself. Your American professor, Goddard, who proposes to shoot a rocket at the moon, undoubtedly has worked along the same lines.

"But the death ray is still a theory. My death rocket is a proved fact. I have tested it.

"And I have found that the fiery pellets will burn even through asbestos."

HAVANA'S ALIENS AWAIT SMUGGLING INTO THE STATES

Aliens Are Herded Like Cattle in the Streets of Havana.

WAIT FOR TURN.

Syrians and Armenians Rub Shoulders With Bearded Russians.

By BOB DORMAN.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 8.—Waiting—waiting—waiting. Throngs of those whom Uncle Sam designates as undesirable aliens, crowd the little restaurants and hotels of the poorer quarter of Havana.

They are waiting their turn to penetrate the immigration barrier that has been erected around the United States.

From every land and clime they come.

Sun-burned Syrians and Armenians rub shoulders with bearded Russians of the frozen north.

Slant-eyed orientals, their stolid yellow faces impassive, watch the violent gesticulations of the fiery sons of Italy.

But though they are as different from each other as day is from night, each breast is dominated by the one desire—to reach the land that to them is the land of opportunity.

Each one waits for the summons that is to bring to him the fulfilment of his dreams.

Back behind it all is an organization—a vast sinister thing—that feeds itself upon the heart-burnings of the outcasts of the world.

An organization that has its agents in every port in Europe.

Whose representatives may be found in far-off Asia.

Hamburg, Marseilles, Naples, Constantinople, Danzig, Hongkong, and other ports know them.

To those barred from America by the quota law, they make their appeal.

For 10,000 francs (about $500) they offer to put them ashore in the United States.

The aliens are brought steerage to Havana.

There they are put in the slums, surrounded on every side by the underworld and its rapacious hunters, who soon rob them of the few pennies that they may have left.

Many are compelled to go out into the streets, peddling small articles from pushcarts, in order to make a living while waiting for their "Great Day."

The head of the organization is a French-Cuban.

His headquarters is a little restaurant in Animas street, in the heart of the Cuban metropolis' Tenderloin.

There he sits, drinking champagne with a few cronies, and directs the operations of his organization.

He maintains his own police force who guard him and his haunts.

The day arrives when his agents report a "clear coast" somewhere in Florida, generally around Tampa.

A dozen or so Fords, each driven by one of his police, draw up the various hotels in the slums where his victims are quartered, and those who have been separated from their last cent, loaded into the cars, five or six to each.

Quickly under the cover of darkness they are whisked to one of his schooners, of which he has more than a dozen engaged in the smuggling of liquor and immigrants.

There they are placed on board to huddle on the deck for the run to the coast of the promised land, where they are dumped ashore at night.

Then they are smuggled in other autos to some inland town whence they are shipped to their friends, if they are so lucky as to have any.

The others, less fortunate, are farmed out as peon labor, by the agents of the organization.

The profits of the smuggling gang run about $350 a head.

The average number of aliens landed monthly on the American coast is 700.

Many of those so landed are caught, and, penniless, are deported to their homeland, there to live or starve.

But the fate does not act as a deter-h rent on those others who hunger for a land of peace and freedom.

Business is good with the Havana smugglers—their civtims are waiting—waiting—waiting.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

COBOURG, Aug. 8.—A canvass was begun to-day, with an objective of $5,000 in view, with the object of raising funds for a war memorial. Major F. D. Boggs is hon. chairman of the committee, Mr. Henry Fullerton is chairman, and Messrs. T. J. Stenhouse, D. W. Jex and Harry Field, captains of the three subdivisions into which the town is divided.

Haldimand Township Rate.

A special meeting of Haldimand Council was held on August 4 to strike the rate for the year. There were present: Peter Haig (Reeve), A. McKenzie (Deputy-Reeve), Y. Harnden and John Harnden. The Reeve gave the information desired by the Council at a previous meeting re the passing of a by-law abolishing statute labor. On motion by Messrs. McKenzie and Harnden, the rate levied for 1924 remains the same as in 1923: County rate 10 5-10, township rate 5 mills, distribution for public schools 6 7-10.

By-law No. 197 to levy certain rates was read, signed and sealed. Council adjourned, to meet at Grafton August 28, at 2 o'clock.

Baltimorians Picnic.

The United Presbyterian and Methodist Sunday School at Baltimore and the Women's Institute held a picnic at Victoria Park on Thursday, and spent a very pleasant afternoon. Ideal weather and a happy company were conducive to a general good time.

Garden Party.

The garden party and sale held on the lawn at Mrs. C. C. Field's, West King Street, Friday afternoon, was not only financially successful, but was also a delightful social gathering. It was well attended, and the gross proceeds are between $180 and $200. An impromptu programme, during which Miss Woodhead Preston, who is guest of Miss Russell, and Mr. George Anderson sang, added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Fined $10.00.

Joseph St. Jean, who had been in the jail here for a few days, was taken down to Colborne on Thursday, where he came up before Magistrate Floyd on a charge of having a revolver in his possession without a license. He was fined $10 and costs.

The fracas which led to the man being placed under arrest took place on the C.N.R. near Colborne, where accused was one of the extra gang working on the railroad, and Chief Jamieson was called to the scene. It is alleged that the accused threatened to shoot Albert Nedoud, another employee, and the trouble is said to have started when the latter brought out a mud turtle which Joe had stored under one of the bunks with the idea of having the cook concoct a savory dish. Chief Jamieson placed the men under arrest, and he was remanded to jail until last Thursday. Mr. F. B. Hall, K.C., was retained to defend St. Jean.

Local and Personal.

Miss Lola Harris, Gore's Landing, who was receiving treatment at the Cobourg Hospital, was able to return to her home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannaford and son, who met with the motor accident on Saturday, which necessitated Mrs. Hannaford being taken to Cobourg Hospital with a fractured arm, have returned to Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker and son Gerald and daughter Madeline, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Barkley motored down from Toronto on Saturday afternoon and went out to Baltimore to spend the week-end with friends. Mrs. Baker before her marriage was Miss Mabel Curtis, and resided formerly at Hull's Corners, and later at Cobourg, before going to Toronto.

Miss Freida Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rogers, of Toronto, is spending the summer holidays at the home of the Misses Wood, King Street West.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Austin, Cleveland, Ohio, and son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. H. R. Whiting, of Mansfield, Ohio, are staying at Gore's Landing, enjoying the fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Redfern, of Colborne, have gone to Grand Haven, where Mr. Redfern will resume his duties on a ferry running between Grand Haven and Milwaukee.

Rev. H. W. Foley and family, of Hilton, formerly of Salem, are leaving shortly to spend a few weeks' holidays at Bobcaygeon.

Messrs. W. F. Griffis, H. J. Mayhew, S. J. Cox and W. G. Potts, of Colborne, spent a few days pleasantly on a fishing trip in the vicinity of Bancroft.

DEATH OF DR. P. McADAM MUIR, OF GLASGOW.

British papers announce the death of Dr. Pearson McAdam Muir, one of the leading ministers of the Church of Scotland.

For nearly twenty years he was minister of Glasgow Cathedral.

For the past ten ----- he had lived in retirement, owing to failing health.

SILVER MINE FAILURE

A theory for the formation of the high grade ores in deep workings, which are a feature of the Keeley Silver Mine, one of the financial successes in the Cobalt region, was propounded in the geology section of the British Association to-day by J. Macintosh Bell, managing-director of the mining company, and Prof. Ellis Thomson of the University of Toronto. "Extension of the shaft to depth converted the Keeley Mine from an economic loss to an important producer," the geologists said. They showed that accompanying an unusual state of oxidation in the vein material is an enrichment in the silver values, with a comparative decrease in the arsenides of nickel and cobalt. The silver yield can also be related to the state of oxidation of iron occurring in the ores.

Dr. Bell and Prof. Thompson described the geological and mineralogical peculiarities of the Keeley mine, reconstructing the series of events which they thought had given rise to the deposit, and the chemical reactions which were likely responsible for the enrishment of the silver bearing portions of the veins. The high oxidation, with consequent enrichment, has been recognized in workings as deep as 560 feet.

THAT TIRED FEELING.

Fatigue after prolonged work is largely psychological, said Dr. Evans, of St. Bartholomew's Hospital Medical School, in the course of a joint discussion between the Physiology and Physchology sections of the British Association to-day.

From the physiological aspect, he said, the main factor in fatigue is the accumulation of lactic acid in the muscles. It is this chemical which is responsible for the stiffness felt after exercise of untrained muscles.

The exercise of trained muscles, Dr. Evans pointed out, does not result in stiffness, because an improved circulation of the blood permits more oxygen to reach the tissue, and this effects a removal of the lactic acid through oxidation. A plentiful supply of oxygen to the muscle ensures that exercise will not result in stiffness.

Dr. Evans pointed out the parallel instance of the muscular stiffness experienced at high altitudes, which is also caused by a deficient oxygen supply due to the rarification of the atmosphere. He also brought out the interesting fact that there is no necessary relation between the pulse rate and oxygen usage.

While the physiological factor in fatigue is mainly a question of the circulation of blood in the muscles, this is second in importance, he said, to the psychological factor.

GOOD HARVEST FOR SCIENCE.

The Arctic expeditions undertaken by Dr. R. M. Anderson and his companions, from 1913 to 1918, have yielded rich bounty for science. "From the insect collections alone there have have been described eight new genera, ninety-three new species, one new subspecies, and four new varieties," is how Dr. Anderson described only one of the results of his expeditions to the Geography section of the British Association to-day.

The primary work accomplished, according to Dr. Anderson, was the mapping of the copper bearing rocks between Cape Parry and the Kent Peninsula, and the mapping of the Yukon Territory and Firth River, as well as the main channels of the Mackenzie River delta.

Intensive studies of the anthropology of the Copper Eskimos were made, and other groups of Eskimos were studied, including their linguistics, religion, and customs. Biological collections included large series of plants, insects, fishes and marine invertebrates, about 700 birds of 75 species, and 300 mammals of 25 species.

Scientific memoirs dealing almost entirely with the notes and collections of this branch of the expeditions have been in preparation by 73 specialists, said Dr. Anderson, and 47 out of 76 projected reports have already been issued.

WATER POWER OF CANADA.

That the water-power resources of Canada are most abundant in the Central Provinces where the absense of native coal makes them of special value, was pointed out to-day fby Mr. J. B. Challies to the Engineering section of the British Association.

"The modern water-power industry," said Mr. Challies, who is director of the Water Power and Reclamation Service Department of the Interior of Canada," began in 1895, and has shown a steady and remarkable growth, which promises to be even more rapid in the future than in the past. During the last ten years," he said, "while the population increased twenty-two per cent, and its use in industry two hundred and forty-five per cent. The total water-power throughout the Dominion is estimated at over eighteen million horse-power, of which about three and a quarter million is now developed and three-quarter million is under construction.

The capital invested in water-power development, transmission and distribution has grown from one hundred and twenty-one million dollars in 1910 to six hundred and eighty-eight million in 1923, and the opportunities for further investment in such enterprises are numerous and attractive. Natural resources are abundant, labor conditions are stable, agriculture and manufactures are increasing their yield, and new markets are being developed." The pulp and paper, mining and other industries of the Central Provinces Mr. Challies pointed out, are dependent on water-power development. He also assured the meeting that the conditions under which the Canadian Government permitted the development of its water-power resources afforded reasonable such extent of control was was considered necessary in the public interest.

RELIEF.

France, paying her people for war damages, has already handed over 24 billion francs. She has put her o.k. on damage claims of 60 billion francs and expects the final total to be as high as 85 billions.

The value of the franc has fluctuated so much there's no way of estimating how much this amounts to in American dollars. No one knows how much of the expenditure will be recovered from Germany in reparations.

When the books are balanced a century from now, however, Uncle Sam's final war loss may not be far from the top. We also were "devastated" financially into the billions.

COST.

A railroad has to aul a ton of freight 48 miles to get enough money to buy a pint of ink, 115 miles to buy a monkey wrench, 75 miles for a crosstie, 3350 to pay a freight train crew for a day's work. So claims Dr. David Friday, statistics sharp of National Transportation Institute.

The cost, of course, frequently depends on whether or not the road is being milked by a supply company.

HOSS.

Here's a horse that has carried a boy 22,000 miles since 1911, to and from school. That wouldn't be a bad mileage for a car. No gasoline. No tires. No parts to be replaced.

The horse, of course, has to eat. He has to be garaged and curried. But, all in all, he's the most perfect transportation device to date. And the safest.

The boy who rode the faithful steed—Reuben Wilhelm of Bazine, Kansas.

DARWIN MIXED IN HIS THEORY OF EVOLUTION

Scientist Says Only Mistake is That Process Reversed —Apes Descend From Men.

ONLY A COUSIN.

Brother Scientists Are Slow To Give Up Their Anthropoid Ancestry.

TORONTO, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—That the anthropoid ape is not one of the "links" in a man's geneology, and that the Darwin theory has been wrongly applied in one particular during the past forty years, is the view of C. Hill Tout of Vancouver, B.C., former president of the history and anthropology section of the Royal Society of Canada, who addressed the anthropology section of the British science convention yesterday. In its concise form his theory is that man has not descended from ape as is taught by the orthodox anthropologist, but that the ape is a descendant of original proto-man stock. In other words, he says that the anthropoid is a cousin rather than an ancestor to the human.

Mr. Hill Tout's paper received the undivided attention of the audience which filled one of the anatomy building lecture rooms to overflowing. There was but little discussion of its contents. One speaker heartily endorsed the views expressed, but it was gathered from corridor conversation following the meeting that some of the leading members of the section were not disposed to "move too rapidly," as one of them expressed it.

If Ontario Went Dry.

For the second day of the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science the programme has in all eighty addresses for scientific digestion, thirty in the morning and fifty in the afternoon. In the morning N. Shaw told mathematicians and physicians what would happen if the earth went dry, not a la Ontario, but physically. The water power situation in Canada and the development of the St. Lawrence received attention from H. Mare, who took the place of J. B. Challies in presenting the paper, and D. W. McLachlan, who also discussed the great lakes system of navigation. F. A. Gaby, of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, gave the engineers a review of electrical development in the Province of Ontario during the last decade featuring the great accomplishment of engineering at Chippawa. Sir William Beveridge held the attention of the economists, with a comprehensive study of the fall in the birth-rate of the world and the effect of birth control. He was followed by Prof. J. A. Field on eugenic worth and economic value.

Birth Control.

That the power of birth control will have an insidious influence on the future of the race and cause a decided falling off in the number of marriages rather than an increase, was the conviction strongly emphasised by Sir William Beveridge, of London, England, in addressing the section on Economics at the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science this morning.

The subject was treated by Sir William in dealing with the fall of fertility among the European races, and he declared that his investigations had suggested that the exploitation of new powers over nature has been used and is being used in many countries to-day to postpone or avoid marriage.

"The fall of fertility," said Sir William, "is found almost everywhere, but its extent varied greatly from one country to another, according to differences of creed, class, occupation, and density of population."

WHY COAL BILL VARIES WEEKLY

Blame the Japanese Current If Bills Are Out of the Ordinary This Winter.

The variableness of Canadian winters may be due to the temperature and position of the Japan Current, according to Sir Frederic Stupart.

At the Mathematics and Physics section of the British Association to-day Sir Frderic outlined the conditions which govern the kind of winter which may be experienced in south Western Canada. In normal sensons he said Pacific cyclonic areas usually move south-eastward with their centres well off the coast until at about the latitude of Northern British Columbia they enter the continent, while anticyclonic conditions of moderate intensity with low temperature prevail in Yukon and the Mackenzie River."

Outlining the conditions which lead to abnormally cold winters, Sir Frederic explained that in certain years "the Pacific cyclonic areas are less intense and enter the continent further south, while great anti-cyclonic developments occur in the far north and sweep southeastward over Canada, accompanied by severe cold waves, which not unfrequently reach the Atlantic coast."

"In other years the North Pacific cyclonic areas appear to be of such intensity that they force their way into the continent in high latitudes and actually prevent the formation of anticyclones and the low temperatures which accompanies them. These conditions lead to mild winters in Canada."

"The Meteorological Service", said Sir Frederic, "is now investigating whether there is any connection between the temperature and position of the Japan Current and the behavious of these cyclonic areas."

EXPLAINS LAST COLOR OF SUNSET DISPLAYS.

When the sun sets under certain favorable conditions it may be noticed that just as it disappears below the horizon a brilliant green color flashes up.

A generally accepted theory explains the phenomenon as due to the simultanious absorption and dispersion of the light before it reaches the eye of the observer.

At the British Association today Mr. F. J. Whipple, Superintendent of Climatology at the Meteorological Office of the Air Ministry reproduced the Green Flash experimentally under conditions which confirmed the reliability of theoretical explanation.

SUDDEN RISE OF LAKE WAVES DUE TO FREEDOM FROM SWELL

Suddenness with which storms blow up on the Great Lakes can be directly attributed to the absence of swell on these inland seas, paradoxical as it may sound, in the light of the researches of Vaughan Cornish, D. Sc., authority on strategic geography and a well known traveller, who addressed geographers at the British Association to-day.

Dr. Cornish conducted experiments on the relative speed of wind and waves on a voyage which he made from Southampton to Trinidad. The speed of the wind was measured with an ordinary anemometer, and the velocity of the waves was determined indirectly by estimating their period. Due allow was made for the speed and direction of the liner from which the observations were made.

"The speed of the wind ranged from 14 to 24 miles an hour", said Dr. Cornish. "That of the waves was in all cases less, the difference ranging from 1 to 8 miles an hour."

This difference in velocity does not depend upon the absolute speed of the air currents, the scientist stated, but it was correlated with measurements which were made on the swell prevailing at the same time.

"When the swell and wave ran precisely in the same direction, as sometimes occurs in the region of the Trade winds, and when no swell was recorded, the speed of the waves was nearly equal to that of the wind", Dr. Cornish stated. "The difference in their respective speeds was hardly sufficient to move a weather vane. There was no longer a battle between wind and wave.

"The growth of the waves in both height and length was hindered by a crossing swell, and it can be safely inferred that the general absence of swell is a sufficient reason for the rapid rise of waves upon enclosed seas.

"When the wind comes on to blow in the direction of the ocean swell with a speed greater than that of the swell, the growth of large steep waves, is very rapid, doubtless more rapid than their growth from smooth water, but this occurrence is relatively rare in the North Atlantic", the geographer said. Excepting in the rare cases when the swell and wind are in the same direction, the tendency is towards short and irregular wave fronts.

Thus the swell would appear to act as a brake on the wave-forming influence of the wind, and in the case of the sudden storms and high waves which frequently occur on large lakes this restraining force is absent, and the wind can quickly work up waves cumulatively higher.

The general run of the waves on the ocean shows the direction of the wind reliably, Dr. Cornish stated. "The direction of a breaker out at sea is intermediate between that of wave and swell—the breaker being formed when they override—so that the practice of observing the direction of the curl on the water as a method of determining the direction of the wind, gives an erroneous result whenever there is a crossing swell, which is usually the condition on oceans", he warned.

AN INTERNATIONAL BODY NEEDED FOR METEOROLOGY

World-wide co-operation of meteorologists for the purpose of examining and comparing records of barometric pressure may solve one of the riddles which has been puzzling scientists, according to F. J. W. Whippel, of the meteorological office of the Air Ministry of Great Britain, who spoke in the cosmical physics subsection of the British Association today. Meteorologists have hitherto been unable to explain adequately the variations which are shown in the daily readings of the barometer, but an alnaysis of existing records may do much to clear up the mystery, Mr. Whipple said. "The regular oscillations of pressure show remarkable regularities all over the globe", he said. "Thus it is probable that the earth is connected in a simpl way with their cause."

Accurate barographs, which record the atmospheric density automatically, at the same time correcting for slight variations caused by changing temperature, have been in operation in European countries for many years, and it is possible that an examination of these records will point out the cause of the periodic changes, the scientist thought. The tracings which have been filed away eliminate the variations due to expansion or contraction of the air due to high or low temperatures, which are not the main concern of the meteorologists, since other and more significant changes take place. "Observational material is exceptionally rich in the British Isles", Mr. Whipple stated. A superficial examination of the British records indicates that the daily changes can be explained on the basis of the, operation of two mathematical laws one following the well-known sine rule of trigonometry and the other a planetary wave which corresponds in form to changes in the sun's declination.

This complexion of the facts does not agree with an older theory propounded by Lord Kelvin.

A conference of weather bureaus of the various nationalities after an examination of the separate records will likely confirm the two-wave theory, the meteorologist stated.

ARE CANADIAN MAMMALS THREATENED EXTINCTION?

Some Canadian mammals, it is said, are already on the verge of extinction, but Dr. H. M. Anderson, Victoria Museum, Ottawa, was optimistic over the possibility of saving them, in his address to the Geography Section of the B. A. to-day. He said that Canada has the best natural advantages of any country for postponing the day for the disappearance of the mammal. The factors working for the extinction of mane beautiful animals were, amongst others, the demand for fashionable furs and the reduction of the grazing areas through the development of agriculture. Among the animals named which were in danger of extinction are the pronghorn antelope, the bison and elk, and the white-tailed derr.

The bison and elk will however persist in semi-domestication, and the white-tailed deer will increase in bush clearings in un-agricultural districts.

A large area of Arctic and sub-Arctic lands beyond the range of possible cultivation are still occupied by large numbers of wild caribou and a few remnants of the musk-oxen, Dr. Anderson thought that there were possibilities of developing a domestic reindeer industry in certain districts and attractive possibilities in attempting domestication of the musk-ox.

NORTHERN ORE-BEDS FORMED BEFORE ROCKY MOUNTAINS

Geological holocausts which led to the formation of the metallic deposits in northern Ontario were portrayed in the geology section of the British Association to-day by Prof. M. B. Baker, of Queen's University who told how two huge ranges of mountains, greater and probably grander than the Rockies, were forced up on the surface of North America, and then gouged off again before the continent took its present shape. The surviving rocks of this shuffling process, which took place in the earliest, or pre-Cambrian geological age, occupy more than one half of the area of Canada, and the nearest to Toronto are those of the Muskoka area.

"During the formation of each of these continents of mountain ranges, vast masses of igneous rocks were intruded into the lower parts of the mountains to be exposed later when they were worn down to their bases", said the geologist.

"At the close of the pre-Cambrian age there was another period when igneous rocks of enormous volume were injected into and poured over the rocks already formed.

"Included in the rocks of this later vulcanism, and in the 'country' rocks adjacent to them, are to be found the copper, nickel, silver and cobalt of the Keweenaw, Kirkland, and other regions in Ontario and Quebec were amassed during the second great igneous upheaval, when the motton rocks were squirted up inside the mountains.

The first occasion when the basic rocks were broken and burned with the liquid inlays, proves barren as far as metalliferous ores are concerned, the scientist stated. This he correlated with the fact that in the products of the first great upheaval, there is to be seen no great differentiation from the parent stock, which was gray or pink subsequently altered to gneiss.

In the case of the second and third spasms of vulcanism, the intruded rocks were modified into many different types, and in this differentiation lies the explanation of the origin of the metalliferous ores.

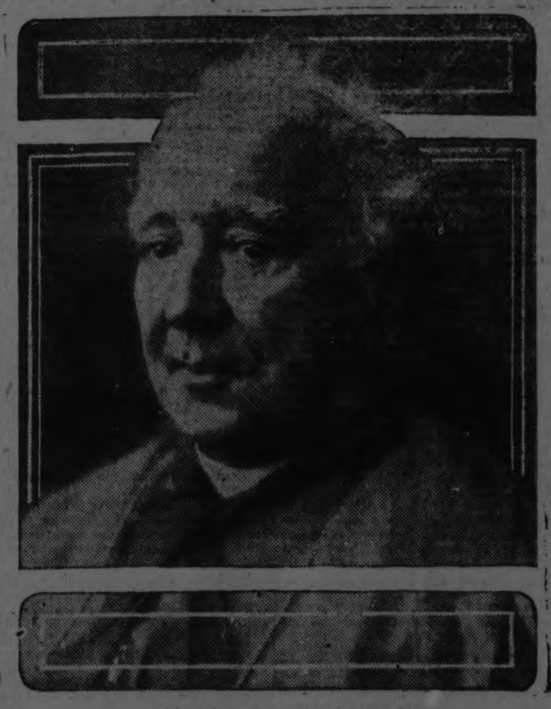
"In the light of this knowledge, the economic development of the pre-Cambrian areas of Canada must be preceded by the delineation of the highly differentiated igneous rocks which mark the end of the middle and upper divisions of the pre-Cambrian geology age", Prof. Baker said. "This preliminary survey will have to be followeda by intensive and careful exploration of the points of contact of the metallic igneous regions, and the neighboring country rocks."

SHOWS WATER VAPOR DETERMINES WEATHER

The circulation of the atmosphere, depends fundamentally upon the warming of the surface of the earth by the sun's rays, and the cooling effect of radiation, according to Sir Napier Shaw, professor of meteorology at the Imperial College of Science and Technology, who spoke in the physics section at the British Association this morning. The controlling factor of weather, he explained, is the distribution of water vapor in the atmosphere and the degree of saturation. "The two factors must be taken into account in any theoretical study of climate", he said. "The problem can be simplified by regarding these two aspects of thermal influence as distinct."

"If we consider the effect of 'dry heat' alone, we can form an idea of what the general circulation would be if there was no water vapor at all in the air."

The conclusions of such an investigation are mainly hypothetical, Sir Napier said, since the actual circulation of the winds is greatly affected by the condensation or evaporation of water. The scientist treated the subject mathematically, showing the influence upon the temperature of a surface caused by its inclination to the horizontal, or to its orientation so that sun's rays strike perpendicularly, thereby being received in most concentrated form. It is possible in this way to determine from theoretical considerations the speed of the wind necessary to maintain a constant temperature on Arctic ice floes during the polar night. The researches indicate also that, at a height of approximately one mile, air movements should be practically nil, because at about this evel the opposing heating and cooling factors are equalized, and the result is a belt of calm, theoretically at least.



RT. REV. T. J. DOWLING, D.D.

This is a favorite photograph taken a short time ago of the late Roman Catholic Bishop of Hamilton, who died yesterday. Bishop Dowling was formerly Bishop of Peterboro, and is widely mourned in this district.

Climatic conditions of this kind, where the influence of water vapor is at a minimum, actually occur in the case of expanses of desert, Sir Napier Shaw said. A similar condition prevails in the frigid air of the polar regions, where the proportion of water present as vapor is relatively small. The small amount of water which still remains in the air in the gasefied condition at temperatures below freezing is still of significance from the meteorologist's point of view, he stated, but this factor is relatively unimportant in determining the direction and velocity of the winds. The influence of the solar rays, and the radiation from the surface, are the chief determining forces in this case.

FORETELLS WEATHER BY USE OF FORMULA

Weather Forecasting May Be Placed On Mathematical Basis—Scientists Hear.

Weather forecasting may be placed on a mathematical basis, if the theory of J. Bjerknes, of the Geophysics Institute of Bergen, Nowary, can be applied on a practical scale. The scientist, who reported his researches in the physics section of the British Association to-day, has discovered after making numerous temperature and barometer observations, that an area of low pressure is due to the conflict of two oppositely directed air currents, one hot and the other cold. "Initially, each current occupies about one half of the area covered by the depression", he said. "The area of the cold air next to the ground, is always increasing, and finally it embraces the whole of the depression in the lower layers.

"The warm air covers at the ground a correspondingly decreasing space. As the depression develops, air from the warm sector will escape upwards and spread into the higher layers." The result is a wind, determined in direction and velocity by the temperatures and masses of the moving air currents. The motion slows down as soon as there is only cold air supply available for the ascending motion.

"The temperature distribution in the depression thus gives useful indications concerning the expected development," Mr. Bjerknes explained.

The resulting air current when the opposing hot and cold areas come into contact, can be formulated mathematically as an equation giving the speed of the different masses of air relatively to one another, he showed. "One may thus arrive at a mathematical forecast, provided that sufficient observational data are on hand," he concluded. A prediction made in this way from an observation of a depression in Central Europe recently, was confirmed subsequently, it was shown.

HOW VOCAL ORGANS BUILD UP SPEECH

Articulation Expounded By Professor Before British Association.

Sir Richard Paget Divides His Personality and Renders a Duet.

Toronto, August 7, 1924.

If you can talk, you have an 'ear' for music. Every time you give utterance to coherent speech, you unconsciously play a premeditated composition on the various instruments in the orchestra of your vocal organs, and when you recognize spoken words, your ear is automatically picking out certain definite resonances and changes in pitch and associating them with consonants and vowels.

This was brought out at the British Association to-day in a lecture by Sir Richard Paget on the Nature and Artificial Production of Human Speech.

Sir Richard has devoted considerable attention to the analysis of the processes involved in the articulation of speech, and as a result of his study he has been able to construct appliances which reproduce perfectly the vowel and consonant sounds, and which, in conjunction with one another, duplicate spoken words and sentences.

Pointing out that the chief difficulty in studying the nature of speech, is the fact that we know it too well, Sir Richard said: "It is especially hard to listen to speech as if we were hearing it for the first time, but it is only in this way that we can hope to appreciate what speech sounds really are." He distinguished two classes in the sounds ordinarily used in speaking. The simplest, in point of view of the method of production, are what may be called the whispered or breathed or unvoiced sounds, such as the English so-called consonant sounds, s, th as in thigh, and f, or the Welsh Ll.

"In all of these, the sound is produced without any humming noise such as is made, in the other speech sounds, by the vibration of the vocal cords", the scientist explained.

"If we compare the English words seal and zeal, or sink and zinc, the "s" sound in each case is not a hum, but a kind of whistle, made by the passage of the air at fairly high pressure through the gaps between our teeth and into the little cavity formed by our lips. Actually the "s" sound is a whistled note of very high pitch." Here the lecturer imitated the sound by blowing compressed air through a rubber tube pinched a short distance from the end.

"The only difference between the words seal and zeal, is that in the latter case we begin humming at once, and in this way, the "s", when a hum is added to it, becomes changed to a "z". This was illustrated by attaching the tube to the reed mechanism of an organ pipe, so that the air was forced through the tube in little puffs instead of in a steady stream. When the tube was pinched as before and the air applied, the "z" sound resulted, thereby showing the connection between the "unvoiced" s sound, and the corresponding "voiced" z sound. Similar relations exist between other letters, and can be demonstrated by means of similar appliances. Corresponding to the whispered or unvoiced sounds, "th", as in thigh, or "f", as in fine, are the voiced equivalents in thy, and vine. The "sh" sound in the French word champ becomes Jean when voiced.

"But though in ordinary speech we commonly use unvoiced as well as voiced sounds, the voicing is not an essential part of speech", Sir Richard stated. "We can if we like, say everything in a whisper, without using our vocal cords at all. In that case, the unvoiced sounds are distinguished from their normally voiced counterparts by being produced by a somewhat greater pressure of air". Here by whispering a sentence, he showed how by separating the two lips of his vocal cords so that the air passed through them freely, without setting them in vibration, he could still speak so as to be understood. The voice losses its carrying power, and its inflexion or singing quality, however.

Experiments which Sir Richard has conducted in the open air with his daughter reveal that the range of the voice sounds rendered as they are pronounced in ordinary speech, is ten to twenty times as great as the effective range of the same sounds when they are breathed or whispered.

"It will be seen therefore that speech, at all events as we have it in English, is based entirely on unvoiced sounds made simply by blowing air at varying pressure through the cavities of the mouth, or of the mouth and nose.

"The use of the larynx, by which the air current from the lungs is chopped up into a stream of rhythmically pulsating air, is primarily a device for making the sounds more audible at a distance."

This observation is the basis for Sir Richard's picturesque theory of the development of speech in primitive races. In the early days, apparently, man used his larynx to roar and grunt with, and then he learned to communicate his ideas to his wife and family and friends in the cave by grimaces, and the movement of his tongue and lips. The next step was the discovery that by blowing air through the mouth while he was grimacing, the movements of his tongue and lips produced changes of the whispered sounds so that the various "grimaces" could be recognized even when his back was turned.

"The last stage in the great invention of speech came when our primitive ancestors discovered that by roaring and grunting at the same time as they whispered, the audible grimace became recognizable 10 to 20 times farther off than before.

"They also found that they could vary the note of their roars or grunts without interfering with the recognition of the grimace, and so they invented the art of song. This history of the development of speech is more or less hypothetical", the speaker admitted. "Whether it is true or not, it brings out the relation which exists between the voiced and the unvoiced sounds of human speech.

"It is a curious and rather surprising thing that nearly all languages use voiced as well as unvoiced sounds. These unvoiced sounds are the weak links in the chain of speech, and they are very weak indeed in the case of telephone conversations."

Analyzing the vowel sounds of whispered speech, Sir Richard pointed out that in each vowel sound, the passage of the air from the lungs through the mouth produces a different characteristic note—a sort of half-formed whistling sound. In reality, he said, each of these characteristic notes is complex, and by careful listening it can be observed that for each vowel there are two separate notes produced in the cavity of the mouth and throat.

"The formation of these whistle notes is due to what is called 'resonance' in the cavities through which the air passes. Every small cavity with an opening to the air has its own natural resonant pitch or note, which is produced whenever the air in the cavity is disturbed.

"The resonant note is due to the fact that as the air is elastic it behaves like a spring or a pendulum, and if it is disturbed, it does not immediately come to rest, but vibrates rhythmically in and out of the opening of the cavity, coming to rest gradually.

"If the rate of vibration is faster than about 16 times a second, and not more than a few thousand times a second, we have the result of a musical note. Slow vibrations give to our ears the sensation of a low note, and rapid vibrations are heard as high-pitched notes." This point was illustrated with three egg-shaped cavities of different sizes, each with a hole in one end of the same proportionate size in each.

"If I blow a stream of air across the mouth of the large egg, the air jet keeps on disturbing the air inside the cavity, so that it starts surging in and out of the opening, and you hear the air vibrations as a musical whistled note. In this case the air is vibrating in and out about 512 times every second.

"When I blow the two smaller resonators you observe that the musical note is of exactly the same pitch in each case—although the larger cavities give proportionately louder tones than the smaller.

"The explanation is that the pitch of a cavity of this kind does not depend on the size of the cavity, but on the proportion between the size of the cavity and the size of the opening. For any given size of cavity, the larger the opening, the higher the resonant pitch, because the air can surge in and out faster through a large doorway and so produce more vibrations per second. On the other hand, for any given size of opening, the larger the cavity the lower the resonant pitch, because the larger cavity takes more time to fill and empty.

"It is therefore possible to produce the same note from cavities of different sizes, by simply adjusting the size of the opening.

"If instead of blowing across the mouth of the cavity, we blow the air through the cavity, by means of a second opening at the other end, very much the same effect is produced. The passage of the air through the cavity disturbs the surrounding air within it, so that the air starts surging in and out, or resonating, as it did in the case of the resonators with only one hole. This type of resonance was first explained by the German scientist Helmholtz, and resonators of this bulbous type are known as Helmholtz resonators." The ocarina is an example of a musical instrument based on this principle. The notes are all reproduced in a cavity of the same size, and the variation in pitch is produced by changing the size of the opening.

"Thus we have cleared the way for arriving at an understanding of how the various whispered speech sounds are actually produced in the human mouth. The air from the lungs passes between the vocal cords (which in unvoiced speech are drawn wide apart) into the pharynx (the cavity behind the tongue) then between the tongue and the top of the mouth cavity (or palate) into the cavity in front of the tongue, and so out to the lips.

"For every vowel sound, the tongue takes a different position. For the vowels in "all", "no", and "who", the lips are progressively closed to make a smaller and smaller opening from the vocal cavity to the outer air." The vocal cavity is in reality a pair of resonators of the Helmholtz type, the speaker pointed out. The relative sizes of the two are determined by the position of the tongue, which serves as the dividing wall. The opening from the first resonating number is fixed by the distance between the tongue and the roof of the mouth, while the orifice of the second or front chamber is regulated by the opening or closing of the lips.

"By tuning the two cavities in this way, we produce all the different pairs of resonances which we hear as the various whispered vowel sounds."

In showing that the mouth resonators can be consciously tuned to produce different notes, Sir Richard sent puffs of air into his mouth by clapping his hands together in front of his lips, and produced a series of notes by varying the position of his tongue, the distance between it and his palate, and the opening of his lips.

"I adjust the position of my tongue so as to produce a low note in the back cavity, and a high note in the front cavity." He clapped, and the result was the vowel in "who".

The next experiment consisted in maintaining a constant note in the bass part, by keeping the back resonance constant, and varying the front resonance, which produced the effect of a was the vowel in "who",

"I adjust the position of my tongue continuous note played in the bass, and a 5-finger exercise in the treble. Next he maintained the treble note fixed, and did exercises in the bass.

These, however, were elementary performances, and Sir Richard proceeded to demonstrate his control over his vocal organs by clapping out two scales at once, up in the bass and descending in the treble.

"It is evident that we have a very complete power of unconsciously tuning the two resonators", he said. Next he threw on the screen a graphic representation of the resonances of his own according to his own pronunciation. The chart showed that the entire range of vowel sounds includes a compass of three octaves. The exact number of air vibrations per second to produce each of the two notes of the separate vowels, has been worked out. While the composition of each sound is fixed, a certain latitude is permissible in the exact pitch of each of the two components, so that a variation of two or three semitones can take place and the same vowel can be recognized.

"The chart forms a record of my personal pronunciation of the English vowel sounds. A Scotsman or a Yorkshireman, with a pronunciation different from mine, would tune his vowel resonances differently, and his vowel chart would show resonances in corresponding-

"This Applies so far to whispered unvoiced vowel sounds. When we speak or sing a vowel sound, the only difference is that we are adding the roar or grunt which is produced by the vibrations of our vocal cords to the simple air-stream which previously produced the unvoiced sounds. The roar or grunt is produced by forcing the air between the little pair of lips which we call the vocal cords, and which are contained inside our larynx, or Adam's apple. We vary the note so produced by unconsciously varying the length or pressure or tension of the lips of the larynx.

"This action is quite independent of the tuning of the resonators of the vocal cavity. The resonators are a separate instrument, or rather a separate pair of instruments altogether."

To demonstrate this point, Sir Richard proceeded to convert himself into a dual personality and showed how it was quite easy for him to whistle and hum at the same time. "The whistle is produced by changing the resonance in the front cavity of the mouth, i.e., in front of the tongue, and the note is varied by moving the tongue forward and back to make the cavity larger for low notes, or smaller for high ones. Not that the two instruments are interrelated; the scientist indicated the complete separation of the whistling and humming organs by whistling one scale up, and at the same time, humming another one down.

"It's quite easy to whistle the treble and hum the base of a song", he said. Sir Richard and his daughter have made a specialty of this form of art, and they entertained the audience with "Home Sweet Home," in four parts. Mixed quartettes will look to their laurels in future, if they are not to be replaced by four-voiced duets. Miss Paget whistled the treble and hummed the tenor, while Sir Richard handled the alto and bass, whistling the former and humming the latter.

"We have next to enquire whether we can produce artificially voiced or unvoiced vowel sounds by passing vibrating or non-vibrating air through suitable tuned Helmholtz resonators." Experiments which were first made with this object in view utilized resonators fashioned from plasticine, with rubber strip "larynxes" for producing the pulsations, and although of crude appearance, they proved that the theories were substantially correct by duplicating the vowels corresponding to the two resonances for which they were designed.

More substantial contrivances made of cardboard were on Sir Richard's lecture table. "These models are more robust", he said. "The vocal cavity consists of a plain cardboard tube, which is divided into two resonators by the insertion of a fixed tongue or stop, set so as to give the correct resonances fore and aft of the stop.

"They differ greatly in shape from the first ones used, made of clay, and are still more different from the human mouth, but in matters of resonance, it is the relative size of the volume and of the opening, rather than the exact shape, which determines the resonant pitch." Instead of the rubber strip larynx, analogous to the vocal cords, these resonators were provided with ordinary organ pipe reeds, differing in construction, but producing the same effect as their human counterparts.

Sir Richard's pipes responded obligingly, when connected with the bellows or mechanical lungs, and tooted forth the vowel sounds of the words "calm" "men", "eat", "all", "who". This however, proved child's play to their operator, who caused them to give utterance to various words by closing their openings partially with his hand, and releasing them again, thereby forming various consonants at the beginnings and endings of the vowels.

Reporting that the method of formation of the various consonant sounds has been worked out along lines somewhat similar to the plan followed for the vowels, the scientist stated: "Speaking generally, the consonants are simply effects of resonance like the vowels, and they can be imitated, like them, by means of suitably tuned resonators.

"The principle difference is that the consonants are mainly used as acoustic trimmings for the vowel sounds, or in other words, as different ways of starting or ending a pair of vowel resonances.

"They are produced generally by resonators with much smaller openings than those which produce the vowel sound, and they often depend on the use of more than two resonators.

"They also, in many cases, depend not on resonances of more or less constant pitch, but on resonances of rapidly varying pitch, the variation being of course, due to the movements of the tongue and lips.

"The wonderful thing is that the ear of even the unmusical person is able, unconsciously, to identify at once what group of resonances is being produced, and how they are changing, and thus to identify the gestures of the tongue and the lips and other moving organs which made them." Sir Richard showed how by closing and opening the mouth of one of his vowel tubes, and manipulating his fingers inside similarly to the action of the tongue in the vocal cavity, the sounds of the letters "l", "m" and "r" could be reproduced.

Closing one of the tubes completely and then releasing the air suddenly, added the sound of "p" or "b" according to the degree of the air pressure.

The last stage in the theoretical development of the subject of voice production might be expected to be a mechanical device which would differentiate the vowel sounds from one another. This was forthcoming in Sir Richard's "Radio Rex", a toy dog which answered to its own name. Called "Rex", he popped out of his kennel, but with other names, he refused to budge. "This illustrates the greater energy of the vowels in comparison with the consonants", said the lecturer. "It also emphasizes the importance of the lower resonance half of the vowel sound." Rex is attuned to a note of about 500 vibrations per second, it appears. When a vowel is uttered one half of which is a note of about this frequency, Rex knowingly responds, but unless this particular stimulus is given, he is dumb. The consonants don't worry him. Called "Reex", or "Roox", he didn't hear, but to "Rex", "Raux", or "Rurx", he responded promptly.

Sir Richard's final demonstration was the artificial speaking machine which he has named the "cheirophone". Simplicity itself, it imitates the several units of the human vocal organs, and gives voice to recognizable words and sentences.

The place of the vocal cords is taken by an artificial larynx, comprising the whole of the "working parts", which Sir Richard held in his two hands. Incidentally, his ten fingers and two palms made up the balance of the "instrument". Three fingers formed a double cavity between his two cupped hands, thereby taking the place of the tongue, and separating from one another the two resonators of the vocal cavity. The function of the lips was performed by the rest of Sir Richard's fingers placed at the exit to the second resonating chamber.

Before "playing" his newly invented instrument, Sir Richard Paget said: "When the air passes through the double cavity formed by the two hands, an imitation of many voiced speech sounds can be artificially produced. A limitation is imposed owing to the fact that my fingers are not as perfect an adjustable stop as the tongue, but they serve to reproduce many spoken words. I will blow the artificial larynx with my own lungs, but promise not to make any sounds with my own larynx or mouth."

The experiment was a complete success. Rollickingly the cheirophone sang out "La La La"; next it sighed romantically, "Leila, I love you". Encouraged by this success, Punch and Judy proceeded to show off their education and the astounded audience recognized the wish, "I hope you have all enjoyed the paper".

AN ELIXIR OF LIFE IS COD LIVER OIL.

When little Willie turns up his nose at cod liver oil, he doesn't know what's good for him. Long administered on general principles, the despised medicine has sprung into prominence in the last ten years as a result of recognition by scientists of the fact that cod liver oil is one of the best and cheapest sources of the indispensable vitamin known as "fat soluble A". This was emphasized in the physiology section of the British Association to-day by J. C. Drummond, D. Sc., of University College, London, who reported recent research on the nutritional properties of this substance.

Stating that the beneficial qualities of cod liver oil were first appreciated in Scandinavian fishing villages, when it was introduced as a household remedy, Dr. Drummond told how centuries elapsed before it became to be appreciated generally in England, where its use as a therapeutic agent increased from the middle of the 19th century onwards. Cod liver oil is now used extensively in the treatment of rheumatism, rickets and consumption in England, France and Germany.

Early theories which attempted to explain the superexcellence of cod liver oil as a nutrient agent, were the suggestions that traces of iodine present served as the potent factor, or that the peculiar chemical construction of this type of fat, made it a material readily assimilable by the digestive organ, in comparison with fat from other sources.

The truth was not suspected until McCollum, and also Osborne and Mendel showed in 1923 that cod liver oil actually contains the "growth promoting principle" vitamin A, present in minute traces in certain foods, and indispensable for the proper growth and nutrition of the body. This announcement had little effect, Dr. Drummond stated, until later researches of Zilva and Muira revealed that the oil contained very much larger amounts of this valuable substance than other fats. "In some cases, its vitamin potency may be 250 times as great as that of butter", the scientist said.

"Experimental research on growth and certain diseases of malnutrition have now established that the beneficial influence of the administration of cod liver oil is in large part to be ascribed to the vitamins it contains."

Dr. Drummond has investigated, in co-operation with other workers, the source of the vitamin elixir in which the cod is so rich, and has arrived at the conclusion that the cod itself, like the fish on which it feeds, is unable to synthetize the mysterious compound, but the actual process of synthesis is carried on by minute green plants in the sea. These plant forms are devoured by the small animals in the surface waters, which themselves serve as the prey of molluscs and small fish and thus the vitamin eventually finds its way to the codfishes, where it is stored in the liver.

After studying the influence of migration and spawning on the vitamin value of the oil from fish found off Norway, and Newfoundland, Dr. Drummond and his collaborators have decided that the richest oils are obtained when the fish are actively feeding.

Refining of the material, which eliminates much of the unpleasantness usually associated with its administration, does not destroy its efficacy, "Little loss of vitamins occurs either during preparation or refining", said Dr. Drummond. "High quality modern white oils are physiologically as active as the old brown or "rotted" oils."

Progress is being made in the elucidation of the chemical construction of the vitamins of cod liver oil, the scientist reported, and in addition to its application in the treatment of disease and the prevention of malnutrition, important uses are being developed in he field of agriculture.

BELLEVILLE HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

First Game of the Semi-Finals of the Junior O.B.A. Between Lakeviews and Belleville.

The first game of the play-off for the Ontario championship will be staged at the Riverside Park on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock between the Lakeviews of this city, and the Belleville juniors. Belleville successfully won their group and expect to do away with Peterboro and then get a crack at Oshawa or Ottawa, if Kingston lose to the Ottawa boys' team. The Lakeviews have played several exhibition games lately to keep in shape and should be in the best of trim for Wednesday's battle, while the Belleville crew are also reported to be in tip top condition and rearing to get a crack at the Peterboro boys.

There will be no Central Ontario League game here to-morrow so the fans will be given the opportunity of seeing last year's junior Ontario champions in action against a team that is looked to carry off the honors this year.

Frank Whitehouse will do the heaving for the Lakeviews.

OTTAWA JUNIORS WIN.

Kingston Dropped Game to Ottawa Club Yesterday By Score of 6 To 1.

The Kingston Circle Six team which last year met defeat at the hands of the Lakeviews, in the semi-finals for the Ontario championship, yesterday took the short end of a 6 to 1 score in a game at Ottawa with the Ottawa Boys' Club. If Kingston lose out to Ottawa, and the Lakeviews win their games from Belleville and Oshawa, it is likely that Peterboro will then play off with Ottawa for the Eastern Ontario championship, the winners to go into the finals against Western Ontario.

SAYS DEATH RAY ISN'T SO DEADLY

Death Rays Aren't Deadly At All, According To A. Roberts.

(By Carl D. Groat.)

BERLIN, Aug. 9.— (United Press)—Grindell Matthews' "Death Rays" aren't deadly at all, according to A. Roberts, alleged colleague of the British inventor.

Roberts, speaking before a technical organization in Hamburg, revealed in part the workings of the death ray machine, showing that it was little more than a "trick" apparatus.

A series of lights, with quartz lenses, produce the death rays, according to Roberts, but these rays are no more serious than any physicist could produce in any laboratory. And, he indicated that the apparatus would not suffice to bring down airplanes.

In connection with his demonstrations, Roberts showed other apparatuses, which at first sight, appeared to exert almost supernatural forces. For instance, Roberts whistled and an automobile moved toward him. He whistled again, and the machine turned to the right. Then he whistled a third time, and the machine turned to the left.

Quite Simple.

The phenomenon was, however, quite simple. The sound waves struck a membrane which caused a break in the current and caused the automobile to start. Then a sharper whistle generated a different current which directed the steering gear.

He also demonstrtaed more or less similar phenomena by the use of an electric light. In this case, the electric light reacted on a sensitized plate which in turn caused variation of current.

Roberts has promised to bring a death ray machine to Hamburg to disprove some of the claims of his former associate, Matthews.

EXERCISE FOR MOTHER

"Exercise is essential to an expectant mother," the Mann family doctor advised Mrs. Mann when her first baby was being awaited.

"But be careful what exercises are taken and how strenuously you undertake them. Of all exercises at such a time walking is about the best. These walks should not be too long, nor at too rapid a gait.

"After the walk is ended return to the house and lie down for about an hour and get a good rest. If, after the rest, you find you are not refreshed, it's a pretty good sign you have walked too much and go a little easier the next time.

"Most patients find that each day they can go a little farther than previously.

"Only with the greatest care should more strenuous sports, such as swimming or tennis be undertaken.

"But fresh air and recreation are important—be sure and get them."

LONDON THINKS CONFERENCE IS TO BE SUCCESS

Fifteenth Conclave on Reparations Since Peace — Germans Reach Accord With French.

HOPE RUNS HIGH.

So Certain Is MacDonald That He Plans to Leave To-morrow on His Vacation in Scotland.

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, August 8. — Final agreement by the International Conference on putting the experts' plan into operation is believed imminent.

Observers forecast the likelihood that this fifteenth conclave on reparations since Versailles will differ from the others in that it will end in success.

They base their optimism on two things:

1—The contacts the German delegation, especially Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann, have succeeded in establishing with Premier Herriot of France.

2—The fact that (Prime Minister MacDonald still plans, if possible, to leave London at 3 p.m. to-morrow on his vacation.

MacDonald's preparations for departure are accepted as a strong indication that the agreement is at hand.

The British Prime Minister is going to Lossiemouth, Scotland, for as long as the somewhat troubled affairs of State will permit.

The German delegation conferred at the Ritz Hotel this morning, and was to meet the Allies this afternoon.

NO CRISIS DEVELOPS.

PARIS, August 8 (Canadian Press). — Premier Herriot is coming to Paris on Saturday, probably by airplane, according to a semi-official announcement from London, in order to confer with the Cabinet at a special Sunday morning meeting regarding the final stand the French Government should take at the London Conference on the military evacuation of the Ruhr and the maintenance of the Franco-Belgian railroad men in the Rhineland system.

The Premier will be accompanied by Etienne Clementel, Minister of Finance.

It is denied that this sudden and unexpected consultation with the Cabinet indicates that there is a crisis in London, it being pointed out that it is natural that Herriot should wish to consult his colleagues before binding himself to important decisions regarding reparations and security.

Want Troops Withdrawn

LONDON, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Such progress has been made in adjusting the differences between the Germans and Allies over the programme for putting the Dawes reparation plan into effect that there is still hope, according to the British spokesman, that the international conference may complete its work within a day or so.

Several outstanding problems remain to be settled, however and several of the delegates declare they see small chance of leaving London before the middle of next week. The Germans do not conceal their determination of accepting no settlement not putting an end to the presence of the French and Belgian troops in the Ruhr which they still insist is without authority of the Versailles treaty. They want the troops withdrawn by October 15th but the French tenaciously refuse to consider the question as they say it is out side the purview of the present conference.

The Germans have accepted a moral engagement to float a loan of forty million pounds, fulfilling of the most important requirements of the reparations commission and have also agreed to the entire allied programe of the declaration of defaults.

DISCOURAGING REPORTS.

U. S. Aviators Are Waiting For a Chance to Fly Across Northern Atlantic.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, August 8. —Further discouraging reports regarding the ice conditions on the Greenland coast, were received today by the United States world aviators, waiting here for a chance to hop off on their flight over the northern Atlantic. A report that a safe landing place for the fliers had been found on the east coast of Greenland was declared to-day to be without foundation. The aviators refuse to consider the possibility of refuelling at sea from a cruiser.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 8.—(United Press).—The difference between a boyish and mannish bob has resulted in a damage suit of $500. Miss Laura Norton filed suit to-day against Michael Schloss, a barber, for $500 and her contention is:"I paid him 50 cents to give me a boyish bob. Instead he gave me a mannish hair cut. It's terrible I know he did it on purpose." She claims she lost her job because of the weird hair cutting.

CRISIS IS ACUTE AS KING RETURNS

Primo Rivora, Dictator, Will Defend His Administration—Excitement Prevails.

(By Rafael Morayta, U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

MADRID, Aug. 8.—The political situation continued acute to-day as King Alfonso arrived in Madrid to preside at a meeting of the Council of the Directorate. General Primo Rivora, who has ben a virtual dictator since the military revolution ten months ago, will defend his administration against the Riff tribes. While the final crisis expected to end in the fall of the directorate, may not come to-day, it is not believed the Primo Rivora regime can live until its first anniversary. An atmosphere of subdued excitement is noticeable in Madrid.

The king had a long conference with ex-Premier Maura on his way to Madrid by automobile early today.

His Majesty talked with Primo Rivora yesterday and later announced "the situation is unchanged and the directorate will remain in power for the present. The atmosphere of distrust I found on my arrival in Madrid has been dissipated."

Denies Change.

Setting at rest the rumors of a change in the military directorate, Premier Primo De Rivera has issued a statement declaring that conditions are satisfactory and that he intends continuing his programme with firmness.

The statement was in direct reply to a letter from former Premier Maura, denouncing the conduct of the Government by "notorious military officers." Senor Mauras charges, General Primo De Rivera said, were devoid of foundation and took no account of the directorate's accomplishments and its efforts to purify the administration of Spain's affairs. In a circular letter to the military commanders in Spain the Premier denounced the "alarmist propaganda," which he alleged was being conducted by his enemies.

HE DIDN'T LIKE BRAMPTON'S JAIL

So George McDermott Picked Another and Magistrate Agreed.

BRAMPTON, Aug. 8. — George McDermott, of Port Credit, charged with B.O.T.A. and with assaulting an officer in the performance of his duty before Magistrate Burgess in the Police Court here yesterday had the unique distinction of picking out his ajil in which he will reside for a period ranging from six to fifteen months.

Magistrate Burgess, being in an accommodating mood, gave McDermott his way, and George left the court with his heart's desire that he would not be "clinked" in the Brampton Jail, which, according to the prisoner ,"provides very poor food."

McDermott's place at Port Credit was raided on Sunday night by Inspector Reeveley and three constables. McDermott assaulted the inspector, knocking him unconscious. He was, however, taken in charge by the constables.

On the B.O.T.A., McDermott was fined $200 and costs or three months in jail. Being the second offence, the sentence, if served will stretch to nine months. On the assault charge Magistrate Burgess sent the prisoner down for six months.

McDermott explained matters to the magistrate in regard to jails and food, and roundly condemned the bill of fare at the Brampton jail. Brampton jail was one place he did not wish to visit. He would willingly go to Guelph to serve time, or even to Kingston, but he had no use for the local institution. Guelph will likely be his residence.

Some Kick to This

J. J. Robbins of Streetsville Hotel appeared on B.O.T.A., before Magistrate Moore, and was remanded until Thursday. The officers declared they seized a pitcher of liquor which on analysis showed 73.76, and that they found more in the ice-house.

Constable Fined

Constable A. Leece, of Streetsville has created quite a sensation in Peel County and besides being fined in Police Court at Port Credit by Magistrate Burgess, will likely hear more of his conduct, from higher officials. He appeared charged with being intoxicated on Monday. No less than 35 witnesses appeared in court, and three hours of time was consumed in hearing evidence. He was fined $25 and $35 costs.

DEMOLISH MANY PIES TO MARK THE CENTENARY

Old Hay Bay Church Entertains at Unique Methodist Feast.

CELEBRATIONS.

Historical Year Is Success in Arousing Popular Interest.

January 1 inaugurated historical year in Canadian Methodism. "With the Methodist name about to pass into history," as some writers announced it, the Methodists began gathering up the fragments of romance and tradition which lay about the roots of their corporate life in this country.

July 1 marked the half-year and also the informal commencement of the centenary celebration in Methodism.

August 25, 1824, saw the beginning of the first Methodist Conference in Canada and August 28 of that year witnessed the formation of the Methodist Missionary Society.

August 25 and 28 of this year are scheduled for picnics among Methodist congregations the country over in celebration of the centenary of these events.

Most noteworthy to date among historical incidents of the year was the pilgrimage of the Bay of Quinte Conference to Hay Bay Church where in 1792 the United Empire Loyalists of Upper Canada erected their first rude house of worship.

Other conferences also are rediscovering their past and the stories of circuits as revealed in old records have also lent much color to the church gatherings of 1924 with greater public gatherings yet to come.

At congregational anniversaries stories were told of New Brunswick's stone-and-thatch church that antedated all surviving Methodist churches, of the Indian church that resounded to aboriginal eloquence when Owen Sound in Ontario was Neewash of pastoral visits by circuit riders in 1824 when Peterboro boasted one house, of building bees, camp meetings and missionary "deputations" of long ago.

Rev. Thomas Whitehead first president of the missionary society, brought the gospel to Goderich in 1831 and his thrilling diary of journey through forests from London to that town was told at an anniversary of North Street church, Goderich.

Rev. Anson Green, another early worthy, has leaped again into the weekly newspapers of Central Ontario with abundant quotations from the diary of his journeyings in 1824 through the Midlands when Port Hope was Smith's Creek and when Cobourg had a population of one hundred.

That year seems to have been a great time for beginnings. Then the first Wesleyan missionary from Newfoundland was stationed in Labrador, amid circumstances which were recited to the wonderment of the Newfoundland Conference in 1924. From that year dates the First Methodist church in Hamilton, now ceelbrating its own centenary as a mother of many churches. In that Summer Canada left the Genesee conference, and, under the guiding hands of Bishops George and Hedding, set up its own self-governing church, the first Canada Conference meeting in the finest church in the lanod, the square frame meeting house at Hallowell in Prince Edward's peninsula.

With more interest in history than they had been given credit for, the Methodists of this age are proceeding with pageantry and oratory in celebration of such occasions. The public procedings are more joyous than solemn. At Hay Bay the corner of the church still contained a reserve supply of sixty wonderful pies after two sets of diners had been fed. Not until the fourth set had risen could the service begin, for the choir of young ministers had dined last (or longest) of all. Then the benches filled up and from high pulpit Dr. Chown and Dr. Endicott addressed the packed house.

Meanwhile farmer lads made din outside and their elders, also unable to gain entrance, leaned against the clapboard walls of the eighteenth century timber structure and talked tractors and spark plugs.

In a few cases historical papers of great erudition have been read to wondering assemblies. The Nova Scotia conference combined its centenary year gathering with Bridgetown's commemoration of the century of its Methodism. At Toronto the Rev. W. H. Hincks D.D., carried his hearers back to the plain shanty into which in 1817 the pioneer preacher, David Gulp, tried to lure the inhabitants of what an earlier preacher, Nathan Bangs, called "one of the most godless places I know."

POLLUTED WATERS KILL FISH

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 8.— Fish are dying by millions in Danish inland waters due, it is explained, to the unusually long and severe winter which made the waters stale and rotten. Industrial establishments dump much of their refuse into the waters, but ordinarily this does not harm the fish as the obnoxious gases escape.

Last winter the lakes and canals were frozen for five months and the gases could not escape until the ice melted.

DENSE HUMIDITY.

City's Water Pumpage Shows Marked Decrease on Record Reached Last Year.

City pumpage reached its peak last summer when, on August 6th, 4,290,000 gallons of water passed through the city mains to householders and others. On the corresponding date this summer the pumpage only reached 3,015,000 gallons.

The great difference is more or less of a mystery, but Wednesday, August 6th, was one of the most humid days ever experienced in these parts, when a hot wave swept the country. On that day it was reported that several dropped on the streets of New York prostrated by the deadening pitch of the humidity.

Probably, the marked drop in the water pumpage this year is attributed to the fact that there was so much moisture in the air, householders found it unnecessary to draw from the city's supply.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Anyone who thinks that better moving pictures of the Sahara desert can be made in Hollywood than in the Sahara itself is due for enlightening disillusionment if he goes this week to the Capitol Theatre, where "A Son of the Sahara" is on view.

It will be a revelation to him. "A Son of the Sahara" is a First National picture, and it was filemd by Edwin Carewe in Algeria on the great desert itself.

Fine castles, drawing rooms, even whole towns have been wonderfully well reproduced in Hollywood for the screen. But no human can construct so mighty and majestic a setting as the Sahara. And here on the screen is the real thing with picturesque Arab villages, great camel caravans and the colorful people of the desert themselves.

A great setting and incomparable atmosphere of a fine story, well enacted by a cast of such talented players as Bert Lytell, Claire Windsor, Walter McGraill, Rosemary Theby, Montagu Love and Paul Panzer. They say that the trip to "location" covered 14,000 miles.

Bert Lytell, in the leading male role as Raoul Le Breton, gives a powerful performance, the best perhaps he has yet done in pictures, and Miss Windsor, in the chief feminine part, is more appealing than ever as Barbara, the heroine.

The story centres around the quest for vengeance of young Raoul, who has been brought up as an Arab in ignorance of the fact that he is white. When the old sheik of an outlaw tribe meets death in an attack on a French garrison Raoul is elevated to the old man's position and determines to avenge his death.

He meets Barbara and falls in love with her, not knowing that she is the daughter of the French officer, who is his avowed enemy. She spurns him when told he is an Arab outlaw chieftain. Later, leading his band in an attack on the French post he finds Barbara, and she is taken prisoner. He carries out his threat to her father to have her sold as a slave, but secretely buys her himself. The plot takes many twists. Raoul learns his true identity and the way is paved to a happy conclusion.

All the roles in the supporting cast are particularly well played, notably the work of Walter McGraill, Rosemary Theby, Montagu Love and Paul Panber. Considered from all angles it is one of the best produced, and most entertaining pictures of the year.

Two comedy productions round out an excellent programme.

AT THE REGENT.

WILLIAM FOX TURNS OLD MELODRAMA INTO SCREEN GEM

Every once in a while a motion picture producer unearths a melodrama of a generation ago and turns it into a screen masterpiece. William Fox seems to be a past master in the presentation of old dramatic gems. He has done it again. The film version of "Hoodman Blind" opened at the Regent Theatre last night and proved to be one of those beautiful gripping things of the old stage, enhanced by an unrestricted interpretation through the new medium—the silver sheet.

Hoodman Blind," written by Henry Arthur Jones and the late Wilson Barrett was popular as a stage play some thirty years ago. The story revolves about a man, who, falsely accusing his wife of infidelity, nearly wrecks his life, hers and that of their child. The unusual circumstance of a man not knowing his wife from her twin sister is the basis of the misunderstanding. "Hoodman Blind" contains all the accepted dramatic elements and is excellently directed by John Ford.

David Butler plays the part of the man, Jack Yeulette and Gladys Hulette plays his wife and her sister. Both do splendid work. Frank Campeau as Mark Lezzard deserves much credit for the manner in which he enacted the scheming villian.

AT THE ROYAL.

LAURA LAPLANTE GOES OVER IN THRILLING FARCE COMEDY

Laura La Plante makes a charming bow to the public in her initial starring veicle, "Excitement," the Universal photoplay, which opened last night at the Royal Theatre.

In this hectic world of faddism and realism when so many motion picture producers are making their pictures top-heavy with somber drama, it is refreshing to see a picture that presents a fascinating chapter from life's lighter side.

"Excitement" lives up to its title, and entertains with thrills and laughs You don't have to burden yourself with worry about what's going to happen to the sweet heroine and wondering when the hero's going to push the villain over a cliff so the "fade-out" can be a pretty "clinch" scene. There is none of that melodrama in it. It is farce comedy personified, crammed full of laughs.

It is clever in that much of the comedy is subtle, which keeps you chuckling. Then there are places in it where you know that you are expected to laugh—and you do.

It is a story about a girl whose exploits had made nervous wrecks of her parents, but whose tameness palled on her. She craved new fields of excitement and thrills to conquer and she aimed with deadly accuracy and stood her social set on its giddy ear with the whirl of her adventures.

Crosby George evolved plenty of action in his magazine story, "The Thrill Girl," from which the screen play was adapted and scenarized by Hugh Hoffman. The film writer added a few thrills and exciting events, and Robert Hill, Universal director, set about converting the ideas to celluloid.

Universal should experience no trouble in "selling" Miss La Plante to the motion picture public as a full-fledged star. She carries the bulk of the picture with a pace that is holly charming.

She has the attractiveness of real beauty, is a skilled actress and possesses a naive, girlish nonchalance that is delightful. A few such pictures and she should assume a high place among the ingenue stars of the screen. She is a Universal "find." She has been in pictures for less than three years, starting as a comedy extra girl and working her way up through the different stages of experience until she was one of the company's most valuable leading women before she was made a star in her own right.

"Excitement" is too good to miss.

Buster Keaton is due in Peterboro again next week, when his latest Metro picture, "Sherlock Jr." comes to the Royal Theatre for three days starting on Monday. The frozen-faced star's new production is called the most original comedy ever made. It is a satire on the small town detectives, and the movies, and gives Keaton his greatest opportunity for the pantomimic fn in which he specializes.

In the supporting cast are included Kathryn McGuire, Ward Crane, Joseph Keaton (Buster's father) and a host of others. "Sherlock Jr." a Joseph M. Schenck production, released through Metro, was written by Jean Havez, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman, was directed by Keaton himself, and was photographed by Elgin Lessley and Byron Houck.

OSHAWA IN TILT WITH PETES ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

Motor Town Crew Will Play Central League Game Here Monday.

BELLEVILLE SATURDAY

Trunks Postponed Fixture Billed for Week From Tomorrow.

Oshawa and not Belleville will be the Petes opponents in the Civic Holiday game at Riverside Park the postponed Belleville game to be played here a week from Saturday.

President Duff refused to change his ruling that the Kingston-Belleville game scheduled for Saturday should be played on Monday, so of course the Belleville visit here was off.

The Petes got into communication with the Oshawa management who courteously agreed to shift their game scheduled for next Wednesday here to Monday so that the Motor town crew will make their last appearance of the season here Civic Holiday afternoon, the game being called at 2.30 o'clock.

The Oshawa crew, although out of the running have been giving every team a battle and as the Petes must win to stay in front of Belleville an exciting game may be looked for. Duke Dainty, who was hit on the foot in last Monday's game with Belleville is expected to be in shape again by Monday and will likely heave them in for the Oshawa crew with Tyson doing the receiving. Heckman will in all probability get the pitching assignment for the Petes. Oshawa and Peterboro have met twice in the second half, Oshawa winning here 1 to 0 while the Petes turned the tables in Oshawa by beating the automotive gang 3 to 2 in twelve innings. If Monday's game approaches these fixtures in interest the fans can expect an exciting afternoon.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. There is a runner on first base. Batter hits a long fly to the outfield which runner on first does not believe will be caught. The fielder catches the ball. At the time of the catch the runner originally on first is midway between second and third. In returning to first base the runner fails to touch second on his way back. What is the proper way to retire runner on such a play?—D. O. B.

2. There are runners on second and third and two out. The batsman hits a grounder to the third baseman who fumbles it. The runners on second and third start with the hit. The batsman instead of making a play on him turns his attention to the runner coming from second, a slow man. The runner is finally retired between second and third for the final out of the inning. In the meantime the runner from third had crossed the plate. Does the run count? —I. L. B.

ANSWERS

1. Runner must touch all intervening bases in trying to return to original base on caught fly ball. Failure to touch second makes him liable to be put out. This is an appeal play. The best way to make it is to hold the ball on the base missed by the runner and request a ruling from the umpire, who must call the runner out if in his opinion he missed the base.

2. The run counts, provided the runner from third is over before other player is retired in the runup for the final out of the inning.

JAPS WIN FIRST

Defeat Canadians in Tennis Singles at Montreal.

MOUNT ROYAL COURTS, MONTREAL, Aug. 8.— (By Canadian Press). —Japan took a strong lead on the opening day of the second round of the American Zone, Davis Cup Lawn Tennis Contest to determine the right to challenge the United States for the blue ribbon of the tennis world. The Japanese cracks won both games yesterday against the Canadian champions, the first in straight sets and the second in three sets out of five.

Sunao Okamoto defeated Jack Wright by 8-6 6-4 and 7-5, but Zeno Shimizu the Japanese captain, had a much more strenuous task against Willard Crocker and though he took the game he was extended to the limit, the score being 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 0-6 6-1.

Wright played a good game making many fine placements, but Okamato was too steady for him at critical points.

In the Shimizu-Crocker game the match see-sawed from start to finish with the Canadian taking the first and fourth sets. The latter set was especially brilliant and the Canadian literally blew the Japanese off the court. The effort exhausted him and he fell an easy victim to the Jap, who took the fifth set and the game by 6-1. Shimizu in this set showed a flash of his old-time form and made many wonderful hits.

WIN FOR WESTCLOX

Defeat Examiner 11-5 in Tame Mercantile League Game.

The Westclox handed the Examiner an 11-5 trimming in a Mercantile League game at Riverside Park last evening. The game was far from well played but the fans got a lot of fun out of watching some of the numerous misplays and the heavy hitting of both teams.

Herb Wolfe did the gunning for the Westclox and was touched for five runs in the first two innings, but from then on his delivery was a mystery to the newspaper gang. His teammates accorded him only fair support.

The Examiner used three heavers, Scates starting, then Marchen going in, and after an inning and a half Scates was again shot back in. He was relieved by Taylor who held the Clockmakers in check for four innings, only one run being scored off his delivery.

No fielding stars could be located on either team and Wolfe, Hensley and Hardill were the heavy hitters. Wolfe had a triple, a double and a single Hensley had a triple and two doubles and Hardill a double and a single.

The teams lined up as follows:

Westclox—Barry, 2b, ss, cf; Hensley, ss, lf; Prosser c; Wolfe, p; Hardill, 1b, 2b, cf; Lundy, 3b; O'Brien, cf; DeGraw, rf, p; Baptie, lf; Currie, rf.

QUAKERS DROPPED OUT OF PECK CUP

Two Early Goals By Dyer Gave Vets Necessary Vim —Quakers Unlucky.

The Quakers dropped out of the Peck Cup series last evening at King Edward Park, fighting to the last minute, while the Vets had a three clear goal lead that carried them into the semi-finals. A good attendance of spectators witnessed the game.

First Half.

No sooner was the ball centred than Wyllie rattled Frick with a stinging shot. Wasson relieved the pressure to Dyer, who beat three men in succession, to send in an obligue ball that completely baffled Metacalfe all the way, although he made a splendid attempt to save it. Nice play was given by both sides, but the run of play again favored Dyer, who sent in a lobbed drop ball in between the sticks for the second goal. The Quakers retaliated in great force against the Vets' defense. Wyllie had the defense pair in a quandry at the goal mouth when Mayette centred accurately, but could not get the necessary leg to make a count. They tried hard to reduce the score, and Frick was very lucky when he picked up the smart header off Wyllie's head three yards out, all within two minutes of half-time. G.W.V.A., 2; Quakers, 0.

Half-Time.

The Vets were first to come into prominence on resuming by getting a fruitless corner. The Quakers over-run the Vets at this period and would travel close upon Frick, to be held in check at close range. Geo. Logan, five yards out, kicked the ground in mistake. Mann relieved to centre, where Griffin was left unmarked. He worked his way down on the run and sending a low ground shot along the ground that hit inside the upright, to be converted. There was no discouragement shown by the Quakers as the score went up against them. They did everything around the Vets' goal but score. Time and time again they were within an ace of scoring, but poor finishing was the great fault. It is useless to enumerate the play during the last thirty-five minutes, because the Vets made a single raid at the beginning and only made three visits later. In the former Charlie Griffin had his usual goal. Souter, at left half, was very conspicuous by his clever dribbling, clean tactics when hard pressed, and last, but not least, was his earnest tries to test Frick when the opportunity came along. Just before the finish the ball travelled across the Vets' goal from corner to corner, while the Vets' goalie was jumping between the sticks on the alert for the on-coming shots, but they never materialized.

Full time—Vets, 3; Quakers, 0.

Goal scorers—Dyer, 2, and Griffin.

G.W.V.A.—Frick, goal; Wasson and Crow, backs; Underwood, Mann and Bestard, half-backs; Clarke, Hanson, Griffin, Dyer and Gash, forwards.

Quakers—Metcalfe, goal; Scott and Willshaw, backs; W. Logan, Craig and Souter, half-backs; Mayette, G. Logan, Wyllie, Wilson and T. Williams, forwards.

Referee—A. Mitchell.

SOCCER NOTES.

On Saturday afternoon, the Canadian Woollens and G. W. V. A. meet in a league game at the Oval. Kick off at 3 o'clock prompt. Mr. Jack Clark will make his first appearance as "Knight of the Whistle,' this season.

Jack Cridland says: " I got one point anyways, already and expect two more to-morrow"—so we'll wait and see, Jack.

Mr. Wyllie, trainer and manager, of the Quaker Oats is the greatest optimist in local soccer. His team is three games behind in the first part of the schedule and he wittily remarked "That is six more points."

Hanson who was transferred from the Nomads to the Vets never played a game for them which will allow him the pleasure of taking part in the cup ties.

At the beginning of the season, the Quaker Oats were handicapped through the lack of players but they have a good string now and the Thistle has been unfortunate with players getting injured and only able to turn out nine men on accassions.

The regular meeting of the P. and D. F. A. will be held on Tuesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, instead of Monday, owing to the holiday.

Hector MacDonald, who used to play for the Caledonians a few years ago, now with Mimico Beach, in Toronto's team against Montreal, scored the only goal.

The special committee appointed for the Plenty Cup series will have to gave in their report at the next meeting.

Scott, late of Clydebank Scotland, made his debut at right back for the Quaker boys, and made a creditable show.

With the school holidays near at an end, the school boys are busy talking about the teams that shall represent them in the Alex Kay competition.

Nomad players and executive are requested to meet at King Edward Park, To-Night, at 7.15 prompt.

According to the agreement with the Trades and Labour Council, the A. E. Peck trophy has to be handed back to them before August 15th. Mr. Harry Gainey is the receiver.

The Thistle obtained permission to postpone their game on Civic holiday because they intend spending the day at Chemong.

ASK CHIEF BROWN FOR RESIGNATION

Meeting Held in the Town Clerk's Office in Port Hope Was Decisive—No Publicity.

PORT HOPE, Aug. 8.—Following a meeting in camera, held in the town clerk's office, the town council of Port Hope has asked for the resignation of Police Chief John Brown. At the regular meeting of council this week the following communication was handed to Mayor Smith:

Dear Sir,—We, your Market and Police committee, would ask through you for the resignation of Chief of Police Brown, the same to take effect at once. W. J. Crowhurst, W. Scott, F. W. Galbraith."

Adding to the letter the only explanation made public, Mr. Crowhurst said the request follows dissatisfaction with Mr. Brown's carrying out of his police duties.

Reeve Holdaway asked for more information on the subject, to which Councillor Crowhurst replied that he was rather surprised at the Reeve after the discussion of the matter in the Clerk's office. The Reeve replied that although he might know much himself of the affair, the discussion in the Clerk's office was private, and he thought the public should be given reasons for this action.

Mayor Smith suggested that it was perhaps in Chief Brown's interests to publicly ventilate matters.

Mr. Crowhurst said that he thought this was much the nicer way of dealing with the case and all agreed. Yeas and Nays were asked for and the yeas carried.

SPECIAL PREACHER DELIGHTED CHURCH

Rev. Mr. Harris of London Was at Burnbrae Church.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 8.—The Rev. Mr. Harris of London was the preacher at Burnbrae on Sunday last. In the morning Mr. Harris spoke from Matt. 16-15: "Whom say ye that I am." At the evening service he gave a splendid address taking as his subject "The rich young ruler."

Mrs. C. Miller and Mr. Geo. Donald rendered a duet at the morning service while in the evening Mr. Harris gave a very fine baritone solo which was greatly appreciated by the congregation.

Social Evening.

The Ladies Aid held their social evening on the manse grounds on Tuesday evening, it being a great success. This is the second event of this nature, the former one being held at the home of Mr. Jas. Stewart in June. A fine programme was presented consisting of music and readings, there being songs by the old-timers both ladies and gentlemen. The proceeds from all sources were about $62. The Ladies Aid are working to help pay the manse debt and their help is greatly appreciated by the committee.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Wm. Mather and sons, Douglas and Kenneth were visiting friends and relatives at Burnbrae over the week-end.

Miss Annie Hume is spending her holidays at her home here.

Miss Mary Watson of Campbellford is visiting at Burnbrae and vicinity.

Building Roads.

The township road gang are at work near Menie and Burnbrae. They are using the new crusher which was purchased this year and the liberal application of well-crushed stone following. Grading should result in much improved highways for the district. The council are to be congratulated on the interest they are taking in the road problem, as the greatly increased motor traffic, especially trucks, makes road-building an expensive as well as much-needed operation.

ORLAND LOST TO BRIGHTON

Third Game of Second Half Fell to Visitors, Who Were Handicapped.

SCORE WAS 9 TO 6.

ORLAND, August 8. — The third game of the second half was played here yesterday against Brighton. The game from start to finish was good, Orland having the lead in the first five innings, and for a while it looked as if the visitors were going to be whitewashed.

Brighton was handicapped in not having three of their best players but those that were on the field show ed that they had lots of metal.

The Orland boys were well pleased with the umpiring of Adams and regretted taht he had not had the control in the game with Colborne last week. The home team was outplayed fairly. Brown was a star fielder for Brighton, while Samis starred for Orland. Zufelt did not seem to be in his usual form and Houlihan was away off.

The score was was follows:

Brighton .. ..000103131—9

Orland .. ..300002010—6

Stevenson of the Conservatory staff and he, as well as his successful pupil, has been the recipient of many congratulatory messages.

DIVORCE DOUBLES

Recent Statistics Show Germans Demanding and Receiving More Divorces.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Divorce is steadily on the increase in Germany, according to recent statistics, which show that the number of legal separations being granted now is virtually double the number ten years ago.

Infidelity was the cause of 53 per cent of the divorces in Germany last year, the men being to blame in the greater number of the cases, court records show.

DIVERT WATER

would cost twice as much, but it would be well worth while, even at that price. I know the territory referred to in the scheme. The height of land on the north of Lake Superior is a considerable distance from the shore line, and much would unodubtedly have to be done in the way of digging canals and so forth to handle the adjusted flow. The proposal to include in the work equipment for regulating the flow is most important for the sudden addition of some 20,000 cubic feet of water per second, to Lake Ontario, for example might have disastrous results if unbridled."

Should Act Quickly.

"An important point, which should not be lost sight of," Mr. Cowie added, "is that anything that is going to be done, should be done as soon as possible. I understand that at the present moment there are no vested interests in the territory to be affected by the possible diversion of the Ogoki and the Albeny, and this, in itself, is a big factor in favor of the proposed development. Settlers are going in, however. They are doing well a hundred miles north of Cochrane, and any change in the topography of the country which is to be made, should be made before the territory involved has become developed.

"I am franly in favour of the proposal; indeed of any proposal which will give us better waterways; subject always to thorough investigation, for in all these matters there are factors which can only be discovered when a searching inquiry into the situation is made."

many had agreed to accept the Dawes plan in full. The wheat market closed strong at the day's top figures, 1 1-8 to 2 1-2c. net higher, September $1.29 3-8 to $1.29 5-8 and December $1.33 to $1.33 1-8, with corn 2c. to 1c. up, oats 1-8c. to 1-2c. off, and provisions varying from 15c. decline to an advance of two cents.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, August 8. — Total sales at the Union Stock Yards on Wednesday were 1,490 cattle. The sales for the three days were 5,742 and the week's receipts were 5,241. The week's business, therefore, took care of 500 head left from last week and the market is again cleaned up for the first time in a month.

Wednesday's prices were steady for any good butchers' cattle, but a large number of common butchers, classed as trash by the commission men, had to be sacrificed to effect a sale.

With only 55 fresh cattle on sale yesterday morning the trading did not amount to much. The highest priced butchers sold were only $4.50 a cwt., and all on sale were in the common class. A few good medium cows sold at $3.75 and $4.00 a cwt., and common cows at $3.25. A bunch of light Western heifers brought $2.80 a cwt. The exporters have nothing on hand for next week's shipment, and will be buyers on Monday for cattle similar to those taken this week.

Calves are closing the week steady with tops worth about 9 cents a pound, good mediums 7 1-2 cents, and common cattle 5 cents.

Lambs were weak at Wednesday's close when fair quality ewes sold at 12 1-2 cents.

The market is closing the week at about 12 1-2 cents to 13 cents for choice ewe lambs, but if next week's receipts are as heavy as this, commission men expect the packers to drop their bids.

Lambs off the road were 12 cents yesterday.

Packers will not make a stable bid for hogs above $9.25 a cwt. f.o.b., but no sales are being made lower than $9.50 a cwt. as far as can be found out, and receipts are still of small dimensions.

SPARKS CIRCUS HERE NEXT THURSDAY.
When the Sparks Circus exhibits in Peterboro on Thursday, August 14, one of the feature numbers on the programme will be presented by those extremely sagacious and spirited four-footed actors, the elephants. In vivid contrast to the arenic display by these huge animals, whose intelligence is proverbial, are the thrilling yet fascinating performances by trained lions, tigers, leopards and a mixed group of polar bears and great Dane dogs. Besides the wild animal numbers there are feats of skill and daring by famous circus performers. The clowns, in their "walk arounds" and "crazy numbers," keep the audience in mirthful spasm.

MYSTERY GIRL IS NOT FOUND

Bobbed-Haired Bandit Of This District Not With Measer When Arrested in Ottawa.

HOARD'S HOLD-UP.

LINDSAY, Aug. 8.—(Special to The Examiner). — Richard Measer, one of the band who held up the garage man at Hoard's Station on Wednesday morning, was arrested in Ottawa, according to information reaching Provincial Constable Hayston Storey to-day. He was not accompanied by the bobbed-haired girl who was with him when he made his getaway from Stirling, and her part in the banditry remains a mystery. It is believed by the police that the mystery girl is a discharged domestic who left a Bobcaygeon hotel a short time ago, and her name is given as Fulton.

Constable Storey has declared his intention to press a charge of burglary at Mount Pleasant against Measer when he comes up for hearing at Cobourg. Information will also be laid in connection with the theft of $65 from Bryson Bros.' Bakery in Lindsay, where Measer was formerly employed. The car in which the bandits made their getaway was Measer's property.

All of the men were well-known in Lindsay. Measer's wife and two children reside in the town, as do Sullivan's mother and sister, and Anderson's family. It is believed that after trial at Cobourg on the charges now preferred against them, the men will answer in Lindsay to informations sworn out by Constable Storey.

SIR ROBERT AND LADY BORDEN HERE

Spent Vacation With Sir Edward Kempt at Pigeon Lake.

Canada's War Premier and his wife, Sir Robert and Lady Borden, were in the city yesterday, leaving on the noon train for Ottawa, having been the guests of Sir Edward Kemp at his summer home on Pigeon Lake.

Sir Edward called on Mayor Turner yesterday morning, informing him of his guests' departure.

Mayor Turner met Sir Robert and Lady Borden at the station, prior to their departure, and extended them cordial greetings and good wishes on behalf of the citizens.

Society

President Noonan of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway is spending a holiday at Stoney Lake. It is suspected that he will remain in the district for a few days and it is likely that before leaving he will have a consultation with civic officials in reference to Cobourg-Rochester ferry service.

Miss Jean Horsfield is spending a couple of weeks in Cleveland.

Mr. Daniel Holland of Montreal is at his home in the city.

Mrs. T. H. Whalen and son Gregory, of Quebec City, are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Edward James, 48 Lafayette Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Cronin are spending their vacation at Crowe's Landing.

John Corkery, Sr., J. R. Corkery, Jr., and Rev. Kevin Corkery, of Cobourg, are spending a vacation together in Boston, Mass.

Sir Robert and Lady Borden passed through the city yesterday, accompanied by Sir Edward Kemp. Mayor Turner, hearing of their presence, hurried to the station and had a brief conversation with them.

Miss Grace Irons and Miss Lottie Johnson are holidaying at Cobourg.

LARKIN REPORTS TRADE IMPROVED

The English People Cannot Get Too Much Bacon From Canada.

QUEBEC, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—A statement that Canadian Products were meeting with every increasing demand throughout England was the salient feature of the interview, to-day with Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, who arrived here yesterday on the Montclare accompanied by Mrs. Larkin and daughter.

Speaking of Trade generally, he said, it had picked up wonderfully in the past few months. "I wish to state," he said, "that Canada at the present time holds a peerless position in the English markets in the matter of cheese and bacon exports. It is conceded by all who know anything about these two commodities that no other country can hope to compete with the Dominion when it comes to putting on the market a superior brand." He declared that the English people could not get too much bacon from Canada.

For the First Time in British History the King Will Not Sign a Treaty Drawn By His Government

Treaty and Commercial Agreement With Soviet Will Be Signed By Representatives of Governments This Evening—Question Arises Whether the Pact Will Be Binding.

LONDON, August 8. — The treaty and commercial agreement between Great Britain and Soviet Russia, which caused such a furore in British political circles, will be signed at 6 o'clock this evening.

Premier MacDonald and Arthur Ponsonby, Under Secretary for Foreign affairs will sign for Great Britain and Northern Ireland, while J. Joffee Rakovsky, Tomski and Sheinmann will sign for the Russians.

For the first time in history the signature of the British King will not be affixed to the document, as the Russians have no titular head of their government.

Thus the Soviet representatives will sign for the government as a whole, while the British will sign for the government, omitting mention of the King.

The matter has caused much comment as the question arises whether the succeeding British government will be bound by a treat, in which the king's signature does not appear.

The British will not sign on behalf of the Dominions but there will be provision in the commercial agreement that the Dominions may participate in it if they so desire.

FAINTING SPELLS TAKEN BY SLAYER

Fellow Schoolmate Testified That He Saw Loeb Unconscious and Still Have His Eyes Open.

CHICAGO, August 8 (Canadian Press). — Drawn by the hope of hearing other girl friends of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., testify at the Franks murder trial, the greatest crowd of the fifteen days of hearing stormed the criminal courts building this morning.

They were disappointed, however, as Clarence Darrow, chief defence counsel, announced that no further girl witnesses would be called.

Dr. R. B. Armstrong, the Loeb family physician, when the household is at its summer home at Charlevoix, Michigan, testified that Loeb was in the hospital several hours after a motor accident in 1920, and had several fainting spells the evening after he was hurt, which the doctor said he regarded as unusual.

Fellow-students of Loeb testified regarding the fainting spells suffered by the accused, one stating that on one occasion Loeb frothed at the mouth and was unconscious, although his eyes were open.

STERLING TOOK ANOTHER JUMP

Mounted to the High Level of $4.53 3-4, a Gain of 2 3-8 Cents.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press). —Responding to continued progress of international conference in London, Sterling Exchange again mounted to a new high record for the year of $4.53 3-4, a gain overnight of 2 3-8 cents. The advance brought the rate to ten cents above yesterday's low mark. Indications that the French cabinet was ready to discuss the evacuation of the Ruhr also stimulated the buying of francs which reached 5.63 cents to a new high level for the current movement.

YESTERDAY'S DROWNING

Draws Public Attention To Dangerous Allurement For Children.

Drowning accidents have fortunately not been of frequent occurrence in Peterboro, but the passing of the young life, in the person of William Baldry, who was claimed a victim of the Otonabee yesterday, draws to the public's attention a dangerous allurement.

The sawdust piles bordering the south bank of the bay east of Wolfe Street Wharf, are constantly frequently by children, providing a natural playground and attraction.

Harbour Master Patterson told The Examiner to-day that large numbers of children, on their way to and from Lake Street bathing beach, are in the habit of rollicking about the sawdust piles, venturing to the edge of the precipice, that drops abruptly to the water.

The foundation is very uncertain, and the sawdust easily gives way. Should a child fall into the water at this point it would be impossible to reach him by land, and for that reason this locality is of a precarious character, and Mr. Patterson wishes parents to be advised of the situation.

Mr. Patterson feels deeply over the terrible mishap of yesterday, and because it is impossible for him to watch the entire shore line and attend to his duties, he feels that the public should be appraised of this natural allurement.

When eight-year-old William Baldry fell in yesterday afternoon, he was accompanied by one companion, a younger lad. Mr. Patterson was in his office at the time, and it is not known how long after the boy fell in, before his little chum shouted for help, as he is so young that he cannot give an account of just what happened.

The unfortunate accident of yesterday occurred on the concrete steps on the south landing of the wharf.

SPARKS' CIRCUS HERE NEXT THURSDAY

Sparks' Big Three-Ring Circus will exhibit in Peterborough on Thursday, August 14. It is said that the performance of this show is irresistibly entertaining and is thoroughly delightful and refreshing.

The programme of the Sparks' Circus combines charm and beauty with dare-devil feats and sensational novelty attractions. Among the headline displays is the bareback riding number of the Ballerina troupe, with Senorita Flora Bedini.

It is said that the introductory number on the programme, which is called "An Egyptian Fantasy," is a superbly presented spectacle and pageant with impressively beautiful scenes that are enhanced by a big chorus of pretty girls in gorgeous costumes. A touch of barbaric splendor is given to the opening number by the dazzling trappings and accoutrements of the elephants, horses and camels that take part in it.

MARY M. MINTER ONCE OF MOVIES SEEKS NEW LIFE

Would Forget the Years She Spent in Hollywood—Desires Quiet Existence.

DREW HIGHEST SALARY

Silent on Hectic Episodes In The Days of Her Stardom.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Mary Miles Minter left her adopted home—New York City—nearly ten years ago, a girl. She was going out West to the magic cinema city to act in pictures at the highest salary ever paid a woman of her age.

Her golden hair was in ringlets about her shoulders; she wore girlish dresses and girlish hats on the back of her head. Her face shone with sweetness and her eyes held a baby stare.

She has come back to New York for good.

Of all the qualities she had when she left, the one that is precisely the same is her baby stare. That has not changed so much as a wink.

Now She Is Fat.

And, let it be whispered Mary Miles Minter is (it hurts to write it)—fat!

Not even the polite word, buxom, nor even plump, would express it.

Greeting interviewers at the St. Regis, where she is stopping until she acquires a permanent home of her own, Miss Minter wore a small, green hat, lavender hose, and a loose and ample black silk dress.

Her neck was bare, and her arms were partly so; they were not the arms and neck of the little Mary who once danced, singing down a country road, swinging a sunbonnet.

Regarding her reported engagement to Dr. Raymond R. Mixsell, a baby specialist well known in Pasadena society, Miss Minter murmured:

"Raymond and I became friendly because we are both great chess players. Our friendship is something too fine and too far-reaching to spoil by marriage. Raymond is now touring Europe with his mother. I do not expect to see him again for some time. He is very intellectual, and very accomplished, and we have much in common."

No Movie Offer.

Asked whether she planned to appear again on the screen, Miss Minter replied:

"Well—I probably would, if I should be asked to. I have had no offers, and have done no professional work for two years. I have enjoyed the rest. I don't think the movies have much to offer—except a cheque.

"I love houses, and I love furniture. I think I should like to be an architect. I intend to get myself a home here, and forget the past and take up the old-fashioned way of living. I am very old-fashioned and enjoy quiet, intellectual friends.

"The movies are artificial, and I never felt, in love scenes in a studio, that the surroundings and atmosphere were right for making love. Most of those in the business are not even acquainted with the scenario, and are thinking only of their next meal or their last."

Asked about the slaying of William Desmond Taylor, famous cinema director, whom she later claimed as her fiance; asked about her reputed affair with Louis Sherwin, who had announced that he and Miss Minter were to be married after he and his wife were divorced asked about the dispute with her mother, when she accused her mother of being her rival in Taylor's affections and sought to force her mother to repay the past earnings she had given her—to all of these questions Miss Minter gave no reply.

No Love For West.

Instead, she remarked:

"Los Angeles is a town of prying, jealous gossips. Here in New York we do not pry into others' affairs that way. I want to forget everything of the years that I spent in Los Angeles. I want to start into an entirely new life—a comfortable, old-fashioned, quiet existence. I had hoped that New York would accept me and would believe that everything that has been written of me is just Hollywood gossip."

Miss Minter spoke of two other things. Concerning a certain baby living in her Pasadena home, she had much to say. She explained:

"When I speak of my family, I just mean my three dogs. The baby is the daughter of my Cuban maid, Madeleine. The infant is nearly coal black. I enjoyed buying it carriages and clothes, and in wheeling it about and carrying it.

"It attracted a great deal of gossip. I did not bring it to New York because it is so small, and because its mother is so beautiful I feared to have her here. New York would spoil her."

The other point was her age. Miss Minter remarked that she wished she were thirty. This puzzled her interviewers. Asked whether she meant she were more or less than thirty, Miss Minter became silent.

Questioned about an affadavit she made in Los Angeles a year ago that she was thirty and able to take care of her own finances, Miss Minter replied:

"I never sued Mrs. Shelby (Mrs. Shelby is her mother's name). Everything that came out of Hollywood was false. I hope my friends will not believe any of it."

Iron Gates To Be Erected On The Border To Stop Smuggler's Swift Cars Roads Along

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—In order to combat smuggling from the United States the number of customs inspectors is to be increased according to Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs and Excise here Friday just before leaving the city. At points where highways cross the international boundary iron gates are to be erected to prevent smugglers in powerful automobiles from forcing an entry into the country.

Mr. Bureau declined to give out any further information regarding the steps the department is going to take to prevent the breaking of the laws at the border, but said that at a later date he would be prepared to tell more about the protective measures. The department of customs has made a special appropriation for the purpose.

3,500 TOWNS IN CHINA RUINED

Nearly Million Persons Must Be Supported During Coming Winter.

HAVOC OF FLOODS.

PEKING, China, Aug. 9.—Flood conditions in China are becoming worse. It is estimated that more than 3,500 villages have been demolished in the northern provinces and that nearly a million people will have to be supported throughout the coming winter.

The pontoon bridge in Tientsin native city has been swept away and fifty lives were lost. Kalgan's flood death toll is 3,000, including a number of Russians who lived in foreign boarding houses which either collapsed or were carried away.

A two-hour flight by airplane over the northern provinces revealed the extent of the flood. The Chihli basin is practically an inland sea with isolated villages here and there like islands. Floating house tops and masses of wreckage are discernible everywhere. Many places on the Yung Pinghe dikes are hidden.

Rush Work on Dikes.

Nearing Tientsin the pilot and I could see antlike human beings feverishly working to strengthen the dikes with the purpose of saving Tientsin's foreign concessions. In Tientsin the native city streets are waist deep in water and mud. Part of the Japanese concession is in the same condition. In the aerial survey it was ascertained that many isolated villages requiring assistance were being aided by boat service.

In Shensi province, which heretofore has been free from floods, large areas have been inundated and the crops are ruined.

The recent heavy rains have demolished all the repairs that have been made during the preceding two weeks.

Rescue Work Big Problem.

The present disaster is unprecedented in China's railway history. Refugees are flocking by thousands to cities not affected by the flood. It is taxing the government's resources to find food and shelter for them.

Dysentery and other diseases continue to spread. Some of the cities do not allow refugees to enter, accommodating them in temporary shelters outside the city so as to prevent the inhabitants from becoming infected.

The government is attempting to obtain $2,000,000 from the customs surplus for flood-relief purposes. The American Red Cross committee has appeal to the home organization for funds, the local organizations being unable to meet the demands of the situation.

50,000 HOMELESS IN INDIA.

MADRAS, British India, Aug. 9.—The floods in southern India, which, according to previous despatches, submerged half the state of Cochin, caused at least 100 deaths at Malabar, according to official reports. The loss of life elsewhere was comparatively small. It is estimated that 50,000 persons are homeless while thousands of acres of crops have been ruined.

INSPECT QUEBEC PORT.

QUEBEC, August 9 (Canadian Press). — Four members of the Dominion Government, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. Dr. Beland, Hon. P. A. Cardin, and Hon. Dr. King, are here to-day on an official visit to the port of Quebec to find out the needs of the harbour and to decide with the Harbour Commissioners on the best means of expending the recent grant of $500,000 which was voted at the last session of the Federal House.

PRISON TRUSTY VILLAGE DANDY

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Existence of Arthur Tobin —Turpin Exploded By Circular. IS A SWINDLER.

HOWELL, Mich., Aug. 9.—A bomb has exploded in Howell. The concussion has rocked the homes of the leading families about their ears and spread consternation among the business men. The hitherto imperturbable calm of the idlers about the village cigar store has been blasted.

The explosion came when it was learned that Arthur Tobin, the young and dandified salesman who for the last four months was recognized as one of the leading lights of the Howell younger set and who spent his evenings driving a flashy roadster around Howell's streets and drives, was none other than Arthur E. Turpin, a trusty at the State prison camp a few miles out of the village limits, who escaped July 19, taking with him $700 of the State's money.

The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence of Turpin in Howell was discovered when State authorities sent a circular here offering $100 for his arrest.

"Dandy" a Swindler!

Upon the circular residents were horrified to recognize a police picture of Turpin, who was sentenced to the Michigan State prison at Jackson from Detroit, January 31, for the unlawful conversion of $3,500, as none other than "Tobin." The dual personality of the latter was not dreamed of before.

Officials of the State Prison camp, the occupants of which are engaged in building a highway between Howell and Lansing, declare that Turpin, because of excellent recommendations and his honest and sincere manner, was given the position of voucher clerk at the camp shortly after his arrival. He consequently enjoyed complete freedom at night.

As soon as his day's work was over, Arthur E. Turpin, indexed as No. 14117, would discard his prison clothes for a tailored suit, jump into his roadster and drive to Howell as Arthur Tobin, the salesman. Here he made his first acquaintances at the cigar store.

By a ready flow of wit, an engaging manner and a never-ending fund of droll and humorous stories, he soon enjoyed the companionship and confidence of nearly the whole village.

His popularity increased when he announced he planned to turn in his roadster to a local dealer in part payment for a splendidly appointed touring car.

"Salesman" Leaves Town

Suddenly, "Tobin," the salesman, was missed in Howell. Simultaneously officials at the prison camp learned that Turpin, No. 14117, the trusty, had cashed a voucher he made out to himself and departed from the camp.

Detroit police have been on the lookout for Turpin since his escape and, it is reported, nearly caught him at the home of his wife in that city several days ago. As detectives walked in the front door of the home Turpin made a hurried exit from a rear window.

The metamorphosis of Arthur Turpin, twenty-eight years old, No. 14117, trusty at the State Prison camp, to Arthur Tobin, salesman and man about town, or vice versa, is almost too much for Howell.

Up in Howell they say that Arthur E. Turpin has three personalities, but to his wife he has only one, that of a devoted, hard-working—and persecuted—husband and father.

While working in the office of the Michigan State Prison road camp at Howell, Turpin is said to have assumed two aliases. Some of the people of the town knew him as Arthur Tobin, a flashy and apparently wealthy salesman; to others he was E. A. Liorette, an unassuming clerk; to the officials of the camp he was, of course, Arthur E. Turpin, serving a term of from three to ten years for larceny by conversion.

JOINS THE SHORN SISTERHOOD

Grandma Doane, at 82, Finds the Barber Shops Not Exclusive—Maybe Even Irene Castle Will Look Something Like This If She Reaches Four Score.

WINTHROP, Mass., Aug. 9.— It took a long time for Mrs. Elizabeth Doane to make up her mind. But when she saw her daughter and her daughter's daughter and her daughter's daughter's daughter bob their hair, she decided it wasn't too late for her to join the ranks.

So at the more or less mature age of 82 snip! snip! off came the tresses.

Thus was made Winthrop's oldest flapper.

Mrs. Doanes' hair was unusually heavy for a woman of her age. The bobbing of her hair developed into somewhat of a celebration. Her bobbed-haired granddaughter wielded the scissors, while her bobbed-haired daughter and her bobbed-haired great-grandchildren looked on.

She's glad it's over now. Bobbed hair is much more comfortable.

"It saves us all time hunting all over the floor for hairpins," she says.

FOUR DROWNED WHEN SWIMMING

Raft Collapsed Over Hole in Beach—Boy Scouts Rescued Some.

ALL ONE FAMILY.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. A. Jarry, her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Beauchamp, Pauline Jarry, aged 13, and Claude Boucher, son of Dr. Napoleon Boucher, all of this city, were drowned at Peidmont in the Laurentians yesterday afternoon. The party was bathing, and went to the rescue of some children who were playing on a raft. The children were saved, but two women, a boy and a girl were unable to get back to the shore and sank. A troop of Boy Scouts who were passing at the time went into the river in an effort to save the victims. They succeeded in aiding the children who had fallen off the raft, but the others could not reach their would-be rescuers. The bodies had not been recovered last night. At the spot where the accident occurred was a deep hole, and the children were playing on the raft, when one of the planks broke or slipped away, with the result that they were thrown into the deep water. There were four sons and one other daughter of Mrs. Jarry. She, together with Mrs. Beauchamp, Claude Boucher and Pauline Jarry, at once went to their assistance. The surviving children are being looked after by neighbors until the arrival of Mr. Jarry, his sons and daughter.

AYLMER, Que., Aug. 9.—The unusual incident of a person being run over by a locomotive and living to tell the tale occurred here Friday, when little Ethel Boucher, the two and a half-year-old daughter of Mr. E. Boucher of Hull, Que., ran in front of an advancing train at a level crossing, only to be struck and disappear underneath the engine. She came out of the accident with but a few cuts and minor bruises.

Have You Personality?—He re's the Formula In A Professo r's Psychological Profundity

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—If you feel that you possess all the biological innnate dispositions and systems of dispositions, or more specifically a psycho-physiological collection of traits, containing all the native and acquired intellectual endowments, all the sentiments and other mental system, plus the inherited emotional instincts, appetites and other tendencies by which the mind manifests or may manifest itself, actually or potentially and of which the variable components determine the reactions of the individual, then you are in the possession of personality.

This definiton of that elusive quality desired by the many was presented to the psychologists at the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science here this afternoon by Prof. Morton Bruce, of Tufts College, Boston.

NO RUST FOUND.

Manitoba's Cool Weather Is Holding Rust in Check.

WINNIPEG, August 9 (Canadian Press). — No traces of black rust have yet been found by Dr. Guy R. Bisby, plant pathologist at the Manitoba Agricultural College on samples of wheat sent to the Department of Agriculture by weed inspectors in all parts of the Province.

The inspectors were instructed to send in the worst samples they could find.

The situation is, according to Dr. Bisby, that very little damage has been done as yet, that present cool weather is holding the rust fairly well in check, and that the development depends largely upon the weather of the next two weeks.

GERMANY'S AGED.

The Oldest Woman in Germany Enjoys the Witty Exchanges.

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press).—Frau Johanna Prigge, who was born here 103 years ago, is believed to be the oldest woman living in Germany. She enjoys excellent health, has an unimpaired and active mind, reads without glasses, occupies herself with complicated fancy work, and delights everybody with her humorous sallies.

After the death of her husband, who was a farmer near here, she took up residence with her eldest son, a teacher in Fallersleben. In the course of years all her children and children-in-law died, and the old lady moved on to Embsen in the county of Luneburg, where she is living with her eldest grandson, a teacher named Stein.

BELIEVE HITCH IN CONFERENCE

Official Denials Fail to Dispel Fears Regarding Herriot's Return.

NOLLET TO RESIGN?

(By Webb Miller—United Press Staff Correspondent).

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Despite official denials, the morning newspapers today persist in statements that the return of Premier Herriot from the London conference is due to divergencies between the Premier and General Nollet, his Minister of War, regarding the security of France after adoption of the plan for the evacuation of the Ruhr.

Herriot, according to the newspapers, desires unconditional acceptance of the proposal of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain that France and Belgium evacuate the Ruhr at once, following the German acceptance of the Dawes programme as a basis of settlement of the reparations question. The French Premier is unwilling, however, to sign any agreement unless the entire Cabinet upholds him.

The resignation of General Nollet is foreshadowed.

LONDON, Aug. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— Marshal Foch will probably cast the vote which will decide the fate of the London International Conference for putting the Dawes reparation plan into effect, according to many observers here. He is the last authority on military matters in France and Premier Herriott and his associates must have his approval of the agreement to evacuate the Ruhr, it is declared, before definite action can be taken on the multitude of technical questions which all turn about the military and political pivot.

Herriott's trip to Paris has dampened optimism and the return of the French on Monday is awaited with uneasiness in conference circles.

Before he left the French Premier announced that a conference on the question of Inter-Allied debts would be held in the near future. The French have been working persistently to bring about a conference. The United States' representatives were not parties to the decision to hold a debt conference.

Suspend Over Week-End.

The work of the International Conference called for the purpose of putting the experts' reparations plan into effect is being virtually suspended over the week-end, while Premier Herriot returns to Paris for a conference with the members of his Cabinet, in regard to the action to be taken.

General Nollet is said to be opposed to his chief's tendency to make concessions with regard to the Dawes' plan, insisting that France continue to occupy the Ruhr until Germany has furnished conclusive proof of her disarmament.

On the other hand, the French Premier is quoted in semi-official French news agency despatches as denying the existence of any disagreement in the French delegation.

PUGSLEY'S PROGRAMME.

Hearings will be held at Halifax, Sydney, Amherst, Windsor, and at various other points to clear up the claims in those districts.

SEVENTY SUITS IN WARDROBE OF WINDSOR COUNT

Alleged Master Swindler With Record Reaching Round the World Disappears.

VICTIM GONE, TOO.

Said To Have Swindled Cleveland Man Out of $60,000.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—With "Count" J. Tarbeaux, alleged master swindler, and his supposed victim, William M. Pompey of Cleveland, both gone, the $60,000 swindling case being investigated by local police was further complicated Friday.

The "Count" after paying his $75 fine for possessing gambling equipment was allowed his freedom, as Pompey could not identify him as one of the gang which had defrauded him of the large sum. Later, however, he declared that he could say positively that Tarbeaux was the man. The police immediately went to the house where the gang had been arrested but found the "Count" had left town hurriedly, leaving his entire wardrobe, consisting of more than 70 suits of clothes.

Yesterday, Pompey had also left, presumably for his home in Cleveland.

A further arrest was made of a man known as "Frenchy," who, it is claimed, goes under a number of aliases. He is suspected of being one of the band. The police also hinted that one or two prominent local men would be taken into custody in connection with the case.

Search of the "Count's" record shows that he has been arrested in cities all over the world, on charges of every kind of trickery and fraud.

CARRIED SON TEN MILES TO HOSPITAL

Quebec Forest Ranger Rewarded By Successful Operation.

QUEBEC, Aug. 9.—To walk ten miles in the heat with his ten-year-old son in his arms to get him to the hospital for an operation for appendicitis was the act of devotion of Joseph Paquet, a forest ranger of St. Fabien, in the heights in Levis county. The boy was operated on with success, it was stated by the attending physicians.

The son fell sick Thursday and early yesterday morning the father suspected that he was suffering from appendicitis. He did not hesitate but prepared for the trip, having no other means of making it than to walk the ten miles separating him from a hospital.

THREW OUT DIAMONDS.

Placed in Waste Basket For Security and Then Forgotten.

LONDON, Ont., August 9 (Canadian Press).— Diamonds worth over $2,000 are believed to be somewhere in the City of London incinerator, having been lost by Mrs. James McDougall, of Windsor Avenue, who going away over the past week-end and desiring to leave them in a place where a possible burglar would not seek for valuables, left them in a waste paper basket wrapped in paper.

Returning on Tuesday and the incident out of her mind, the basket was dumped in the garbage can and eventually, it is believed, the diamonds found their way into the garbage incinerator.

BOARD EXTENDS GRAND STAND

Influx of Inquiries Indicate Largest Entry Yet.

DOG SHOW.

Peterboro Industrial Exhibition has experienced a steady growth. Each year the Board has found it necessary to expand the accommodation for the increased exhibits and attendance, which have grown more rapidly than the accommodation.

President Roland Denne stated that enquiries for prize-lists from outside points have exceeded former years, and without a doubt this year's exhibition will be bigger and better than ever.

In making this prediction the Board members are not listening to heresay, and to substantiate their belief, operations have commenced on a new grand stand, immediately west of the present one. This extension is a wooden structure, 120 feet long, without a roof.

Farmers Co-operate.

The new $1,000 barn built with the county grant, was erected by prominent exhibitors and agriculturists throughout the district. The funds of the Board are limited, and to decrease expenditure to a minimum, all turned in and helped. "It just shows what co-operation will do," remarked President Denne.

Dog Show.

A new feature of this fall's exhibition will be the dog show. Dog benches have been built and everything is in readiness to provide the society matron's darling little Pom. with a cozy home for his temporary sojourn at the show and ample quarters for the aristocratic St. Bernard or the English Bull.

Among other places, Mr. Denne expects entries for the dog show from Hamilton, Oakville, London and Ottawa.

Cattle Exhibit.

Board members are of opinion that even the new barn will not care for the cattle exhibit expected, and to eliminate the inconvenience of landing herds at the railway stations and driving them through the city to the grounds, arrangements have been made with the De Laval, to board and land stock coming in by train at the De Laval siding, just a short distance from Exhibition Park.

CHILD'S HUMOR OF MANY KINDS SCIENCE FINDS

Dr. Kimmins Rates Highly the Ability To Appreciate a Joke.

HELPS IN CRISIS.

Ability To Bring Spirit of Childhood to Bear on Life's Difficulties is a Solace.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—"In all the important crises of life, the ability to bring to bear on a difficult situation the eternal spirit of childhood is a very great solace which is denied to those in whom the sense of humor is lacking." So said Dr. C. W. Kimmins of the University of London in his address on "The Sense of Humor in Children" in the education section of the British association. Dr. Kimmins has carried out an extensive investigation into the nature of the situations which are the cause of laughter in children, and in rating a sense of humor as a priceless possession, to grown-ups as well as to boys and girls, he said: "An investigation of the sense of humor in children at different ages and the conditions which are favorable to its full play and development becomes, therefore, a matter of more than ordinary interest."

The scientist derived the bulk of the material for his investigation by analyzing thousands of funny stories and jokes which were obtained from children in the schools of London in answer to the request to give an account of the funniest story they had ever read or heard, and of the joke which made them laugh the most.

The questions were also tried on children too young to give written replies, and their answers were noted down by careful observers.

After the classification of many thousands of answers certain generalizations were made, and particular types of funny stories were found to exert the greatest appeal at certain definite ages. The information which was obtained in this way sheds light on the mental make-up of boys and girls of the different ages, Dr. Kimmins pointed out, and is invaluable to those who seek to probe the workings of the child-mind.

The experiment has been tried in America also on the extensive scale necessary to produce significant results, with the outcome that a general similarity in the mirth-provoking element is found on both sides of the Atlantic, but there are certain well marked differences. Dr. Kimmins has recently extended his investigations to France and Germany.

In showing the development of the faculty for appreciating a humorous situation, with increasing years, Dr. Kimmins stated that the funny remarks of very young children are frequently unintentional, and consequently they must be discounted in tracing the development. He said: "The appreciation of humor by very young children must not be confused with their smart and witty sayings, which are said without any intention of their being humorous or producing laughter. It is naivete pure and simple.

Study of Naivete.

"To the psychologists the study of naivete is of the greatest possible importance, as it gives valuable indications of the child's racial inheritance and indicates several directions in which the education of young children might be modified." This study is a somewhat neglected field of research, Dr. Kimmins remarked. "There are several well-known accounts of the first year of a child's life, but the period from two to five years of age is more or less an unworked field," he said. The question is receiving attention from psychologists in America, however.

Situations of the purely visual type are the first to appeal to the humorous side of infants, Dr. Kimmins has found. This was his explanation of the laughter-producing effect of slapstick comedy: "The irresistible appeal of Charlie Chaplin to young children is due to the fact not only that he is a clever artist, but that he is breaking all the conventions of society, and is doing in a very amusing way the things that children are forbidden to do. The continual movement, variety and change of action, so dear to the child mind, increase the effect."

Of articles of apparel as ingredients in a funny situation, the hat would appear to be the one about which much of the fun centres. "A big man with a small hat, or a small child with a man's hat never fails to provoke laughter," Dr. Kimmins reminded the scientists. The appeal of the hat is not confined to children, as it is an important part of the stock in trade of the clown and of every comic artist.

"A hat blown off, providing it is not your own, causes amusement; and the position of the hat on the head produces great changes in the general appearance. A suit of clothes, unless of extravagant design, rarely provoked laughter, it simply appears as a natural extension or suburb of the body. Not so with the hat, which is more of the nature of a foreign body."

"When children reach seven years of age, the records show a transition from the purely visual type of humorous situation to an elementary playing with words.

"At this stage there is a marked difference between the boys and girls. The stories of the boys mainly consist of movie and fairy tales, and many of the jokes have for their basis the misfortune of others.

Girls Tell Fairy Tales.

"On the other hand the stories of the girls are almost exclusively fairy tales, a large percentage of which are about the story of 'the three bears' which retains its appeal to children far longer than might be expected.

"Girls are much more introspective than boys and in their records there are many riddles and much play on words, while these elements are missing from those of the boys."

When children 8 years of age are examined, it is noticed that the boys begin to take pleasure in riddles, but they are still far behind the girls in this respect.

"The feeling of superiority as a fertile source of laughter now makes its appearance in the accounts of the mistakes of younger children. The girls here, as at other ages, associate stupidity with the boys, but there is no reciprocal action.

"There is now a marked increase in the domestic stories, and curiously, those based on boisterous fun are far more common with the girls than with the boys at this particular age."

By the time children are nine years old, a change has taken in their outlook, Dr. Kimmins pointed out. "The intelligent child of this age has overcome the difficulties connected with reading and writing, is a voracious reader, and is rapidly acquiring a background of useful knowledge.

"Boys and girls at this period are particularly interested in funny stories and jokes. The domestic story improves, and accounts of comic incidents from well-known books are quoted. The feeling of superiority is increasing, and stories and jokes of amusing mistakes of younger children are very popular."

In comparing the results of the investigations conducted among English children and children in American schools, the scientist told how fairy stories persist longer on this side of the Atlantic as the theme of the funny stories, and similarly, domestic situations are quoted more freely here as the basis of jokes. The greatest differences have resulted, however, in the appeal to superiority, and the frequency of the playing on words. Stupidity serves as the point of the story on this continent twice as often as in England, while with American children from 8 to 11 years, playing on words is commonly the foundation of the witticism. "This is due to the great mixture of races and the mistakes made by children endeavoring to make themselves understood," the speaker stated.

Americans Exaggerate.

"Exaggeration stories among English children are confined almost entirely to 12 and 13 years of age, but with American children, it is a stock form of humor from 11 to 18.

"But the most marked difference between the two countries is that stories and jokes of gross absurdity are far more common with American children and there are fewer of the smart retorts.

"In both countries, the misfortunes of others fall off as an element of humor after 10 years of age, and likewise, boisterous fun reaches its maximum at the age of 12."

Interesting comparisons were drawn between the laughing propensities of colored and white children. "The childish outlook remains very much longer with colored than with white children. Colored boys have a much keener sense of humor than the girls, in many of whom the sense is lacking. The colored children are three years behind the whites in the sense of humor. Subtlety rarely occurs, and the humor is of the most primitive nature. The colored child laughs more readily than the white, but the play-interest is dominant.

"Laughter is more contagious with colored than with white children, though many have not the faintest idea of what they are laughing about. If one child laughs the others join in. They have less facial control than other children. From 12 to 15, colored children are very keen on Irish stupidity stories."

Commenting on the fact that fairy stories hold an important place in the records of the funny stories of children, Dr. Kimmins said: "This hold of the fairy story on the child's imagination finds expression also in the funny sights seen in the behaviour of animals. In the fairy story, the animals talk and give every indication of possessing a high level of intelligence. In the domestic life of the child the dog and cat are retained on their pedestal and are endowed by the children with a much higher range of ability and intelligence than is granted to them by adults.

Love Affairs.

"Their quarrels, love affairs and their power of dealing with difficult situations approximate to those observed in human behavior, in the children's imagination." Citing stories in which animals are endowed with human intelligence, Dr. Kimmins inferred: "The domesticated animals thus take an important position in the kingdom of the child. At all ages, the cat, dog or parrot, plays an important part in the percentage of funny sights." Allied to their greater preference for fairy stories, is the popularity of tales of this kind with girls.

The feeling of superiority, or recognition of stupidity, according to the viewpoint, is a prominent factor in the humorous situations, Dr. Kimmins has found. "In verbal humor, this feeling of superiority at some ages runs rampant," he said. "In visual humor it holds an important position." Children who are themselves the object of the humorous situation may join in the laugh. "On testing a large number of boys who had recently left school and had entered employment it was found that the element of superiority in the funniest sights had increased enormously."

As the converse of this, is the case in which the laughter is at the adults, as the children's normal superiors in situations in which the child takes no part except as the onlooker. The aunt frequently appears as the mirth provoking element in such cases.

"At 10 years of age the affairs of the school are of great interest to the child and the popular teacher produces possibly an exaggerated effect in his mirthful moments.

"At school performances in which the teacher takes part, his success is the occasion of flattering references in the children's records of the funniest sights they have ever seen.

"On the other hand children frequently criticize their parents, and rejoice at the failure of the father, but they rarely criticize the mother." Among the answers to the questions was the remark from one girl that "it takes a lot to make father laugh, but even he had to join in," while after her father's unsuccessful attempt to amuse the baby in the absence of the mother, a girl says: "I am afraid if baby always had to play with father he would not get much amusement."

Fun in Travel.

Travel scenes frequently give rise to childish fun.

Dr. Kimmins agreed with Stephen Leacock in that the real sense of humor in grown-ups differs very little in America and in England. "But the material on which it operates differs widely," he said. "Thus we get clear distinctions between English and American humor. The appreciation of a humorous situation depends upon the type and extent of the culture of the individual affected.

"The nature of the environment, social outlook, and the advance of civilization must of necessity have a profound effect on the things we laugh at. Nothing illustrates this better than the change of humor from century to century and the folly, of which so much advantage has been taken, of discussing the definitions of experts who have written on humor and laughter from age to age under widely different social conditions.

"A study of laughter-provoking material in people of different stages of civilization makes this abundantly clear. The humanization of laughter accompanies the progress of higher ideals in national life. Our laughter at the misfortune of others no longer includes deformities and situations involving actual or possible loss of life.

"It stands to reason that as environment, history and tradition have such a great effect on the laughter-provoking material of a people, there must be a great difference between English and American humor. A new country without outstanding professional humorists, such as there are, primarily newspaper men, with a comparative absence of tradition and convention and therefore with every opportunity for great freedom of expression, must of necessity have a different type of humor from that of an old country bound by tradition and anxious above all things to keep well within social conventions.

"The rapid growth and extraordinary prosperity of America have produced a fertile soil for the development of a habit of exaggeration and what has been termed 'an exuberant love of lying.' The point which has not been sufficiently emphasized is the wonderful influence of the professional humorist as represented by the Mark Twain school with its enormous publicity through literature and lecturing platforms in giving a very definite stamp to American humor.

"There has never been any corresponding movement in England."

Among the minor comparisons which the scientist drew between the humor of children of the two countries, are the facts that certain stories have wide popularity, often with local variations; and the same type of story is common to children of the same age in each of the two races. The Mark Twain school has left a distinct impression on the sense of appreciation of American children, however, and their development along humorous lines has been further modified by the admixture of races.

"There is a wide literature on the subject of laughter," said Dr. Kimmins in conclusion. "All experts are agreed as to its physiological value, but there are widely marked differences as to the exact nature of its psychology.

"It has been said that as we reach a higher state of civilization and become more materialistic, there will be less laughter.

"This would be unfortunate, for provided always that the springs of laughter are pure, the longer we retain the spirit of the child the better."

DISCIPLINE OBJECTORS.

Japanese Army Has Special Corps For Dealing With Recalcitrant Conscripts.

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press).—The Japanese army has a special disciplinary corps for dealing with conscripts who fight their compulsory service too bitterly or who show leanings toward socialistic or radical ideas, according to Lieutenant General Issei Uzaki, Minister of War, speaking to the House of Representatives recently. General Ugaki did not indicate the methods used, but said the results had been satisfactory.

"The esprit of the army is not likely to suffer from such elements, although it is true that conscripts of such refractory turn of mind are increasing in number," said General Ugaki. "The army at first attempted to avoid the conscription of such men, but we have found it better to enlist them and then try to make them see the error of their ways. It is also true that the number of men who try to evade military service is increasing, but the army authorities are doing their best to remedy this tendency."

COLOUR BLINDNESS MAY BE CORRECTED

Special Spectacles Enable Sufferers to Distinguish Colours the Unaided Eye Passes.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—Colour blindness may be corrected by the wearing of special spectacles, in the opinion of H. E. Roaf, M.D., D. Sc., professor of physiology at London Medical School, who communicated a research on colour vision to the physiology section of the British Association. Dr. Roaf has found that in the case of many persons whose ability to distinguish colours is not perfect, that the eye receives sensations from the complete range of the spectrum of colours, just as the normal indivisual does, and that the intensity of the stimulation is about the same as if there were no lack of differentiation.

The usual tests for colour blindness consist in asking the subject to match various colours, and the completeness of his faculties in this connection is judged by the accuracy with which he makes the match. Those afflicted with so-called "hypochromatic vision" find it impossible to distinguish certain shades which are obviously different to anyone with perfect sight. Prof. Roaf has discovered, however, that if the patient re-examines the matches through a colored screen, he realizes his mistake at once and in many cases, and sets aside the combinations which do not agree. This is the principle of the proposed method of treatment.

"It is possible that if such an individual wore a coloured eye glass over one eye, he might learn to recognize the colours like a normal persons," Dr. Roaf said. The spectacles would not correct for the error in vision automatically, but after becoming accustomed to the glasses, and after practice in separating tones by their aid, the correction would probably be made unout.

CARRIER PIGEONS.

These Wise Birds Prefer Ships To Flight Across the Channel.

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, August 9. — American ships seldom make the trip between Bremerhaven and Southampton without having carrier pigeons as passengers. The crews of the Shipping Board vessels have made a practice of supplying the tired carriers with food and water, and they seem to have learned to identify the American flag and make for the Stars and Stripes whenever they are weary.

Usually the birds seek the ships about dusk. They apparently dislike the night flight across the North Sea and the English Channel and prefer to ride. The birds are seldom shy. Frequently they allow the sailors to feed them from their hands and inspect the numbers of the discs about their legs.

After the birds have satisfied their hunger and thirst, they seek a sheltered perch high on the masts and remain with the vessel until within a few miles of land.

Many of the birds which rest on the Channel ships are doubtless engaged in the races which carrier pigeon societies are conducting between England and the various parts of Europe.

SPARKS' CIRCUS HERE NEXT THURSDAY

The Sparks Big Three - Ring Circus is coming to Peterboro to exhibit for one day only on Thursday, August 14. It will arrive early in the morning, "set up," give a parade through the principal business streets of the city, give a matinee and an evening performance, and declared the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph in its review of the show, and, continuing, declared: "The Sparks 'outfit' has a surprisingly large number of fine and costly animals to begin with, and this department was made complete by the various able trainers and managers. The lion, tiger and bear acts in particular seem to be unsurpassed in the circus world, and the performances of the horses are no less than marvellous.

"The Telegraph highly recommends the show to the people wherever it may go."

The Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Despatch closed a long commendatory review of the Sparks Circus by stating: "The circus will long be remembered and was one so clean, so complete and so entertaining as to have been well entitled to the distinction of being the first to visit Huntington this year."

Many Hollanders Eager To Locate in Canada.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—That there are large numbers of Hollanders anxious to come to this country to make their homes in this land, was a statement made Friday by Mrs. D. Veenstra, manageress of the trans-Atlantic transportation bureau, The Hague, who is in Port Arthur with a view of taking a tour over in agricultural district in connection with immigraton work.

Mrs. Veenstra sends settlers to both Australia and Canada but Canada has the preference on account of being nearer home for people who always think they would like to be able to make a visit to the old land. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. The three theatres affected have employed non-union organists, rather than pay the two dollars a week increase demanded. Business does not warrant the increase, theatre managers claim, and certain clauses of the new contracts are considered objectionable.

YANKEE STUDENTS INVADING HOLLAND

Hundreds of Americans Go For a Holiday to Hear Lectures.

LEYDEN, Holland, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press).—This quiet university town, redolent of memories of William the Silent, Rembrandt and Grotius, was brimful of bustle and excitement recently owing to an invasion of hundred of Americans. Sixty of them were students from Harvard, Yale and Princeton who had come to take a holiday course of lectures on Holland at the famous old University of Leydon which for centuries has been one of the foremost seats of learning in Europe.

Richard M. Tobin, U.S. Minister at The Hague, welcomed his young compatriots. Professor Westerman recalled that it was with Holland that the United States, under the administration of President Adams, concluded its first treaty of friendship and commerce, and that one of President Adams' sons received his education here.

At the same time, a large party of American Walloon Huguenots made pilgrimages to the tomb of John Robinson and various parts of the city connected with the memory of the Pilgrim Fathers. They were received by the mayor, to whom they presented a memorial map of Plymouth, Mass., and a commemorative medal.

The statue is a full-sized reproduction of the Fremiet statue at the Place des Pyrimids in Paris, and, like the original, is finished in gold leaf.

MOTION PICTURES IN 3 DIMENSIONS

Stereoptic Pictures on the Silver Screen Described By An Expert.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—A method for imparting the effect of full relief to motion pictures was described in the education section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science by Prof. E. A. Bott of the University of Toronto. "The exhibition of motion pictures in three dimensions to public audiences has been the objective of considerable research in stereoscopy," said Prof. Bott describing his invention. "The stereoscopy of projected pictures raises a number of new and significant problems in visual science."

Telling of efforts to impart the idea of depth of photographic reproductions, the professor said: "The discoveries of Wheatstone and Brewster in stereoscopy attracted world wide attention in the middle of the 19th century, but the interest was short lived when no result of scientific importance nor any useful application was found for this remarkable visual phenomenon and in consequence the stereoscope became little more than a household toy.

"Later in the century interest was revived in some circles through the use of certain characteristics of stereoscopic fusion in the detecting of forgeries and counterfeits, the matching of pattern materials, the surveying of inaccessible regions, astronomical, metrological and terrestrial, and in range finding." Interests in the phenomenon has been revived recently by persistent efforts to find a possible and practical means of exhibiting motion pictures in full relief to public audiences, and the technic which Prof. Bott has devised utilizes the old principle of the toy stereoscope.

Two films are thrown on the screen side by side, in the operation of the device. These are taken by two cameras, arranged with the lenses a short distance apart as is done in producing the ordinary stereoscopic cards. In order to permit the fusion of the two images, a pair of lenses is brought into play, through which the screen may be viewed, and instead of the two pictures a single impression is received in which the sense of depth is expressed. It was previously thought that the principle was limited to the small scale of the hand stereoscope, but Prof. Bott has been able to arrange the pictures and lenses so that the method is applicable to large pictures which may be exhibited in public.

The scientists were afforded the opportunity of seeing the device in operation.

STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

It Usually Disappears When the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened, and there is loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion, and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. This is shown by an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood enriching pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are vigorous instead of irritable and listless. If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion, you should at once take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and profit by the better condition in which they will put your blood.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

KANSAS CHILDREN ERECT MEMORIAL

The Memorial Was Dedicated on August 2nd, the Anniversary of Harding's Death.

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Aug. 9. — A memorial of granite with a bronze tablet, set in a little park surrounded by a three-foot stone wall, marks the spot on a farm near here where the late President Harding shocked grain under a broiling sun in June 1923, when on the trans continental trip that was brought to an end by his death. The memorial as dedicated August 2, the anniversary of his death.

It was on the Chester O'Neil wheat farm, eight miles west of Hutchinson, that the late President shocked grain in the "Ohio way," as he expressed it to Senator Arthur Capper and Gov. Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas, who previously had showed the Kansas way of doing it. Then Mr. Harding drove a harvesting machine several times about the field so the "newspaper boys could have a story," as Mrs. Harding said.

The President and party had been greeted at the entrance to the farm by a little group of country folk among them several children. With them the President and Mrs. Harding chatted freely, the President taking some of the children in his arms These children and others of Reno county, by contributions of nickels and dimes raised the fund to erect the memorial.

At bit of ground at the entrance to the field was donated by Mr. O'Neal and a pretty little park was laid out, with shrubbery, blue grass and a surrounding stone wall. Here on the top of Rayl Hill, where thousands of tourists pass on the paved highway that is a part of the New Santa Fe trail, the memorial will stand. Atop a flag staff the American flag will fly daily, for the children of the Rayl school have obligated themselves to be custodians of the colors, to see that the flag is raised and lowered each day.

ALLOW PRIESTS TO CELEBRATE RUSSIAN MASS

300 Archbishops and Priests Entered the Forbidden Gates To Celebrate Mass.

HOLY OF HOLIES.

Shouts of Down With Religion, Down With the Church Were Heard.

MOSCOW, August 9. — Soviet officials, military cadets and revolutionary leaders who make up the strangey-mixed population of the Kremlin, Russia's "Holy of Holies," were shaken out of their communistic repose recently when a group of 300 archbishops, bishops and priests, dressed in rich and costly vestments of the old regime, entered the forbidden gates of that sanctuary unannounced, and celebrated mass in one of the ancient cathedrals where the Czar formerly worshipped. It was the first time since the advent of the Bolshevists to power that the solemn revolutionary atmosphere of the Kremlin was broken by a religious gathering.

Amazed at the appearance of the strange procession within the sacrosant walls of the government citadel, clerks, soldiers and officials employed in the Kremlin dropped their work hurriedly and whispered some anxious inquiries as to the reason for the religious invasion. Caustic comments were exchanged on the appearance of the lean, ascetic, long-haired and bewhiskered prelates, who with their golden mitres and in silk robes, recalled the days when the church was the most powerful institution in Russia.

"Take them to the barber and have their whiskers and hair removed," said one of the military cadets irreverently. "They have no business here. We cast them out of our ranks long ago. Down with religion! Down with the church!"

Others took a more considerate attitude, explaining that the clergy had recently held a conclave and had obtained permissed from the government to offer prayer in the largest of the Kremlin cathedrals.

While the astonished communists of the Kremlin were still discussing the intrusion of the ecclesiasts, the procession passed undisturbed through the wide pathways of the Kremlin to the cathedral. The congregation in the cathedral consisted largely of bishops and priests, not a single communist or layman being present. For several hours the ancient walls of the Kremlin which have witnessed Russia's triumphs and trials for a thousand years, echoed with the elaborate musical ritual of the Russian orthodox church, in which more than 300 bishops and priests participated.

The church ceremonies were made more remarkable by the fact that the visiting prelates, who at heart are bitterly opposed to the Bolsheviks asked the blessing of Providence on the Soviet regime and ended with a prayer for long life to the members of the government, just as formerly they prayed for long life to the Czarist government and the emperor and his family.

While a mass was being held the crowds outside the cathedral disappeared but once the ceremonies were brought to a close, groups of military cadets approached the church and renewed their derisive remarks about the bishops and the priests. They then struck up "The International," and it was to strains of this martial revolutionary hymn that the religious procession filed out of the Kremlin.

NO DANGER OF BEARDED WOMEN

Some Believe Bobbed Haired Women Would Soon Become Bald and Bearded.

By Hedda Hoyt

NEW YORK, N.Y. Aug. 9.—(United Press).—Recently the New York papers printed a story that made every bobbed haired woman in New York want to chew nails!

Some gentleman had suddenly come to the conclusion that bobbed haired women would soon become bearded and bald-headed, and the papers printed the gentleman's reasons for believing this. Women will be as bald as bats and as bearded as Solomon, according to his theory.

RATS! The day that women become baldheaded, wigmaking will be the leading profession among the males of this country. There isn't a woman living who would go about with a bald head. Men commit this insult to the eyesight but thank God! for the feminine vanity which would hinder us from inflicting such punishment on our fellowmen.

As to bearded ladies! As long as there is a safety razor in the United States a hairless chins will remain the vogue among women. They'd shave as often as they powder their noses if necessary. No man will ever have cause to complain of his wife's stub-growth chin.

Women are growing more beautiful every year because there never has been an age when they took greater care of their beauty. Not so many years ago a woman who powdered her nose and put rouge on her cheeks was looked upon by her conventional sisters as rather 'naughty'. To-day the woman who doesn't' powder her nose is considered a slacker of the worst order. She is an offense against beauty. The man who complains because his wife or sweetheart takes the shine off her nose or puts a shine on her nails is either ignorant to beauty or else he is casting his glances elsewhere. One feels sorry for the wife or sweet heart of such a man. Firstly because he must be a nuisance about the house and secondly because he's not to be trusted on the streets — nine times out of ten. He's the man who will beam at a rouged woman and then whine that he doesn't like cosmetics.

Wait Awhile, Girls

No one with good sense would suggest cosmetics for the young girl in her teens or early twenties. Certainly youth should not go about colored up like a Christmas tree ornament. Young, tender skins should be kept wholesome as long as possible and any powder or rouge tends to clog up the pores. If young girls but knew it, they would be far more beautiful than the painted matrons if they kept their faces unsailed by lip-sticks and powders. As it is—one can't distinguish the girls of twenty from the matrons of thirty-five.

It is the woman who has passed the bloom of youth who needs cosmetics or the girl whom sickness has left palid. There are thousands of mothers whom fretted years of child-raising have hallow-eyed and sallow, thousands of shopgirls and factory workers whose faces have parched beneath artificial lights, thousands of women to whom time has been none too kind. These are the women who should learn the art of the use of cosmetics. There is no reason for them being drab, uninteresting beings just because nature has passed them by. Artifice is a woman's weapon and she should use it whenever her beauty is in danger! The woman or girl who worries about bobbed hair causing a beard of a bald head is only only causing wrinkles. Worry only about today—let tomorrow's rouge pot and safety razor take care of to-morrow! To-morrows are never as bad as we fear they will be anyway.

The complexion can be kept in good condition in spite of daily applications of powder and rouge. Always before going to bed each night wash the face well with warm water followed by cold. Use a soft face towel and rub the skin vigorously. Then apply a piece of ice over the face as this will bring the blood to the surface of the skin. If the skin is dry apply some good skin food or cream allowing it to remain on the face a few minutes before going to bed. On rising in the morning again wash the face with warm water followed by cold, apply a small amount of cold cream and remove this after a few minutes with a soft cloth before appiying powder and dry rouge.

Remember the—Eyebrows.

The making up of the eyebrows follow the powdering. Many women need no additional darkening on the brows but where the eyebrow is so light as to be unnoticeable a brown eyebrow pencil may be used. Always follow the natural line of the eyebrow as only an artist at makeup can successfully give a new outline to the brow without disfiguring the expression of the face. Never pluck the hairs from the eyebrows as this is quite a dangerous procedure. If one feels that one must have the straggly outline of the eyebrow narrowed it is best to go to a beauty parlor. A safety razor is the safest way of correcting unevenness of the eyebrow for the amateur. Depilatories should be kept away from the eyes.

In making-up the lips choose a lip stick that is of the natural shade of the lips rather than a brilliant red one. Never outline the lips to the ends but confine the color to the center of the mouth and blend the color outwards.

STRANGE THINGS THAT PEOPLE DO

When Remore Goads, Told By Custodian of U. S. Conscience Fund.

By MILTON MACKAYE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—(United Press).—"The American people are honest, American consciences won't let them be anything else."

So says Frank J. Thiel, assistant United States treasurer, and points to a treasury fund of $600,000, built entirely upon the honesty of Americans as proof of his contention.

That $600,000 which grows daily, is called the "Conscience Fund", and Thiel is its custodian. Started in 1811 it is made up of money sent the government by individuals who have at one time or another defrauded it.

Fear is in no way a factor in maintaining this strange account, for in almost every case the money has been mailed in long after the possibility of detection had passed. The frauds were made good simply because peoples' consciences wont' allow them peace.

100 Years Ago

The first contribution of $5 was sent in more than a century ago by a man who failed to give his name, but explained that he owed money to the government.

Treasury officials were puzzled. They didn't know what to do with his remittance. Finally, they put it down as "Conscience", and the account dedicated to "Peace of Mind" was begun.

"The Conscience Fund restores your faith in people," Thiel says. "It shows a wholesome cheering condition: it is first hand evidence that the human race isn't so bad, after all.

"A man will defraud the government. That is wrong. But the point is ,he knows it's wrong, and the thought won't let him rest. Perhaps he will fight it of for years, but some time his 'still- small voice' will mobe him to restitution.

Many Ministers

"We receive many remittances from ministers, who forward them in behalf of penitents. Once we received $11.20 from St. Paul's church in London.

"The largest amount we have ever received was $30,000 in gold certificates.

The sender never explained how he had robbed the government nor revealed his identity.

"The smallest remittance was 2 cents. Shortly after we had published the fact we received a long letter from a Chicagoan, saying he was the individual who had sent it.

"That, too, was conscience money. He explained that when a small boy he had made a bet that he could send a letter through the mail without using a stamp.

"He won the bet— but he never was happy until he made it good."

Another man, Theil said, once sent half of eight $1,000 bills, which he had cut in two. He explained that he owed the Government $8,000 and would mail the other half as soon as he saw a notice in the newspapers that the first half had been received. He did.

SOME FEATURES APPLE IMPORTS INTO ENGLAND

Condition of Fruit When it Arrives in Britain Not First-Class.

10 PER CENT. LOST

Supplies Taken in the Fall Last for From 4 to 6 Months.

Canadian Apple growers must realize that Great Britain is the greatest user of our apples of any foreign country, and, as such, is deserving of attention. Not only has this market been our largest apple export market in the past, but it is rapidly increasing in the volume of this type of fruit that it uses annually. For instance, in 1921 approximately 4,000,000 hundredweight (Cwt. equals 112 lb.) were imported into England, in 1922 around 4,500,000, and in 1923 about 6,500,000 from all countries. However, this is a good index to the American trade, as we export a very large percent of the total amount imported into the British Isles.

Let us consider first the conditions in general concerning the British fruit trade and later take up material pertinent to the various ports of importance. Our prime cause for shipping apples to Great Britain is to produce a profit to whoever ships, whether he be grower, co-operative organization speculator, dealer or any other individual or group. There are several factors that are going to decide more or less for us whether it is big enough to be of importance. Some of these are: 1. Condition of fruit when it arrives. 2. Competition offered. 3. British selling agencies and their methods. 4. The market demand, present and potential. 4. Headwork on the part of the shipper.

Condition.

The condition of the fruit when it arrives in the British port is dependent, in turn, upon many factors. This is one of the prime factors that determines whether we will profit by our venture or not. Employing statistics and remembering that figures will lie, and liars will figure, it has been estimated by a good authority that about 10 per cent of the perfect value of fruit has been lost before reaching the port. Much of this can be saved and nearly $1,000,000 could be added to the value of American and Canadian apples based on 1922 data. This would average about 15 cents per bushel—a commendable profit. Factors that work against this arrival in the best of condition—firm, tight, dry, quality graded apples are partially listed as follows:—1. Improper packing, one of the biggest causes, especially in the case of barreled apples. 2. A storage period in the States. 3. Long rail shipments. 4. Delay and rough handling onto the vessel. 5. An ocean trip in the roughest period of the year. 6. Exposure to unsuitable weather and rough handling when arrived at the port. These combined factors are enough to discourage any sound, ripe apple from looking its best. Besides, the British trade is opposed greatly to reconditioning after arrival. There are ways and means to overcome these bad features. Among them would be to pack a special brand for export trade. Growers will have to demand better transportation facilities and call for inspections before overseas shipments are made. They should also plan out a systematic scheme of exporting their fruit.

Opening of Season

The American apple season starts, as a rule, in early fall, depending upon the supplies of the home-grown British apples and those of continental Europe. This season lasts until the latter part of April, when the Australian and New Zealand supplies start to come in. Our season lasts then from four to six months, depending on the supplies in other competing countries. The English home-grown crop usually equals the importations from the United States and Canada, and about one-half of this is placed in competition with it. The American-grown apples usually bring higher prices than those from other countries, due to superior grading and quality. Growers in various sections of America are in competition with each other when they should be in co-operation. There is a wide range between the Virginian apple season and the Oregon or British Columbia, nevertheless.

We take up the distribution from the port of origin.—The matter of necessary documents, forms, etc., are too detailed, but a discussion of lines and rates is of interest. American shippers should not forget that they have their own United States lines that offer refrigerator service from the principal American ports to English ports. If our merchants marine is to succeed it is up to us to support it every time we have an opportunity. Rates from New York at present are as follows: Cold storage space—barrels, $1.40; boxes, 50 cents. Ordinary space—barrels, 90 cents; boxes, 30 cents. There are six ports of importance, namely, London, Liverpool, Glasgow, Manchester, Southampton and Hull. These six ports feed the British Isles, which have a population of about forty-five millions in an area of 90,000 square miles.

Distribution.

We find the machinery of distribution after reaching these six ports complicated but quite quite efficient. It is composed of the receivers, buyers who deal with the receivers, brokers for towns in the interior, the many retailers, and other wholesale buyers and small sellers, such as chain stores, co-operatives, etc.

There are two methods of sale at the port. These are by auction or private sale. Both of these types of agents prefer direct consignments, and act as sellers for the principals. There is some considerable risk in placing the deal in their hands, but, as is the case in the United States, if one uses care in selection of his agent he will be duly rewarded. The firms of long standing are the ones to tie up to. Insist on the best connections and you will be assured of the best service.

Auctions are found in all of these six ports. They are either controlled by the principal agents located there or are classed as open auctions where anyone may buy or sell according to the specific regulations governing the auction's operations. They are all considered fair and honest. Specific sale days are set and brokers make their offerings known to the trade. When the ship arrives the various lots are classified as "tights," "wets," "slacks," "very slack," "shakes," "wet and slack," etc., and a sample is selected from each lot at random. These samples are dumped in the sales room and explsed to view of the buyer. According to regulations of most ports, buyers can make inspection at the ship. However, bulk is not sold according to sample in all cases, but the buyer has the right to adjust the sale or reject it, usually within 24 hours after the purchase. Both buyers and dealers are well organized. A huge proportion of the apples sold in Great Britain are at auction, and the auction prices govern the private sale price, as the buyers wait and see the price set by the auction before buying. Each of the large auctions know the prices in force at the others, although they may vary slightly or sometimes greatly from day to day. According to Mr. E. A. Foley, Agricultural Commissioner, London, England, in a report on the "British Fruit Market," the port auctions, according to their efficiency, should be listed as follows:—Glasgow, Liverpool, Manchester, Hull, Southampton, London.

China Leads The World In The Export Of Eggs

China does the largest egg trade of any country in the world. More than 1,000,000,000 eggs in the shell are exported annually, in addition to which is exported 57,000,000 lbs. of egg albumen and yolk and 37,000,000 lbs. of frozen eggs. Total egg production is estimated at 26,250,000,000 per annum. The number of hens in the country is estimated at 350,000,000, or approximately one hen for every man, woman and child. Practically every family keeps a few hens, feeding the flock on table scraps, coarse rice, low grade wheat and other waste materials. The average price of eggs in a representative Chinese city in 1923 was 10 cents per dozen.

A Mid-Summer's Night Swim

By A. J. CHARMAN.

It was past nine o'clock when my host made his last trip from barn to house and came over to where I "loafed" in the garden.

To my knowledge he had been briskly "on the go" since five o'clock in the morning, for I had heard his quick step and whistle about the yard at that hour. There had been chores, of course, then a piling-up of produce on the truck and departure for the day's business round. His return, about noon, had been the beginning of a man's size day's work in the hayfield that would have been a worthy boast for most of us—and the ever-recurring chores again as the burning heat of the day cooled toward evening. I fully expected him to stretch out on the grass beside me, but, "Well, what about that swim?" were his words.

I sat up.

"Do you talk of swimming after such a day, at your age?"

He smiled the smile that I remembered from schooldays, and nodded, "Guess the rest of the day is mine!"

An Interruption.

A loud squawking of chickens broke out in the thicket of evergreens behind the house.

"No, it isn't. Those fool pullets!"—and off he went to see about them. I trailed along and tried to keep hold of the plump young hens that he caught from the branches and handed down to me. They were fine birds, almost fullgrown and ruddy of comb, but stupid now with dusk and easily handled.

Some Old Instinct.

"Must be some old instinct of the wild that awakens about this age," said their owner as we put them in and made all fast for the night. "There is a period in every year when pullets like these are determined to sleep out in the woods. There would not be many for the laying pens next fall if we let them go to it."

"Hawks?" I asked.

"Owls," he replied; "those big horned owls, as they are called; they can look into this dark thicket and see every bird. Know how they get chicken on the roost?" I confessed ignorance, supposing that the birds of prey just seized them where they sat.

"No, the owl knocks them off the perch first, with his wings, and pounces on them as they reach the ground. It is his habit to take prey in that way."

It was ten o'clock now, and this time it was I who said, half in jest, "Well, what about that swim?"

Led the Way at a Run.

"Come on, then!" said my host, and led the way at a run down the trail to the beach.

There was still a subdued, reflected light over the earth, but from the woods came sudden, mysterious sounds of night life awake and astir. The scent of the earth, distilled by dew, was going up all about us as we passed beneath boughs of the wild spirea that drooped with weight of blossom—the lost of our flowering shrubs in the calendar of summer. Even as we ran I could distinguish the delicate perfume of Linneaus Borealis, the little twin flower.

The man who had put in his fourteen hours of useful, intelligent labor drew away from me as easily as, years ago, he left me behind in our boyish races. I caught a glimmer of something white as he rounded a bend in the trail—he had dropped thirty years and was stripping as he ran toward the swimming-hole!

He Was Far Out.

The friendly screen of night was about us and the bay was void of human life. He was far out, playing in the long groundswell as the porpoise plays, when I entered the water, and the moon was rising in splendor, filling all the world before us with her radiant glory. He swam in liquid fire of gold and silver, came out, resumed the garments and ways of forty-odd, and lay at rest on the beach.

It was such a soft, perfumed night as comes but once or twice in the year to our northern latitude—a night that had strayed from palm grooves and coral strands of the South. I lay, pondering many things, contrasting the seasoned strength and inexhaustible vitality of this friend of mine with the condition of several common friends of our schooldays.

"Some Are Prominent."

Some are wealthy, prominent men of cities; the man beside me was a working farmer with a large family and a deep, strong love of his home place, even though the up-coast district where he lives seems at times to rebel and fight back at a man rather than yield him a living. But his eye is not dim, nor his natural force abated—I could not say that of any of his old schoolmates. He is at the zenith of life, and his growing youngsters are a joy to see and know.

The wife and mother—the lode-star about whom all in this man's home revolve—ran her fingers through his damp hair as we sat at ease, and gently chided:

"Where have you boys been—after such a long day, too?"

I'll admit it was a long day, even for a farmer.

PAYS TO FEED BY-PRODUCTS TO THE HOGS

Not Economical to Feed More Than 10 Per Cent. Meat at Each Meal.

PROPER FEEDING

In Test Pigs Were Fed in Separate Hoppers Same Quantity.

The value of organic supplements for hog feeding has been demonstrated in a number of tests completed during the past few years on the Dominion Experimental farms.

In a feeding test conducted with four lots of Yorkshire hogs, two commercial tankages and a commercial meat meal were fed in self-feeding hoppers as supplements to the mea ration, whic f in this instance contained milk as well, while the remaining lot was used as a check in order to determine the economy of feeding these supplements and also the quantity which the hogs would consume.

The Meal Ration.

The test commenced on January 9 and continued for a period of 90 days. Each lot included seven pigs, averaging from 44 to 54 pounds in weight. The meal ration for all lots consisted of ground oats, 2 parts; ground barley, 1 part; shorts, 1 part; middlings, 1 part, and linseed oil meal 3 per cent. The meal was fed as a milk slop in troughs. Each lot of hogs consumed 1710 pounds of the meal mixture and 3322 pounds of skim-milk. Lot 1 was used as the check and did not receive meat by-products, while Lot 2 consumed 9.06 per cent. of tankage; Lot 3, 11.4 per cent. of No. 2 tankage, and Lot 4, 9.06 per cent. of meat meal.

Lot 1 made slightly the lowest gains is well as the most economical gains allowed in turn by the lot on No. 1 fonkage, the lot on No. 2 tankage and the lot no meat meal. The average daily grains per hog were 1.03 pounds, 1.05 pounds, 1.08 pounds and 1.09 pounds, while the feed costs per pound of gain were 5.23 cents, 5.68 cents, 57.4 cents and 5.89 cents respectively.

The addition of the meat by-products increased the gains, but this increase was not sufficiently large to compensate for the increased cost of the ration.

The results further indicate that it is not economical to add as much as 10 per cent. of meat by-products to a well-balanced meal and milk ration.

These results agree in principle with those of previous tests, in that organic supplements increase the gains produced in a given period, and also that it is not usually economical to supply these much in excess of 5 to 6 per cent. of the meal ration.

BERRY GROWERS MAKE BIG SALES

Fruit Passing Through B. C. in Very Great Quantities.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 9.—The wet weather has almost stopped shipments of raspberries in crates for the Prairie market. Car lot shipments have fallen off very materially. This is throwing more rasps into the jam channel of disposal than officials of the B. C. Berry Growers' Co-operative Union exactly like, but the berries are all being taken care of at Mission, Chilliwack, Haney and Vancouver. The whole of the pack of processed berries for jam manufacture—frozen berries—has been sold. Some of it has gone to Ontario and a considerable quantity to the United States.

An Experiment.

A trial shipment of berry pulp for jam making has gone forward to Great Britain—is on the ocean now, per the s.s. Dominion Miller. This is an absolutely new departure for B. C. jam berries. The berries are boiled, without the addition of sugar, put up in gallow cans and shipped in that form to British jam makers. Two British firms are being catered for with the shipment of some tons now on the water. If the experiment is a success it will open a new and extensive market for B. C. jam berries.

The price obtained on the prairies for crated raspberries was fair, and there have been no reports of "grief" from mould.

Plums will be next handled, and a big proportion of them are expected to go for jam and canning.

Loganberries are being canned and jammed and made into wine. The output will be pooled, and President H. P. Simpson, of the Berry Growers' Union, said that they can handle all the loganberries growers can supply this season. Incidentally, at least one lot of Lulu Island logans have been sold for jam at the best price recorded this season.

Most of the cherries the Union handled—cherries are practically over—went to the canneries. And the whole pack is already sold. Canned goods will be shipped out this week—that is, a start will be made on the shipments.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 gallons of loganberry wine are to be manufactured this season, and the demand is satisfactory so far. This in itself is a big step forward.

FIRST THRESHING.

The first threshing of the season was done at the farm of Mr. Clayton Tucker, 4th concession of Rawdon, when he threshed 500 bushels of wheat and rye. The yield was over forty bushels to the acre.

Foot and mouth disease for the first half of this year cost the lives of nearly 100,000 head of livestock.

USE MORE MILK THAN GASOLINE OVER BOUNDARY

Total Production in U. S. for 1923 Was Valued at Over Two Billion Dollars.

MILK IS WASTED

Would Take Fleet of Eleven Hundred Ships to Send Milk To England.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. — Milk production in the United States for 1923 increased seven billion pounds over the previous year. The total production for 1923 is placed at 109,736,062,000 pounds, valued at $2,566,000,000. To most of us a billion pounds or a billion dollars is too big to be understandable, therefore the following comparisons may be of interest.

To transport the milk of 1923 across the Atlantic would require a fleet of eleven hundred ships like the giant of all shipping craft, the Leviathan.

Milk production in 1923 was double the quantity of gasoline used for all purposes in the United States during the past year.

If all this milk were impounded at one place it would flood twenty thousand acres of farm land to a depth sufficient to float a fleet of the largest battleships in the world.

The value of the 1923 milk equals that of 5,745 tons of gold, and is greater than the value of all the gold and silver produced during the past twenty years in the United States.

Consumers paid approximately five billion dollars for dairy products in 1923, or one-fifth of their total expenditures for food. Even so they made a good bargain as they secured 38 per cent. of the energy value of their ration and 17.7 per cent. of their protein from dairy products.

The value of dairy products is practically equal to the value of all the cotton, wheat, and potatoes produced last year.

The total value of all crops, live stock, and live stock products in 1923 was $16,064,000,000, of which $3,861,000,000 worth was fed to live stock. Of the $12,203,000,000 remaining, dairy products a[illegible]d for 21 per cent. If to dairy [illegible] is added the value of the in[illegible]nd slaughter of dairy cattle, it is [illegible]able to assert the dairy cow contributed better than a quarter of the value of all farm products in 1923.

The farm value of milk according to various government estimates indicates a valuation of $2.33 a hundred in 1923 and $2.04 a hundred in 1922.

The consumption of milk for household purposes in 1923 amounted to 53 gallons per capita for the 110,663,501 consumers in the United States. This represents an increase of three gallons over the 1922 average of 50 gallons and an iitcrease of ten gallons over the 1918 average of only 43 gallons.

The total production of milk in 1923 represents the annual production of 24,552,000 cows averaging 4,470 pound each. In 1922 the estimates showed 25,505,000 producing cows, with an average production of 4,021 pounds milk each. We are at a loss to account for the basis of estimating a reduction of nearly a million producing cows during 1923, as the January 1 estimates of the number of milk cows has shown an increase each year for the past ten years with one exception. There was doubtless some increase in production per cow in 1923 owing to the stimulus of using her as a market for crops, but we question whether this was in excess of 250 pounds per cow instead of the reported increase of 449 pounds.

Ducks Staggered To Die After They Ate Poppies

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 9.—Mrs. M. Scott, who lives on a farm outside of Picton, had about twenty young ducks several weeks old. She noticed some of them not feeling well, and when they tried to walk they would stagger along. The next morning some of them were dead. She was puzzled to know the cause and watched them, and found them in her poppy bed eating the plants and flowers, and found this the reason of their sickness and death. Only a very few were left from the number she had at the beginning.

MUCH WHEAT IS KNOWN IN CAVAN

Weather of the Last Few Days Has Been Extremely Bad For the Wheat.

CAVAN, Aug. 9.—A great acreage of wheat is cut in Cavan. Many have finished cutting.

The weather of the last few days has been extremely bad for the wheat. A high temperature, with showers every day or night, keeps the wheat damp. This kind of weather almost invariably causes the wheat to sprout, in fact a little sprouting has been noticed by some.

There is a great deal of loose smut in the grain this summer, which will cause a fifteen or twenty per cent. depreciation at least.

Many of the farmers are ploughing in preparation for fall wheat.

The showers have helped this part of the work.

BURNBRAE CHEESE PRICES.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 9.—Cheese prices are holding about level, prices ranging from 16 1-16 to 16¼ cents per pound. The rains have improved the pastures so that the make of cheese is holding up fairly well.

SMALL FRUITS ARE PLENTIFUL

Cobourg Market Covered With Cherries and Berries.

OFFERED FREELY

COBOURG, Aug. 9.—Small fruits are being offered freely on the market here by local growers, such as cherries, black, white, red and blue raspberries, red, black and white currants, an gooseberries. The cherries are selling from 90c to $1.10 a pail, with $1.[illegible] being asked for choice eleven-quart baskets. Raspberries are 15c a basket and some are offered two baskets for 25c. Gooseberries are 10c, red currants 10c and two baskets for 25c, and black currants are 15c a box.

Although small fruits are plentiful, early apples are not a big crop.

Potatoes Plentiful.

This week there is an abundance of potatoes being offered here by local growers. This is the first that farmers have been bringing in the tubers freely. They are a great crop on most of farms, and outlook at present points to a big crop generally throughout this section. Forty cents a peck is the price generally asked. The quality of the tubers, too, is good.

Haying Finished.

Haying is now finished in this district and the fields of fall wheat and rye are being laid low by the reaping machine. Not as much fall grain is sown in Northumberland as in many other countries, but these farmers who have fields are proud of them. It is a fine crop. The quality of the grain is pronounced excellent. The fierce hail and electric storm that passed over a section of Haldimand and Hamilton Townships a few miles north of Cobourg, beat the grain down in some fields so much as to make harvesting difficult.

At first it was thought that the straw would be short for spring-sown grain, but the recent rains have stimulated growth and they are expected to average well.

The frequent rains have been a boon also to all the root crops, and these are coming on splendidly. Corn, owing to the cold weather, was of slow growth, but is making up for it now to some extent.

PRICES AT WARSAW

Wheat is Nearly All in Barns —And No One Grumbles.

WARSAW, Aug. 9.—Eggs are still 25 cents.

Warsaw bread is 9c a small loaf.

Some nice-looking cherries were in the village at $1.20 for a large basket.

Haying is practically finished. The wheat is cut, and much of it is dry and drawn in, and no one has said there was anything but good wheat.

Oats and barley, also, are turning out quite well. A good deal of barley is cut. Several farmers have reported how surprised they were to find their grain so good. The rains came in time to help them from ripening too fast and to fill up the grain.

Peas are generally a light crop Dummer.

Wild raspberries are worth picking. Numbers of people are going to Pearson's for them.

Warsaw cheese factory skims the milk taken in Saturday evening.

BUILT NEW BARN

Isaac Guthrie at East Emily is Expanding—General Farm News.

EAST EMILY, Aug. 9.—Mr. Isaac Guthrie has his new barn shingled and is getting his new barn nearly completed.

Nearly all the farmers in this district have their haying completed, and report the hay crop better than expected.

The recent rains that have fallen were very much welcomed in this district as the garden vegetables and grain and roots needed the moisture.

Most of the fall wheat in this district is cut and the crop is reported excellent and the farmers hope for a big yield to the acre.

The field peas are a failure in most places in this district.

MARMORA HAY GOOD.

MARMORA, Aug. 9.—Mr. James Jones, a well-known farmer, of Marmora North, reports that his hay crop this year equals the total of the last three years. He further states that his grain crop is the best in the history of his farm since he took possession some twelve years ago.

SPACING MAKES AMOUNT WHEAT

Yield Determined By Number of Seeds Sown Over a Given Space.

SIZE OF GRAIN

The growth made by field crops, as indicated by the yield of grain, is determined by the number of seed sown over a given area. The importance of this relationship was pointed out by Mr. F. L. Engledow of St. John's College, Cambridge, in the Agricultural section of the British Association today.

"Two wheats were grown at five spacings and special measures were taken to secure uniformity of material." The result was measured in terms of ear size, grain size and tillering. "Such characters", said Mr. Engledow, "are much affected by interplant spacing experiments." Ear size and grain size in the two wheats were shown to be affected differently by spacing, and it was pointed out that this explained the difference in yielding capacity of the two kinds of wheat in the field. The possibility of breeding higher yielding forms depends on the discovery of these differences, it was pointed out.

WALKS AND TALKS ON FARM AND LIFE

Walking is Most Healthful Exercise a Man Can Give Himself.

One of my good friends is a doctor. For years he has practiced in a rural community, healed the sick, comforted when death removed the loved one, and in other ways has done great good. He is a constant reader, a studious doctor, and in every way a master in his field. I am confident that he is the peer of any general practitioner in our province. Were he established in a city where higher fees are charged his income would be large. But he prefers to render his service among those whom he knows best. I consider my doctor friends one of the real noblemen of our land.

Walking is Healthful.

We were talking about health in general. He had just pointed out how important it is to keep the digestive tract in good working order, and why elimination of the body toxins, or waste poisons, is so necessary to maintain body vigor and active health.

"Do you know," he said, "work on the farm is the best type of muscular activity there is? I have recently received a new book on walking. It shows how walking is a cure for many diseases. Every word of that book is true. Half of the ailments of city people would be removed if those people would walk more."

I then thought how many miles I walked each day—to the barns, the fields, behind the plough, doing my regular farm work.

"Farmers walk a great deal," the doctor added, "and because of that fact farmers are spared many body ailments they otherwise would get. Most of the cases of sickness among farmers are due to indiscretion and germs. Farmers as a rule eat too much, and I can trace the majority of the cases I treat to this one cause. They eat too much rich food—too much grease, too much sugar, too little fruit, and not enough of the vegetables. When farmers learn more about how to eat and practice moderation in eating, and have better sanitation on the farm to keep the germs out of food and water and air, there will not be much work for doctors to do in the country."

Sweating is Salvation.

"Farmers work hard," he continued, "they perspire copious quantities of sweat. That is their body salvation. The more one sweats the more toxins are washed out of the body. That makes for a clean blood stream. And this combination makes for health. Therefore, when you are working and sweat is pouring out of the pores of your skin, thank your stars that you have work to do that makes sweating possible. When you farmers learn how to eat in moderation, how to sleep in rooms with open windows, how to keep common germs away, how to work in moderation, and how to live without worrying all the time, you will have mastered the art of right living and have learned the true secret of health and long life."

This advice seemed so sound and sane I feel it is worth passing on. It costs nothing, and may mean just the prescription that will do good to many of my readers. Let us think it over, anyway.—C. W. B.

There are more than 5,000 farmers' elevators in the grain-growing states.

BE ECONOMICAL

Why Throw Your Money Away Every Day Through Ignorance?

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—As a utility feed for live stock, the value of barley is generally accepted, but its particular value in this respect is less fully appreciated. Barley, like corn, is a carbonaceous feed, and, generally speaking, it may successfully be used to replace corn in the rations. When fed alone, it is open to criticism because of its lack of patatability as compared with oats, corn or wheat; but when fed in grain mixtures this objection is negligible. It is rather heating in character, and because of this must be fed with discretion to such classes of stock as idle work horses and pregnant brood sows, if used at all.

When fed in an experimental way to work horses, it was not consumed with the same relish as oats, not did it possess as high a food value. The difference in this latter respect was, however, comparatively slight.

For Beef Cattle.

For the feeding of beef cattle, barley has a high commercial value. In a test conducted at an experimental farm, in which barley and frozen wheat were compared, the barley crop gave an average daily gain per steer of 1 pound 13 ounces, while the frozen wheat gave a gain of 1 pound 3 ounces. At the experimental farm, in a test covering a period of 77 days, barley was compared with elevator screenings. The barley-fed lot made an average daily gain per steer of 2.18 pounds while the screening-fed lot made a gain of 1.78 pounds. Barley also holds a prominent place in the meal ration of dairy cattle.

The suitability of barley for bacon production has been repeatedly demonstrated by the Dominion Experimental Farms, particularly for finishing. It is not a desirable feed for brood sows before farrowing or during the early part of the nursing period, but may be introduced into the sow's rations after the pigs are a week or two of age. Because of its carbonaceous nature it should not be fed to newly-weaned pigs in any appreciable quantity, but find its chief use in the rations of bacon hogs after they have attained the age of about three months. At this time it may safely be introduced and gradually increased until it comprises upwards of 50 or 60 per cent of the meal ration as the hog approaches marketable weight.

In comparison with corn for the feeding of market hogs it has given 0.11 of a pound lower daily gain per hog and cost 0.26 of a cent more per pound of gain in feeding tests recently conducted at three Dominion experimental farms in Eastern Canada. The deductions drawn from these tests with swine were as follows: 1. That bacon hogs are capable of making slightly greater gains on corn. 2. That pound for pound, barley has a slightly lower feeding value than corn. 3. That barley-fed hogs are more evenly fleshed. 4. That barley-fed hogs give a superior quality of bacon. 5. That home-grown barley can be fed more economically than corn (generally an imported feed).

It might be well to emphasize the importance of using home-grown feeds for economical production under present market conditions. Barley can be universally grown, is a relatively heavy yielder, and is particularly well suited for adding to the rations of cattle, sheep and swine where a carbonaceous feed is required.

WHEAT AND PEAS ARE MOSTLY CUT

Wheat in Bailieboro Good—Peas Reported To Be Poor

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 9.—The majority of the wheat and peas of this district are now cut down. Many of the farmers have their peas already in the barns, and nearly all report that the pea crop for this season is very poor. Some crops are not yielding more than their seed.

Wheat throughout the entire township is a splendid crop. The straw is very long, and there is very little laying down with the rains and wind. In many of the summer fallows the wheat is more than five feet in height.

The general opinion is that it will yield anywhere from twenty-five to fifty bushels per acre.

Alsike is also an excellent crop this year. The straw is not too long, and the heads seem to be well filled with a good quality of seed. Spring sown grains are not looking extra good. Barley is short, while, in many cases, the late oats are going down badly with the rust, owing to so much damp, close weather at this time of year.

The rains are helping the root crops, and buckwheat wonderfully. The buckwheat certainly looks very prosperous for a big crop, and is now just coming into a rick bloom.

There is very little change in the price of local produce. Wheat is selling from the barns at one dollar and twenty cents. Cream at thirty-three cents per lb. of butter fat. Butter around thirty, and eggs at the local stores at twenty-three cents. Milk at ten cents per quart. Berries of all kinds are very scarce, and can hardly be obtained at any price.

Chicago is the largest consumer of imported peanuts in this country.

AT THE SCIENCE CONFERENCE

SAYS NERVES CONTROL INTESTINAL MOVEMENT

Contractile movement in the small intestine is controlled telegraphically through the nerve net by which it is sheathed, rather than by automatic, rhythmical contraction of the muscles in the intestinal wall, according to Dr. V. E. Henderson, of the University of Toronto. Dr. Henderson has persuaded pieces of intestine from different animals to ripple periodically in his laboratory, in similar fashion to the motion which causes the onward movement of the food materials during the process of digestion. "The motion does not depend for its propagation on muscle alone," said Dr. Henderson. "The nerve net plays a prominent part in its production."

RED PAINT PROMINENT IN FUNERAL CEREMONY.

Prehistoric human remains recently discovered in Central Maine bear a slight resemblance to the Eskimo, according to Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the Ohio State Museum, who addressed anthropologists at the British Association to-day. Eight types have been found among the 440 graves which have been examined to date, Mr. Mooreland stated. "The culture which they represent is not Algonkin, and it does not appear to be related to any known Indian culture of the United States," he affirmed. "There is a slight similarity between it and that of the Eskimo."

A curious feature of the burial grounds is the fact that every grave contains a large quantity of powdered hematite, a red oxide of iron, which appears to have been brought from outcrops of iron ore veins in Northern Maine. The tribes have been nicknamed the "Red Paint People of Maine," on this account.

MANUAL DEXTERITY REQUIRES PERFECT BINOCULAR VISION.

Lack of correct balance between the muscular systems of the two eyes is responsible for imperfections in binocular vision, which are responsible for limiting manual dexterity. This is the opinion of E. C. Clements, British medico and airman, who spoke to psychologists at the British Association to-day. This observation resulted from studies during the war of eye disorders which rendered pilots incapable of landing airplanes successfully, or interfered with the performance of similar tasks requiring optical control of muscular movement.

Two factors are involved in successful binocular vision: the impulses which are received from the two eyes must be interpreted correctly by the brain, and in response to this stimulus there must be efficient co-ordination of the muscles responding.

When these two requirements are wanting, lack of control in the performance of delicate tasks with tools, and general clumsiness, is lthe result, and there is likely to be ack of skill in games which require "eye." A handicap ofi this sort may develop as a result of fatgue or illness.

"In many cases, by special visual training exercises, the defects can be removed, and correct performance of the various acts ensured," Mr. Blements stated.

SHAPE OF CARBON ATOM EXPLAINS PROPERTIES

Sir William H. Bragg Reveals Structure of Matter in Children's Lecture.

Why do diamond and black lead, which are each pure carbon, differ so widely in their properties? This was the question asked, and answered, by Sir William H. Bragg, professor of physics at London University, who delivered the first of the special lectures to children under the auspices of the British Association in Convocation Hall to-day. Prof. Bragg is recognized as the authority of the relatively new science of crystal structure, and he was recently awarded the Nobel prize in physics, jointly with his son, Prof. W. L. Bragg, who is also attending the meetings of the British Association. Their investigations in this fertile field are having a profound influence on the theories of chemists.

These scientists have been able to supplement the observations of the finest microscopes with measurements by X-rays, with the result that the molecules and atoms serving as the building stones of all known subsfances are not only revealed, but their spacing and relative arrangement can be determined to one part in a thousand. Many curious relations have developed from these researches, particularly in the case of substances which contain carbon, and the scientists are led to the belief that the physical properties and chemical behaviour of many of them can be explained in part at least, by the attraction which exists between the same and similar atoms, causing them to arrange and orient themselves in definite ways.

Taking as his starting point the structural differences by which it is possible to account for the fact that diamond—transparent, the hardest of known substances—is chemically the same as graphite or blacklead—black, flaky and soft—Sir William told, in simple language, how the theory could also be brought to bear on the properties of oils, dyes, soaps, and many other "organic" or carbon-containing substances. He said:

"Of the various atoms that go to the making of the world, the carbon atom has an especial interest to us, because it is so important an element in the composition of living things. It is the common atom. Oxygen bulks largest; half the earth, so far as we can observe, is made of oxygen. Silicon accounts for a quarter; then comes aluminium with a fourteenth part; iron a twentieth, and so on. Only a seven hundredth part of the known world is composed of carbon. In a living body, the weight of carbon is about one-eighth of the whole, approximately. It is not only in respect to its amount that the carbon in a living organism is so important, it is because its peculiar properties govern so many of the important processes associated with life.

"Carbon, by itself, has two forms—diamond and black lead. We should, naturally, study them with some care and interest because they are carbon, quite apart from their own very curious properties. Within the last few years the X-rays have come to give us the power of seeing right down into the structure of the two crystals, and we find many very interesting things. They are, of course, composed of carbon by itself: and the molecules that play so great a part in organic life are composed of other atoms as well as carbon. Nevertheless, we might expect that the peculiar properties of carbon in molecules would show out to some extent when the carbon is alone. This is, in fact, the case. We have not yet got the story in full, but it is possible to tell it in part, and perhaps it is none the less interesting that there is more to find out.

"The diamond is an arrangement of carbon atoms of a beautiful simplicity and regularity. It is difficult to describe and to appreciate through a description, because we are not in the habit of thinking in space. We are handicapped, as a matter of fact, because we cannot go to a shop and buy something on which we can draw in space; paper and pencils we can get, of course, but with them we can only draw in two dimensions. Models, though a little tiresome to make, help us most. If we can do no more than describe in words, we must be content to say that the pattern followed by Nature in forming the diamond, is such that each atom of carbon is surrounded by four similar atoms grouped symmetrically round it and all at the same distance away, namely, one and a half hundred-millionths of a centimetre, a distance which the X-rays enable us to measure to one part in a thousand. When we look at the model we are struck by a remarkable grouping of the atoms into rings of six; they appear in the model wherever we look.

"Now, it has long been known to the chemist that the ring of six carbon atoms is the foundation of certain highly important substances." Chemists have never seen the famous 'benzene ring,' as it is called, but have inferred its existence from the behaviour of the substances built on it. Such substances are the dyes, like indigo and madder; toluene, picric acid and other substances that are used in the manufacture of explosives; and an immense number of materials of which some are well known, like salicylic acid, camphor, naphthalene, quinine, and so on.

"It is very strange that after all these years of working blindly but certainly with these ring substances—for, of course, the ring is far too small to see by the eye, with or without the microscope to help it—we should be able to 'see' and measure them by the help of X-rays. We hope that the the new power will give us a fresh insight into this important and fascinating side of chemical work.

"When again we look at the diamond model we wee zig-zag strips of atoms in it, of any length. It turns out that these are the skeleton forms of another great class of substances which are of the highest importance to the living body, the oils, fats, and all their kind. They form what are called the chain molecules: strings of carbon atoms fringed with hydrogens and pointed at either end with special groups of atoms which determine their properties. They tend to fasten themselves together side by side, forming sheets in which the long molecules are all perpendicular to the sheet, as the pile to the carpet. Many of them, fats and oils especially, have at one end a group which has a strong affinity for water; so that when a drop is let fall on a water surface the molecules fly out in a sheet very quickly, each having one end rooted in the water. The other end has very little affinity for other things; even the wind, as it blows over an oiled surface, does not 'bite,' and raises no waves. In a soap solution, molecules of this kind come out to the surface and range themselves side by side forming a sort of protective or containing net, which holds the liquid together and makes it possible to blow a soap bubble. Two bubbles bounce off one another because it is the inactive sides of these nets that come into contact. By means of the X-rays, we can now measure the exact length and dimensions of these chains, and are learning many strange things about them.

"Black lead, or graphite, has properties so very different from those of the diamond that is is a surprise to find so little change in the structure as we pass from one to the other. In graphite, three of the neighbours of the carbon atoms draw even a little closer to it: but the fourth moves away. The crystal is, in fact, in layers: each atom in a layer has three neighbours arranged symmetrically round it. But it is a long way from one layer to the next. The layers have so little hold on each other that they slide over one another very easily, but each layer is very tough in itself. It is the combination of these properties that makes graphite so perfect a lubricator; although diamond, the other carbon crystal will scratch anything. Some of the lubricating properties of oils are due to the same cause; that is, to the formation of layers which hold together more or less, but slide freely on other layers, while they cling to the surface they are intended to lubricate. Whether we handle graphite, or an oiled surface, we notice what we call a 'greasy' touch.

"Thus one side of a layer, only one molecule thick, may cling to a surface on which it lies, having a strong attraction for it, while the other side may be 'slippery,' that is to say, may have little hold on substances that touch it. A layer of this kind may cover over a solid surface, quite altering its behaviour. When we think that many of the important processes in the living body and elsewhere depend on actions going on at the surface of bodies, we realize whp so much time is being spent on trying surface of bodies, we realize why so glad of the help of the X-rays because they have so greatly increased the keenness of our vision."

WELSH FISH KILLED BY LEAD POISONING.

Poisonous substances are most poisonous when they dissolve. An illustration of this is the investigation of lead poisoning in fishes reported to the zoology section of the British Association to-day by Miss Kathlee n E. Carpenter. It is well known that mercury has a deadly action on the human body when present in some form which will dissolve in water, but that the power of the poison is almost eliminated if it can be caused to combine with other substances in such a way that the resulting compound is an insoluble precipitate. It then becomes as harmless as so many grains of sand in the digestive tract. This is the principle utilized in the administration of antidotes in cases of poisoning with many metals.

A parallel state of affairs exists in the case of fish which live in waters polluted by lead mining, Miss Carpenter has shown. It was previously thought that the reason the fishes died in the neighborhood of certain Cardiganshire lead mines was due to the clogging of their gills with particles of lead sulphide, and efforts were made to reduce the amount of grit and sediment borne by the streams in which the fish were suffering. "Lead salts, dissolved in the water, although only in small quantities, are responsible for the deaths," said Miss Carpenter.

"Fishes can live, and apparently suffer little injury, in direct contact with lead-containing river grit, and lead-containing sediment taken directly from a mine dump," she said.

The fact that most fishes died when the streams were in flood served as a clue to the mystery, as it turned out that it was only when the rivers were swollen that lead, in the dissolved form, was found to be present. The fish soon die after the onset of a flood period, without symptoms of inflammation or bruising of the gills or other external parts," Miss Carpenter said. "The water at such a season contains measureable quantities of lead in solution —no such substances can be detected in it during the calms."

The difference is not due to the resulting change in the acidity of the waters, the experiments show, but is a direct consequence of the poisonous influence of the lead "ion" in the dissolved state.

Elimination of the trouble in the region of lead mines lies in the precipitation of the lead by chemical means, Miss Carpenter pointed out. The attempts to clarify the streams beyond this are useless.

WHITE LIGHT EXCITES EYE.

That it is not essential for the eye to look at colored objects in order to transmit the sensation of color to the brain is brought out by the researches of G. N. Stewart, of Western Reserve University, who addressed physiologists at the British Association to-day. Dr. Stewart has been able to show that when the retina is stimulated intermittently by white light, sensations corresponding to the three primary colors are experienced. The procedure adopted is to transmit an image to the eye of the observer from a rotating mirror so that the vision is interrupted periodically. When a speed of about 30 revolutions a second is reached, complete fusion of the images takes place on the retina, and the object is reproduced exactly in color and form in the brain, this being the principle utilized in moving pictures. When speeds below this are tried, the extraordinary result is observed that a black and white image will appear tinged with violet, green or red, according to the frequency of the stimulation. When the mirror turns slowly, the effect of violet borders is imparted to the eye, and at the highest speeds, the red predominates. "The colors can be produced in a striking manner," said Prof. Stewart, in pointing out that the phenomena is a simple one, but with an important bearing on the primary-color explanation of the mechanism by which color sensations are transmitted to and interpreted by the brain.

NEW SUB STATION IN OPERATION

Utilities Commission Keep Within Estimated Cost.

The members of the Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon considered plans prepared by Manager H. O. Fisk, providing for the re-arrangement of the Utilities Commission office, with a view to moving all the staff and equipment to the ground floor.

According to the proposal, which as yet has not been approved of, or rejected, it is the intention to concentrate the office work without congesting, and leaving room, if possible, for expansion.

It was suggested that such a system would aid co-operation, as any information required would be close at hand, and it would eliminate running up and down stairs, unnecessarily.

Chairman Robert Hicks stated that the open office system was growing in favour, and recognisced as the better method.

While discussing the assignment of work, it was incidentally mentioned that the cashier handles $300,000 a year.

The matter was laid over to be considered in detail, before its disposition at a future meeting.

The contractor has finished all that is required of him in reference to the new sub-station, which is now in operation, having been occupied for some time.

The Commission have kept well within their appropriations for the construction, and promise to have a balance when the undertaking is completed.

Fences will be erected and the grounds fixed at a cost of approximately $1,000. A garage will also be erected.

A. W. Cressman & Co. were made a refund of $50.00, the amount levied for the use of a water-power elevator, which has not been in operation since January.

It was shown that the power purchased from Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the month of June, 1924, exceeds the amount for the same period last year.

In June, 1923, the power account was $7,643.65, and for June, 1924, $8,032.50.

The expenditures for the month of July totalled $6,640.27—$3,967.15 of which was capital and $2,673.12 for operation and maintenance.

Sub-Station Costs.

Following is a statement of the new Sub-Station costs to 30th June, 1924:

DAINTY HELEN SPARKS,

"Graceful and Beautiful," considered America's Premier Rider, coming to Peterboro with Sparks' Circus, on Thursday, August 14th.

Among the pretty girls who will be seen with the Sparks' Circus when it exhibits here on Thursday, August 14th, is Flora Bedini, the famous bare back rider who heads the famous Ballerini equestrian troupe. Senorita Bedini came to this continent but recently from the Argentina Republic, where she had won fame for the way she performs the most difficult feats of skill and daring on the back of a horse that is galloping madly around the ring.

The performance of the Sparks Circus is superb with its feature offerings this year, the three rings, two stages, an aerial maze and the hippodrome track being filled with the most sensational novelties during the entire production. Then there is the menagerie, which brings to your very doors the finest collection of wild animals ever seen in captivity.

Children under the age of nine years are admitted for 30 cents. On circus day, for the same price at at the show grounds, seats may be bought at Payne's drug store.

SPECIAL DELIVERY LETTER.

The business man of to-day in only partially awake to the "hurry-up" influence and importance of the special delivery stamp.

The special delivery letter arrives it may be true, but a few minutes before the one regularly mailed. It, however, is delivered by a special messenger, and, by that fact alone, compels attention.

If hundreds of letters are in an office being opened and have to be routed thorugh various channels, a Special Delivery Letter will take precedence over them all on the theory that 'IT MUST BE IMPORTANT OR IT WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN SENT SPECIAL DELIVERY."

There are few business houses that will not place the special delivery ahead of those coming in, in the ordinary manner.

REPORTER GETS REPORT ON BUG AND GOES BUGS

Scientists Have No Heart on Audiences, Evidenced by Experience in Toronto.

GBYLLOBLATTA, ETC.

Non-Scientifically Minded Citizens Who Attend Sessions Are Often Strangely Entertained.

That contributions to the scientific programme of the British Association are often more interesting than is popularly supposed has been the experience of many of the press reporters and non-scientifically minded citizens who have attended the meetings.

Attracted by the title of a paper in the Zoology section to-day, a pressman joined the audience and obtained the following verbatim report of the proceedings:—

"Grylloblatta, a remarkably synthetic genus of orthopteroid insects, discovered in 1913, combines characters of most of the lower ptergote orders with certain features suggestive of the Thysanura. Recently a few live specimens have been obtained and preliminary studies of the internal organs made.

"Resembling a stone-fly larva in general appearance and in the srtucture of the head capsule, thoracic nota and slender jointed serci, it approaches the the cockroaches and termites in the mouth-parts, legs, cerci and genit alia, but has a prominent exserted ovipositor, like that of a long-horned grasshopper, and possesses also certain characters suggestive of Mantids, Phasmids, Embiids and Dermapters (earf wigs). Orthopteroid also is the presence of styli throughout life in the male and in the immature stages of the female,nbut the division of the sterum of the 9th abdominal segment of the male, which bears the styli, into median sternite and lateral styligerous coxites, is a primitive feature suggestive of certain Thysanura." (Applause.)

"Another Thysanuroid character is the apparent independence of the tracheal systems arising from each abdominal spiracle, and the absence of muscles connected with the latter is also noteworthy. The general features of the internal anatomy, which have been only partly worked out, confirm our conclusions as to the systematic positions of Grylloblatta, as based on the study of its external structure." (Loud and continued applause.)

WIFE LAYS CHARGES AGAINST PALLISTER

Toronto Man Held For Kidnapping—Mother-in-law Charges Bodily Harm.

COBOURG, August 9 (Special to The Examiner). — The two men, Harry Pallister and Marshal Lauder, who were brought to Cobourg late on Wednesday night after having been placed under arrest in Cavan Township on a charge of kidnapping, came up here before Magistrate Floyd, and were remanded.

In addition to the kidnapping charge Pallister is charged with assault and Lauder with unlawfully carrying firearms.

They were later allowed ther liberty upon suitable bail being furnished. Lauder's surety was $500, and Pallister's $2,000 cash.

Sued in Peterborough.

There are three characters around which hinges a story of domestic infelicity, a broken home, and saddened lives.

Harry Pallister was married about five years ago to Jessie Hunter, the daughter of Mrs. Eunice J. Hunter. Harry was a telegraph operator, and at the time of his marriage was stationed at Woodbridge. He had been West, and was well known and well liked among his associates.

Marital discord, however, ensued, and the wife sought a separation in the courts of Peterborough. Under the terms of this separation Mrs. Pallister was given the custody of the child, then a little more than two years old, and alimony at the rate of $8.00 per week.

Pallister had threatened to take his child, which, according to him, "no law on earth had any right to take away," and in this he firmly believed.

Pallister and Lauder were arraigned after Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Pallister had sworn to the information that resulted in criminal charges being placed against them.

"I propose asking for a remand for a week until we can get our witnesses," said Mr. Cochrane, the Crown Prosecutor, acting for County Crown Attorney Kerr. "I do not purpose taking any evidence against Pallister, and I suppose bail can be arranged."

The charges were read to the two prisoners, both of whom pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Wilmott: "I think we are entitled to know what these charges are and what is behind them, before there should be any remand for a week. The Crown propose to keep these men in jail for a week. There is no good reason why both of these men cannot be released as they can be produced at any time."

The Magistrate: "There is more than one charge against them, and I have no objection to a week's adjournment. The Crown is not ready to go on."

AN ASTOUNDING FISHING YARN

Even Phenomenal to Hiawatha Chief, Who Witnessed the Catch.

An astounding

The Examiner has carried very few fish stories this season.

Probably local fishermen are losing their imaginative qualities. However, an incident of so phenomenal a character was learned to-day, that it must bear public record.

Chief George Paudash of Hiawatha has heard a host of yarns of great monsters being caught in Rice Lake in his time, but seldom, if ever, did he hear the like of this. Furthermore, rarely, if ever, has he witnessed the like, for he did witness this, and so did Robert Charles Bird of Los Angeles, Dr. Jacobs and H. W. Weigh of Chicago.

While the above four were trolling in Rice Lake, first a tug, then another. There was something terrible going on at the end of the line. What could it be?

Slowly the line was drawn in.

Was it a lunge? Yes.

Was it a bass? Yes.

The mystery was solved and the cause of the series of tugs learned. They had caught a lunge and a bass on the same line.

ONLY CHOICEST LEAVES ARE USED.

While a tea plant in an ordinary garden produces an average of 5 oz. of tea in a season, on the best estates, where RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA is grown, the yield is much less, because only the choicest leaves are plucked for this very fine tea. You'll like the richness of RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA. Better try a package.

EARLY INDIAN ART DONE WITH BRUSH

Indians Expressed Their Artistic Spirit in Painting Before They Turned To Carving.

That artistic development is to as certain extent regulated by the materials in which it is expressed was brought out in the anthropology section of the British Association to-day by Guy E. Rhoades, who outlined the development of the decorative art of the indians of the North Pacafic Coast. The way in which the design units were synthesized in the conventional decorative art of the early tribes is proof of the adoption of painting by the native artists, before their attention was turned to carving, Mr. Rhoades said. "The whole of the North-west Coast conventional art is essentially a painting art," he stated. "The tapering lines of one unit towards the point of junction with another unit would seem to be most naturally produced by a brush technic, whereas there seems to be no natural means for its development in carving."

The construction of the painted and carved designs is essentially the same, the observations show, and the conclusion accordingly is that the carved devices are a development of the brush designs.

The view previously held was that the carving on account of its wide development was first developed. "This may be true of the realistic representations, but it does not hold for the conventional art," the scientist said.

HOLIDAY BATTLE WITH OSHAWA IS LEAGUE FIXTURE

Petes Must Beat Motorists Monday to Stay in Front of the Race.

DAINTY WILL PITCH.

Colourful Southpaw to Do the Gunning For Oshawa in Last Appearance.

Oshawa will meet the Petes at Riverside Park on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in a most important Central Ontario League game—important because the Petes must win to keep in front of Belleville in the race for the second-half honors.

The Solomon crew cannot afford to take any chances, for they are not out of the woods yet, and the fixture on Monday will play its part in deciding the second-half honors.

Oshawa having helped to pull Belleville down, are anxious to show the baseball world that they are as good as any of the Central outfits by beating the Petes, who are now leading the parade. Dainty has always been a troublesome pitcher for the Solomon crew to solve, and with the Duke slanting them in for the Motor Town crew, they will give the Petes a big argument.

Monday's game will be the last appearance of the Oshawa team here this season, and in view of that fact the importance of the game and the great fight the Petes are making for the second-half honors, the biggest crowd of the season should be on hand.

DELORO BEAT TWEED.

Score 14-5 In Attraction on Madoc's Civic Holiday.

MARMORA, Aug. 9.—At Madoc last Wednesday, Deloro defeated Tweed in a 7 inning game of ball by 14-5. Tweed collected four runs in the second innings giving the impression that they had the game well in hand. However, in the fourth innings the superiority of Deloro asserted itself. They hammered out six runs. From that time on they were never in danger. Johnson, the Deloro short stop made the nicest hit of the season.

In making his home run the bases were circled without exertion. This game was an exhibition one, and part of the program of Madoc's big day.

AUSTRALIANS WIN.

Patterson and O'Hara Wood Turned Back Mexicans.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 8.—Australia advanced another rung in its climb for the right to meet the United States in the international tennis battle for the Davis Cup when it defeated Mexico here to-day in the doubles. Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood turned back Ignacio Borballo and Francisco Gardes in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0. Coupled with yesterday's two victories in singles, to-day's match gave the Australians three matches, or a majority.

For two sets to-day the double produced excellent tennis. The Mexicans tired badly in the last set and Patterson and Wood had little trouble running through six straigh' games.

TENNIS TALKS.

Tilden Good For Four More Years, Expert Says.

BY MERCER BEASLEY

You hear much talk of the probable successor of Bill Tilden as the ace of American tennis? Unless I am mistaken, it will be many years before Tilden is knocked off his lofty roost.

It would be no surprise to me if the tall Philadelphian went right along winning the title until his total of victories reach at least eight.

It was Bill Larned, if memory serves, who won seven titles. And Larned, at his best, was not in Tilden's class as a stroke-maker or a player generally.

Tilden will never be beaten on account of lack of condition. Tilden aways trains and is always in fighting trim. Tilden is a tennis scientist. Not content to make use of the strokes of the game as he found them, Tilden is continually trying to invent new ones. Hardly a season goes by that Tilden doesn't introduce something new to the tennis game. If Tilden doesn't last four more years I will be greatly mistaken. Still, you never can tell.

A might good player coming up is George Lott, national junior champion. Lott is a Chicago boy and has won quite some fame as a school boy pitcher. As a tennis player his work is marked by a powerful forehand drive, delivered with a slashing movement of the arm. The drive has plenty of "top" on it and is not easy to return.

Lott was good enough to head the western men's ranking last season and he is playing great tennis again this year. Luckliy for him he is under the guiding wing of Sam Hardy, and Sam knows tennis in all languages.

Lott is a real comer. I don't look for him to win the big title for several years yet, but he has it in him. Incidentally, I think it takes about 10 years to make a tennis champion.

CANADIANS WIN FROM JAPANESE

Remain in Davis Cup Running By Taking Friday's Tennis Match.

MUST WIN TO-DAY.

MONTREAL, August 9 (Canadian Press). — Canada is still in the running for the Davis Cup tie with Japan, her young doubles team, Jack Wright and Willard Crocker, winning a magnificent match from the Japanese pair, Sunso Okamoto and Takeichi Harada yesterday by a score of 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Harada started serving for Japan, and the visitors won the first game without losing a point. Wright served for Canada, and his heavy twisting service bothered the Japanese. The game was evened one all.

The third was hard fought and went to deuce three times before Can captured it on two good placements. Crocker then served, and to the dismay of the large gallery the Canadians dropped this game after two deuces.

Things began to look bad for Canada when Japan took the next game and led four games to one.

It was a wonderful exhibition of tennis, full of thrills and fast rallies. Wright not only played a lovely game throughout, but his low volleying was at times quite wonderful. His service was very effective. He won seven services and lost only one.

Crocker smashed with telling effect in all three sets. He served well, but was not so effective as Wright in this department, winning five of his services and losing two.

Okamoto was the weakest on service, winning four and losing four. He was, however, the most effective of the two Japanese overhead, and made some lovely single shots.

Harada's service was second only to Wright's. He won six and lost two.

It was a splendid win for Canada, the score now being two points to one for Japan.

Jack Wright plays Zenso Shimizu the Japanese captain, in the first single to-day, and Willard Crocker meets Sunso Okamoto in the second match. The Canadians must win their two matches to carry off the tie.

An exhibition match between Shimizu and Fukuda against Robert Baird and Cyril Andrews resulted in a win for the Japanese in straight sets.

A banquet was tendered to the players and officials last night by the Davis Cup Committee.

Captain Innes-Taylor umpired the doubles match yesterday.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT HERE ON THE HOLIDAY

There is too much petty jealousy and hyprocrisy in the world and not enough base hits that win ball games in the ninth inning.

CRICKET NEWS

LONDON, August 9 (Canadian Press Cable). — Scoring 164 runs for Sussex against Hampshire in a county cricket championship match which was concluded yesterday, Tate, a young professional, proved himself to be one of the best all-round cricketers in England.

With the season nearly a month to run, Tate has taken more than 100 wickets, and his score yesterday brought his total of runs to more than 1,000.

Despite his brilliant effort Hampshire won on the first innings, scoring 516 for eight wickets, Sussex replying with 347 and 111 for two wickets.

Other high scorers were Mead 154, Aird 113, and Day 97.

Surrey and the South African tourists played a drawn game in which high scoring prevailed. Surrey scored 300 and 203 for four wickets, the South Africans amassing 413 in their first innings. Susskind obtained 137 runs and Shepherd 127.

Other county cricket championship matches concluded yesterday resulted as follows:

Lancashire defeated Northamptonshire by an innings and one run, Northampton 97 and 108, Lancashire 206.

Yorkshire defeated Leicestershire by eight wickets, Leicester 114 and 166, Yorkshire 228 and 53 for two wickets, Holmes 90.

Gloucestershire defeated Essex by 194 runs, Gloucester 201 and 248 for five wickets declared, Essex 64 and 191, Dipper 83 and 100.

Nottinghamshire defeated Kent by ten wickets, Kent 67 and 229, Notts 242 and 55 for no wickets, Whysall, not out, 119.

Worcestershire defeated Derbyshire by 223 runs, Worcester 212 and 229, Derbyshire 102 and 116.

Warwickshire defeated Glamorgan, shire by eight wickets, Glamorgan 266 and 167, Warwick 355 and 81 for two wickets, Quaife 141.

Yankees seem to have shot their bolt, and it is a wonder the infuriated Huggins hasn't shot himself by now.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. There are two out in the last half of the ninth with runners on first and third. The score is a tie. The runners essay a double steal. The catcher throws to second and the runner from that base is trapped. In the runup that followed, the runner is retired for the third out. In the meantime the runner on third crosses the plate a fraction before the third out was made. Does the run count?—E. A. S.

2. There is a runner on third base. The batsman hits a fly ball to the left fielder. As the ball struck the fielder's glove it bounded out and was juggled several times before finally being held. Has the runner who held his base the right to advance the moment the ball strikes the fielder's glove or must he remain at the base until the ball is finally held?—H. M.

3. If a ground rule in restricted territory gives the player the right to advance one base, and he is thrown out trying to take an extra base, what is the proper ruling?—G. B. C.

ANSWERS

1. The run positively counts if runner from third had crossed the plate before third out is made.

2. The runner who has held his base on a fly ball has the right to advance the moment the ball strikes the fielder's glove.

3. When a ground rule is made, giving the player the right to advance one base, it is always best to consider the ball dead the moment it goes into restricted territory. The runner who was retired trying to take an exta base should have been sent back to the base to which he was entitled to advance.

Having taking almost $50,000 out of this country, it strikes us that Carpentier has thoroughly established his ability to take it, as the saying goes.

BREADMEN DEFEAT COGS IN FAST GAME

"Hip" Hardill's Hits Were a Feature—Score Was 3-1.

Mackey's took the first game in the East Peterborough League playoff last evening, when they squeezed through to a 3 to 1 victory against the Cognawagas, last year's pennant bearers. The game was keenly contested all the way through with the breaks going about even, and Bob Mackey couldn't sit easy until the last ball was pitched.

The hitting of "Hip" Hardil was one of the prize morsels of the game. The big first sacker cracked out two doubles and a single in three appearances and his second double could be matched against any hit made on the Exhibition diamond for distance.

Williams worked nicely for the "Cogs," striking out eight, and holding the hard-hitting Mackey crew to nine hits. "Shiner" Clarke had trouble in the first innings, walking the first two men to face him, but with good support from his team mates he pulled out and got along handily throughout the rest of the battle, allowing six hits and retiring seven on strikes.

Mackey's got two runs in the first innings on four clean hits.

Both teams played it safe and hits were not frequent, although the Cogs had a good chance in the second.

In the fifth the Cogs scored their lone tally and with fair luck should have had at least one more run. Mackeys came back in the same frame to make their total, Collins coming in on Hardill's hard drive. Darkness then began to fall and the game loosened up a little, but neither team could chase across a run. The Cogs' chances looked good in the seventh with a man on second and only one down, but a hit failed to loom up.

TRAVEL FAR FOR BALL.

The Harrow Ball and Re-union is the Largest Held in London.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press). — The largest annual ball which takes place in London during the season, is the Harrow Ball. Always the occasion for a great reunion of old Harrovians, as many as possible of the old pupils of the famous school make an effort to attend.

For this year's function several have travelled half way around the world, three from Burma, nine from New York and five from Washington.

St. John Maitland had the most adventurous trip of the lot. He left Cochin, China, two months ago, and on the way had an encounter with brigands, was in a railway accident, while finally the steamer in which he was voyaging had a breakdown.

GIBBONS WON BOUT IN THE THIRD ROUND

British Boxer Was No Match For American Champion

LONDON, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Tom Gibbons, light-heavyweight of the United States, this afternoon knocked out Jack Bloomfield, of England, in the third round of the fight before a huge crowd at Wembley Stadium.

The bell saved Bloomfield from being knocked out in the second round of the fight, which was billed as a twenty-round affair. Gibbons floored his British opponent three times in the second round, the bell saving Bloomfield on the third knockdown, after which the seconds had to drag his limp form through the ropes to his chair for the intermission.

Bloomfield came up groggy for the third round, and was immediately sent down for the count of four. On rising, Gibbons laced into Bloomfield, and dropped him with a left for the count.

The only blows the Britisher landed during the fight were two light taps to the head in the first and two slugging swings in the third. Gibbons left the ring without a mark on his body.

WATCHMAN DEAD FROM A BULLET

Murder is Suspected in Death Of Sixty Year Old Montreal Man Last Night.

MONTREAL, August 9 (Canadian Press). — Dead, with a revolver bullet in his brain, Wiliam Clark, aged sixty, of this city, night watchman for Jenkins Brothers ,Limited, manufacturers of valves, Stremi Street, was found lying on the floor of a shack in the yard of the plant early this morning, presumably murdered.

Clark, in the usual course of his duties, should have turned in a box call to the Dominion Messenger and Signal Service at eleven o'clock last night.

He failed to do so, and Henry Roy, of the protection company, was sent to investigate.

All was well inside the plant — there were no signs of anything having been disturbed or any struggle having taken place.

Searchers went out into the yard and approached a shack, finding the missing man dead on the floor, with a bullet hole in his skull.

Murder is indicated in the watchman's death.

There were no signs of suicide, nor any motives for it, according to information obtained by the detective headquarters.

Information gathered by the detectives points to a difference of opinion between the deceased and another man, who is being held by the police as a material witness for the inquest to-day.

NO AUDIENCE TO WOMEN

ROME, Aug. 9.—(British United Press).—The pope in future will grant no audiences to women not regarded by the Vatican authorities as being modestly clothed. Special cards for papal audiences were issued by the papel-chamber with the warning "Ladies not wearing strictly high necked clothing and long sleeves will not be admitted to the pontificial apartment".

So far none of these cards have been distributed but it is planned to include them in the envelope carrying the invitations.

The Vatican is also considering a model dress for use by women at papal audiences throughout the holy year. The model chosen is to be used as a guide, women not being expected to procure dresses exactly identical but such as conform to the model.

ULSTER STANDS PAT

BELFAST, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, in manifesto issued to the people of Ulster this afternoon, says his government has no intention of changing its boundary policy. He repeats his offer, President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State to settle the boundary question in friendly spirit with the aid of the expert opinion.

MOTOR ACCIDENT HUNTER ST. EAST

One Car Forced Up on Resident's Lawn

Melville McIlwain driving west on Hunter street east, rubbed sides with a car driven by William Newhal of Norwood, who was travelling east. At the time of the collision Newhal had been going slowly and collided as he was making a turn, just beyond the Maple Leaf Hotel.

As a car was standing in front of the Hotel, McIlwain was forced up on the lawn of Dr. Baker, breaking the right wheel and bending the front axle of his car, when it struck the curb. The right hand running board was torn from the Newhal car.

Miss Jean and Geraldine McIlwain accompanied their brother, but all occupants escaped uninjured.

Inspector James Reid arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after the collision. After viewing the situation he decided to take no action, so the parties are left to a civil remedy to decide their liability, if any.

TO FIGHT SMUGGLING

OTTAWA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Immediate action to cope with the serious smuggling situation along the Canadian frontier, which is doing extensive injury to various lines of trade and industry, is to be taken through the establishment of a special bureau with Dominion headquarters here and offices in every province, E. M. Trowern, Dominion secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, stated last night.

The formation of this bureau was broached to the Government in the course of an interview representatives of the textile and other industrial and business interests had with the Cabinet this week.

The Government's reply to the suggestion as voiced by Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs and Excise, was in substance: "Go ahead, form your bureau, we will give our fullest co-operation."

CHEMONG ROAD CARRIES VERY HEAVY TRAFFIC

Eight Hundred Vehicles Traverse Road In An Average Day.

AT THE PARK.

Cottagers Are Recovering From the Fatigue of Regatta Day.

(By Staff Reporter.)

CHEMONG PARK, August 9. — The Park was recovering yesterday from the Regatta, and many of the cottagers were having a quiet afternoon indoors or dozing on verandah chairs. An occupation that has the attention of many of the housewives just now is a little preserving done on the side and sent into town by way of the family motor. One energetic lady was busily pitting cherries through the long, lazy afternoon.

The road appears to be wearing itself out with great rapidity. The bumps and hollows are quite apparent on the Chemong Park speedway these days. Talk of an effort to have a provincial highway run out to the Park resulted just this week in an interesting discovery.

Traffic out to the popular resort has always been heavy, but few people realise just how many vehicles use the road to and from Chemong during the busy season. A number of youths kept count during a week of the passing vehicles at a certain point, and their daily average over the period totalled nearly 800 equipages of different types, mainly, of course, of the motor variety. One day there were over 900 counted.

On Regatta Day the Rendezvous enjoyed the largest patronage of the season for its evening dance, and the crowd expressed much appreciation of the music and floor provided.

Staying at the old Pavilion during the past week were a party of youths on a canoe trip from Camp Kagawong, at Balsam Lake, with Messrs. W. A. Lentz and G. G. Rolph in charge. In the party were Carter McConnell of Ohio, Bill Lentz (leader) of Philadelphia, Charley Beatty of Hamilton, Almon McCorkle of Ohio, D. Zimmerman of Hamilton, and Eddy Fair, Gordon Rolph, Willie Wilson, J. Lester, B. Draimin, G. Bray, all of Toronto.

Mr. K. Knapman and party, who came down from Stoney Lake for the regatta, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belleghem.

Mr. M. Cleveland, of Toronto, is at Mr. and Mrs. Patte's cottage. Mr. J. W. Patte of Brantford, is also staying with his son.

Mrs. A. Robertson and Mrs. Northedge Birks and children are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abbott in the Hughes-Charles cottage.

Miss Josephine Lynch is staying with Mrs. John Moloney at Maple Lodge. Miss Lynch's guest, Miss Madeline O'Connell, of Toronto, is with her.

Mr. Harold Henry, of Oshawa, is expected on Monday at Jubilee Cottage, the summer home of Mrs. Myles Henry. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry and children, of Buffalo, are also visiting Mr. Henry's mother.

Mrs. W. H. Kline (nee Mabel Warne), who has been visiting relatives at the Park, returned this week to her home in Hollywood, Cal.

Mr. George Brenton, who has purchased Mr. James Skinner's cottage, is ensconced at the Park with his family.

Miss Theresa Hurley is spending the week-end with Mrs. E. J. McCarthy and family.

Mr. Buest and Miss Grace Buest, of Toronto, are guests of Mrs. Myles Henry at Jubilee Cottage.

Mrs. S. R. Yokome and her son, Mr. A. C. Yokome, dramatic critic of The Daily News, New York City, are occupying one of the Dr. Carmichael's cottages.

Misses Trucie Pearson, Gladys Gollop, and Irene Gollop have been in the Roper Cottage for some time. Miss E. Bennett has been their guest.

Mrs. E. E. Harvey is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. Carruthers.

Visitors at the summer home of Ald. and Mrs. R. N. Jones during the week were G. Ralston of Toronto and Misses Hazel Batten and Kathleen Hennessey.

Miss Marion Rae was a guest at the Cheverill cottage this week.

Mrs. Cyril Walker and niece, Mrs. W. H. Ward, of Los Angeles, Cal., are staying at Mrs. J. Pope's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roach and Mr. and Mrs. J. Corcoran, of Buffalo, are occupying one of D .Sullivan's cottages.

Mrs. Ipsa Weir, who has been spending some time at Braundport, arrived at Mrs. Pope's house yesterday for a stay at the Park. The Misses Edith and Eva Mitchell, Harvey Street, are also at Mrs. Pope's home, and the latter's niece, Miss Jean Scott, is spending a few days at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brooks have opened up their cottage at the Park.

Three of the young residents of the Park, Misses Violet and Isabel Davidson and Jean Robinson, held on Regatta Day a successful sale of popcorn, candy and gum, and realised $15.00, which they are donating to the Peterborough Health Association.

SOFTBALL GAMES.

On Monday, August 11th, there will be three softball games played at the Central Park.

The first one will be played at ten o'clock in the morning between the Otonabees and the Wollens.

At four o'clock, the Quakers and the Otonabees will meet, and at 6.30 the Woollens and the Y.W. will play.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

SPECIAL HOLIDAY MATINEE MONDAY, AT THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol will present a special holiday matinee on Monday (Civic Holiday). The feature will be Colleen Moore, in "Painted People."

ALL-STAR CAST IN "PAINTED PEOPLE."

Colleen Moore Heads Noted Array of Players in New Production.

Never before has the term "All-Star Cast" been more applicable than in the case of 'Painted People," a First National picture, directed by Clarence Badger, who is coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Based on the story by Richard Connell, it is one of the comedy gems of the year.

Heading the cast is Colleen Moore, who in the last five years has been starred and featured in more than 40 big productions, and who today is looked upon in film circles as one of the real topnotchers, and the most talented of all actresses portraying light comedy dramatic roles.

Playing opposite Miss Moore is Ben Lyon, former stage leading man, who made a name for himself in recent Broadway successes, and one of the outstanding players in the current screen gem, "Potash and Perlmutter."

Anna Q. Nilsson, starred and featured in scores of pictures during the last two years, whose beauty and ability to portray widely divergent parts, has placed her among filmdom's best known actresses, has an important part.

Mary Carr and Mary Alden, the two best known portrayers of "mother" roles on the screen, both of whom have been starred in several noteworthy screen plays, have familiar roles.

June Elvidge, former light opera star, vaudeville headliner and a favorite in middle-age characterization, is in a part which gives her an opportunity to show herself at her best.

"Father" roles are in the hands of Russell Simpson, one of the best known of all screen character men, and Charlie Murray, the recent Keystone comedy star.

"Bull" Montana, another popular comedy figure, is in a typical part.

Joseph Striker, who starred for two years in the famous Broadway stage comedy, "Turn to the Right," has a prominent juvenile part, and playing opposite him is Charlotte Merriam, leading lady in 'The Brass Bottle," and one of the most popular of the younger screen stars.

STORMS GALORE MADE TO ORDER.

Film Director Stages Typhoon and Tidal Wave.

Thunderstorms, a typhoon and a tidal wave took place in Hollywood, Universal City and on nearby California beaches.

This isn't a weather report—just the engineering schedule for the new play which Harry Garson directed with massive mechanical and scenic effects as a Universal-Jewel feature, "Thundering Dawn," coming to the Capitol Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The director chose for leading roles in his cast J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Q. Nilsson.

The story, written by John H. Blackwood, is one of a man's regeneration through disaster, and the climax is a disastrous typhoon and tidal wave, located on the Malay Peninsula. The action of the play starts in Black Bay, Boston, and proceeds to Java during the "Six Months Rains" of the tropics. The title of the play indicates the dramatic character of the tropical storms.

Garson spent twelve weeks in photographing the play. Part of it was photographed at the Garson studios in Edendale, and the big effects and storm scenes were staged at Universal City and on the coast. The work involved enormous special sets and mechanical details.

Director Garson has had personal experience with typhoons, having been an ensign in the navy during the Spanish American war, and a senior lieutenant during the world war. His vessels fought off several of these deadly storms during his service career.

One of the biggest casts in months was assembled for the film.

AT THE ROYAL.

"SHERLOCK JR." CALLED MOST ORIGINAL COMEDY IN HISTORY OF INDUSTRY.

Is Sensible Senselessness.

"The most original comedy ever made," is the promise of Buster Keaton, the Metro star, for his third feature length picture, "Sherlock Jr.," which plays at the Royal Theatre for three days, beginning Monday. Buster is said to have created the most amusing and, at the same time, the most refreshing conceit in the history of the film industry—a "nut" comedy that really makes sense.

In his latest production Keaton has gone deep into the realms of psychology and has evolved a picture that will appeal alike to persons with high or low brows. The psychology applies in the manner the comedian has developed the dream thoughts of the operator as the basis of a highly-amusing imaginary "picture within a picture," where he walks right into the screen itself.

The old-fashioned "fan," however, need not worry about psychology or any other "ology," for Buster, in getting over his ideas, has not changed his method of comedy—a good fall is always a good fall.

The story was worked up by Keaton's famous "gag" men, Jean Havez, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman, who were responsible for the many new touches in the star's previous two comedies, "Our Hospitality" and "Three Ages." Buster, as a projection booth man in a small-town movie theatre, has his troubles with the machines and the films. After hours, of course, he does other odd jobs around the theatre, even to sweeping out. His is indeed a "tough" life.

And the course of love fails to run smooth. Buster loves pretty Kathryn.

"FAST STEPPERS."

Real Thrills From the Race Track at Royal Monday.

The real thrill of the race track is only superficially felt until one is afforded a glimpse into the lives of those who "follow the ponies" for their livelihood and dwell in the shadow of the stables. Such a glimpse is graphically presented in "The Fiddlin' Doll," the second of Universal's "Fast Steppers" Jewel series of race track features starring Billy Sullivan, which comes to the Royal Theatre next Monday. "The Fast Steppers" are based on Gerald Beaumont's famous Red Book Magazine stories of "The Information Kid," and were filmed under the direction of Edward Laemmle.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

The dope is enjoying a fifty-fifty season. In some respects it is standing up, in others it isn't. Most of the experts picked the Yankees to repeat in the American League this year. Sentiment was evenly divided in the National. Some liked the Giants, others the Reds. All agreed the Giants faced a tough battle.

The season is at the three-quarter pole. The Giants have a commanding lead and look like certain winners, the first team to win the championship four times hand running in ages. The Yankees, on the other hand, are in a predicament. The American League race is strictly a three-cornered affair. The Tigers and Washingtons are very much in the fight. The Yankees still have to get improved pitching to win.

Meanwhile the Reds have proved a disappointment, and nothing short of a miracle can bring them back to the top. The veterans have not been playing to form, and the new manager, Jack Hendricks, has had his troubles in other ways.

The individuals have given the dope quite a kick in spots, too. Hornsby of the Cardinals is one exception. The great St. Louis batter has been hitting over .400 practically all season and is almost a cinch bet to carry off the hitting championship in his league.

His American League rival of last year, Heilmann of the Tigers, has had an off-and-on season. Once Cobb had to take him out of the lineup. A vaccinated arm had something to do with his temporary slump.

Ruth continues to be one of the marvels of the age. At the beginning of the season he said he didn't care whether he led the league in hitting or not. Home runs were his speciality and he intended to go after long hits. Right now the Babe bids well to lead the league both in homers and base hits.

The flop of the Reds in the National is paralleled, only by a more disappointing scale, by the Athletics in the American. Connie Mack still needs batting strength. Until he gets it the Macks will make little progress.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

On the authority of Scriptures, Jesus is the Saviour of all men, saving them each and all from the penalty of sin, which is death. In order to accomplish this he must either stay the hand of death, or cause a resurrection of all those who die. On the strength of the above it is easily seen that mankind in general are not now on probation for life, for Jesus will give that to all, independent of character. Men going through the process of death will not make bad men good. So we see the final results will be as to man's attitude and actions after the resurrection. We are given to know that one hundred years will be the time fixed for probation then. Will man's actions in this life, make it more easy or not, in the life to come, in turning from sin to righteousness?; It certainly will. In order to inherit eternal life, man must be made righteous, either in this life or that to come. A chosen few in this life are purified and made inheritors of eternal life. Those chosen few are those who commence to walk after the Spirit and continue to do so till death. These elect ones will be highly honored. They shall be called the Bride of Christ, and will be associated with Him after the resurrection, in bringing men and women into subjection to the reign of righteousness. I the last chapter of "Revelations" we have an inkling of some of their work. Both the Spirit and the Bride will all men to partake of the water of life. Those who accept Jesus here as Saviour and allow Him to control their lives, and prove the words of Jesus true in their own experience, namely: "His yoke is easy and his burden light."—M. T. Unemployment Situation.

Federal Government Will Not Accept Responsibility—Rests With Municipalities.

CALGARY, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press). —The Federal government will not accept responsibility for the unemployment situation in Canada. It will not give relief because the government believes that this is a matter for the municipalities concerned and again because the government has not set aside any money for this purpose.

This was the answer of Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor to the local Trades and Labor Council. The council inquired what the government was going to do to help alleviate the situation this winter.

FIREMEN DESCEND ON PETERBOROUGH

Will Aid Fire Department In Entertainment of Visiting Delegates.

The Ontario Fire Fighter, official organ of the Provincial Federation of Fire Fighters, has the following to say of the convention that opens in Peterborough on Wednesday:

We are undoubtedly all more or less acquainted with the old nursery rhyme, "It was the night before Christmas." Well, this is not the night before Christmas but a few nights before the opening of the Ontario Fire Fighters' Convention.

The firemen of Peterborough, from he Chief down, are making great preparations to receive you. Road sign arrows will be placed on all highways leading to Peterborough, showing the way to the Fire Fighters' Convention. This will be but an introduction. The chairman of the Entertainment Committee has been continually after the general secretary asking how much time his committee will be allowed for entertaining, as he is afraid that he cannot crowd all he has on hand into the time allowed for entertainment.

This year so far, judging from the amount of matter coming in, Peterborough is going to show the way to past conventions and set a standard that future ones will have to step some to equal, let alone beat.

On 14th August the annual banquet will take place. Those who attended at Hamilton only saw the edge of what it is going to be in Peterborough.

The convention opens on the morning of 13th August, 1924, at 10 o'clock. Every fireman in Ontario can consider that he is invited to attend.

The convention sessions will be held in the Chamber of Commerce, and the citizens of Peterborough expect the Ontario Firemen to come and leave something worth while behind them in the fire protection and fire prevention field.

YOUTHS CHUCKLE WHEN FINE IMPOSED

Magistrate's Announcement Considered An Immense Joke.

"You will have to pay five cents more than the others," said His Worship Magistrate Langley, to the third of three youths who were fined $10 and costs each, which amounted to $5.15, in the first two cases, and $5.20 to the last offender.

This brought a burst of chuckles from the other two, who evidently couldn't restrain their laughter.

His Worship explained that in order to make the constables' fees balance, it would be necessary to honor the last young man with the privilege of paying 5c more than the others. Possibly, he was a Scotchman and regarded the fine with deep concern. At any rate, there were no smiles on his face, while the other two appreciated the joke immensely.

Provincial Officer Maker found the three, in a high state of humor, last night, to the south of the city. Their carrying on indicated that the cause of their high spirits was the result of alcoholoc stimulants.

Charged with being found in a high state of intoxication, they each pleaded guilty.

The fines were paid and the young men released.

Vag Goes to Goal.

Albert Jones, of Renfrew, who appeared on remand, charged with vagrancy, was given ten days in gaol by Magistrate Langley.

He reiterated to-day that he came from Renfrew on Monday and was picked up by the police Wednesday morning. On Wednesday, he stated that he came to Peterboro in search of work and was boarding on Water Street North.

Chief Newhall asked for a remand in order to investigate his record. However, no record was disclosed to-day, as the result of the investigation.

"If you don't quit loafing around and go to your home, you will be picked up again," observed His Worship.

POTATOES DOWN ON LOCAL MART

Rumor of 20 Cents a Peck But General Price Was 35 Cents.

EGGS FROM 28 UP.

There was plenty of produce of every kind on the farmers' market this morning. The curb carts overflowed with vegetables and roots and berries, and the basket section had a full quota of dairy supplies and fowl. At a late hour, much stuff remained undisposed of, although there was a fairly large buying crowd.

Potatoes reached a new low, as the financial reports have it, at this morning's market. A rumour of one quotation at twenty cents a peck, was rife, and there were several at 25c. The general price was 35c and one man asked 40c a peck.

Early corn was on the market, small ears with white kernals, at 30c a dozen.

Beets and carrots and big white onions were five cents a bunch, small pickling beets in baskets, selling at 60c for the small container, and $1 for the large. Swiss chard was on one cart, at two bunches for a nickel and rhubarb had a popular resurrection at five cents a bunch. Cauliflowers were 15 and 20c apiece, and local tomatoes sold for 20c a pound. String beans were 4 quarts for 25c, and peas, 2 for 35c; cucumbers were 5c apiece.

Green apples were 40c a peck. Strawberries were 25c a box; cherries, 85c a basket; black currants, 15c a box; red and yellow currants 10c; tame thimble berries, 2 boxes for a quarter, and red raspberries were selling variously at 10c a box, or 2 boxes for 25c, or 18c a pound in big tin pails.

Eggs this morning sold from 28c to 35c a dozen, and butter from 38 to 42c a pound.

Chickens were 30 and 35c a pound hens 20 and 25 cents; and ducks 25c a pound.

Upstairs there were samples of fancy work on sale, in hand-painted cushion covers, at a dollar each, and a tatting yoke at $4.

Honey was selling in three or four places on the open market, amber at 17c a pound; light clover in the new decorative co-operative pails, at 20c a pound. An energetic small urchin with bare feet, pointed out the beauties of the new wrapper with much enthusiasm.

A honey crop of about one-third the usual average production is the verdict for this year, according to the dealers, who point to the cold, backward season and the light clover growth as reasons.

Many varieties of flowers from farm gardens were on sale this morning; gorgeous dahlias and big feathery asters, larkspur in shades that ranged from periwinkle to royal blue, phlox and stocks, and spiked red bergamot, cerise velvet snapdragon or antirrhinum, hydrangeas at 10c a bunch, marigolds in yellow and bronze at 15c, and pansies, the "thought" flowers, for the same price.

OBITUARY.

FLORA DAVIDSON.

The death occurred of Miss Flora Davidson in Toronto yesterday.

The deceased was a daughter of the late J. I. Davidson, Peterborough.

The funeral will be held from the noon C.P.R. train on Monday, 11th August, Rev. Robert Pogue officiating.

Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. M. E. STANLEY.

The funeral of Mary Elizabeth Stanley, widow of the late Corporal Stanley was largely attended yesterday by friends and relatives of the deceased. The service was held at the home of Sergeant William Stanley, 413 Bethune Street, and was taken by Rev. Norman McLeod of Park Street Baptist Church in the absence of Dr. C. W. Rose of Murray Street Church. The choir of Murray St. Church of which the deceased was a member was well represented and the singing of two hymns, favourites of the deceased, "Breathe on me breath of God," and "Rock of Ages," was led by the choir leader Dr. S. J. Graham. In words Mr. McLeod indicated the unusual activity displayed by the late Mrs. Stanley in all church work and quoted a prominent member of the Murray St. Church as stating that "her hands were always busy in the Master's service." Although her health has never been good since the shock and worry resulting from the message "reported missing" which came to her from France, 1916, Mrs. Stanley was always cheerful and optimistic and "constant in good work." The pallbearers were Arthur Guppy, Harold Lawrence, Ernest Stanley, Herbert Stanley, and Albert Stanley, brothers and brothers-in-law of the late Corporal Stanley, and Joseph Wearing representing Murray St. Church The late Mrs. Stanley's sudden decease is greatly lamented by her many friends and there is much sympathy for her and her husband's immediate family and particularly for her young son, Fred. The Veterans were represented at the funeral by Mr. Sidney Whatley, the secretary of the G.W.V.A.

SHIPMENTS OF ALBERTA COAL TO ONTARIO DEFERRED TO NEXT YEAR

Time Lacking to Make Arrangements for Scheme for Which Federal Government Appropriated $200,000—Conference of Ministers at Edmonton.

PRODUCERS MUST CUT PRICE

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Coal shipments from Alberta to Ontario on the experimental basis proposed under a vote of federal government assistance will not be undertaken this year, after all. For lack of time in which to make the necessary arrangements, the scheme will now have to wait over until another season.

That is the decision reached as an outcome of a conference here by Premier Greenfield with Hon. Charles Stewart, and Sir Henry Thornton, when the whole situation was taken under review.

The Premier pointed out that the local Government has had no information of any arrangements having been made at Ottawa to put into effect the plan of Federal aid which was contemplated in the passing of an appropriation of $200,000 among the supplementary estimates, and that until the Dominion authorities had taken action along that line nothing could be done at this end to set the coal in motion.

Assistance from the Dominion Government such as that provided for in the vote passed by Parliament, would be conditional said Mr. Stewart upon the operators reducing their prices on the coal going east, the view at Ottawa being that the producers in Alberta must do something by way of co-operating in the case and must be willing to cut the price at the mine if the Government is to help pay the cost of transportation.

HAY AND WHEAT HELD IN FIELDS

Ontario Rains Retard Harvesting, While Helping Root Crops and Pastures.

MILK FLOW HEAVY

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Midsummer pastures were never better, says the report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, issued Monday. Beef cattle are thriving, and dairy cows are giving a comparatively heavy flow of milk.

An increased interest in fall wheat is being shown this year, the report continues, and the acreage sown this year is likely to be larger than ever.

Some oats have been harvested in the more western counties but the heavy rains, while they have helped pastures, roots, etc., greatly, have been responsible for cut hay and wheat lying in the fields. Hay crop this year will be heavy but not up to the quality of last year as much of it will be without the first-class curing it got last season.

Corn is tasselling and promising much better than early in the season.

Small fruit growers in the province have not had a good season, so far, states the report, owing to the very low prices realized this year.

Timiskaming is another county to report increased interest in the sheep industry. A woollen mill is shortly to be erected there.

The flames were extinguished in time to save the body.

FOUR MEN HELD GIRL DRUGGED

St. Catharines Police Round Group Who Left Her in Doctor's Office.

GIRL ESCAPED

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., August (Canadian Press). — Four men who appeared at the office of a doctor at Beamsville early on Sunday morning with a fainting girl and then made a getaway on foot, their car having been disabled, were arrested and remanded yesterday by Magistrate Campbell for a week.

The girl, who gave the name of Mary Norfolk, aged 17, 307 Augusta Street, Toronto, was placed in the children's shelter, but escaped on Sunday night with another girl about the same age.

The men state they met the girl as Grace Steel at a beach in Toronto four days ago, and that she has been with them since.

They intended to take her to Buffalo.

Edward Lawson of Buffalo, John Carr of Chicago, and William Stone of Toronto are charged with vagrancy, and John King of Buffalo, the fourth man of the party, is charged with being illegally in possession of a revolver.

The girl has not since been found.

When the four men heard the doctor telephone, they left in haste. They had told Dr. Elmore they feared the girl was dying.

Chief Julke got Provincial Officer McKay and County Constable Seymour and the three officers started in a car on a search for the men.

They overtook them walking on the Provincial Highway, at eleven o'clock on Sunday morning, and brought them to St. Catharines and locked them up.

They had been with the girl three days and were taking her to Buffalo to her mother, he said.

Just after midnight on Saturday night the four men with the girl were towed to a Beamsville garage, the car having broken down. The girl, in a fainting condition, was carried by the men to Dr. Elmore's office, who suspected at once that she had been drugged. He gave her something to revive her and telephoned Chief of Police Julke.

A general alarm has been sent out for the two girls.

LARGEST SINCE 1915

Premier Bracken's Estimate of West Manitoba's Harvest.

WINNIPEG, Aug 12.—(Canadian Press).—Western Manitoba this year will harvest its largest crop since 1915, in the opinion of Premier Bracken, who returned yesterday after travelling 1,000 miles through that part of province in the past five days. There were two possible dangers, he added, rust in the south and early frosts in the north.

Rye harvesting in many districts is well under way and some barley has been cut. The oat crop, said the premier, will be very heavy but in some districts late.

Rainbows may mean the approach of either good or bad weather.

Dominion Claims Find Sympathy In Old Land

MONTREAL, Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press).—The utmost sympathy is felt in all quarters in Great Britain with Canada's efforts towards a solution of the problem of maintaining the unity of the Empire together with complete liberty of the individual dominions, Right Hon. Sir Evelyn Cecil, C.D.E., M.P. for Aston division, said here yesterday in the course of an interview.

There was no reason to fear that anyone in the Old Country resented Canada's action in raising ticklish questions as to the signing of treaties, and the extent to which these were binding on dominions, or that anyone over there thought Canada was needlessly creating trouble, Sir Evelyn declared. On the contrary, he thought the general feeling was that these questions had to be raised sooner or later, and Canada had simply been the first to tackle the awkward problem.

CROP OUTLOOK MUCH IMPROVED

Fifty Per Cent. Yield Seen in Sections Where Prospects Were Poor Recently.

CUTTING THIS WEEK

WINNIPEG, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Crop conditions throughout Western Canada are greatly improved as a result of general rains during the past week, according to the 17th crop report issued by the Canadian National Railways yesterday for the week ending August 9. Cutting of coarse grains is expected to be general by August 15, while binders will be in the wheat field around August 25, some districts not starting until September 1. Portage district is the first to report cutting started on barley, rye and clover.

The highest yield predicted is in oats, the report stating that one farmer in the Minaki, Ont., division anticipates 73 bushels to the acre. This is admitted to be exceptional. From 10 to 25 bushels is looked for in wheat and slightly more in the coarse grains. The spread is large and districts vary greatly as regards the yield.

The only damage worthy of notice during the past week was from hail and several districts suffered severely. Black rust is reported in some fields in the Oakland subdivision, Manitoba, but points reporting red rust say damage is nil.

Saskatchewan and Alberta crops have been recovering considerably by the rain, with the result that districts where the outlook was very poor two weeks ago, a fifty per cent. crop is now in sight.

CONFESSION BY OWNER OF STILL SAVED ANOTHER

Dramatic Twist to Verulam Liquor Case in Lindsay Police Court.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

John Mann Admits Possession of Outfit Charged Against Grant Kelly.

LINDSAY, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The charge against Grant Kelly, of Verulam, accused of having a still in his possession, came to a dramatic close on the week-end, when another Verulam man, John Mann came forward and surprised the court by admitting that he was the owner of the still.

Last April Kelly was fined $200 and costs in an O.T.A. action arising out of the seizure of a still on the property on which he and his mother resides. Kelly was arrested at that time after he had jumped through a window. John Mann was supposed to be his accomplice, but the police could not locate him. Last week Provincial Officer Storey and License Inspector Thornbury went out on the still hunt for Mann, who saw the officers as they approached his home. When they advanced to the front door, he made his getaway by the back door and dashed into the woods. Officer Storey raced after him and he was finally captured and brought to Lindsay. He appeared as a witness for the defence in the charge against Kelly, and walked into court with an empty sleeve in his coat and his arm in bandages. Answering an interrogation by Police Magistrate Jordan, Mann declared that Officer Storey had injured him when effecting his arrest. The Officer indignantly denied the charge and stated that the injured arm was a piece of camouflage.

Mann went into the box and swore that he and not Kelly was the owner of the still. The charge against the latter was dismissed and Mann was fined $200.00 and cost. Another charge of having liquor in his possession will be laid against Mann.

ARRESTED ON RELEASE

St. Thomas Man Pleads Guilty to Bigamy—Served One Term.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Neil McLean, known locally as Thomas Neill, stepped out of jail Monday after serving a sentence for non-support, only to meet arrest again on a bigamy charge. McLean was married in Sarnia in 1919, and documents showed that he had a wife living in Scotland. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence. He explained to the court that following the war he had found his wife in Scotland unfaithful, had left her and came to Canada. He had heard that she had since remarried, and later McLean also married.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Audre De Louchry, 53, a carnival visitor from Windsor, N. S., was truck by an out-going train Monday and instantly killed. He was walking on the tracks in the cutting about a mile from the south terminal station.

EX-DRY SLEUTH FOUND STABBED; WIFE ARRESTED

New York Woman Denies Slaying Husband During His Drunken Attack.

SOUNDS OF QUARREL

Prohibitionist Agent's Career Included Three Prison Terms.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—Four years ago Stewart N. McMullan, prohibition agent, stood in the Federal District Court charged with murder. He had shot a man in the back of the head. His defense was that he had been attacked with a knife which was never found. His life hung on the jury's belief in his missing knife defense. He was acquitted.

Yesterday, Stewart N. McMullan, now revealed as an ex-convict, forger, robber and wife-beater, lay dead in the morgue, slain with a knife.

In a cell at the West One Hundred and Twenty-third street police station is a woman, bruised and hysterical, charged with his death —Mrs. Frances McMullan, his wife.

The death of McMullan ends a spectacular career which included three prison terms, followed by an appointment as a Federal prohibition agent, his trial for murder, and his later activities as an operator for a private detective agency.

With his death may also be revealed the slayer of Patrolman Reynolds and Romanelli, killed last August on the Queensboro Bridge while attempting to stop a speeding taxicab in which a woman was screaming.

Heard Sounds of Struggle.

The slaying of the former enforcement agent came as a climax of a prolonged drinking bout, following his discharge from the detective agency.

The trouble stared late Saturday night when McMullen under the influence of liquor, returned to his apartment on the fifth floor of No. 638 West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street. According to neighbours, he began abusing his wife. There was the sound of blows, Mrs McMullan ran screaming from the apartment, taking her six-year-old daughter Shirley with her.

She ran to Patrolman Vobel at One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and Broadway and asked for protection. When the policeman returned to the McMullen flat the husband had fled.

A boarder, John Dempsey, telegraph operator in the Postal Union Telegraph Company, said that a man and a woman had called for McMullan while the wife was gone, and that he had gone out with them.

Shortly after midnight McMullan returned home. Again the neighbors heard him cursing and beating his wife. Then there came a sudden silence.

Slain with Knife.

A few minutes later Mrs. McMullan's hysterical voice was heard over the telephone begging the switchboard operator, Miss Margaret Hornet, to call a doctor.

Dr. Bishop, of Knickerbocker Hospital, who responded found McMullan stretched out on a bed, dead. A knife had pierced his back just below the left shoulder. It had reached the heart and caused instantaneous death.

Lieutenant George Thompson and Detectives McCoy and Guggan were summoned from the West One hundred and Fifty-second stree station. They found Mrs. McMullan in a hysterical condition. When she had been somewhat calmed, she said:

"He beat me. Time and again he has beaten me. He kicked me out of bed; he jumped on me. I was afraid of him."

Dark bruises on her body bore out this assertion.

At the same time the wife denied that she had stabbed her husband. she said:

"He came home. He staggered into our bedroom. Then he crumpled on the bed. He was stabbed elsewhere."

This, however, was not borne out by later investigations. Miss Hornet said that she had seen McMullan enter the apartment with his coat on. There was no cut in the coat. Doctors state that it would have been impossible for a man, stabbed as he was, to have walked a dozen steps.

Weapon In Yard.

Detective McCoy searched th rear yards of adjacent apartment houses and discovered a sevin-inch knife

Service To The World Is German Republic's Hope

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The German Chancellor, Dr. Marx, speaking at a reception at the German Embassy last night in honor of German Constitution Day, the fifth anniversary of the adoption of the Weimar Constitution, made reference to Germany's long path of sorrow in the past five years.

"In this hour, and in this place—the metropolis of British world power—where decisions of the greatest importance for Germany's future are to be reached," he said, "we entertain the wish and hope that the hour will soon strike in which Germany will again be able to serve the progress of culture and civilization together with the other peoples of the world. If we can serve peace in freedom, I am sure the German people will again rejoice in the Reich and its constitution."

DUTCH REJECT LEAGUE'S PLAN

Military Force Against Aggression Would be Constant Menace to Peace.

DISARMANENT PLAN

GENEVA, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The Dutch Government has followed the example of Great Britain and Germany, and the United States, in rejecting the League of Nations' proposed treaty of mutual guarantees, it was made known Monday when the Secretariat of the league published in full the letter in which Holland rejected the treaty as the basis for disarmament.

The letter, which is signed by H. A. Van Karnebeek, former President of the League of Nations Assembly, declares that the regional agreements of aid in cases of aggression, provided by the treaty, is contrary to the spirit of the covenant of the league, but will be a constant menace to peace.

In conclusion the Dutch communication expresses the conviction that disarmament cannot be accomplished by any organization of a military character based on force, but rather by making the league universal and by seeking world-wide adoption of its principles, especially binding the league members to settle disputes peacefully. Holland pledges herself to do everything possible to bring about such a universal agreement with the League of Nations.

CURE FOR CANCER

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 12.—(United Press).—Colloidal gold, a substance known to science since the days of the early Romans, has proved more effective in treating many cases of cancer than radium, according to Prof. Louis A. Kahlenberg, medical chemist.

In conjunction with Dr. Edward Ochsner, of Augustana hospital, Chicago, Prof. Kahlenberg has experienced with the "liquid gold" and believes he has found a substance whic will eventually make it possible to remove cancerous growths which the surgeon's knife cannot reach.

The gold colloid, properly applied has been successful in causing cancerous growths in the intestinal tract to disappear, he declares.

The liquid, which looks like port wine, is administered internally in these cases in regular doses. In cases of advanced cancer, intravenous injection is used.

The gold cure is still in the experimental stage, Prof. Kahlenberg admits.

"But it has proved a sure pain cure in all cases in which it has ben tried," he declared. "We have used it in hundred of cases and it has proved far better than drugs in killing pain prevalent in advanced and hopeless stages of the disease."

FINAL AGREEMENT ON DAWES PLAN NOW HINGES ON RUHR EVACUATION

Definite Advance to Next Step Toward Instituting Scheme for Reparations Depends on Withdrawal of French and Belgians in Certain Time.

WILL NOT WITHDRAW TROOPS

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The reparations conference has finally shaken itself down to the basic question of the Ruhr evacuation, and the leaders are attempting in private interviews to effect a settlement of this acute political problem, which really is not on the agenda of the conference.

M. Herriot, the French Premier, had a long interview Monday with Dr. Stresemann, the German Foreign Minister. Chancellor Marx and Dr. Stresemann called on M. Theunis, the Belgian Premier, and the leading German delegates also conferred with Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister.

Agreement Necessary.

While M. Herriot is supposed to have returned from Paris with authority to agree to the Ruhr evacuation within eleven months, the question of when evacuation will begin and the details of its execution, including the desire of the French and Belgians to keep their nationals on the railways, must be settled among the French, Belgians, English and Germans before the conference can proceed in a definite way with the programme for instituting the Dawes plan.

Reports from all three committees of the conference have been agreed to in principle, but the jurists are busy studying and editing the protocols, which are not yet in final form. The opinion now seems general in conference circles that the outcome will be definitely settled by Thursday or Friday, and the majority opinion is decidedly optimistic regarding the results.

Payments in Kind.

"The Big Fourteen" met yesterday to receive the report of the third committee, which outlined how Germany will make payments in kind. There was much argument in this committee about the quantity of coal and coke Germany shall deliver, but an agreement was finally reached, with the understanding that the matter shall be subject to arbitration.

The "Big Fourteen" met again today, and it was thought that the private interviews might have effected a settlement of the Ruhr evacuation problem by that time in such a manner that the conference could act on the technical problems without standing under the shadow of a political controversy between the French and Germans over the district where the Krupps and other manufacturers of war supplies have their headquarters.

Will Not Withdraw.

Later it was announced that the French and Belgians will not withdraw their troops from the Ruhr this year, and probably not until next summer, according to decisions reached at direct pourparlers between Premier Herriot and the German delegation. The International Conference has left the field clear for those negotiations, which are believed to be proceeding satisfactorily. Well informed observers expect word as to the date of evacuation by to-night. A final protocol incorporation all agreements reached at the conference may be signed Friday. Meanwhile the Germans have begun to put out feelers to establish a contract with the Anglo-American banking in regard to underwriting the $200,000,000 proposed loan.

The council of the 'Big Fourteen,' composed of two representatives of each country, approved the reports of the various committees, with only a few comparatively minor reservations. When the French and Belgians and Germans got together on the subject of military evacuation of the occupied areas, the former proposed two years as a limit within which withdrawal should be completed.

The Germans suggested six months. It is believed that the time finally decided upon will be between nine months and year.

Meanwhile, the London financial district is discussing the probable terms of the loan to Germany. It is generally concluded that the interest will be seven per cent. and the issue dition remans unchanged to-day.

Rome Doubts Results.

ROME, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The Rome newspapers take diversified attitudes in commenting on Premier Herriot's return to London, ranging from considerable optimism to foreboding.

The Tribuna says:

"If the report is true that the French Cabinet sent M. Herriot away with instructions not to consider the military evacuation of the Ruhr, then the best we can hope for from the London conference is a makeshift compromise."

All the newspapers agree that the conference now is in a most delicate stage, when any diplomatic blunder would be sure to be fatal. From the beginning, according to the Tribuna, the conference has been hedged about by too many limitations. It instances the United States, which it quotes as saying:

"If you talk about Inter-Allied debts, I shall not come in; you can shift for yourselves."

It cites the attitude of France as: "Yes, I will participate, but on the condition you do not breathe a word about the military evacuation of the Ruhr."

Premier MacDonald, the Tribuna continues, replied to these reservations:

"Very well, come along. We shall talk neither of debts nor of military evacuation."

CARBOLIC ACID ENDS HIS LIFE

Peterborough Man's Body Found in Oatfield—Disappeared Saturday Night.

NO INQUEST

John Weaver's watch was still ticking but his heart had ceased to beat when he was found in an oat field near High street at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon. A carbolic acid bottle lay by his side and his throat and mouth were burned by the poison. Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young does not consider an inquest necessary, his finding being that Weaver committed suicide.

James Grady, who is well known as the proprietor of a meat store on Charlotte street, while taking a Sunday afternoon stroll around his home on High street, just outside the western boundary of Peterborough found Weaver's body on the outskirts of an oat field.

Mrs. Weaver and her two children, the eldest of whom is about thirteen years of age, were informed of the tragedy on their return from the Salvation Army Sunday School. Mrs. Weaver had also attended the morning service at the Salvation Army Temple, at which she was a regular attendant. She had not seen her husband since Saturday night, when he left about eigh

WELL TREATED AWAY.

Not Man On Olympic Team Had Reason To Complain.

GUELPH, Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Johnny Cuthbert, Guelph's speedy long-distance runner, who represented Canada in the Marathon race at the Olympic games in Paris on July 13, arrived in the city yesterday. He has no "kick" regarding the treatment accorded Canadians in Paris, and has nothing but words of appreciation in respect to the services of Coach Cornelius and P. J. Mulqueen, who looked after the welfare of the team in France.

"I was very much surprised when I reached home," said the little runner, "and read statements credited to the Nova Scotia athletes, and I think they were uncalled for. Cornelius is a very capable man, and there is no question that he knows his business, and looked after our interests to the best of his ability. P. J. Mulqueen also did all he possibly could for the Canadians, and as far as being well-treated is concerned, not a man had a reason to complain."

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Automobile Struck By A Train, near Saskatoon.

SASKATOON, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press). — Dorothy Smith, 17, and her two-year-old sister, Bertha, were instantly killed and their father, George Smith, 40, was fatally injured when their automobile was struck by a Canadian National passenger train at a crossing four miles west of Bethune yesterday. The girls were badly crushed and thrown thirty-five feet into the ditch, while Mr. Smith sustained internal injuries, dying one hour later. It is believed that in endeavoring to stop the car, Smith stepped on the clutch instead of the brake.

Stewart Thompson, 24, helper in the factory, was so badly injured that he is not expected to recover.

Five physicians from neighbouring communities in Augusta Township and a party of nurses were rushed to the scene, and are attending the injured.

REBUILD ELEVATOR

Most of Grain in Fort William Fire Will Be Cleaned.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 12. —(Canadian Press).—The work of removing the debris from the site of the work house at the North-Western elevator, destroyed by fire on Saturday, is now being carried out by a large gang of men. A meeting of the company is to be held during the next few days in Winnipeg, when plans will be made for rebuilding.

Meanwhile, out of the 1,867,000 bushels of grain which was in the elevator when the fire occurred, it is expected that 1,400,000 bushels can be shipped by water since the North-Western has an annex with separate machinery for cleaning and shipping and this can be made to empty almost the whole of the bins of the entire plant.

LUMBERMAN DROWNED.

LINDSAY, Aug. 12. Word was received here to -day of the death by drowning near Port Arthur of Mandall Loucks, the twenty year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Loucks, of this town. THE GUMPS—THE POOR FISH

NO DECISION BY COUNCILLORS ON ROAD IN SWAMP

Marmora, Seymour, Rawdon and Belmont Townships Represented at Conference.

VIEWS DIVERGED

Province Offers Grant if Municipalities Will Contribute to Cost of Work.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 12. — The road through the dense swamp at the junction of the four townships of Marmora, Seymour, Rawdon and Belmont, a road that has claimed the personal attention of three members of the Legislature, that was the subject of Legislative debate at the session last winter, and which was considered in the Cabinet, was visited on Saturday by representatives of the Councils of the four townships interested. After nearly three hours' deliberation, no definite conclusion was arrived at.

Dates Back 70 Years.

This road extends from the farm of William Haggerty, near Allan's mill, northward, and forms part of the boundary between the counties of Northumberland and Hastings. It has been in use since pioneer days, 70 years ago, when the settlers chopped a narrow trail through the swamp for a distance of nearly two miles, and constructed a primeval corduroy highway. The cedar logs — that to-day would be worth a small fortune, have decayed, and the road is now even in the summer season scarcely fit for traffic. Some idea of the condition may be gathered from the fact that the councillors who met there yesterday, rather than risk a trip over the uneven and broken surface, left their cars at the entrance to the swamp and proceeded to the meeting place, about half a mile away, a four corners that marks the junction of the Townships of Seymour, Rawdon, Belmont and Marmora. Those councillors present at the gathering were:

Seymour—Reeve Van Volkenburg, Deputy Reeve Nelson. Councillors McKelvie, Peake and Milne.

Marmora Townshin—Reeve R. E. Bonter, Councillors W. D. Nickle, J. E. Maloney, L. E. Neal and Irving McCoy.

Rawdon—Reeve W. W. Dracup, Councillor W. S. Styles.

Belmont — Councillor Ernest Spencer.

Besides these, the following farmers, who own land adjacent to or abutting on the highway, were at the meeting and took part in the discussion:

Joseph Gibson, Huston Gibson, James Booth, William Haggerty, David Houghton, Frank Trennum, Bert Robertson, Ed. King, Allan Walbridge, Thomas McQuaig, Geo. McQuaig, Eph. Caspen, Thomas Stewart, William McFaul, Robert McFaul, Alex. Boyd, William Warne, Wm. Auger, Pat. McFaul, Joseph Brock, Robert Bowen and James Russell.

The Department's Offer.

Mayor Johnston, M.L.A., of East Peterboro, Major Belford, M.L.A., of Northumberland East, and Hon. R. Cooke, M.L.A., representing one of the Hastings ridings, visited the road and took the question up at the last session of the Legislature. The result was that the Department of Public Works promised a grant of $2,500, and the Department of Colonization Roads another of $1500 on condition that the four municipalities interested would each supplement this by raising $250.

A Government engineer made a survey and estimated that the drainage alone would cost $2,500.

Seymour Agrees.

At the outset the representatives from Seymour made it plain that although the proposed improvement would benefit their township less than the other four, they were willing to raise their share of the $1,000 supplemental grant on account of the advantage a better road would be to the community as a whole.

A Difference of Opinion.

There was a difference of opinion as to which direction the road should take after it is built as far as the four corners where the meeting was held. As planned by the government the improved road is to continue north from the four corners about 120 rods to connect with the country provincial road which is almost completed past the latter point.

Marmora township however is anxious to have the road built east from the four corners to the boundary of the swamp in that direction a short distance away.

If the latter direction is taken Councillor Spencer of Belmont said his township would receive no benefit from the improvement, and that he would be in favor of a colonization road grant for Belmont. On the other hand if the route advised by the government is followed the township of Marmora is not disposed to contribute anything. If however the road is improved east the village of Marmora will assist the project by private subscriptions, and the township council will not only raise the $250 required but will improve at its own expense the road from the improved highway to the village of Marmora. The Marmora councillors consider this a better route than building out to the county provincial road, as it would, they say, serve a larger number of the taxpayers, and bring more traffic to the village.

Reeve Dracup and Councillor Styles of Rawdon would not commit themselves to any policy before consulting with the other members of their council.

Some Advantage.

There is considerable traffic over the swamp road in spite of its condition. If the proposed improvement is made it would reduce the distance between Marmora village and Campbellford from 22 to aproximately 12 miles. At present William Allan is obliged to draw the wheat which he grinds at his mill from Bonar Law, a distance of 6 miles, and to team his flour the same distance for shipment. A good road through the swamp would gve him a shipping point at Tiffin, on the C.P.R., two miles from his mil.

Farmers' Position.

The farmers in the vicinity are practically cut off from all communication with the outside world during wet weather. In the spring and fall the swamp is floded and portions of their land is under water when this occurs. Draining the swamp would be of as much benefit to them as an improved road. Some of the farmers who own 200 acre of land pay taxes of $20 a year. They say that since they settled there they have not received one cent from the township for highway improvement, all the work done being by statute labor.

There is said to be deposits of first class gravel, sufficient to build many miles of improved highway, within ½ a mile of the road in question.

Too Narrow for Traffic.

The road in question is not only filled with ruts and holes, with logs and stumps sticking above the surface, but is so narrow that it is next to impossible for vehicles to pass each other. Autos and wagons passing over it brush the undergrowth on either side with their wheels and there is an entire absence of ditches.

Is there Oil.

The swamp has produced valuable timber and pulpwood and lumbering operations are still carried on in the winter season.

The farmers believe that it also contains valuable deposits of oil and gas as traces of these were found when cuts were made for the C. P. R. roadbed, and are also located frequently when wells are dug.

At the Regent.

Captain Hyland is planning extensive attractions and improvements in his theatre during the summer.

Fred Linton, who returned yesterday from visit to Chicago told Capt. Hyland that he saw no better pictures in the moving theatres of that big city than he did at home, in fact some he had seen here were being exhibited over there during his visit.

The management of this popular picture house has just completed negotiations with Universal, Paramount Vitagraph, Fox and Regal Films, the leading producing companies of America, purchasing all special productions for 1924-25, which will be shown at regular prices.

SCORCHED POTATOES

When boiled potatoes burn, remove the pan from the fire and set instantly in a dish of cold water. In a very short time the potatoes may be removed from the scorched pan without sticking and by boiling a few minutes longer in a clean pan the scorched taste will be removed.

PEEL EASILY

Hold tomatoes over the gas flame for a few seconds before you peel them and the skin is easily removed without tearing the vegetable.

TORONTO MAN IS PRESIDENT OF MATH. CONGRESS

Dr. J. C. Fields of University of Toronto Elected for Year by Mathematical Experts.

TWO SECRETARIES

Sterility Cured by Vitamin X is Claim of Herbert Evans of California.

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Added interest was given the activities of the world-famous scientists now meeting in Toronto when the International Mathematical Congress, gathering for the first time on this side of the Atlantic, opened their annual sessions at Convocation Hall Monday. Four hundred representatives of learned societies and universities in all corners of the globe were present in the great assembly hall when Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, Hon. Dr. H. C. Beland, minister of soldiers' civil reestablishment, representing the government of the dominion, and Dr. J. C. Fields, professor of mathematics at the University of Toronto, offered a warm welcome to the congress.

To Know Canada.

Sir Robert said he was glad of the opportunity given visitors to learn something of Canadian society. He was certain that their tour of the east and west would bring them to the realization that the resources of the country and the heritage of its people were worthy of a great race. Hon. Dr. Beland in briefly reviewing the work of research said that science had for its object the improvement of the condition of humanity, intellectually, morally, socially and economically. All other use made of it was a disfigurement of its divine and celestial rule.

The congress at its first business meeting shortly after the inaugural recognized the work of Canadian men of science by choosing Dr. Fields president for the year. Further honor was bestowed upon Canada by the selection of Prof. J. L. Synge, of Toronto, and Prof. L. V. King, of McGill University, Montreal, as secretaries.

Vitamin X.

Probably the most interesting pronouncement in the discussion of the sectional sessions of the British Association for the Advancement of Science druing the day was that by Herbert M. Evans, of the University of California, in which he claimed that he had discovered the mysterious component of the diet which is essential for the performance of the reproductive function. Prof. Evans was reporting on his researches in a symposium on vitamins. Synthetic food mixtures, containing adequate amounts of sugar, fat, salts, and the previously known vitamins will produce normal growth and apparent health in rodents he said, but they lead to the occurrence of sterility. When Vitamin X, prevalent in leaves, grains and meats, is added, fertility returns. The treatment can be given by administering extracts of the potent substances under the skin.

"This sterility is a specific dietary disease, prevented or cured by certain natural foodstuffs and not affected by others" he declared.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

REDDY FOX LEARNS A LESSON

"You said you were likely to make two fortunes."

"Hopping rain toads!" exclaimed Mister Zip, the fairyman, one day in Happy Go Lucky Park. "If I don't hurry up I'll never make my fortune. Here it is—the end of the season almost and I haven't made it yet."

"Why," said Nancy in surprise, "there were so many people here yesterday that you said you were likely to make two fortunes."

"I know! I know!" said Mister Zip. "And it did look like it because the park was just crowded. But when I counted my money I found that, although there were nearly a hundred people, I had only sold 10 tickets. How do you account for that, I'd like to know?"

"There must be something wrong, said Nick.

"There must be," agreed Nancy.

"There is," said Mister Zip. "And it's up to you children to find out what it is. People are getting in some way without paying, I am sure."

Away went the Twins to see if they could find out how it came that the wood folk and meadow folk were not paying Mister Zip 10 cents apiece to get into Happy Go Lucky Park.

The sign by the gate said "Birds and Babies Free," but that's all it did say.

The Woodchuck boys liked the park so well they were there about every day.

And Mike Mole and Flop Field Mouse (who were the chummiest chums) might as well have brought their trunks and stayed, for they were there first thing after breakfast every morning.

And Scamper Squirrel and Scramble Squirrel, who had come to spend their summer vacation with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Cracknuts, were everlastingly at the park, too.

And there wasn't any sign that said "Woodchucks and Moles and Squirrels and Field Mice Free." None at all!

The Twins went along very quietly, not making a sound. And pretty soon they came to Maple Tree Flats, where the Field Mouse family lived in the basement. Then they knocked on the door.

Mrs. Field Mouse stopped her ironing and answered it.

"Good morning," she said pleasantly, wiping her hands on her apron, as she always did, no matter how clean they were.

"Good morning," said the Twins. "Is Flop at home?"

"No, he isn't," said Mrs. Field Mouse. "He's gone to Happy Go Lucky Park."

"Did he have any money?" asked Nick.

"La, yes!" laughed Mrs. Field Mouse. "But he won't have when he comes home. I always give him a dime for delivering my washings and he spends it all on the new amusement park. But I don't care. When he's there I don't have to worry about him and it keeps him away from the wheat field and Mister Owl's sharp eyes. Also, the house where the cat lives. That's why I let him go."

"All right, Mrs. Field Mouse," said Nancy kindly. "We'll see him again some time."

"That's funny," said Nick when she had closed the door. "Flop must be paying his way in. Let's go and see Mrs. Mole at her house under the hazel bush. Maybe she can tell us something."

RUSSIAN PEASANTS REPORTED TO BE ACTIVE AGAINST SOVIET

Alexey Moskwinow, American representative of the All-Russian Peasants' Association, who arrived in New York recently, asserts that the peasants are more dissatisfied than ever with the Soviet Government. The Reds are being defied openly, but, according to Mr. Moskwinow, the time for aggressive action has not arrived.

The movement which Mr. Moskwinow represents claims to have united 40 per cent. of the peasant population under its banner. The basic element upon which it builds its country-wide organization is the "Volost" or village council, about the only age-long Russian institution that has withstood the onslaught of the revolution.

"People in Western Europe and America," said Mr. Moskwinow, "have the erroneous idea that the Russian peasants have been the real gainers in the Bolshevist revolution, owing to the fact that all the land was reverted to them. This is true only on the surface. In reality the peasants do not own the land; they merely hold it in perpetual tenure. In spite of his larger holding the Russian peasant actually cultivates a smaller portion of his land now than he did before the revolution. This is due to the high taxes which he must pay in kind out of the products of his labor, and to his inability to use to advantage whatever excess of produce he may possess after he has satisfied his personal needs and those of his family.

"The peasant cannot buy anything with the money he makes. There are no tools, no implements in Russia. The foreign trade of Russia is in the hands of the Vnieshtorg or Foreign Commerce Department of the Soviet Government which permits no private competition and imposes a high tariff. Consequently, the prices of imported articles are high, in some cases three times as high as the prices of 1914. Conditions of life in Russia are almost medieval. Utilization of her immense resources and raw materials is at its lowest ebb. The volume of Russia's business at present is hardly more than ten per cent. of its total in pre-revolutionary days. The export of corn, reported in the press, is a bold deception on the part of the Soviet Government. This corn, which is of non-Russian origin, was purchased and re-exported to Europe to create the impression of an overabundant harvest in Russia.

"The Soviet Government is making a strong effort to induce the 32,000 Russian farmers living in the United States to return to Russia. But it admits these farmers only in groups that are well provided with agricultural implements and other tools. These groups are required to settle and cultivate the land as a unit or separate communes.

"The All-Russian Peasants' Association considers the aims and interests of the peasants the chief concern of a true Russian Government. We teach the Russian soil tiller to recognize and utilize his own power. We are trying to establish cordial relations with economic and industrial groups in other countries. We are against foreign intervention of any kind, believing that our aim can be best achieved by 'boring from within.' We shall act as soon as we have perfected our organization and enlisted the support of the Russian masses. We especially seek American co-operation. American is the only country capable of helping us to rebuild Russia. We have common interests with her in the Far East. One of our objects is to enter into negotiations with American firms with regard to future exports to Russia and ways of exploiting her natural resources."

GOLDFISH LISTED AS AUTO VICTIMS

Said That Motor Car is Wiping Out Hundreds of Specimens.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—A naturalist recently ascribed the extinction of the Central Park squirrels in part to the automobile. This week a still more heinous charge is laid at the door, as it were, of the motor vehicle. It is said by the authorities of the New York Aquarium that the motor car is exterminating the goldfish of this city and vicinity.

The supply source from which the goldfish tanks at the Aquarium are replenished is failing. Where once a week's collecting in near-by waters would net hundreds of the fish, an ordinary week this year will yield only eight or ten specimens.

"For years," said Miss Ida M. Mellen, Secretary of the Aquarium, "we have gathered fresh fish from the waters of Manhattan. That means largely lakes and streams in the public parks. There have always been plenty of goldfish until now, in many varieties. We still get other fish from the local parks, but we have discovered a great scarcity of goldfish. They seem to be dying out. The reason for that is the large number of automobiles that pass by the ponds where we collect. The oil that they drop on the roads washes into the little lakes, pollutes the water and kills much of the fish life. The goldfish in particular have been unable to withstand it."

Experts shake their heads and sigh, but to no avail. They can look through the glass house of the goldfish and tell if the inmates are marked for death, but they have not been able to check the onslaught of the destroyer. According to Miss Mellen, goldfish life in many parts of the country is threatened by an epidemic of black fungus, a parasitic growth that fastens itself upon the tiny body and saps its vitality. To the gold fish this disease is as dread as the foot-and-mouth disease to cattle, and as deadly.

The infection wipes out whole schools of the little creatures. Often the dealer who hatches them and the fan who purchases them are deceived by the appearance of the specimens. They fail to detect symptoms in advance. The sale is made all unwittingly; then the fish drop off one by one, or even two by two, until the entire tank is depopulated.

The Aquarium has escaped the scourge thus far.

LONDON FLOUR DROPS

Two Shilling Decline Follows the Recent Advances.

LONDON, Aug. 12. —(Canadian Press Cable).—The price of standard grade flour has taken a tumble after frequent advances since about the middle of July and at midnight last night a reduction of two shillings goes into effect. New price is 40s 6d per 280-pound sack. The London flour millers' association announces the 2-shilling reduction as official.

The peak price of standard grade flour was reached on July 28, when it was advanced to 48s 6d per 280-pound sack. It has remained at this figure since.

THE TOURIST TRAFFIC.

The large signs erected by the Peterborough anch of the Ontario Motor League at Port Hope, Welcome and Dale calling attention to the fact that Peterborough, the gateway to the Kawartha Lakes, is but thirty miles, should cause an appreciable increase in the amount of motor tourist traffic into this city.

The volume of tourist traffic is at its highest at the present time.

On a trip along the Kingston road on Saturday a party of Peterborough citizens saw cars bearing the license numbers of the following States: New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indianna, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Oklahoma, in some cases six or eight cars from the same State.

The occupants were all obviously tourists.

Some, of course, would have a definite destination before them, but many others, in all probability, had no set route and were merely seeing the country.

The Motor League signs should help to bring to Peterborough many of this latter class, as well as to make travelling easy for the others who were coming to Peterborough anyway.

The tourists leave a huge sum of money in Ontario every summer, and there is no reason why this city, the logical gateway to the Kawarthas and offering in itself a wealth of interesting things, should not reach out and get its fair share of the traffic.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

Civic Holiday is over for another year, and the day after may be an appropriate time for ruminating over the idea that the name is more or less of a misnomer.

Why "Civic" Holiday?

That name suggests a day upon which people might be expected to interest themselves in their own community and its problems, a day when they perhaps could be counted upon to dedicate themselves again to civic service and to community efforts.

The reality is nothing like that.

What invariably happens on Civic Holiday is that everybody who possesses a motor car, a boat or has the price to pay transportation hies himself away from Peterborough.

It is the occasion of the greatest exodus of the year—people escape from home as hurriedly as if the city had suddenly become plague-stricken.

"Get-Away Day" would be a much more appropriate title than the one commonly used for this holiday.

And yet perhaps if the pilgrims return after visiting some other centre, convinced that after all there is only one place in which to live and that is Peterborough, the day may not be lost from a civic viewpoint after all.

And then another point.

Why should Peterborough be so exclusive in this matter of a Civic Holiday?

The great majority of cities and towns chose the first Monday in August.

There are many people who see no reason why Peterborough should not fall in line with the majority.

WELCOME, FIRE FIGHTERS!

Representatives of Ontario's fire departments will be the guests of Peterborough for three days this week, beginning with tomorrow, the occasion being the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Fire Fighters.

Peterborough is glad to welcome these visitors, not only for themselves, but as delegates from the various brigades throughout the Province.

The fireman is a most useful servant of the public.

Sometimes it seems as if the people generally did not appreciate just how well they are served by the members of the fire department or realize the hazardous nature of their occupation.

It is no job for a weakling.

Every time an alarm sounds it may mean a serious accident to one or more firemen.

Tearing down a busy city street in a big truck at 40 miles an hour is not exactly a safe occupation.

And when the fire is reached the hazard is not by any means over.

There is constant danger, sometimes of being overcome by smoke, sometimes of being trapped by falling roof or walls.

Death is near at hand often when the fire is of serious proportions.

Peterborough should remember these things this week, and its citizens should honour the visiting firemen and exert themselves to see that the delegates are fittingly entertained.

The local fire fighters can be depended upon to do their part, but they should have general assistance in order that the representatives may go away feeling that the 1924 convention was the best yet and Peterborough the most hospitable city yet visited.

THE COOLEST LIFE OF ALL.

On a hot summer day the luckiest individual in the world is the salmon trout. He always lives in water at a temperature of 40 degrees—only 8 above freezing.

The salmon trout—called Namaycush b ythe Indians—is found in deep lakes all the way to northermost Alaska. Usually he inhabits lakes that are the craters of extinct volcanoes, from 150 to 1,000 or more feet deep.

In the spring, after the ice goes out, the surface water is cold and the salmon trout is found riding the top near shore. As the days and water get warmer, he gradually goes deeper. In August the Indians troll for him at a depth of 200 feet, using as much as six pounds of lead for sinkers.

Namaycush, progressively going deeper, follows the "40-degrees line." His body is so constructed that he can live 1,000 feet deep without being crushed by the pressure.

A city man, toiling in a hot factory, store or office, has reason to sigh with envy as he ponders the lot of the salmon trout. Physical comfort is not the only important thing in life. But it's a tremendous item. People couldn't stand civilization if it weren't for artificial "conveniences."

Envy, too, the freedom of the salmon trout. Nothing to do but swim lazily in the cool waters, picking up minnows for food as needed. No working hours. No alarm clocks. No tax collectors. No propaganda. No boresome political campaigns. No tight shoes. No dirt and dust. No . . . . Oh, what a life!

While we're on the subject, how about the lucky lot of the northern Indian who trolls for the salmon trout? Up yonder in the north, nothing to worry about except how to spend his pension. Game laws mean nothing to him. The water is cool, the sighing breeze pure and fresh with the scent of growing things on shore.

The nights are cold even after the warmest day. A camp-fire, his meal sizzling in the frying pan, northern lights, the bark of a fox, the call of wild birds.

Freedom—that's what the salmon trout and the Indian have. And it's what we have lost—the supreme penalty of civilization.

GERMANY INVITED TO LONDON.

An invitation is to be sent to Germany to attend the Inter-Allied Conference and an obstruction that looked as if it might bring the conference to grief has been surmounted.

The report of the Anglo-French jurists upon which the terms of the invitation are based is a remarkable document setting forth in the clearest language that the Treaty of Versailles confers on the Allies no right to interfere with Germany's internal sovereignty nor even with her methods of payment, and declaring that Germany still retains a free hand as to the means by which she pays. In thus enumerating the fundamentals on which the Germans will take part in the conference the report makes it quite plain that there is no conflict between the Dawes plan and the Versailles Treaty, but that the one is supplementary to the other. The object of the conference can, therefore, be stated as a desire to put the Dawes report into operation without conflicting with the Versailles Treaty. Since it was not the Reparation Commission which occupied the Ruhr, the question of its evacuation is one that concerns Germany and France alone.

The report, therefore, concludes that before settlement is reached three agreements will have to be signed—one between the Allies themselves, one between the Allies and the Germans and the third between the Germans and the Reparations Commission. By keeping the question of evacuation of the Ruhr as something quite apart from the Dawes report and by banning the thorny subject of inter-Allied debts, there seems a good prospect of the inter-Allied conference reaching a settlement. With the question of the German invitation out of the way and German acceptance assured by the vote given to Marx and Stresemann in the Reichstag the ground is cleared for the discussion of the next big problem, which is the countervailing advantages which can be offered to France in exchange for the military evacuation of that region, an evacuation which Herriot has practically promised in advance.

The agreement to send the invitation to Germany has indeed altered the entire aspect of the conference. Germany would certainly have balked at coming if she had been sent for and told to sign on the dotted line after the Allies had reached agreement among themselves. The procedure that has been adopted means that the German delegates will have the privilege of discussing the major issues, including the economic evacuation of the Ruhr as a means of restoring the tottering financial structure of Germany.

Premier Herriot has done a courageous thing in reversing his decision about inviting the Germans to the conference. It is a direct challenge to M. Poincare and his extreme Nationalists and the French Premier may rely not only on the support of his own followers, but of all friends of peace on the European Continent.

In the face of the grave problems that are still to be discussed it would be unwise to exhibit too much optimism, but the whole outlook for success of the conference has been changed over the week-end. —Montreal Star.

"AS GOOD AS GOLD."

An interesting sidelight on what New York financiers think of Canada and her position in the world of commerce is found in an able article on the recent Canadian National Railways loan, written by Paul W. Garrett in the New York Evening Post. "For a majority of short-term investors," he says, "apparently, it is enough to know that the new obligations are guaranteed both as to principal and interest by the Canadian Government. At least, the notes were quickly taken. Indeed, where a railroad obligation is guaranteed unconditionally by such a Government as the Dominion of Canada as are the $20,000,000 of 4 per cent. notes, there is not much more than investors need to know. Canada's pledge is about as good as gold, and that is why the syndicate managers were able to sell the issue so readily at 98 7-8 to yield 4.40 per cent."

All of which is as interesting as it is significant, says the Kingston Standard. It is not the earnings of the Canadian National Railways or their possibilities that appealed to the New York financiers—not one of whom is in love with Government-owned railways and, probably, not one of whom believes in Government ownership—but simply and solely the pledge of the entire Dominion of Canada. It is this that has made these securities so readily saleable—this, and the plethora of unemployed money at this particular time. The C. N. R. is indeed lucky to have such a Godfather.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The departure of Civic Holiday is also, alas, a sign of the quick arrival of autumn.

The Chicago murder trial seems to have developed into a contest to see how many different ways the alienists can find to say the same thing.

Hon. Mr. Raney seems to think the plebiscite is merely a duel between the Premier and himself. However, several other people will likely be interested by October 23rd.

Oshawa's Old Home Week was a great success, and in Peterborough's eyes the best feature of the whole week's programme was the defeat of Belleville by the Oshawa ball club.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—A few choice butchers' steers around 1,000 lbs. each sold at $7 a cwt. and good loads of steers brought $6.50. Finished light heifers were not as strong and commanded only $6 to $6.25 a cwt. Baby beeves were eagerly sought after, from $7.50 to $10, and were fully as strong as they have been. A lighter run of cows made these snappy at steady prices. Choice fat cows were $5 to $5.75 and good useful cows $4 to $4.35 a cwt.

Medium butchers were had on an average of $5.50 a cwt. Stocker specialists were busy making up loads. Light heifers cost around $3 a cwt., and those from 800 to 900 lbs. each $4.50 to $5.

Calves held their own and select light calves sold rather easy up to 9 cents a pound. Medium calves brought 6½ to 8 cents and heavy ones 5 cents. Jewish buyers were on the market again today.

Buyers were trying to break the lamb price to 12½ cents but the run was light and sales were made 25 cents a cwt. higher. One deck of ewe lambs from H. Crowe of Port Elgin, brought 13¼ cents. Yearlings sold at 8 cents, and one choice handyweight sheep at 7 cents. Heavy choice sheep were 5 to 6 cents.

Hogs were edged up another 25 cents a cwt. to $9.75 a cwt. f.o.b. Commission men think the top has not yet been reached owing to the small supply of hogs at present in the country.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, August 11. — The market remains very firm. Receipts are steadily falling off which is causing a withdrawal of eggs from the coolers to meet the consumptive demand.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, August 11. — Cattle receipts totalled 3379, including 373 calves.

Trading on the cattle market was somewhat listless with bidding quiet and the indications are that plain classes will suffer a light drop in prices. The better types of feeder cattle are meeting fair demand at steady prices while calves are slightly easier at prices ranging from $5.50 to $6.50.

Hog receipts 2397.

The hog market opened unsettled, and the prospects are that thick smooths will be sold at $9.

Sheep and lamb receipts 397.

There was no trading on the early market although indications are that prices will be a trifle lower.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 11. — The wheat market continued to be a draggy affair to-day with very little feature. While little pressure was felt the buying power was extremely light and after the fairly steady opening the market became heavy and prices declined about 2½c from Saturday's close, the October future being the weakest. There was an entire absence of bullish news over the week end, lower prices at Chicago and weather conditions throughout the west being reported as favorable, causing a halt in operations.

The local market, outside of the extreme bullish interests, was not inclined to take hold of the market and support values, even on the break today. The impression seemed to more or less general that local prices will have to break another ten cents before Canadian wheat can compete with the United States export business.

The future coarse grains were following the trend of wheat to-day on a light volume of trade. Oats closed fractionaly lower, while barley broke from 1½c to 3c; flax lost 2 1-2 to 3c and rye slumped away about 5c a bushel all around.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. — Increasing receipts put a burden on wheat values to-day and the market closed unsettled 3-4c to 2c net lower. September $1.26¼ to $1.26 3-4; and December $1.30¼ to $1.30 3-8. Corn finished 1 1-8c to 1¼c down; oats 3-4c to 1 1-8c off, and provisions at 12c to 40c decline.

With the domestic visible supply total enlarged to-day, 7,726,000 bushels and with primary receipts in excess of the aggregate both for a week ago and for the corresponding time last year, the meat market showed a downward tendency almost the entire day, especialy during the last ½ hour. Aside from the pressure of immediate supplies, traders gave indications of preparing for a bearish crop report from the Canadian government. Moreover, it was said, that frosts probably had been too light to damage the grain.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 12 (Canadian Press). — There was no change in the domestic cash grain market yesterday. The feeling is about steady in flour. A fair business is passing in most lines of millfeed. The demand for rolled oats is limited. There is no new development in baled hay. The tone of the egg market is firm. There is a moderate market in butter and cheese. Demand for beans at $3.00 per bushel for one-pound pickers, continues good.

GAS SHORTAGE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 12. — (United Press).—Pittsburgh is passing through the semblance of a gas shortage scare. The invisible fuel is said to be getting scarcer and hurried efforts are being made to replenish the steady dwindling supply.

The People's Natural Gas Co., which enjoys a monopoly in Pittsburgh and vicinity, claims consumers burn more than they use, and to do away with this so-called waste they have raised the rate 10 cents per thousand cubic feet. As a result, a long legal battle is seen.

WOULD FOSTER SPECIAL BENT AT EARLY AGE

Infant's Department in the School Holds Child in the Formative Stage.

UNCOVER ABILITY.

Tests Should Be Made To Find Natural Inclinations and Abilities of Children.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—A crucial age to begin training of pupils in elementary schools is time of promotion from the infants' department according to Dr. Cyril Burt, psycholist to the education department of the London County Council who discussed "Psychological tests for Scholarship and Promotion" before psychologists and educationists at the British Association. Psychological tests for grading the intelligence of school pupils fall into two classes, according to Dr. Burt. One half of them aim to discover inborn intellectual capacity, and the others are devised to measure acquired attainments. Tests for the former purpose may determine general intelligence, or they can be so arranged as to reveal special aptitudes latent in the child mind. The tests of attainment in the second group, can be made to measure either general education, or vocational training.

"Tests of these four types can be reclassified according to the procedure followed," said Dr. Burt. "There may be written group tests, individual oral tests, or individual performance tests."

In discussing promotion from the infants' department in public schools and the tests which have proved of the greatest value at this age, the psychologist stated that greater attention should be paid to school children at this period than is usually the case. "This is a crucial, but frequently a neglected, time in the pupil's career," he said. "His subsequent success in scholarship examinations may depend upon it."

"At this point, tests which have proved to be the most useful are individual and oral tests of general intelligence, such as the Binet-Simon scale."

When the question of transfer to the advanced department has been settled, and the education becomes a matter of progression from class to class for a period of years, the tests which are of the greatest utility to the teacher are tests of acquired educational attainments, Dr. Burt has found. In the first two years, however, the data should be obtained by individual examination of the pupils, in either written or oral form, but after this period, group inspection has been found satisfactory.

After the completion of the primary school education, and when the time comes for promotion to secondary schools, the tests of general intelligence again reveal information which is invaluable to those to whose lot it falls to advise the pupils as to their choice of vocational, or strictly academic studies, and the facts so obtained are also to use to those who direct the education subsequently.

"Transferences from a primary school are generally arranged after a scholarship examination in educational attainments, such as aithmetic or English," said Dr. Burt.

"Examination of this traditional type have recently been supplemented by group test in Great Britain, and they are already in wide use."

Examinations in which academic attainment only, is considered, are particularly incomplete in the case of those proposing to enter trade schools, the scientist pointed out. "Too much mental stress is likely to be placed on attainments in English, or arithmetic, and a misleading result obtained," he said.

"Intelligence tests, especially those of a performance type, are of much greater value.

"Similagly, every opportunity should be taken to discover whether there are special aptitudes, and if the child already gives promise along vocational lines, this should be taken into consideration."

Thus under the scheme advocated by Dr. Burt, which has already been found worthwhile in England, the usual high school entrance examination would be supplemented by psychological tests for general intelligence, any exhibition of manual skill would be taken into account, and there would be a third factor considered in the search for innate suitability for a particular type of profession, and the subsequent education could be modified so as to give full scope to these latent abilities.

TREES AND SKULLS TELL OF THE PAST

Old Tribes Bored Holes in the Skulls of Their Dead Before America Was Discovered.

TORONTO, Aug. 11. — Trees on a shell heap in British Columbia in which prehistoric skulls were found, fix approximately the age of the primitive remains, according to Harlan I. Smith, of the Geological Survey of Canada, who addressed anthropologists at the British Association.

"The skulls were found in the large shell heap along the west side of Boundary Bay, about 20 miles south of Vancouver," he said.

One of the skulls is of an unusually narrow type, and was trephined. The other is a representative of the wide variety common to the region in both prehistoric and modern times. Fixing of the antiquity of the trephined specimen is of special significance, the anthropologst intended. Certain of the primiitve tribes were in the habit of boring holes in the skulls of their dead in order that they mght be cleaned out and possibly filled with preservativ material, it seems. The tribes which indulged in this practice existed long before the discovery of America, the find shows.

Annual rings of growth numbering over 400 were counted on the trunk of a tree which stood on one of the deposits, and much greater age is indicated in view of the fact that the outside of this stump had been burned off. The skulls were unearthed below layers continuing unbroken under these stumps.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Economic Outlook in Great Britain Raises No Fears For the Tight

TORONTO, August 9. — The economic outlook in Great Britain need give no cause for alarm, it was indicated by Prof. A. L. Bowley, of the University of London, who compared in the economics section of the British Association economic conditions in the British Isles at present and ten years ago, in respect of population, employment, prices, wages, income, production and trade.

"The standard of living is at present re-established at the pre-war level, although working hours are reduced," he said. "Necessary imports are obtained in return for reduced exports.

"The problem of employment is still one of post-war adjustment. In a few years' time the increase in the number of the employable population will be checked.

"Certain adjustments in distribution of occupations and in relative wages are necessary, but till the European affairs are more settled it cannot be foreseen whether an increase in external or internal trade should be the objective.

"Meanwhile there is little development in home industry and it is doubtful whether output can be increased without extension of the working week, or whether full occupation can be found without reduction in wages."

That the difficulties are not of an insuperable nature, was the economist's conclusion. The adjustments necessary are of a minor character, he said.

WEIGHT SINKS EARTH'S CRUST

Surfaces of Land Sag Appreciably Under Added Weight.

NEW BEACHES FORM

TORONTO, August 9. — Further confirmation or the theory of a plastic substructure for the earth's crust was offered to geologists at the British Association by Reginald A. Daly, Professor of Geology at Harvard University, who delivered a paper in which he related the degree of plasticity of the earth's core to the depth below the surface.

During the glacial period, it seems, vast masses of ice accumulated in the northern part of North America, two of the areas badly frozen being Keewatin and Labrador. The crust of the earth at these points tended to yield under the load, and to sink below the normal level, until the loaded part of the crust was brought into equilibrium with the unloaded portions adjacent. When the ice was removed, the ground which it covered was at an abnormally low level, and it proceeded to restore itself gradually to the horizontal.

"These regions have now readjusted themselves completely," the geologist said. "There is sufficient evidence to support the theory that an equally complete and perfect response to the gravitational forces took place, when the continent was weighted down with huge masses of ice."

Dr. Daly pointed out that the subsistence under the ice load was accompanied by an elevation of the neighbouring crust in a ring surrounding the loaded down area. To explain this phenomenon, he proposed the theory that the strength of the earth's crust decreases in the zones, becoming less with increasing depth. This gave rise to an undertow below the depressed territories, which pushed out the substructure from beneath the sinking lands, and accordingly elevated the surface just beyond the edge of the galciated region.

"This viscous flow had greatest effect at great depths," Prof. Daly stated. The downward pressure of the piled up ice was communicated through the soft layers of the earth to the country beyond, in the light of this theory, according to the principle of the mechanism used to control the steering engines of large steamers from the pilot house, in which the motion is transmitted by oil enclosed in steel pipes.

sticking in the ground in the rear of No. 642, next door.

There were blood stains on the knife. It will be anilyzed by chemists to ascertain if it is the weapon that caused McMullan's death.

Mrs. McMullan was taken to the West One Hundred and Twenty-third street police station. When she was taken before Police Matron Mary Sullivan it was learned that she had a police record.

In 1922 she was arrested in a raid on a disorderly house and held for Special Sessions in bail of $1000 This was learned when she asked Mrs. Sullivan:

'Will I be taken to Jefferson Market Prison?"

When told that she undoubtedly would be, Mrs. McMullan again broke down, crying:

"I hate that place. I don't want to go there. I was there once. It's terrible."

Wanted as Witness.

A detective was placed in the McMullan home to arrest the boarder, John Dempsey, upon his return While the police do not believe that he was a participant in the slaying, they desire to question him.

McMullan came into prominence in 1920 when he was arrested on a charge of having slain Harry Carlton, a chauffeur, of No. 234 East Seventy-sixth street, who, he alleged, was a bootlegger. In company with William D. Yasselli, a prohibition agent, he attempted to place Carleton under arrest without first showing his credentials According to witness, McMullan shot Carelton while the man's hands were above his head. McMullan's defense was that he had been attacked with a knife.

He was indicted by the Grand Jury. Later the Federal Government claimed jurisdiction in the case, and it was transferred to the Federal courts. Here a United States attorney was assingned to defend him.

During his trial it was discovered that he had served three prison terms and was a parole violator from Indiana. His record showed that he was first arrested in Fort Worth, Texas, for passing worthless checks and received a prison term of four years. He was later sentenced to eight years in Indianapolis on a similar charge and at the expiration of four years came to New York.

Jailed For Robbery.

A few weeks later he and a companion were charged with highway robbery at North Pelham. He pleaded guilty, served five years and was released.

While he was serving his term in Dannmora prison he wrote to Division Superintendent Wooly, of the Department of Justice, and in this way got a Government job under the name of Finch.

He said that he had obtained the job because he had written to the Department of Justice from his cell in Dannemora that the explosion was to occur at Back Tom. He lost this position, was transformed to the Narcotic Division and later to the Internal Revenue Department.

After his acquittal on the charge of murder he was sent back to Indiana as a parole violator. He was again paroled, however, and immediately came to New York and secured a position with a private detective agency.

o'clock to order the week's groceries. The groceries were delivered later, but her husband did not return.

It appears that he purchased the carbolic acid at an up-town drug store and walked to the oat field where he was found stretched on his back with not even his hat disarranged. There had been no struggle, examination of the ground showed, and not a drop of the burning poson had fallen on the man's face.

John Weaver lived on little Chamberlain street, having moved there a few months ago. In his pocket was found a key with a tag attached bearing the address of a house on London street. Weaver had a few days ago paid a deposit of $2 on this house which he purposed renting. He was employed for the past seven years with J. E. A. Fitzgerald and Company as a coal teamster. His wife said he was subject to fits of depression, but had never stayed away all night on a previous occasion.

The funeral of the late John Weaver was held from the family residence at 1.30 this afternoon, Captain Parnell, of the Salvation Army, officiating.

Interment took place in Ray's Cemetery.

FABLES ON HEALTH

BREATHE REGULARLY

Having becomes interested in breathing exercises, Mr. Mann began to inquire more deeply into the effect obtained from deep, rhythmic breathing.

And, among other things, he found this out:

When an ordinary breath is taken something like 10 per cent of the lung content is changed with each breath. When a deep breath is taken the entire lung is forced into action and an immediate stimulant is given the liver and abdominal circulation of the blood.

This, in turn, has the helpful result of setting into action any stagnant blood in those two regions, causing it to be oxygenated. Blood pressure is favorably influenced and persons of high emotional tendencies can be benefited by a systematic course in deep and rhythmic breathing.

Breathing should be deep and slow, carried on rhythmically. Some oriental races have worked out an interesting method to insure evenness of breath.

They press a finger to the side of the nose, closing one nostril and breathing through the other; then reversing to the other nostril.

While doing this it may be noted that the sound of breathing becomes audible and attention to this sound of air makes it possible to note whether the breathing is irregular.

An attractive costume for a child is a white dress and a white satin cape, lined with red crepe de chine.

Silk shirting or silk rep dresses are trimmed with buttons and collars and cuffs of handkerchief linen.

TAX.

New York state collected 25 million dollars income taxes from its residents in 1923. New York City gets nearly half.

State income tax is spreading.

Income taxes levied by citiesmay come later. Money will have to be raised some way. Municipalities in most cases are dangerously close to the saturation point or limit in mortgaging the future.

Combine Educational Theory With Statistics To Give True Value To Answers.

NEW METHOD.

TORONTO, August 9. — Researches on intelligence which are receiving attention at the Ontario College of Education were reported at a joint meeting of the educational science and psychology sections of the British Association by Prof. P. Sandiford, of the University o Toronto.

It is necessary to combine educational theory with statistical methods before it is possible to evaluate the answers which candidates give to a uniform set of questions, Prof. Sandiford indicated.

"The investigations at the Ontario College of Education have shown that the scores made by pupils in specially prepared standard tests for high school physiography and physics, are due not only to their knowledge of science ,but also to such factors as reading ability, intelligence, age, and the like," he said.

The method adopted for sorting out the contribution which each of these factors makes to a pupil's answers to examination questions, is the use of "partial coefficieqts of correlation formulae," which have been devised by mathematicians to permit the determination of the independent contribution which is made by each of several variable factors to a given result. The equations have been in use among economists for some time for the prediction of crops, for example, but they will have to be utilised also by educators and psychologists, before much further progress can be made in the quantitative aspect of the science of education.

"By taking age into account and by the use of tests for reading and for intelligence, followed by the calculation of partial coefficients of correlation, it is possible to free the results of a trial examination of this kind from the influence of age, intelligence and reading ability, leaving those mainly due to the knowledge of science," stated Prof. Sandiford. "The methods which are being developed for this purpose can be applied to other fields also, the speaker indicated.

All cereals should be stirred into boiling water and the salt should not be added at first because it hardens the cellulose.

CANADIAN PACIFIC—THE HARVESTERS' SHORTEST ROUTE TO THE WEST.

Due to the fact that the Canadian Pacific is the shortest route to the West, the greater majority of harvesters last year travelled via Canadian Pacific. The company will maintain the usual high standard of colonist car equipment this year with cars for the exclusive use of ladies, children and their escorts, while lunch counter cars in which hot meals, refreshments, etc., may be obtained at most reasonable rates will also be attached to all trains.

Because the Canadian Pacific is the shortest route to Western Canada and due to the efforts of the Company to have the harvesters spread over as much territory as possible in a minimum space of time it is expected from the numerous inquiries received, that a number of extra trains will be necessary this year to transport the harvesters to the West. Canadian Pacific agents throughout Ontario have been fully instructed in the various matters pertaining to harvesters and will gladly furnish full information regarding the departure of trains.

On August 22nd, at 12.01 a.m. (midnight, August 21st) the first special train will leave Toronto, followed by one at 10.00 a.m. and others as required.

It is confidently expected that harvesters will again travel Canadian Pacific, the majority of harvesters from Ontario last year having done so as the harvesters are thus able to be among the first from Ontario in the harvest fields.

BELLEVILLE AT KINGSTON MADE ANOTHER NOTCH

Had an Easy Game With the Kingston Crew. Last Home Game.

TOO MUCH OULETTE.

Every Known Variety Of Baseball Was Served Up To Large Crowd.

KINGSTON, Aug. 12.— (Special) —Belleville had another joyful time here and the fans saw some good long-distance hitting when the Trunks walked into Kingston 12 to 8 in Kingston's last home game of the regular C.O.B.L. schedule. It was the old, old, story of too much Oulette. The big hurler for Belleville faltered a little at times but when he did, his mates went in strong and gathered him some more runs and he followed up their encouragement and did some more good pitching. Neither team scored for the first three innings and both played good baseball. Cherry fanned the first two Belleville men and "Peeny" Mills, after singling, was caught napping off second by Compeau with the hidden ball trick. In the second Harry Mills got a lightning double play which flopped both Mills and Williams. The little Kingston shortstop had a splendid day, having the start of a double play to his credit, an unassisted put-out at second, and at the bat, a home run, a triple, a two bagger, a single and a stolen run.

"Peeny" Mills was the other bag slugger of the day gathering in a perfect sheet with six hits, one of them for two bases, in six appearances and four runs scored. Kelly also turned in a clear sheet on the Kingston side with a single and a triple in two appearances. Belleville opened the offensive in the fourth when three singles and a sacrifice scored two. In the fifth they grabbed two runs on four hits and a walk and were pounding Cherry in the sixth when Kelly was sent in. They grabbed four in the sixth and four more in the seventh on two singles, an error, and a pass. Then they remained quiet till the end of the game. Kingston, with a total of fourteen hits, for twenty eight bases, lacked speed and base running ability and should have had circuit clouts to their credit on two or three occasions when the only triples resulted. They threatened in several innings but did not really get a rally under way until the ninth. Then Batstone singled, Nickle tripled and Compeau with a shorter hit than Nickle's made a dash for the plate and got it in a slide that put himself and Catcher Mills on the sick list for a few minutes. Kelly tripled right after and scored later on some rules put out from Meagher to Harry Mills. Rice had grounded to first and Cherry popped to Harry Mills to end the game. Oulette was hurt when Daley's line drive caught him in the leg in the second. Weir had to his credit the nicest infielder's catch on a local diamond this year when he went far into left field for Compeau's Texas Leaguer in the third. Compeau had several beautiful stops which saved extra base on hits.

There was a bumper crowd in attendance and every known variety of baseball was served up. The Belleville bunch worked hard for their victory and deserved it.

HOLIDAY CROWD AT JUNIPER FOR WATER SPORTS

Clayton Ridpath Won Single Paddling Championship of Kawartha Lakes.

ENTRIES NUMEROUS

Ridpath Brothers and Wallace Sisters Starred in Feature Events.

JUNIPER ISLAND, Stoney Lake, August 12. — To the laurels they won at Kawartha Park and Chemong Park Regattas, the Wallace sisters, of Toronto, who are summering at Rice Lake, and the Ridpath brothers, of Lakefield, added a new and justrous collection yesterday at the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association Regatta over the historic course off Juniper.

Clayton Ridpath captured the G. E. Oxley Cup, the symbolic trophy of the men's single canoe championship of the Kawartha Lakes.

With his brother Jack he crossed the line first in the men's tandem canoe.

Willeen Wallace carried off the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Cup for the ladies' single canoe competition, and her paddle flashed with her sister Margaret's to first place in the ladies' tandem canoe.

Willeen Wallace and Jack Ridpath won their heat and also the final in the mixed tandem canoe.

In the canoe fours the Wallace sisters were in the boat that won the women's race and the Ridpath brothers helped win the men's, combining with Gerald and Sam Sherin to compose an all-Lakefield crew.

In the canoe mixed fours, however, the Wallace sisters and Ridpath brothers were beaten in a thrilling finish by the margin of several inches by the blades of Florence Adams, Dorothy Jory, Wilbur Glassey and Paul Dodworth.

The performance of these family pairs was one of the features of the regatta, and by way of further demonstrating his paddling powers, Clayton Ridpath on Saturday afternoon won the Gordon K. Grahame cup in the distance contest around Juniper island. This course is approximately 2 1-12 miles. Ridpath's time was 23 minutes. Fred Collins was second and Don Fitzgerald, last year's winner, finished third.

It was a gay, colourful crowd, afloat and ashore, that watched yesterday's events. The "Lixtonia" brought a numerous quota from Sturgeon's Point. Lakefield sent up its quota on the Empress, emptying the village, and Peterboro was largely reprsented, the "Stoney Lake" bringing a capacity crowd. Kawartha Park, Crowe's Landing, Chemong and other resorts were all well represented. Juniper was the micca of Kawarthadom, and veterans of the Cottage Association believed the attendance exceeded the best assemblage of the old days before the war.

A group of girls sold programmes and tags, the proceeds going to the Toronto Star's Fresh Air Fund.

Among them little Ruth Gouinlock, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. J. M. Gouinlock, was perhaps the most active, putting about in her scout among the anchored craft, disposing of tags and programmes.

The open sailing race went to the Sturgeon Point entry sailed by S. A. Flavelle, with Jim Pierdon of Kawartha Park second. J. S. Knapman was in Pierdon's Alameda, and among the five entries were Harold Knapman's Cygnet and Oxley's Gull.

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN COUNCIL

Councillors Will Purchase Signs to Advertise the Town. Firemen Compensated.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 12.— Campbellford at last is to have signs at the corporation limits on the leading roads apprising tourists of the name of the town which they are entering. At the August meeting of the Town Council last night a communication was received from the Ontario Motor League requesting that such signs be put up in all the towns in the Province, and offering to supply them at cost in order to have them uniform.

The price of a sign 21 x 12 inches was quoted at 60 cents.

The offer was accepted, and Reeve Davidson and Councillor Johnston were appointed a committee to arrange for the procuring and setting up of the signs, the size of each to be decided upon later.

Midway for Campbellford.

Secretary J. N. Stone and Director T. J. Horkins, representing the Agricultural Society, asked for permission to use the Market Square for the week beginning 18th August for the holding of a midway show by the Maple Leaf Show Company.

Secretary Stone guaranteed that there would be nothing improper in the exhibition, and that the society would pay the $21.50 required to light the grounds during the week the show will be here.

Director Horkins said this would be one way to advertise the town, something which he said he regretted to see, for which the Council showed little inclination.

The permission asked for was granted on the motion of Reeve Davidson and Councillor Cole.

Trip Around Town.

The Council as a body will make a trip around town to-day for the purpose of inspecting certain public works that are asked for by residents. They will look into the matter of strengthening the roadway at the depot and cutting down of some hills in the west-end.

L. A. Denike, who proposes to divide into town lots a portion of his property on Rear Street, offers the town a 30-foot strip for a roadway. This is another matter into which the Council will look to-day.

Councillor McDonald's Case.

Councillor McDonald, who while acting as a volunteer fireman at a fire outside the town limits, near the fair grounds, over two weeks ago, and while helping to save the fire appartus from the flames, was so severely burned that he was kept a week from his work, was allowde $25 for lost time and $11.70 for his doctor bill.

Reeve Davidson, who is chief of the fire brigade, stated that the department had used the chemical apparatus on four or five fires outside the town recently. The chemicals used each time cost $5 and, he contended, that the township council should bear the cost. He had asked Reeve Van Volkenburg about it but the latter said that any expense should be borne by the residents of the township whose property had been saved.

The reeve argued that since the township councillors were so ready to raise the equalization and reduce the road grants of the town they should be willing to pay their debts to the latter.

The majority of the councillors were of the opinion that the township council were not legally responsible for any assistance received from the municipal fire apparatus, and they, if they did pay such bills, might claim a partnership interest in the equipment.

Sewers Completed.

The new sewers on River and Rear streets are completed, and a court of revision to settle all disput as to payment of the costs will be held on the evening of Sept. 3rd. The members of the court are Mayor Meyers, Deputy Reeve Dorie, Councillors Kingston, Johnston and McDonald.

Bylaw Passed.

A bylaw for the collection of the poll tax by A. J. Beavis, who was appointed collector at the last meeting was put through its several readings.

Another bylaw confirming Mr. Beavis in his office as collector and to enforce the snow, weeds and other bylaws, at a salary of $25 a month, was also passed. He begins his duties at once.

Simpson street Bridge.

The new bridge across the creek at Simpson street will be built by day labor under the supervision of Street Foreman Fox. George Hawthorne will prepare the plans, his pay to be 3 per cent. of the total cost. A motion by Councillor Redden to advertise for tenders, was not seconded, the other members of the that money was saved the town by the day labor system on public works.

To Build Guard.

On motion of Councillors Abernethy and Kingston it was decided to erect a guard on George street along the river bank at the end of Church street. This has always been a danger point as an auto missing the road the turn would drop over the bank about 12 ft. into at least three times that depth of water.

The plans for the Kemp street sewer have not yet been received, and Engineer Caddy, on motion of Councillor Redden and McDonald will be asked to finish them at once.

First street, the road to the Roman Catholic cemetery, is to be gravelled at the request of J. D. Cummings, who resides on that thoroughfare and who represented it to be in a bad state of repair.

END OF TRAGIC LIFE

Russian Shoemaker in Kingston Worried Over Helper's Suicide.

KINGSTON, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The death occurred Monday of James Modney, a Russian shoemaker. Worry over the death of George Palmer, of Ottawa, employed in his shop, hastened his death. Palmer committed suicide two weeks ago by drowning. Modney suffered from injuries received in an accident which injured his arm. He came to Kingston thirteen years ago from Russia. His two little sons died of starvation in Russia. He blamed himself for the death of Palmer, but had no reason to do so.

JAPAN TO FLOAT LOAN.

$22,000,000 Loan For Subscription In U. S. Was Announced Last Night.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Payable in time of war as well as of peace, irrespective of the nationality of the holder, and without any declaration as to citizenship, the National City Company last night announced a $22,000,000 Japanese loan for subscription in the United States.

The phrasing of the loan contract, probably unique in the history of American finance, very apparently was brought about by the Japanese Exclusion Act and known fears of the American investors that the war between U.S. and Japan is possible at some later time.

Perspiration moisture and odour can be prevented by one application of this rosy-coloured liquid

YOU have always taken it for granted that it was not possible to overcome the perspiration moisture and odour that annoys and frequently embarrasses you. You thought perhaps that as it was a natural bodily function it would be harmful to stop it.

Yet it is possible to have complete relief from perspiration annoyance—harmlessly and easily.

Extreme perspiration of one part of the body, such as the underarms, is due to local irregularities of the sensitive sweat glands. Clothing and the hollow of the underarm make normal evaporation impossible, so that corrective measures are necessary.

One application of Odorono gives you complete relief from perspiration moisture and odour for three days—two applications a week keep your underarms always dry and immaculate. Odorono is an antiseptic toilet water, formulated for the special purpose of counteracting excessive perspiration, without affecting the natural healthful perspiration of the rest of the body.

Odorono is delightfully easy to use, and quite harmless. You simply pat it on to the underarm with a piece of soft cloth or cotton wool, or with the tips of the fingers. Odorono is obtainable at all high-class toilet counters—three sizes, 35c., 60c. and $1.00.

CANADA MAY FLOAT LOAN IN NEW YORK

From $170,000,000 To $181 000,000 Was Reported on Wall Street ToDay.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The Dominion of Canada is likely to float a loan of from $170,000,000 to $180,000,000 here was reported in Wall Street to-day, for the purpose of refunding the issue of a similar amount of war loan bonds issued in 1919. This issue matures on November 1 next. Because of low rates of interest prevailing here it is expected that refinancing could be done at a lower cost in New York than in Canada.

At offices of the bankers who usually handle the Canadian Government financing, was said that no negotiating had yet been opened and that they might not be opened until a few weeks before the bands become due. The bonds coming due are five year obligations which formed a party of sixth or victory war loan.

Bankers added that whether America is offered new Canadian bonds or whether borrowing will be done at the home is a matter which doubtless will be determined by the circumstances prevailing as a maturity date nears.

HARVESTERS LEAVE CITY, AUGUST 22

Peterboro Will Despatch Her Quota on Western Harvesters Excursions.

z At least 150 will leave Peterboro on Aug. 22, when the Western Harvest Excursion trains leaves the City.

Mr. Hugh Robertson stated that a good number of enquiries had been received at the local Government Employment Bureau by men intending to go west, although no wish had been experienced.

The Government has no part in the harvesters' excursions which are handled entirely by the Railways. Last year the Government, did in response to an urgent call, muster 800 harvesters, through its employment bureaus, late in the season.

U. S. SHOULD ENTER THE WORLD COURT

This Was the Statement of John W. Davis, Democratic Candidate.

CLARKSBURG, W. V.A., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press). — Accepting the Democratic nomination for President in a speech to more than 50,000 persons in a town in which he was born and started his career, John W. Davis, last night indicted the Republican party for the corruption in office and gross favoritism in legislation, indicating that he intended to make this chief issue of his campaign.

The Democratic standard bearer did not rest his speech merely on his attack on the Republican party but had a constructive program to offer. He expressed clearly his belief that the United States should not only enter the world court, but the League of Nations.

BOB GRANDMOTHER.

Had Some Misgivings When She Sat In Barber's Chair.

WASHINGTON, August 12 (Canadian Press). — First Miss Silvia Smith King, 20, had her hair bobbed. Then her mother, Dr. Cora Smith King, 50, submitted to the same treatment. Yesterday her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Barnes Smith, 80, sat on the same chair.

For a moment only, as the shears began their work, eighty felt misgivings alien to twenty or even fifty.

"I'm only doing it," she admonished her daughter and granddaughter, "because you insisted it would be more comfortable."

JOBS GO BEGGING.

Takes a Lot Of Money To Put On Dog in Overseas Posts.

LONDON, Aug. 12. — (British United Press). — Admiral Lord Jellicoe is leaving the Governor-Generalship of New Zealand next November.

Lord Byng's term in Canada ends August, 1926. The selection of candidates within the Labor party willing to accept great official posts throughout the Empire raise a peculiar situation with regard to appointments of this kind. Most of these are necessarily positions for wealthy men only, as few of them provide sufficient salary to allow the official to maintain adequately the traditional dignity. It was for this reason recently necessary to appoint a Conservative as Governor-General of Western Australia, which caused considerable resentment in the Labor ranks, consequently the Cabinet made every effort to find a Labor man for the Tasmanian Government House, and finally nominated J. O'Grady, the Labor member for South-East Leeds. They thought that by this step they had solved two problems, as O'Grady's acceptance would provide a safe constituency for Mr. Slesser, the new Solicitor-General, who has not yet found a seat. O'Grady, however, declined the offer because of the refusal of Tasmania to increase the salary of the position to an amount he could afford to accept.

In addition to the Tasmanian position, the Governorship of St. Helena is also vacant. This provides a salary of only $4,000 annually, which is totally inadequate for a man without other sources of income.

THE "DAYLIGHT STAR."

OTTAWA, Aug. 12 — (Canadian Press).—The "daylight star" which has been observed by residents of Regina and vicinity is probably the planet Venus, according to astronomers at the Dominion Observatory here to-day. Venus is the morning star at present, and can be seen during the day if the atmosphere is clear and the observer knows where to locate it.

MANY DANCE STEPS MUST VANISH AWAY

The Old Fashioned Waltz and Tango Must Take Their Places in Near Future.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press). — Modern dancing must divorce itself from the zoo, delegates to the 31st annual convention of the International Association of Dancing Masters decreed yesterday at the Hotel Astor. Camel canters, turkey trots, tiger twaddles, bunny hugs and wild cat whirls must go. The old-fashioned waltz and tango must take their places.

College boys are to blame for the popularity of zoological steps, explained Mrs. Anna Keenan, of Philadelphia. M. F. Kavanaugh, dancing teacher for fifty-one years, agreed that the present-day dances are not what they should be. Everything is being carried to extreme.

Many new steps are being exhibited at the convention, which ends on Saturday. Among them are "Raggedy Ann," College Fox Trot, "Whisper Waltz," an easy-going tango, "Pasadena" and "Hansonette" for the reserved dancer.

CANADA'S WHEAT YIELD IS LOWER

Estimated Yield For the Dominion is About 282,042,000 Bushels.

OTTAWA, Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Canada's wheat crop this year is estimated at 282,042,000 bushels by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This estimate issued yesterday by the government is based on the definite estimates of the yield of fall wheat and the latest report of condition of spring wheat throughout Canada. The final estimate of least year's wheat crop was 474,199,000. The average yield per acre of fall wheat is estimated to be 25.1 bushels on the harvested acre of 765,679 acres, or a total of 19,254,000 bushels, as compared with 19,315,000 bushels from 815,706 acres last year. Majority of fall wheat is in Ontario, where the crop will average 26.9 bushels per acre as against 23.1 bushels last year. In Alberta 26.9 bushels per acre as against 23.1 bushels last year. In Alberta, on a small acre age, the average has dropped from 38 bushels to 10 bushels to the acre.

In the three prairie provinces there is a drop in the average of all wheat. At the end of July it appeared that there would be a total wheat harvest of about 750,032,000 bushels from the sown area of 21,516,797 acres.

WAR VETERAN DEAD.

LONDON, Aug. 12. — (United Press).—The death is announced of Lieut.-Col. Cecil Grenfell, who was attached to the Canadian corps for several months and fought with them at Vimy Ridge.

SCOTS HAD PERFECT DAY.

Spent Civic Holiday, Bathing Fishing, Boating And Dancing.

The gathering of the clans took place yesterday at Chemong, when the local Scots were conveyed from the city by car to the Rendezvous, which was given over for the day by the well known proprietor, who always has a genial welcome for the Scot, at any time he makes the summer resort his place of pleasure.

The early part of the day as spent in boating, bathing, and fishing, while the afternoon was of a free-and-easy character—some participating in dancing to the strains of the pipes played by Piper Alex. Milne for dances, and Robert Gilmour with his instrument supplied the latest and old-fashioned tunes to the round and square dances. Others enjoyed themOthers enjoyed themselves by a rant among the bushes and a wander into the highways and byways.

The hour of returning home for the nearly two hundred people came to soon to end a perfect day.

CLASH IN SUDAN.

British Troops Despatched to The Scene. Many Casualties.

LONDON, August 12 (Canadian Press). — The British Government has sent a battalion of troops to reinforce the British garrison in the Soudan as a result of the clash between Egyptian and British soldiers at Atbara, following disturbances in which the Egyptians are said to have attacked the British with bricks and other missiles, whereupon the British fired on them, causing nineteen casualties.

Disturbances in the Soudan are likely to have a disquieting political effect upon the forthcoming negotiations in London of Said Zagloul Pasha, the Egyptian Premier, according to the British officials.

Officials assert that there is no thought of the British Government giving up its rights to the Soudan, and that demonstrations such as those reorted will only make more difficult the establishment of the Soudan's status in relation to Egypt and Great Britain.

AUTO COLLISION SUNDAY MORNING

Car Plunged Through Billboard on Hunter Street, West.

On Sunday morning, at 9.05 the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets was the scene of a disastrous smash-up, when a car driven by [illegible] plunged through a billboard on the south side of Hunter, when struck by Beatty Bros.' heavy truck of Bridgenorth.

[illegible] was driving west on Hunter and the truck was travelling south on Aylmer. Both drivers perceived a collision inevitable.

The truck driver to avert a direct collision turned west on Hunter, hitting the west bound car on the front fender and running board. [illegible] turned to the left punching a hole in a billboard, and narrowly missing a telegraph pole support in her course.

Miraculously she escaped injury, although her car was wrecked. The truck also received minor damages, in the smash-up and 100 pounds of milk was spilt.

TRAGIC DEATH OF TWO LITTLE ONES

Mother Became Suddenly Crazed and Takes Life of Two Children.

LINDSAY, August 12. (Special.) A bad tragedy occurred this morning on the farm of George Fanning, in South Ops, about four miles from Lindsay, when Mrs. Fanning became suddenly crazed and strangled her two little daughters, aged six and seven, and afterwards attempted to take her own life by slashing her throat.

Mr. Fanning left home this morning for Janetville on business, and his wife appeared to be in her usual spirits. He returned home about 11 o'clock. His little daughters had been in the habit of running out to meet him but to-day on his return they were nowhere to be found. On entering the house he failed to find any members of the family but on going into the children's bedroom he was horrified to find the little children dead in bed and his wife with her throat cut.

She was rushed to the Ross Hospital where her condition was said to be very serious.

Dr. Logan, coroner, has been notified and is conducting an investigation.

FIND CURE FOR EYE INFECTIONS

Injections of Pure Cows Milk Are Now Being Used By a Doctor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Failing to sight the result of rheumatic or other infection, or even penetration of the eyeball, can be arrested within three days by injections of pure cow's milk into the lumbar region of the patient, according to Dr. Edward R. Gookin, of Boston, who arrived here yesterday on the United American liner Cleveland after five months' study in Vienna of this new discovery by physicians of the hospital attached to the University of Vienna.

Dr. Gookin denied early reports that the milk injections are a cure for blindness. Those who are already blind, he said, may not hope for the restoration of their sight by this method, but those who are but partially blind from infection or penetration or those in whose eyes infection has just been discovered, have good reasons to hope that their sight will get no worse, and also that sympathetic ophthalmia affection of the other eye will be prevented.

LOCKWORKS EMPLOYEES' PICNIC

Delightful Outing to Hiawatha Saturday — Whole Day Spent on Shore of Rice Lake—Shop and Family Affair.

(By Frank Russell.)

On Saturday last, August the ninth, took place what is certainly the largest water picnic of each summer, and from its popularity one may well describe it as the most sought-after outing of the year.

I refer to that large well-conducted, all-day trip, organized in the most generous fashion by the employees of the Peterborough Lock Works.

Every year, as this event comes around, large interest is evinced in the outing. The employees, their wives, families and sweethearts, are there, for the entire affair is one of pleasure from the moment of arrival at the wharf of departure, to the evening landing at the same familiar spot.

Last Saturday's outing was no exception to the rule. From about 7.30 a.m.—the departure being timed for 7.45—there was a constant stream of arrivals, with their various dinner and supper baskets, on the George street wharf.

The Start.

The sturdy steamer Stoney Lake, with its competent and able captain, his officers and crew, a good genial lot of fellows, had been chartered as usual for the occasion. And at 8 a.m., after granting a little latitude for possible late arrivals, the departure signal was given in a long, loud blast of the siren, and the moorings were cast off.

The steamer then crossed Little Lake—a pretty little spot in itself—to the East City wharf. Here as well as at the Peterborough Lock, and at the Street Railway wharf, a few more passengers were taken on board, until somewhere around two hundred and sixty souls were on board.

Music that Soothes the Savage Breast.

A band of about some sixteen members of the 57th or Rangers Regiment, had been engaged for general orchestral music, as also Taylor's Harmony Ensemble dance orchestra of five pieces. The former was under the direction of Messrs. Perryer and Dyer. Shortly after starting the band commenced playing popular and acceptable pieces on the upper deck, while Mr. Taylor's aggregation started dance music for an already anticipatory assemblage. As a matter of fact music and dancing were in constant vogue, except during the necessary intervals for the performers' dinner and supper, when volunteers were ready to play to keep the dance game going.

Occasionally there was a slight variation when sonsg were sung by Mr. Everett and comic songs and clog and step dances were contributed by Mr. Thomas Cockerill.

The Weather.

The day was dull at starting; there were many clouds around, and there were not wanting pessimists who averred that we should have a wet day. But such a contingency as this has not yet happened on the many picnic excursions organized by the Lockworks good folks. Presently Old Sol looked out and continued to smile broadly all day, so Jupiter Pluvius sensibly took a back seat. It really turned out a delightful summer day.

The Arrival at Hiawatha.

The good little steamship ploughed her way contentedly down the river to Rice Lake, and at 11.30 she was moored alongside the wharf at Hiawatha—the Indian reserve village, which was the objective of the run.

The major portion of the visitors proceeded ashore with their various dinner baskets, encamping on a little bluff overlooking the lake. Some preferred to discuss the contents of their amply supplied hampers on board.

The Sports.

And when all had fed and were satisfied then came some various sports. A soft ball game was played between the single and the married men, resulting in a victory for the latter, the score being 6-4. The pitchers F. Jobbitt (S.) and M. Whatly (M.) and catcher H. Black (M.) made a good showing.

During this period the band played many musical numbers. One which was very effective and characteristics was "Mountain Echoes," which was extremely well carried out. A large amount of credit is reflected on this band's general performance.

Then came a number of races for really useful and acceptably good prizes, of which the following is

Programme of Sports

Boys up to 7 years—1 F. Whaley, 2 J. Devlin.

Girls up to 7 years— 1 M. Whaley, 2 M. Minnicola.

Boys up to 11 years—1 A. Hanrahan, 2 J. McCann.

Girls up to 11 years—1. M. Nokes, 2 C. Whaley.

Boys, 15 years — 1 McCann, 2 G. Corbett.

Girls, 15 years— 1M. Mohan, 2 F. Halpin.

Single Men—1 R. Brady, 2 J. Cross

Married men— 1 W. Curtis, 2. T. Neary.

Men (backward). — 1 Cross, 2 Curtis.

Women (backwards)—1 Miss W. Hepburn, 2 Mrs. Brady.

Single women —1 Miss J. Nokes, 2 Miss F. Halpin.

Married women—1 Mrs. W. Hepburn; 2 Mrs. Brady.

Fat women—1 Mrs. Hepburn, 2 Mrs. Brady.

There is not much shade at Hiawatha consequently as the sun was now shining in its glory, and it was somewhat hot, a number preferred to go on board and sit in the shade until the steamer started on the homeward journey. Accordingly at 4.15 the warning syren emitted a loud blast and at 4.30 the good ship was under weigh on the return voyage.

The Return Home

It was an extremely pleasant sail across Rice Lake and up that pretty river Otanobee; there was welcome sunshine and a pleasant breeze. At the entrance of the river there was a universal rush for supper baskets and for the dining saloons. Thence, upwards and homeward, music from the band, interspersed with songs, pleased the folk on the upper deck, while Taylor's performers were keeping the dancers going. Both performing and dancers seemed indefatigable. There were some very pretty dancers among them both as regards looks as well as ability.

In due course Street Railway Wharf was reached where many debarked. Then Mark Street Wharf was negotiated where a considerable number of East City and Ashburnham residents left for the shore and their respective homes. Shortly after the George Street Wharf hove in sight, where upon the band struck up "Home Sweet Home" followed by "God Save the King", of course, and a hearty vote of thanks with three cheers for the directors, the committee, the captain and officers, and the crew of the good little steamer which had played such a big part in the days' outing.

Generally Speaking

Every one seemed thoroughly to have enjoyed themselves. Mirth and happiness were to be seen sparkling out of their eyes—a sure indication The children were as a general rule —well behaved which added to the enjoyment of their elders.

The Committee

The committee who so ably engineered this truly enjoyable outing consisted of Messrs. D. J. Burke (chairman), F. Jobbitt, (Secretary), H. Hill, H. Archambault, J. Burke, W. Whaley, T. Guerin, J. Whaley, P. O'Toole, J. Clancy, T. McIntie and E. Gibson. Right well they carried out their duties and right heartily are they to be congratulated on the result of their exertions. Personally many thanks to you gentlemen and all concerned. I have taken in many of your annual trips and they have always been very much worth while.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

Oshawa Man, Killed in Factory by Air Pressure, Died from Accident.

OSHAWA, Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press).—"We attach no blame to anyone," was the finding of the coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Bert Clifford, who died at the Oshawa General Hospital, following injuries sustained at the plant of the General Motors, Ltd., on the morning of August 1, when he was "blown" up" with an air hose in the hands of one, Oliver Sarle. After reading the verdict, signed by Nelson S. Beard, Coroner Dr. D. S. Hoig asked that the verdict be changed from reading, "We attach no blame to Oliver Sarle," to "We attach no blame to anyone." This the jury did.

BLACK KNIGHTS ATTEND CHURCH

Millbrook and District Members Turn Out In Large Numbers.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 12. — About seventy-five members of the Royal Black Preceptory, No. 945, attended divine worship in the Methodist Church on Sunday at 7.30 p.m., the Millbrook band, under the leadership of G. A. Duncan, heading the parade from the Lodge rooms to the church.

An unusually large congregation was present, a considerable number having to be accommodated in the gallery, and the special music by the choir included the anthem, "God's Beautiful Out of Doors," and a quartette, "Lead me gently home, Father," by Miss Ethel Richardson, Mrs. F. P. Johnston, Messrs. W. H. Coombe and G. A. Duncan.

In welcoming the guests of the evening, the pastor, Rev. F. W. Howard, urged the organization to "be sure to advantage yourselves of the things which Jesus Christ has made possible. Permit yourselves to be enriched personally with the things which you defend collectively, and wish to preserve for all men."

The text was chosen from Romans 12, 1: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God which is your reasonable service." The fundamental fact of the sacrifice offered by God with a view to reconciliation between men and Himself, making possible pardon, peace and life, which is the theme of the first eleven chapters of Romans, was emphasized before the speaker passed to the practical part beginning with the twelfth chapter the connecting word, "therefore," giving the reason for "the living sacrifice," of which the apostle writes: "Because of the expiation which God has made, give your whole self to Him and see what a wondrous thing He will make of your life if you do."

Why present your "bodies?", The indispensable instrument for complete consecration to God is the body, through which the daily activities are dedicated to Him, and through which the Spirit of God is given a chance to express Himself. "One is not good in the heart, and bad in the habits." Nothing that impairs the body and detracts from its efficiency is permissible for a Christian, hence the body, the temple of the living God, is to be held "holy," and becomes acceptable in its service to Jehovah.

This consecration is the result of reason, of common-sense, and intelligence. The greatest obstacle to the speedy advancement of the Kingdom to-day lies not in unbelief but in unfaithfulness; not in faulty knowledge, but in faulty execution of His commands. God's glory is always for man's well-being.

The world's need to-day is for "a man with a vision," who sees something that ought to be done, believes that it can be done, and by the Spirit of God is impelled to help until it is done. "Faith is to believe what we do not see, and the reward of such faith is to see what we believe," and the man who "comes up from the crowd" with vision in his soul, bearing the shield of faith, consecrated to do the task that waits to be done in God's name, "may be you." The personal challenge of the text was fittingly illustrated by an impressive quotation from John Walter Foss' poem in the closing appeal of the sermon.

WHEAT POOL RESULTS

Alberta Farmers Received $37,720,766 in Payments.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Farmers of Alberta received $37,720,776 for wheat delivered to the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, during the first pool year ending July 15, according to an official statement issued yesterday. The total distributed in the initial and interim payments was $31,93,7746, while the final payment now being sent out makes up the balance of $5,786,000.

These figures indicate that a large percentage of the wheat delivered to the pool during the first year of its operation was of a very high grade. It has been stated that the pool handled between thirty-four million and thirty-eight million bushels of wheat during the pool year, the exact figures in this connection not being officially announced up to the present time.

PRINCE OF WALES ESTABLISHES NEW BREED OF SHEEP

Continuous Experiments at Home Farm in His Duchy Aid the Cornish Farmers in Securing Better Stock—Prince is Now Seeking to Get Polo Ponies

On his Home Farm at the head of the Tamar Valley in Cornwall, the Prince of Wales has established a new breed of sheep. It is a cross between the Kerry Kill and Dartmoor breeds, and is claimed to be the ideal sheep for this part of the country.

The Prince could give points to many farmers in his knowledge of scientific farming. He realized that his tenants, from one cause or another, were not getting the best out of their farms, and he determined some years ago to take over two or three farms as they fell vacant, work them according to the latest methods, and experiment with cattle and crops until he discovered the very best of everything for the soil, climate, and conditions in Cornwall.

It has been a difficult task for the farmers of Cornwall are a conservative race. But although some still regard with diffidence the modern appliances employed on the Prince's farms, they do appreciate very keenly the results obtained.

Take crops. David Angand, the Prince's manager, makes a point of securing every kind of new seed produced and testing it on the Home Farm. If it is a failure the farmers of Cornwall are told all about it and they have the advantage of profiting by the failure at the Prince's expense. Should the trial prove successful, the same generous information is given.

CATTLE AND PIGS

With regard to cattle, the Prince has established three pedigree herds —two of Shorthorns and one North Devons. Thousands of pounds have been spent on securing the best pedigree stock, the use of which is available to Cornish farmers at a very nominal fee. The Home Farm herds have won more than 200 prizes at cattle shows throughout the country.

Pig breeding in the country has recently received a great impetus by the registration of the Large Lop-ear White, a breed which does remarkably well in Cornwall, but was not "fancied" until a little while ago when the Prince's manager, in conjunction with other experts, secured the opening of a Herd Book.

One thing in which the Prince has so far failed is the improvement of the horses in the county. The internal combustion engine has beaten him. He went to great expense in providing pedigree horses — Clydesdale, Hackney and blood — at the Home Farm, but the motor age, with its tractors and other farm machines, has defeated his purpose. Farmers do not even want hacks; all of them have motor-cars. But this is not allowed to interfere with the work of the Stud Farm at Tor Royal. There the Prince breeds his own hunters, and by crossing Arabs with the Moorland ponies is trying to breed a new polo pony. So far success has not smiled on him.

The Prince is also trying to bring home to farmers the possibilities of scientific poultry keeping. An old monastic building long used for farm purposes at Landulp has been set aside for poultry keeping under the care of an ex-South African officer, Mr. Adrian Duplessis. Here "utility" chickens are bred from prize strains and birds and sittings sold to farmers at reasonable rates.

The public will have an opportunity of seeing some of the Prince's prize stock at the Utility Poultry show at the British Empire Exhibition next month.

SECRET MARRIAGE ROMANCE REVEALED

Reward Offered for Entry of Marriage on Church Register

SOMERSET FAMILY

Adventurous Seymour Married Widow of Seaman—Enoch Arden

For the entry of the marriage of Col. Francis Compton Seymour to Leonora or Eleanora Hudson, which took place between September, 1787, and June, 1795, a reward of £200 is offered by a firm of solicitors, who have sent a circular to that effect to parish clerks and others.

The bride was the widow of a seaman, and the groom one of the Seymours, the family of the Dukes of Somerset.

The colonel was the second son of Dr. Francis Seymour, Dean of Wells, and grandson of Sir Edward Seymour, the baronet who claimed the Dukedom of Somerset on the death of his kinsman, the seventh Duke, and succeeded in establishing his claim.

Leonora Perkins was the daughter of George Perkins, of Woolwich, and in 1768 married John Hudson, a seaman on an East Indiaman. Hudson sailed for Calcuttai n 1785. At Calcutta half the crew deserted, and the ship's register shows that John Hudson died on Sept. 27, 1786, and was buried in Calcutta.

BACK FROM THE GRAVE?

His wife, describing herself as a widow, married on Sept. 3, 1787, Col. Francis Seymour.

The question has arisen whether the body buried in Calcutta was John Hudson's. There is reason to suppose that at an unknown date he returned home, like another Enoch Arden. In 1790 he was returned as paying land tax in respect of No. 13 (formerly No. 9), Paddington-street, Marylebone. Two years later his widow takes his place as a land-tax payer in the name of "Leonora Hudson."

SECOND CERTIFICATE.

It is believed that Co. Francis Seymour and his wife discovered that the sailor from Calcutta had returned, and that when Hudson died they were remarried.

It is this second certificate which is required. The date must be between September, 1787, and June 16, 1795, for on the latter date Leonora Seymour died.

Recently the present Duke of Somerset made application to the House of Lords Committee of Privileges to dispense with certain legal proof of the eighth Duke's descent, and it is probable that this large reward is offered in connection with the inquiries that have been made into that application.

Lady Pirrie to Head Great Firm of Ship Builders

Lady Pirrie, the widow of Lord Pirrie, is to be president of Harland and Wolff, the greatest ship-building firm in the world.

About 20,000 men are employed by Harland and Wolff at Queen's Island, Belfast.

Lord Pirrie, who was chairman of the company, died at sea recently while on his way home from South America.

Lady Pirrie was with him at the time of his death. She had throughout their married life accompanied him wherever he travelled, and he said that he never made an important business decision without consulting her.

The appointment of a chairman for the firm is to be decided in London in a day or two. Lord Aberconway and Lord Kylsant are among those mentioned for the post.

Women are now at the head of many large businesses. Lady Rhondda is chairman of a number of companies. One of the richest women in the world is a Japanese woman who controls shipping and other concerns.

In a motor accident at Torquay, Miss Alice Meredith, 40, of Stoke Newington, was fatally injured.

Bicycle Thief Was Honest With Chain of Policeman's Machine

Two South London detectives who set out to find a bicycle thief were caught in their own trap. One of them removed a nut from the chain in his own bicycle and substituted a small piece of wood.

The machine was wheeled to the spot where thefts had taken place and left against a wall, while detectives kept watch from a distance.

No thief appeared, and after several hours they returned to the bicycle to find it minus the chain. At the police station they learned the chain had been deposited as lost property, and it is thought it dropped off while the officers were wheeling themachine and was picked up by the wanted man.

BOYS ROB DOCTOR'S CELLAR AND DIED

Three Lads Shared Bottle of Narcotic Pills With Fatal Results

Three Salford boys, residing in Regent street, Salford, have died in the Royal Hospital, presumably from narcotic poisoning. Their names are James Chapman (11), William Cullen (8), and Charles Charleston (10).

Inquiries show that one night another boy entered the cellar of a doctor's house in Regent Road, Salford, and brought out a bottle of pills, which he distributed among the three boys, who swallowed some of them. The doctor states that the pills were not part of his stock, but were evidently left behind by his predecessor four years ago. The boys went home apparently in their usual health and said nothing to their parents about the matter. Chapman's mother states that her son had his supper, and was bright and cheerful, but a few hours after she heard groans from his bedroom, and found him in a stupor. The police were called in and the boy removed to the hospital at 1.50 a.m. He died at 10 a.m.

The other two boys were found unconscious by their parents when they were called for breakfast yesterday, and both were conveyed to the hospital a little after nine. Charleston died at 2.15 and Cullen a little after four o'clock. None of the boys regained consciousness.

The pills are described as being the size of peas and were green in color.

SKELETON FOUND ON GALLOWS HILL

Within a few yards of the main Andover road at Winchester, and only two feet below the surface, the complete skeleton of a man has been unearthed.

The skeleton is thought to be very ancient, and probably that of a man who died on the gallows.

It was found on Gallows Hill, where the hangman's tree once stood.

Bridge Chapel is Changed from Jail To Original Purpose

An interesting ceremony was performed in Rotherham, when its historic Chapel on the Bridge, built in the 15th century, and unique in many respects, was re-consecrated by the Bishop of Sheffield.

The only bridge chapel comparable with the Rotherham structure is at Wakefield, but, while the latter has been rebuilt from the level of the bridge during the last century, the fabric of the Rotherham chapel is practically the same as when it was built in 1483.

Since the dissolution of chantries at the period of the Reformation, the Rotherham chapel has passed through varying vicissitudes, having been used as an alms house, a gaol, and more recently as a tobacconist's shop.

The chapel is now to be used for the purposes for which it was originally built. This has been made possible by a bequest of the late Sir Charles Stoddart, of Rotherham.

The Black Museum, at Scotland Yard, is decorated with a frieze of murderers' heads—plaster casts taken from famous criminals after their execution.

"POISON PEN" CASE ENDS IN FINE FOR SOLICITOR'S WIFE

Beautiful Woman, Who Slandered Former Neighbors, Had to Pay

WILD STATEMENTS

Alleged Albion Football Secretary Was Mixed Up With Coiners

The Brighton "poison pen" case, in which the beautiful young wife of a solicitor figured, was ended at the Sussex Assizes in the woman being ordered to pay £250 damages.

Mrs. Marie Lucinda Lee, of Queen-square, Brighton, wife of a solicitor, sued Mr. and Mrs. Albert Underwood for damages for alleged slander, imputing unchastity; whilst in a counterclaim Mrs. Lee was accused of writing a libellous letter to Mr. Underwood's employer and informing the police that Mr. Underwood "is in with all the coiners." The allegations were denied.

Mr. Underwood is an accountant to Mr. Baldwin, a well-known member of the corporation, and secretary of the Brighton and Hove Albion Football Club.

At one time the parties occupied flats in the same tenement.

Police-superintendent Taylor said that in consequence of complaints received from Mrs. Lee observations were kept by him and other officers for about two months. At the end of that time witness was satisfied that the allegations against Mr. and Mrs. Underwood were groundless.

Could Use Tongue.

Mr. Baldwin, chartered accountant, said that Mrs. Lee came to see him. She made a number of extravagant and wild statements against Mr. Underwood. He also received a letter from Mr. Lee stating that the conduct of the Underwoods had been abominable, and adding:—

"No one could be more inoffensive than my darling wife."

Mr. Doughty, addressing the jury on behalf of Mrs. Underwood, said Mrs. Lee was a woman who did not hesitate to give expression to her feelings. She could use her tongue with a very good effect.

With regard to the counter-claim, Mr. Doughty said that Mr. and Mrs. Underwood had been most grossly slandered and libelled in such a way that they were entitled not merely to such damages as might be given in a neighbors' quarrel but substantial damages which would mark a sense of this scurilous campaign of calumny. Odious charges had been made against Mr. Underwood.

LONE LADY BATHER HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Found Unconscious on Shore When Tide Went Out at Spilsby

The woman who was found senseless in a bathing costume at low water mark at a lonely spot on the Lincolnshire coast has been identified as Miriam Shenton, a school teacher, age 21, of Sudbury street, Derby.

She had been in a semi-conscious condition at Spilsby Infirmary since Sunday. This evening, however, she regained fuller consciousness, and in a fragmentary way was able to say who she was and relate the story of her adventure.

She said she travelled from Derby to Mablethorpe on Saturday alone, and arriving about 4 p.m., took a walk along the coast to Huttoft Bank (five miles from Mablethorpe), where she undressed, placed her clothes under a bush, and went into the sea for a bathe.

Whether she was carried out by the tide or fell a victim to sunstroke is not known, as she was unable to give any further particulars, and it is thought will not be able to do so for many days, owing to her obviously weak condition.

She did, however, utter a remark about not being able to get back when she entered the water.

With her clothes was left a brown bag containing a watch and some money.

QUEBEC DOCUMENTS REALISE $7,500

In the sale of a number of documents forming part of the Townsend heirloom at Sotheby's a collection of papers relating to the Quebec campaign of 1759 realized $7,500.

A feature of the collection was a letter by Wolfe to General Monckton.

A copy of the first edition of Burns' poems (the "Kilmarnock") realized the somewhat modest price of £2,500. A first edition of "Alice in Wonderland," 1866, was sold for $500.

PARALYSED GIRL CURED AT LOURDES

Went on Stretcher After Two Years Illness—Walks Now

Mary Murphy, a single woman, aged thirty-five, of Fountains-road, Liverpool, went to Lourdes on a stretcher, after lying paralysed in the lower limbs for two years.

She is reported to be returning, able to walk with ease.

A remarkable feature of the cure is that the little godchild and niece of Miss Murphy woke from sleep saying she had seen a vision of the Virgin.

The child explained to her mother that she had seen in a flood of light on the wall the Virgin Mary, who told her that her aunt was cured.

PREMIER GREETS HONEYMOON COUPLE

An interesting incident occurred in the Lobby of the House of Commons recently. The Prime Minister came from his room to meet a honeymoon couple from a small mining town in South Wales—Blaengwynfi. He shook hands with the happy pair and congratulated them and afterwards secured tickets for their admission to the House.

BRITISH K.K.K. IS DIFFERENT FROM AMERICAN BODY AND PERFORMS QUAINT RITES

Strange Ceremony at Spot Where Skull of "First Man" Was Discovered—Smoke and Fire Used to Purify Ground

The strange ceremony by the "Kibbo Kift Kindred" of placing a token at Piltdown, Sussex, on the spot where the famous skull of the "first man" was unearthed in 1912, was performed on a recent Sunday afternoon.

The token is of wood, in the form of a letter "K." On the upright of the letter are the words, "Henceforth let none pass by without remembrance." The token will be revisited every year.

The ceremony was performed with weird rites by the Kindred, who filed in procession to the spot, clad in robes of brown and blue homespun and hoods, and with bare legs and feet. They bore aloft a plaster model of the skull.

A fire was kindled by friction, and the Kindred gathered round in a circle. The spot was "purged with the smoke of fire to make it sacred for all time." The token was then held over the smoke "to purify it."

Cake was then cut on a pewter platter and eaten, and the crumbs were cast into the fire. The Kindred filed round, and each laid a stone at the foot of the token, after which the procession reformed and returned to camp.

ADMIRALTY WIN CLAIM IN COURT AGAINST BROCK

Successive Profits from Manufacture of Deck Flares

TEN PER CENT

Judge Fixes Fair Profit—Second Case Similar Judgment

An order for the repayment of £100,000 to the Admiralty was made against Messrs. C. T. Brock and Co., Ltd., in the King's Bench Division.

Proceedings had been brought on the ground that Messrs. Brock had made excessive profits from the manufacture of deck flares for use against submarines during the war.

Each flare, said the Attorney-General (Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C.), was provisionally priced at £8 13s. 9d. The cost price had been worked out at £6 7s. 2d. and £7 3s. 5d. for two classes of flares.

10 PER CENT. ALLOWANCE.

The Admiralty were willing to allow the very generous profit of 10 per cent. over and above cost, but on this basis some £100,000 had been overpaid, and the Admiralty now claimed the return of that amount.

He added that 10 per cent. was the highest profit that had been allowed on such contracts.

E. C. Jubb, assistant director in the Contracts Department of the Admiralty, said allowance had been made for the fact that Messrs. Brock's had to increase their works to carry out these contracts.

Giving evidence, Arthur Brock, governing director of the company, said 20 per cent. was his ordinary business profit. The flares were the invention of his son, Commander Brock.

Mr. Justice Branson held that 10 per cent. was a fair profit, and gave judgment for the Admiralty for the return of £100,158, with costs, against Messrs. Brock.

In a second similar action he gave judgment for the Crown for £22,000.

CROCODILE SNOUT SCARES SAILOR

There was some exciting moments during the voyage of the liner Sultan, with a cargo of animals for the Zoo from the West Coast of Africa.

One of the cranes resented the curiosity of a sailor and pecked his eye out. Another day one of the crew was alarmed to find a large alligator had pushed its cage-door open and had got its huge snout out.

It withdrew when someone hit it a blow on the nose.

Train Driver Lost An Eye Through Boys Throwing Stones

Three boys were ordered a birching by the Rushall magistrates for throwing stones at a train.

Driver Baker, it was stated, lost an eye and the sight of the other was impaired as the result of the boys splintering the weather glass of the engine.

Baker said he drove several miles to Birmingham with his eye injured.

PEARL STOLEN AT WEMBLEY

Daring Theft in Broad Daylight at Australian Pavilion

A daring theft from the Australian Pavilion of the Wembley Exhibition was committed in broad daylight. A well-dressed man removed from its case a pearl worth £1,200, and walked off with it in front of a crowd of visitors.

Many persons saw him take the gem, but imagined that he was an official or an attendant at the stall.

The pearl is the property of Mr. T. C. Wollaston, of Adelaide, who has £20,000 worth of jewellery in the mining section of the pavilion.

Miss Lynette Wollaston was in charge of the exhibits at the time of the theft, but her attention was attracted to the other end of the stall by two men, who were apparently interested in some opal rings.

While Miss Wollaston was showing them some jewellry, a man stretched his arm over a show case, opened a panel, and extracted the pearl from among many others less valuable.

Three women who saw the robbery could describe the thief, but unfortunately Miss Wollaston was so surprised by what had occurred that she omitted to take their names and addresses. A reward, however, is offered to the women if they will come forward and assist in identifying the man.

The "Southern Cross" pearl, said to be worth £10,000, is in a case only a few yards away from that which contained the stolen pearl.

FRUITERER GETS NICE WINDFALL

William James Morgan, who keeps a fruit shop in Snow hill, Birmingham, has inherited $80,000, one-fifth of the estate of an uncle who died intestate in Australia last year and left $410,000.

His uncle was John Cleo, of Bellarine, Hereford, who went to Australia in 1884. He was groom to the Ibbotson family at Bellarine, and eloped with the only daughter of his employers.

TREASURE HUNT IN LONDON DIVERSION OF SOCIETY FOLK

New Organization of Bright Young People in New Frolic

FINE INFLICTED

Thrills of Detective Mystery Story Embodied in Chase

The Hon. Lois Sturt, of Portman Square, sister of Lord Allington, who took part in one of the society "hidden treasure hunts" through London, was fined £3 at Marylebone Police Court for driving at a dangerous speed, and £3 for not stopping at the request of a policeman.

Her licence was endorsed and suspended for three months, and she was ordered to pay £3 3s. costs.

"It is a most outrageous performance," said Mr. Hay Halkett, the magistrate, "and if people play games of this sort in the streets of London we must not be surprised if they are not safe."

THRILLS.

The society treasure hunts, which have taken place in London during the past few months, have been devised to embody the thrills of a detective mystery story. The last hunt of the season was held early on Thursday. It began in Belgrave Square about 2 a.m., and the "hunters" followed up the "clues" in motor cars.

The Hon Lois Sturt is one of the most versatile young women in society. She has acted for the films, is an accomplished artist, and took part in "Arlequin" at the Empire.

Miss Sturt was said to have exceeded the speed limit in the Outer Circle of Regent's Park on May 31. She gained third prize in the game.

Mr. Muskett, who appeared for the Commissioner of Police, said that the game was organized by a society known as the Society of Bright Young People.

"I hope," he added, "that it will soon cease, otherwise inoffensive users of the streets will have another terror to face.

POLICE CONTROL.

"In passing through the Outer Circle, while engaged in the chase, the Hon. Lois Sturt passed through a police control at a speed of fifty-one miles an hour, and in order to pass three other cars she went on the offside of the road.

"Police Constable Fisher, at the end of the control, signalled to her to stop, but after slackening slightly she went on. She was traced to the Zoological Gardens, which was one of the points of vantage.

"When she was told that she would be summoned she said, 'It is ridiculous; I did not know there were any speed limits.'"

Miss Sturt, in evidence, stated that she was going at a speed of between forty and forty-three miles an hour.

"When I saw the officer signal I began to pull up," she added, "but I was told by my friend, Irene Brown, of Bentinck street, that the constable did not want us to stop. I therefore went on."

SHIP HEELED OVER WHILE COALING

Startling Occurrence Might Have Become Tragedy at Immingham

Twenty-eight people struggled for life in the King's Dock, Immingham, when the Dutch steamship Friesland, which was shipping coal, heeled over as the contents of a 10-ton truck of coal were being passed into her.

Among the 28 people on board was the captain's wife. As the ship went over members of the crew scrambled from below by the companion way, and had to swim for their lives.

Dock officials, seeing what had happened, threw life-belts and life-lines, while other steamships launched their boats. The captain and his wife were rescued with life-lines, and other members of the crew were picked up by the small boats or hauled to the quay with ropes.

All the people in the ship were rescued and only two of the men were hurt.

One of the seamen said he was down in the foc'sle "when suddenly the ship seemed to roll and I was thrown off my feet and found that what had been the floor was above me.

"At the same moment water began to trickle in and then to rush in a big stream down upon me. When I got to the surface the ship had gone over on her beam ends and apparently was resting on her side on the dock bottom."

REMARKABLE SCENE AT MURDER TRIAL

Father of Dead Child Points Finger at Accused

A remarkable scene marked the trial of John Horner, aged twenty-three, at Manchester Assizes when he was found guilty of murdering a five-year-old boy.

While evidence was being given of the terrible injuries he inflicted on the boy, Harold Pinchen, the dead child's father, slowly rose from his seat and as if impelled by some unseen force walked straight towards the dock with his finger pointing straight at Horner.

Police tried to pacify him, and for a moment he sat down but he again leaped up, shook off all restraint and dashed out of court.

It will be recalled that Horner took the child to a canal and threw him into the water. He watched the boy disappear, and then walked away.

While playing cricket Constable Stephen Carter, Metropolitan Police, was struck in the chest with the ball, which so injured the heart muscles that he died.

Quaint Argument On Money Value Fails To Reduce Sentence

John James Collens, who at the Warwickshire Assizes was sentenced to 18 months' hard labour for forging a Post Office Savings Bank Book, applied for leave to appeal.

The Lord Chief Justice said Collens, in his notice of appeal, seemed to deal with a curious rule of three and the law of averages. His statement was that in 1913 he got three years for forgery, the amount he secured being £27 16s., which nowadays was worth about £60. In 1915 he got six months for another forgery the sum involved being 30s., the present value of which was £3 10s. In 1922 he got eleven months for £1, the present value of which, he said, was 8s. 6d.

Now he was to serve 18 months for a forgery out of which he got 10s., which really was worth 4s. 7d. In the circumstances, he argued that his sentence should be reduced. (Laughter.)

The application was refused.

JEW PROPOSED TO SICK LADY IN BED

Extraordinary Action of Alien, Who Pretended He Was Doctor

UTTER STRANGER

Persuaded Hotel Proprietor to Let Him Enter Sick Room

A story of a man's proposal to an elderly woman lying on a bed of sickness whom he had never seen before was related to the Hastings Bench on Thursday, when Maurice Martin, a Russian Jew, was charged on remand with making a false entry in a hotel register.

The Chief Constable said the prisoner called at a first-class hotel in the town and said he wished to see the woman. She was in bed at the time, and replied that she could not grant his request. The man was insistent, however, and was shown to the woman's bedroom.

He told her he was Dr. Morey, and that he was very interested in her case and asked if he might examine her. She replied that she had her own medical man, who knew her case thoroughly.

After further conversation the prisoner suddenly knelt and proposed marriage to her. She indignantly refused, and had the police informed.

Evidence was given of previous convictions at Nottingham, Essex Sessions, Bristol, and Liverpool, and the prisoner, who pleaded guilty to contravening the Aliens Order, stated that he had invented an appliance for aeroplanes during the war, but that it was not accepted.

When he was sentenced to two months' imprisonment he exclaimed fervently, "Thank you, very much."

HOMICIDAL MANIAC ESCAPES ASYLUM

Puts Up Terrific Struggle Before Being Recaptured

There was great excitement in the Woking and Horsell districts when it became known that a homicidal maniac had escaped from Brookwood Asylum.

Immediately the escape of the man John Durnley, who is powerfully built and about 50 years of age, became known, a search was made by the asylum attendants and police, assisted by civilians.

He was traced to an hotel at Old Wokings where he became very violent, threatening the landlord, who called in the assistance of a number of haymakers.

After a terrific struggle, in which one man had his thumb bitten and two others were injured by kicks, Durnley was overpowered, and taken to the police station.

Here another fierce struggle ensued. Despite the fact that the man was handcuffed, two constables complained of injuries. Durnley was eventually removed to Brookwood Asylum about midnight.

KEEPS LONELY VIGIL FOR MISSING SON

Night and Day Since War Ended Mother Watches for Return

An old woman sits all day outside her cottage on the road from Narbeth to Haverfordwest, Carmarthenshire, waiting for a son who will never come back from the war.

She keeps her lonely vigil there in all weathers, and at night, when she is carried into the house, the door is left open and the windows are lit by candles so that the boy, who will never come back, may be welcomed on his way home.

The old woman has never received any official intimation of her son's death, and will not believe that he is dead.

Until recently she could be seen walking up and down the road waiting for him. But finally her health gave way and she was sent to a nursing home. Now she has returned again and has once more started her long watch.

WIFE'S VALUATION; OPINION OF JUDGE

During a divorce case at Manchester Assizes, Mr. Justice Roche advised the jury to award no damages rather than a trifling sum.

It was repugnant and almost a degradation, he said, to hear in one case of a wife being valued at £5 and in another of a limb being worth £500.

In 99 cases but of 100, when persons had lost their partners, although the loss might hurt their feelings, they did not try to get their loss assessed in money. An injured husband often preferred not to ask for damages rather than run the risk of a jury saying that his wife was worthless and his loss negligible.

The jury awarded the petitioner £50 damages for the loss of his wife.

NEW SPANISH LAW DEALS BLOW TO BRITISH INVESTOR

Railway Bill of Dictator is Described as Disaster

MUST AGREE

Alternative is Forfeiture—Government Gets Properties Very Cheaply

British investors in Spanish railway stock stand to lose large sums owing to the Spanish Government's new railway Bill, by which the railways are to be valued for nationalisation purposes on their net profits for the last fifteen years capitalised at 4½ per cent.

Five of the Spanish railways are entirely British owned, and their capital represents approximately $50,000,000.

"It is a disaster for the British investor," said Mr. R. Addie, who represents these five railways, to a press representative.

COMPANIES OUTVOTED.

"General Primo de Rivera, the Dictator, formed what is called the Superior Railways Council, on which the companies had only six representatives among the seventeen members, and were naturally outvoted on every occasion.

"The council has evolved a railway Bill, the effect of which will be to compel all the railways to agree to its terms, or forfeit all the financial benefits which they have hitherto enjoyed from the Government.

"As the last fifteen years included the war years and the period following, when wages and all railway materials stood at abnormal rates, it can be easily understood that the Spanish Government would receive these valuable properties for practically nothing.

"The five companies have made repeated applications to the British Foreign Office for assistance in obtaining a modification of these disastrous terms, but so far the Foreign Office has been able to do nothing."

"Pretty Boy" Got Into Girls' Home of Help, But Was Unfrocked

A 17-years-old Northampton youth named Aubrey John Bradley Morris, who for several weeks had masqueraded as a girl, has been sent home by the Burnley police.

An attractive and well-dressed "girl" was on Saturday night admitted to the Burnley House of Help for Girls after telling a story of being stranded and penniless. On Sunday the matron's suspicions were aroused. On being questioned, the stranger admitted his sex and the matron pulled off his wig and informed the police.

At the police station Morris said he left Northampton six weeks ago for London, where he bought girl's clothing and started for Manchester, getting lifts from passing motorists. From Manchester he went to Liverpool and worked for a fortnight in the kitchen of a restaurant. After visiting Blackpool he went to Burnley.

The police yesterday sent him home in a new suit.

CONVICTS GIVEN HOLIDAYS NOW

Three Weeks at Parkhurst for "Star Men" from Maidstone

More than 30 "star men," or good-conduct convicts, from Maidstone Prison have arrived at the "prison hotel" of English convict establishments, as the Camp Hill prison on the Isle of Wight is familiarly called.

This is stated to be the first trial of a new development in the humanizing of the penal system.

Living in what are more like cottages than prison cells, the selected men will work in the forest of Parkhurst, where each man is allowed to cultivate his own garden one day a week.

The convicts wear sailor caps, navy-blue jackets, with red arm stripes for good conduct, and breeches different from the ordinary prison clothing. They take their meals together and meet each evening in a smoking room, where newspapers, books, tobacco, and cigarettes are allowed.

They can expend their earnings (awarded for good conduct) on luxuries purchasable at a canteen—a "dry" one, however.

The "holiday" will last about three weeks.

OWNERS OF LONDON'S REAL PROPERTY

The revelation made at a conference of municipalities that the County Council are the largest landlords in London, with 117,000 tenants, a rent roll of £700,000, and a capital expenditure of £12,000,000, draws attention to the other great landowners in the metropolis.

The 116,000 square miles of the administrative area of the county are divided among 38,200 owners. Lord Northbrook (Eltham) and Dulwich College hold more than two square miles each.

The following four own more than one and a half square miles: Lord Forster (Lewisham), Mr. H. T. B. Barron (Plumstead), Lord St. Germans (Blackheath), and Sir Spencer Maryon Wilson (Hampstead and Charlton). The Duke of Westminster is the owner of three-quarters of a square mile.

The Earl of Dartmouth receives rents for more than half a square mile of property in St. Pancras and Lewisham; Magdalen College, Oxford, owns half a square mile in Wandsworth, and the Prudential Assurance and the Mercers' Companies own about the same area throughout London.

AGGRESSIVE BARBER.

Daniel Luff, a hairdresser, of Tadema road, Chelsea, who stopped shaving a customer to point a loaded revolver at three men who called to collect £100 he owed one of them over a bet, was bound over for 12 months at Westminster Police Court.

C. G. E. WIN GROUP - PETES BEAT OSHAWA TWICE - TRUNKS 11, PONIES 4

TWO VICTORIES FROM OSHAWA IN WEEK-END GAMES

Petes Grab Saturday and Monday Fixtures From Automotive Crew.

EIGHT IN ROW

Harrison on the Rubber in Civic Holiday Win for the Solomon Gang.

Winning their eighth game in succession the Petes finished their series with Oshawa by beating the motor town crew at Riverside Park before a large holiday crowd yesterday, 7 to 4, with Hap Harrison doing the heaving against Duke Dainty. As the Petes also won in Oshawa Saturday they finish up the season with Chick Schultz's boys with a record of five wins and three losses.

Yesterday's game was listless throughout. Oshawa were shy several of their regulars whose services were missed while the lethargy of the visitors seem to have communicated itself to the Petes whose play lacked the usual snap.

However, the homesters won handily and Hap Harrison turned the trick and gave Heckman a needed rest for the big week-end game with Belleville.

The big fellow was hit rather freely at the go-in and his support was none too steady but he held Oshawa in the last three innings and going stronger as he went along.

Dainty was on the rubber for the Automotive crew and his lame ankle was a noticeable handicap to him. The Duke blanked the home brigade in all but two innings but they bunched hits with errors in those two frames to get enough runs to win the argument.

The fielding features were interjected by the two centre fielders Hall for Peterboro and Fair for Oshawa each of whom tore off a beautiful running catch. Morrison the Oshawa short stop handled nine chances brilliantly.

The Run-Getting.

Oshawa started the scoring in the first. Roddick singled to right, went to second on Fair's sacrifice and after Tyson had fanned scored on Dainty's single to left. Wilson singled to right but Morrison rolled to Collins, retiring the side.

The Petes took the lead in the third. Shaughnessy scratched a single on a bad hopper to Ward and Holyman doubled to left. Legon bunted safely scoring Shaughnessy. On a double steal Holyman scored and Legon reached second. Swanston singled to left and Legon was nipped at the plate. Harrison tripled to the score board sending Swanston in. Heckman fanned. Johnston hit to Dainty who fumbled but threw to first in time to get Johnston, only to have Wilson drop the toss. Harrison scored on the error. Collins struck out.

The visitors closed the gap slightly in the fourth. Wilson walked but was forced on Morrison's tap to Harrison. Ward rolled to Johnston, Morrison going to second. Palmer singled past third and Morrison registered, Legon throwing over Swanston's head. Broad rolled to Harrison.

Oshawa tied the score in their half of the sixth. Wilson got a life on Holyman's fumble and was sacrificed to second by Morrison. Ward singled to right. Palmer rolled a single through short scoring Wilson and sending Ward to third. On an attempted double steal Ward scored while Palmer was thrown out at second. Broad singled between short and third but Roddick fanned.

The Petes regained the lead in their half. Johnston walked and Collins sacrificed him to second. Hall flied to centre Fair making a fine catch. Johston stole third, taking a passed ball to go down on. Shaughnessy walked and stole second. Holyman singled between short and third, scoring Johnston. On a double steal Holyman reached second and Shaughnessy scored when Palmer threw over Tyson's head. Legon singled to right scoring Holyman. Legon died stealing.

There was no further scoring. Oshawa had a good chance in the seventh when they filled the bases on two singles and an error but Ward fanned.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

The Petes hung up their seventh straight win in Oshawa on Saturday when they outscored the Dainty-Tyson combination 4 runs to 1 in the fastest played and best fielded games of the season. The nine innings were completed in one hour and twenty minutes, both teams played errorless ball and there were half a dozen sparkling defensive plays that gave the big crowd a chance to applaud.

Heckman and Dainty were the opposing pitchers and both were very steady neither issuing a complimentary. Heckman, however, kept the seven Oshawa hits well scattered while the Petes bunched their blows in four different frames to send counters in.

The prize fielding stunt was performed by Roddick, the Oshawa left fielder in the second when he came in on the run and speared Turner's drive an inch from the ground with his gloved hand. That was sheer robbery and Ward's two running catches cutting Holyman and Harrison out of hits were of the same type. Rowden's play on Hall's near hit in the ninth was brilliant and Morrison made a beautiful throw from deep short to nip Harrison in the fifth. For the Petes Harrison had the feature play when he leaped high in the air and grabbed W. Fair's line drive over first with one hand. Holyman had a one-handed catch of a drive from Rowden in the ninth and in the third he knocked down a liner from the same player and converted it into a fast double play with the assistance of Johnston and Harrison.

No game of the season has had so many circus stunts.

With Holyman out of the way in the first Legon ripped a double past third and scored on Swanston's single over second, the batter being nipped at second trying to advance on the throw-in. Harrison fanned to retire the side.

In the second Heckman bounced a hit off Wilson, was sacrificed to second by Johnston and scored on Collins' scorching double past second. Collins went to third on Hall's roller to Rowden and was left there when Roddick made his sensational catch of Turner's rap to left.

Heckman started it again in the fourth by singling to centre. Johnston again supplied the sacrifice and Collins' infield out put the Petes' pitcher on third. Hall ripped a single on the ground into right to score the run after which Turner fanned.

The Petes last run was scored in the eighth. Holyman led off with a single to right, Rowden nearly robbing him by a circus leap. Legon sacrificed him to second and he scored on Swanston's single to centre, the catcher's third hit. Harrison singled to right sending Swanston to third but was nipped trying to make second on the throw to third and Heckmans' fly to left ended the frame.

Oshawa did not get a man to second base until the ninth. Wilson hit with two out and was forced on R. Fair's roller to Holyman.

Ward started the third with a single but Morrison fanned and Ward was doubled up with Rowden on the latter's liner to Holyman.

Dainty singled to start the fifth but W. Fair who ran for him died stealing second. Then Wilson singled only to be forced by R. Fair and Ward popped out.

Tyson singled with one out in the seventh but was forced out Johnston to Holyman, on Dainty's roller and Wilson fanned.

With one down in the ninth W. Fair singled and stole second. Roddick fanned but Tyson blazed a single between short and third scoring Fair. Dainty's high foul to Swanston wound up the game.

EASY FOR MISS WILLS

Quebec Woman Drawn Against Olympic Titleholder at Forest Hills.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 11. The largest gallery attending the national women's singles championship at the West Side Tennis Club to-day was drawn to the match in which Miss Helen Wills, national champion defeated Mrs. L. C. Beaupre of Quebec, 6-0, 6-0, in the first round of the tournament. Miss Wills outplayed the Canadian girl from the start to finish, the champion's placements frequently catching Mrs Beaupre off her guard. In the second set, however, Mrs. Beaupre her chances better and forced Miss Wills to two deuce games. It was Mrs. Beaupre's misfortune to draw the Olympic title-holder, fresh from her victories in France, in the first round.

Mrs. Molla Bjursted Mallory, advanced to the third round of the tournament.

WESTERN CHAMPION

Edith Cummings Defeated Last Year's Titleholder.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Edith Cummings, of Chicago, today won the women's western golf championship by defeating Miriam Burns, of Kansas City, last year's title-holder, 12 up and 10 to play.

After a night of suffering from ptomaine poisoning Miss Burns was wholly unequal to the task of competing with the golf played by Miss Cummings, who shot six under par for the morning round and was four under perfect figures for the eight holes played in the afternoon.

ELECTRICS WIN MIDLAND GROUP IN TEN INNINGS

Tied Score in Ninth at Cobourg With Rally for Three Runs.

C. N. R. ELIMINATED

Frost Held Railroad Team Save and Hit in Deciding Run.

"Bun" Frost was the hero of Saturday's Midland League play off in Cobourg when he took over the pitching burden from Jeff Hardill in the seventh and held the Lakeshore crew to four hits and also clouted a lusty single over second to score MacPherson with the winning run.

With the score 6-3 in favor of the Railroaders at the end of the eighth it looked as if a third game would be necessary to decide the championship but singles by Frost, Turner and Hardill, Wolfe's long sacrifice fly and another single from McCarney's bat sent over the much needed trio of counters.

In the overtime MacPherson reached second when Maher threw over Markey's head and Frost drilled one past Skitch to send in the last run of the game.

The Railroaders started the tenth with two singles but masterly pitching and good fielding kept them from scoring.

Hardill was Manager Primeau's pitching selection but he lacked his usual speed and control and but for stellar fielding by the team behind him the game would have been lost beyond recovery.

Punch Derry on the hill for Cobourg kept the Electricians hits well scattered except in the second and ninth innings when he allowed four hits and three runs in each.

SATURDAY GAME MOST IMPORTANT OF THE SEASON

Petes Can Win Second Half by Beating Belleville Here.

A LOSS MEANS TIE

That is Provided Kingston Does Not Spring Surprise Tomorrow.

Unless Kingston pulls the unexpected and registers a win over Belleville in the Quinte City tomorrow, the championship of the second half will hinge upon the result of the game here Saturday when Belleville and the Petes will meet in their postponed game.

The Trunks won in Kingston yesterday and if they can repeat the trick tomorrow they will be a game behind the Petes, making it necessary for them to win Saturday's game at Riverside to tie up the race. On the other hand a Peterboro victory will settle the argument.

Saturday's game therefore looms most exciting of the season and should attract a record crowd. Belleville will send up a flock of rooters and every point in the district will be represented for this vital battle between the two old rivals.

The League standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Peterboro	9	2	.818
Belleville	7	3	.700
Oshawa	4	8	.333
Kingston	2	9	.182

Games this week:

Wednesday—Kingston at Belleville.

Saturday—Belleville at Peterboro.

TORONTO CREW GET TROUNCED BY LAKEVIEWS

St. Christophers Were Walloped to Tune of 8 to 0 In Saturday's Game.

A GREAT GAME.

Frank Whitehouse Was Robbed of a No Run Hit Game By Lone Hit.

A scratchy hit between first and second base in the second inning of Saturday's Junior fixture between the Lakeviews, Junior City League champions, and the St. Christopher Junior team of Toronto, robbed Frank Whitehouse of a no-run, no-hit game.

The lone hit which spoiled a perfect day for the local twirler would have been an easy out had it been a little to the left or right. Whitehouse was going great guns, and working them in at a mile a minute while his team-mates behind him were never in better form, and they also turned in a perfect day. Several clouts that looked like hits were reaped in by the fielders, who were right on their toes.

The St. Christopher gang were full of high hopes at the first of the game, but when the Lakeviews collected two in the second it took some of the pep out of the visitors. They stuck to their guns in good style until the eigth inning, when, with the bases loaded, Red Whitlow drives the old pill for three bases. A few minutes later he scored on a passed ball, bringing the score up to 8, while the Toronto crew's run column was empty.

St. Christophers came back in the ninth with fire in their eyes, and expecting to slaughter everything in front of them, but they went out as easy as in any other frame and had to take the beating.

Some of the snappiest plays seen this season were pulled off in this fixture. Cameron at short picked up a red hot grounder and pegged it over to first in great style, while McIntyre in right field tears back, sticks out one hand, and hauls in a nice fly that would have gone for three bases had it got away from him. Lambert Collins, local catcher for the Lakeviews, hurt his hand in the fifth inning and had to be taken out of the fray. Harry Halliday, second string catcher for the Lakeviews, was rushed in, and he turned in a great game. He held Whitehouse up in great style, and also came through with a double and a single in two trips to the plate. Hastings at third base and Kelly in left field were the best for the loosers, while Patterson on the mound for the Toronto gang turned in a very good game, but he was not as lucky as Whitehouse. He was felt for nine hits and eight runs while his team-mates had several costly errors.

CAN. WOOLLENS WHACKED VETS 2 GOALS TO NIL

After Three Minutes' Play Mitchell Scored a Beautiful Goal.

VETS HAD OFF DAY

Gaskill Made Sure Of Two Points in the Second Half.

The Canadian Woollens got two valuable points off the G.W.V.A. on Saturday afternoon in the league game at the Oval before a large crowd of spectators who were well pleased with the class of soccer put up. The wooley boys were right in their game while the Vets had an off day, of course, they have lost three points to the Woollens in the last two games.

First Half.

The choice of winning the toss favoured the Woollens who kicked into the east goal in the first half. Players were absent which compelled the Woollens to put Jackson in goal and Hillman at right-half, while Art Read put in one of his best games he has ever played at outside right. From the outset the Vets indulged in their favorite style—the long swinging pass—which just suited their opponents. Monks and Clark combination was giving Blowers a little trouble but he always seemed to gain control when they looked dangerous. Monkman at centre-half gained possession in mid-field, beat Mann, then Underwood and shot the ball forward to Warde who baffled the Vets defense pair completely, slipped it forward to Mitchell. The defense tried hard to prevent a score as the Woollens centre man run ahead to convert with the most beautiful goal this season.

Play was of a ding-dong character, thereafter, with each team doing their utmost to get within shooting of the goalies but the half-backs were very nippy. During this period the Vets defense man was cautioned for infringements of the game by the referee. A few minutes later, Mitchell all on his own went right through to finish very poorly when a goal seemed positive. Half-time arrived with Dyer and Griffin leading an unsuccessful raid. Woollens 1, Vets 0.

Half-Time.

After a much needed rest, the Petes added pressure upon Cridland and Chambers, on resuming, but they were invincible when any raid was made upon Jackson's citidal. Long swinging passes from one wing to another by Hanson and Clark made the play fast in Woollens' area. When Dyer or Griffin did gain the advantage shots would be minus a few feet of the necessary place, the goal, although Frick was always keeping his alert eye on the ball to see it go past. At last Read sent a stinging ground shot at Frick who made a smart clearance. Hillman stopped the ball on the drop, let drive with his right foot into Vets penalty area where Crowe kicked the air blindly and Gaskill worrying him at the same time made no mistake as he beat Frick with a rising shot that went in between his arms for the second goal. There is no doubt that the Vets were having one of their "off days" and Saturday was one of them because they were very easily flustered when hard pressed also kicking to touch to save the downfall of their citidal, which was never out of danger while Hodgson and Read were centering on the run. A break-away by Dyer, Griffine and Monks had the Woollens hemmed into goal. Ward dropped down to help out which he done well when he tapped the ball of Dyer's foot to Blowers who dribbled clear to send the left wing man up to the other end where Mann brought relief. The ball travelled from end to end without anything of interest taking place. Full-time — Canadian Woollens 2, G.W.V.A. 0.

Goal scorers—Mitchell and Gaskill.

G.W.V.A.— Frick, goal; Crowe and Wasson, backs; Underwood, Mann and Bestard, half-backs; Clark, Monks, Griffin, Dyer and Hanson, forwards.

TIE GAME WITH TOWNSHIP TEAM

Dummer Held Greybirds to Draw on Saturday at King Edward Park.

CLEAN AND FAST

The Grey birds entertained North Dummer at King Edward Park on Saturday. Owing to holidays, the Greybirds could only field three of their regular team but some good substitutes were found and they gave a good account of themselves. After a keen and pleasantly contested game they divided the points—one goal each.

The Grey birds won the toss and with the sun and wind in their favour at once forced the game. Jenkin's missed by inches from the goal kick. Darling went away at a great pace and test well into goal. Fenner brought of a great save. Hotson and Clarke were just at this period having their work cut out to keep the Township men at bay. Williams kept sending his forwards along amid-field to the foot of young Parkins to open the scoring, placing the ball well out of the reach of Bryan. Half time arrived with the score standing 1 to none, in favour of the Greybirds.

Second Half.

Upon resuming, the Township men took up the running and their left wing, Darling and Munro were very prominent by some nice runs but they found in young Nicholls a newcomer, a regular tartar, he kept a watchful eye on Darling all through the game. Laidlaw made a great run and sent in a terrific shot which Bryan put out side. The Township men were urged by their supporters to play up and they responded Rufus Payne made a dashing run and sent to Munro and he found the net with one of his torpedoes. The game now became very fast and both goals had some narrow escapes. Each team was doing its level best to gain the lead. Time was called with the game ending in a draw of one goal each.

The Teams:

Greybirds: Fenner, Clarke, Hotson, Livsey, Williams, Nicholls, Jenkins, McClennan, N. Vinet, Laidlaw, Parkins.

North Dummer: Bryan, Batten, A. Jory, Taylor, H. Jory, G. Little, R. Payne, W. Bell, Batten, H. Munro, D. Darling.

Referee: Bruce Bradley.

WARSAW BOYS WIN JUVENILE SOCCER

Defeated South End United at King Edward Park 3-1.

Warsaw and the South End United met in this competition on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon and a splendid game was witnessed. The Warsaw boys in the uniform of the North Dummers won by 3 goals to one. United wore the outfit of the Grey Birds.

Playing with the sun in their favor, Warsaw was soon testing Hutchison. Livsey and Parkins had a very anxious time. The Brothers Thompson were a source of trouble and from one of Ellis Thompson's centres Garbutt opened the scoring. The forwards of the United were playing a pretty game, the Scotch left wing, Anderson and Mitchell were in the limelight, by some nice short passing. From one of Mitchell's centres, Downer nearly equalized. Walters came again but Batten made a great save. Payne dashed away up the left and evading opposition beat Hutchinson with a splendid shot. Half time arrived with Warsaw leading by 2 goals to none.

After the usual refresher, Livsey went forward to force matters but this did not have the desired effect, the Warsaw defence was very safe and by some nice half back play Thompson again beat Hutchinson. The United were now on their metal and to the call of time had much the best of the argument. The defense of Warsaw held out and the game ended in their favour by 3 goals to none.

The Teams:

Warsaw: Batten, J. Payne, Moore Humble, Hamilton, Harrison, Thompson, E. Thompson, Garbutt, Payne, Little.

South End United: Hutchison, Livsey, S. Parkins, R. Ellis, A. Downer, Moore, Watkins, Courcey, Campbell, Anderson, Mitchell.

Referee: A. Halliday.

RING FIGHTERS SHORT OF MONEY

Promotor Unable To Meet Expenses of Match Through Lack Attendance.

LONDON, August 12 (United Press). — Local proceedings against Major Arnold Wilson to recover $25,000 have been started by Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, who met Jack Bloomfield in a contest promoted by Wilson last Saturday.

Gibbons was promised $50,000 as his purse ,and was able to get only $15,000 before he entered the ring.

He denied that he had threatened not to enter the ring before he was paid a part of the purse.

Sixty thousand spectators saw Gibbons knock out Bloomfield, but most of them occupied the cheapest $1.25 seats, and the receipts were nothing to what was expected.

Bloomfield was paid only $15,000 of the promise of $30,000, and several of the preliminary boxers did not get a cent.

Interested parties could not find Wilson to-day.

It was reported that he was on his way to Liverpool.

At his office a signed statement was found saying he alone was responsible financially for the fight, and that his associates were not liable.

It was reported to-day that Wilson had started bankruptcy proceedings, and this is so the others may not get a cent more.

DE LAVAL CRICKET CLUB VICTORIOUS

Defeated The Peterborough Cricket Club By Score Of 49 To 32.

An enjoyable game was played at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday morning between the De Laval C.C. and the Peterboro C.C. A low-scoring game ended in a win for the former club by 17 runs. De Laval batted first, but soon lost their first 2 men for 2 runs, Malsh and Bishop both being out to good catches. Mann followed in, but was stumped out off the first ball he received from Thorpe. With R. Dyer and Dr. Hewitt together, runs came quickly, until the first named was bowled by Langley. F. Dyer was the next batsman, and he soon got busy, scoring 12 runs before being bowled, Langley again being the bowler. The remaining batsmen were soon out, the score finally reaching 49. Thanks to Dr. Hewitt, R. Dyer and F. Dyer, who made 32 runs between them. Langley had six wickets for 24 and Thorpe five wickets for 24. Peterboro opened their innings with Perry and Stuart. With the score at 2 runs, Stuart miss-hit a ball and was caught behind the wicket. Perry hit well before being caught. Sutcliffe was bowled by R. Dyer after playing very steady cricket. Thorpe and rain were next associated, and by careful cricket brought the score to 17 before Thorpe was bowled. Langley made a few hits when he also fell a victim to F. Dyer. The remaining batsmen did practically nothing against the deadly bowling of F. Dyer, and the innings closed for the small total of 32 runs, leaving the De Laval C.C. victorious by 17 runs. F. Dyer had 8 wickets for 12 runs and R. Dyer 3 wickets for 18 runs. Scores:

FIFTEEN ROUND BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. —(Canadian Press).—Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, gave Bartley Madden, a scientific boxing lesson in 15-round match at Queensboro, A.O., in Long Island City last night, decisively defeating his opponent all through route, and cutting him up badly about the face. But despite battery of lefts and rights which were rained on him from long and short range, stubborn New York Irishman remained up right, refusing to succumb to terrific punishment and wilt to canvas. It was Renauld's bout by wide margin. Canadian, however, lacked necessary steam to floor Madden, contenting himself with cutting his opponent when knocked out appeared impossible.

DEFEATED FELTON.

BRISBANE, Australia, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—J. Paddon today defeated Alfred Felton by six lengths for the world's professional sculling championship. Paddon was defending the title he won last year from D. Hatfield, while Felton was trying to recapture the honor he lost to E. Barry in 1920.

BELLEVILLE HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Lakeviews Play First Game of Semi-Finals For Ontario Championship.

The many fans who saw the Lakeviews do away with the Toronto team on Saturday will be out to cheer for the locals to-morrow night when they play their first game in the semi-finals at Riverside Park with the fast Belleville team who have so far cleaned up everything in their path.

They are reported to be a very fast junior team, and are backed by the town of Belleville to come through with the O.B.A. championship.

The Lakeviews team did not know their own strength until Saturday when they trimmed the St. Christophers ,one of the best junior teams in Toronto by the score of 8 to 0.

Alhough the Belleville team are said to be wonders, the Lakeviews are confident of pulling through with a win if their star twirler, Frank Whitehouse, is in condition.

Whitehouse was robbed of a no-hit no-run game on Saturday, but he expects to come through on Wednesday and blank the ponies.

The Belleville team will likely bring with them a gang of noisy rooters that will cause some excitement.

The game is called for fifteen minutes past five to-morrow evening.

COBOURG FERRY ALLADIN CALLS ON THIS CITY

President Noonan of B. R. and P. Welcomed by Officials Of The City.

ON HOLIDAY TOUR.

Aim Of This District Is To Secure Easy Passage of Cars Across Lake Ontario

President W. Noonan, of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway, at noon to-day received His Worship Mayor Turner, J. Wells Fraser, president of the Chamber of Commerce ,and Leon Frazer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in his private car on arrival by the C.N.R. from Lakefield.

Mr. Noonan is on his way from Stoney Lake, where he spent a week's vacation, to Algonquin Park.

His Worship welcomed the party to Peterborough, and was assured of the great interest Mr. and Mrs. Noonan and family have in the city, Mrs. Noonan's ancestors having been residents here.

After lunch the party was conducted by Mayor Turner and executives of the Chamber of Commerce to places of interest in the city, and viewed the processes in many of the factories.

In the course of conversation during the interview with the railway magnate, the question of establishing a ferry to convey automobiles from Rochester to Cobourg was broached, and Mayor Turner pointed out some of the advantages that would accrue to the railway company through the service. This city and district would also be benefitted through the influx of visitors and the ready access to the United States by the new route.

Mr. Noonan indicated his sympathy with the city's desires, but at the time of the interview was not prepared to discuss in detail the plans put forward previously and pressed by the Chamber of Commerce.

LOCAL BOWLING CIVIC HOLIDAY

"Pete" King Wins Out, after A Day of Keen Play.

INVADE BOWMANVILLE

Civic Holiday was a great day for members of the local Bowling Club. Bowling enthusiasts of the city staged a little show of their own, in the absence of other civic attractions.

Six rinks opening play at 9.30 a.m. yesterday morning played through until 10 p.m. allowing reasonable recesses for meals and a three hour adjourment in the afternoon to see the ball game.

The second game played in the heat of early afternoon sun, right after lunch was a scorcher. Undaunted by the heat the ardent bowlers continued until the tournament was adjourned at 2.45 p.m. This announcement was received with a sigh of relief.

There was no pot hunting or pack skip rinks, as the bowlers drew for their places and played on a plus and minus basis, which is the converse to the elimination system. This aided the sociability and a delightful day was spent in the favorite pastime of the Club members.

"Pete" King's rink triumphed closely followed by George Cairns' rink, the runners up.

The rinks were composed as follows:

G. Coleman, J. Cullen, N. Routley Peter King, skip.

H. Nevin, H. Martin, R. Fox, G. Cairns, skip.

Dr. A. H. Allen, D. Moore, J. Taman, J. Bacon (skip).

J. J. Howden, T. O. Donaldson, Dr. Hammond, W. Dayman (skip).

F. Wise, R. French, W. Oke, J. Sedgwick (skip).

C. Sedgwick, Dr. Fulford, J. Bennett, J. Mayneord (skip).

Foreign Fields.

Peterboro rinks have frequently invaded foreign fields and brought home the bacon, in years gone by.

Mr. T. C. Elliot's rink, which has reached the eighths in the Bowmanville tournament, is bowling like a clock, and is regarded a strong contender. Play will resume to-morrow in Bowmanville, and local bowlers expect the Peterboro entry to add another laurel to the club's string.

The trophy at stake requires the winner to capture the most wins over a period of ten years. This is the tenth year, and an interesting feature is the fact that if a Toronto rink, now in the running, is eliminated, it will cause a tie, making it necessary to hold the cup for at least another tournament.

Two Toronto rinks have two wins to their credit, one rink of which is now in the running. Peterboro have never succeeded in capturing a tournament at Bowmanville as yet.

WON KING'S CUP.

MARTLESHAM, Eng., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Alan J. Cobb, flying a Puma plane, to-day won the King's cup race over a 950-mile course around Great Britain, in which ten planes competed on the handicap basis. Cobb completed the course in nine hours three minutes twelve seconds, but after the deduction of his handicap allowance, his net time was computed at five hours 59 minutes. Captain N. MacMillan, in a seaplane, was second, and Alan S. Butler, in DH-37 was third.

SPARKS' CIRCUS HERE NEXT THURSDAY

"An Egyptian Fantasy," most beautiful of spectacles, will be seen as the opening number on the propram of theSparks Circus when this big three-ring show exhibits for one day only in Peterboro on Thursday August 14.

The cast of "An Egyptian Fantasy' includes a big chorus of pretty girls in gorgeous costumes, and there are richly robed elephants, and stately horses and camels in brillinat trappings and accoutrements.

Immediately following the opening number comes displays of daring, comedy numbers, and thrilling acts by famous circus performers. Besides, there are trained tigers, elephants, lions, seals, leopards, and a mixed group of polar bears and Great Dane dogs.

The performance of the Sparks Circus is said to be unexcelled.

LOCAL EMPLOYMENT.

Increased Demand For Farm Labours, and Builders Kept Fairly Busy.

From the surrounding district the demand for farm labourers has increased during the past week, declared Mr. Hugh Robertson, of the local Employment Bureau.

With but few exceptions the vacancies have been filled. A few days will see the agriculturists of Peterborough County right in the midst of their harvest, and work on the farm will be plentiful.

Considerable building has been going on in the city, remarked Mr. Robertson, and plasterers and bricklayers have had a fairly good season as a result, although their time is broken, because for the most part the jobs are small.

Carpenters have fared fairly well also, but because of the large number engaged in this trade, a few have had to leave the city in search of employment.

CITY REPRESENTED.

Local Delegates To The Grand Encampment Session at Belleville.

Messrs. R. N. Jones, P.C.P., W. J. Hooper, P.C.P., of Mount Hebron Encampment, No. 56, and Fred Read, G.S., Edwin Norman, P.C.P., and W. F. Green, P.C.P., of Hiawatha Encampment, No. 66, I.O.O.F., left for Belleville on Monday morning, where they will attend the fifty-fifth annual session of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, as representatives of the above Encampments.

GOOD SOCCER GAME

REGINA, Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Led by their regular centre forward E.N.S. Creek and playing finished Soccer from kick-off to final whistle, touring Corinthians defeated select Regina eleven last night 2 goals to 1 for their second victory of their Canadian visit. Londoners were unfortunate in missing other chances and richly deserved verdict.

GOOFY GOLF MAXIMS.

An obstinate golfer and his slice are never parted.

It's a long fairway that has no out-of-bounds.

A rolling Baby Dimple may gather no moss but it makes the approach shot a derned sight easier.

Thrice is he armed whose handicap is more than it should be.

Hell hath no fury like a golf widow whose husband said he'd be home at seven.

To the tricky bird who is never over par: Look before you cheat.

All sand traps are paved with good intentions.

Never put off until tomorrow the golf exaggerations you can perpetrate today.

Cast your floaters upon the water and see how much the wretch you're playing with cares.

You can fool all the people some of the time but any sap knows a hole in one is just dumb luck.

Fools rush in with mid mashies where the club champion wouldn't think of using anything less than a driving iron.

No golfer's alibi is stronger than his caddy's meekets, "Yes, Mr. Jones, that's just how it happened."

SLAVE

The mail brings a circular picturing a scoop or conveyor by which "one man can unload and store a car load of coal in an hour and a half, at a cost of from three to seven cents a ton."

If you were in the coal business and were given your choice of having one of these scoops or the ancient strong man, Hercules, you'd pick the scoop.

Machinery is the slave of all of us. It displaces human labor, releasing workers for the making of other things, thus gradually raising the standard of living. When we reach a scale of living that satisfies we can begin working fewer hours a day, all of us.

PROVIDE DRAINAGE

Your house ferns will get good drainage if you put an inch layer of broken crockery in the bottom of pot.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

BUSTER KEATON'S SIX-ACT COMEDY AT ROYAL—A HIT.

Advance notices of Buster Keaton's new Metro feature, "Sherlock Jr.," declared it to be the most original comedy ever made. This production opened last night at the Royal Theatre and entirely bore out the claims made for it—"Sherlock Jr.," is truly "something new under the sun." Never has such a delightful combination of fantasy and fun been put together in any theatrical medium, stage or screen.

The picture kept the audience in stitches from the opening scene to thefinal fadeout as Buster trudged and scampered across the screen with a face as long as an eight-day clock.

Written by "Gag" Men

"Sherlock Jr., is a knockout. This Joseph M. Schenck production is written by Jean Havez, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman, Keaton's famous "aga" men, and the treatment is just as novel and refreshing as the idea itself.

How, as a small-town operator, Buster is accused of the theft of a watch by the villain, his disgrace his dream of great things while showing a picture, and how he finally wins out, is told in a series of laugh-provovking scenes that whizz by in rapid succession. There is not a dull moment in the entire picture.

Keaton directed the picture himself and has introduced many clever situations. His transition from a movie operator to a movie actor is a delightful bit of movie fantasy.

Angered by the actions of the villain in the film, he walks down the aisle of the theatre gets on the stage and climbs right into the frame of the picture. It is a brand new camera trick, and made last night's audience gasp in surprise and then burst out in laughter when Buster found himself in dire perdicaments when the scene suddenly shifted without warning.

UNIVERSAL SERIES OF "FAST STEPPERS" SCREENED AT ROYAL.

Aside from the fact that the story has as its climax a thrilling horse race, which to most Canadian audiences is the most fascinating sport in the world, "The Empty Stall," the first feature of the "Fast Steppers," a new series of race track stories filmed by Universal which opened at the Royal Theatre last night, is a vitally human story which Edward Laemmle directed.

The picture bears the unmistakable thumb print of whimsical individuality of the man who wrote the story, Gerald Beaumont, whose "Informaton Kid," is a classic of sports fiction. The Kid is a race track tout, who "played his tips square.

This character has been converted to the screen with fidelity by Billy Sullivan, star of the productions, Sullivan, who recently scored a tremendous hit in a series of "Leather Pushers," gives a most human touch to his portrayal of a character graphically visualized and known to countless fiction readers.

With this as an example of coming pictures in the Universal race track series, "Fast Steppers" should gain a high rank in short reel productions.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Colleen Moore, who is noted for her "jazzmania" qualities, is the heroine of "Painted People," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week. As the young girl who makes her way from a factory and a tenement life to the boards of the stage and becomes a successful actress, against severe odds, she does some excellent acting of the "flaming youth" type.

"Painted People" is the story of a pair of young toilers who progress to a place in the sun of modern society and find out that first values were the best, after all. Colleen Moore is in the stellar role. As a "flapper," she has a wonderful time in her society experiences, then discovers that she loves a poor man, a "strong" type played by Ben Lyon. An especially good supporting cast includes Anna Q. Nilsson, Mary Carr and Mary Alden, the well-known "mother" portrayers, June Elvidge, Russell Simpson, Charlie Murray and "Bull" Montana.

There is a very attractive comedy with this picture, featuring some clever dog actors that got plenty of applause yesterday afternoon and evening.

SCIENCE ADVANCEMENT

Sixth Day Of Meeting Found Members Faced with Heavy Programme.

TORONTO, August 12 (Canadian Press). — The sixth day of the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science found the members faced with another very heavy programme.

Various sections had somewhat of a drop in attendance because of the fact that a number of the members who are expert in certain sciences were attracted by subjects which were down for discussion before the International Mathematical Congress which opened at the Convocation Hall yesterday. But the papers presented by almost forty speakers in the early part of the day were none the less interesting, and were followed with much attention by their brother scientists.

BOOKS

One must thank the war for a new type of fiction work now becoming rather plentiful. It is the mystery novel, based on adventures of secret service agents. In it figures a new note hypotism. Combine adventure with the occult and you will come pretty close to describing this new school.

To it belongs the latest John Buchan novel, "The Three Hostages" (Houghton, Mifflin). It depicts another chapter in life of Sir Richard Hannay, British secret service agent, but now retired.

He has had his fill of adventure in previous Buchan books, and in the first chapter of this one, is content to settle down on his English estate with his beautiful wife and their small boy. But, of course, this would never do. So Buchan concocts a wild conspiracy, in which Bolsheviks and hypnotism figure.

Three persons, members of prominent American and British families, are kidnapped and held as hostages. Authorities come to Hannay and beg him to set his hand to work to free them. They must be free by a certain day, because then a round-up of the conspirators will come, and unless the hostages are free, it is feared their death will result.

Hannay accepts finally. How he succeeds makes the delightful story. Growing youths will be absorbed in the tale.

Buchan is a born story-teller. He enslaves the reader and rivets the eye to the printed page.

* * *

A sketch of the life of the author proves as entertaining as his books. John Buchan was born in 1876 of an old Scottish border family; he was educated at Glasgow University and Brasenose College, Oxford, where he graduated with honors after winning many of the college prizes.

In 1901 he was called to the English Bar. In the same year he went to South Africa as private secretary to Lord Milner, high commissioner.

There Buchan organized the agricultural and land departments for the Transvaal, travelled extensively all over SouthAfrica up to the Zambesie and shot big game, fell eternally in love with the country and became a convert to Cecil Rhodes' dream of a united British Empire.

In 1907 he became a partner of Thomas Nelson & Sons, Limited, and later stood for his home county as an Unionist candidate for Parliament. At the outbreak of the World War he was re-commissioned, and by 1915 was lieutenant-colonel, and for a time liason officer between the British and French armies.

In 1916 Mr. Lloyd George appointed him director of information in the British Foreign Office, a position which he held until the end of the war.

During these years he found time to write his "History of the Great War," and during a convalescence he wrote "Thirty-Nine Steps" and "Greenmantle."

"I have amused myself with writing," he says, "ever since I went to college. At the age of 16 I published an annotated edition of Bacon's "Essays.' I published several novels and a book of essays at Oxford."

Rifle-shooting is a favorite diversion, but in the matter of fishing he declares himself "mad."

* * *

"Seward's Folly" (Little, Brown) contains a theme from which an American epic might be made—the Alaska purchase romance. Edison Marshall, who wrote it, chooses to make it a cheap historical novel of little quality. Secretary Seward and Jefferson Sharp, his agent in the Alaska deal, converse in the fashion of movie titles, as witness: "His eyes looked straight into Jeff's. 'I am a rebel. I cannot give my services to the enemy that conquered me. No, Mr. Seward, I would rather starve.'" There is plenty of this "you ain't done right by our Nell" stuff in the book.

The distance of the stars from the earth is so great that its determination is perhaps the most difficult problem of astronomy.

BISHOP O'BRIEN ATTENDS FUNERAL

Large Crowd Mourn Over The Remains of Rt. Rev. Thomas Joseph Dowling.

HAMILTON, August 12 (Canadian Press). — Thousands of laity and some of the highest dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church attended the funeral here to-day of the Right Rev. Thomas Joseph Dowling, for more than thirty years Bishop of Hamilton.

Interment was made in the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, the late Bishop having expressed a wish that he lie among those with whom he laboured rather than in the cathedral vault.

Bishop O'Brien of Peterborough celebrated solemn high mass early this morning which was attended by the members of the various Hamilton religious orders.

Mass at St. Mary's Cathedral was celebrated by Archbishop McNeil of Toronto, and he was assisted by priests from various parts of the diocese.

Rev. J. E. Burke, of Toronto, preached the sermon.

In the procession to the cemetery the hearse was flanked by a guard of honour of the Knights of Columbus with drawn swords.

DR. H. S. CULBERT IS LAST WITNESS

Endocrine Glands Claimed as The Cause of the Mental Sickness.

CHICAGO, August 12 (Canadian Press). — The State continued its lengthy cross-examination of Dr. H. S. Culbert, the last of the defence alienists in the Franks hearing this morning, laying its ground for the introduction of its rebuttal testimony.

In preparing for the introduction of Dr. Rollin T. Wood-Vatt, expert on endocrinology, Robert E. Crowe, States Attorney, renewed his attack on the theory of functional disorders of endocrine glands as set up by Dr. Hulbert as responsible for the 'mental sickness" of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, which permitted them to kidnap and slay Bobby Franks.

Dr. Hulbert, four days on the stand, testified that persons suffering from endocrine disease are failures in life and so dominated Leopold. He also testified, under the questioning by Mr. Crowe, that there was no recognised leader in the study of endocrinology in America.

Th defence would require approximately 45 minutes for its witnesses remaining after Dr. Hulbert, it was indicated, and the moment of resting its case depended upon how much longer Mr. Crowe kept Dr. Hulbert under cross-examination.

VOL. LV., No. 36 — PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1924 — PRICE THREE CENTS

HARRY PALLISTER NOT GUILTY OF ABDUCTING SON MILLBROOK

No Court Order Giving Mrs. Pallister Custody of the Boy. Marshall Lauder, Who Assisted Pallister, Fined $100 For Carrying Revolver. Much Family Friction.

ASAULT CHARGE ADJOURNED TO 18th.

(By Alex. McGregor).

COBOURG, Aug. 13. — A father cannot be held guilty of abducting his own child in the absence of a court order giving the mother the custody of the little one. An agreement between the parents that one or the other have custody of the child is not sufficient and apparently may be broken with impunity at any time.

To this provision of the law Harry Pallister, who was arrested at Millbrook last week, on a charge of attempting the abduction of Earle, his three year old son, owed his escape when the case was heard here on Tuesday before Magistrate Col. W. H. Floyd.

Marshall Lauder, the young man from Toronto, held on a similar charge as he was with Pallister at the time, of the attempted abduction, was also discharged on this count. Lauder however pleaded guilty to having firearms in his possession without a license and for this was fined the maximum amount $100 and costs.

There is a charge of assault with intent to do bodily harm, still hanging over Pallister, who, it is alleged, struck Mrs. S. R. Hunter, his wife's mother blackening her eye, which was badly discolored when she appeared in court yesterday. This charge lost a measure of its seriousness when Mrs. Hunter testified that Pallister had not struck her deliberately. She had closed with him in an attempt to rescue the child and he had pushed her with his elbow knocking her down. In falling she received the injury to her eye.

Assault Case Adjourned

A. Cochrane, a partner of W. F. Kerr, Crown Prosecutor, and who is acting in that capacity during Mr. Kerr's absence on his vacation, offered to reduce the assault charge from aggravated assault to the simple form of the offence and to leave the matter to be disposed of by Magistrate Floyd, but A. R. Wilmott, who appeared for both defendants refused to consent to this course, and at his request the hearing of this complaint was adjourned till August 18th. Mr. Wilmott maintained that not even simple assault was committed. It is likely that this point will not be settled until it is carried before County Judge Ward.

Pallister's Brother Fined

The car in which Pallister and Lauder rode from Toronto to Mill brook belonged to the former's brother, E. L. Pallister, also of Toronto, who loaned it for the occasion When they got within a few miles of Millbrook the men changed the license number of the car. The owner of the auto was held responsible for this infraction of the law and a complaint was laid against him. In the police court here yesterday he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $5 and costs.

Love's Young Dream

Probably when Jessie Hunter, a pretty country girl, who resided with her parents, near Millbrook, was married to Harry Pallister on June 11th., 1919, like the majority of brides she dreamed of a rosy future in her own home; but there came the rude awakening. According to her story told yesterday without hesitation on the witness stand there were disagreements one or two temporary separations before the final crash. Pallister was a telegraph operator at Woodbridge and while living with him there Mrs. Pallister had her husband up in the police court on a charge of threatening her, Pallister was bound over to keep the peace for a year and was ordered to pay his wife alimony of $6.00 a week He appealed against this judgment, but lost his case. Before this she had left him because he abused her. When their child was born a little over three years ago another source of discord arose between them. When the child grew up the father taught him, she said, to spit at and swear at her and to kick her. Last February Mrs. Pallister brought suit against her husband for alimony and the Superior Court in session at Peterborough gave her a judgment for alimony of $8.00 a week.

The Attempted Abduction

Mrs. Pallister gave a graphic account of the attempted abduction on August 6th. When her husband and Lauder drove up in a car to her parent's home in Cavan, Lauder remained outside and Pallister went into the house. In a short time she saw him coming out with the boy who was crying in his arms. Lauder, who had a pistol in his hand, told her if Pallister had had the weapon he would have shot her.

Her Mother's Part

Mrs. Hunter, mother of the witness tried to get the boy away from his father, when the latter was in the hall. Mrs. Pallister heard her mother say: "Harry, you have knocked me down," but did not see his part of the affair.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wilmott, Mrs. Pallister said she had left her husband twice but had returned to his home when an agreement was reached between them, one of each terms of which was that she should have the custody of the child, if she ever secured an order for alimony against him.

Suit Not Defended

Mr. Wilmott: "Where was your husband when you got this judgment against him in Peterborough?"

Mrs. Pallister: "I don't know."

Mr. Wilmott: "Did he defend his suit?"

Mrs. Pallister: "He did not, but he was notified of it and was in Peterborough the day after the case was heard."

Mr. Wilmott emphasized the point that the judgment had been given by default, but Mr. Cochrane contended that the Supreme Court would not issue such an order unless the Judge was satisfied that the necessity for it existed. Mrs. Pallister said that if her husband had acted right she would not have objected to him seeing the child. He was looking after the child's material wants and her own as far as he was able, before they had separated. It was only of his abuse that she complained, and she did not think him a proper person to have control of the boy.

Behind it All

Mrs. Pallister said to Mr. Wilmott that she had not been influenced by her mother to leave her husband and that her mother had not interfered with her affairs. "I was at the back of it all," she added. Pallister, she said, had not attempted to take the child by violence, until her sister and mother tried to prevent him, and so far as she could see the defendant had made no deliberate effort to strike her mother. Lauder was not in the house at all, the witness said, and did not point the pistol at her when she went outside. He voluntarily handed his weapon over to Archie Johnston, a neighbour, when asked to do so.

The pistol which Lauder carried was here exhibited. It was a modern automatic, carrying nine shells of .32 calibre.

Mrs. Hunter Testifies

The testimony of Mrs. Eunice J. Hunter, mother of Mrs. Pallister, confirmed that of her daughter as to what happened when her son-in-law called at the Hunter home. When he started to leave the house carrying the child she caught him on one side while her daughter Laura clung to him on the other. In his efforts to get free Pallister struck Mrs. Hunter with his elbow .She fell down and received a bruise on the eye while doing so. She jumped up and closed with Pallister again, but Laura pulled her away as the girl was afraid of the pistol which Lauder had in his hand.

To Mr. Wilmott: "I told Pallister that he could come to see his child at any time.' Pallister said that he h'ad a good home for the boy, that he intended to place him in a convent.

An Exciting Chapter.

According to Archie Johnston, a neighbor of the Hunters, exciting events followed thick and fast at the time of the visit of Pallister. Johnston was working in a field near the Hunter house, when he saw the car drive up. He heard the screams of the child and the woman, and went to the house. He took the key out of the car, and told Laura Hunter to call for the police.

Laura Hunter had called her father and brother from the field where they were at work. Her brother Roy came to the house with a shot gun, which Johnston took and started out after Lauder, who told him to drop the gun, and demanded the key of the car. Johnston said he would put down his gun if Lauder would drop his pistol, and a compromise was arranged on this basis. Lauder then handed him his pistol. There were nine shells in it.

To Mr. Wilmott—"I talked to Lauder for a couple of hours. Roy Hunter was with us. Lauder said he had heard Pallister's side of the story."

Roy Hunter told the same story as Johnston of the events which transpired after they reached the house.

Laura Hunter Testifies.

Laura Hunter said that when she saw Pallister carrying off the child, she ran for her father and brother. Lauder said "Don't you go or there will be murder. We came here prepared to do murder." Pallister asked Lauder for his pistol, saying, "If you are afraid to shoot I will do it." Lauder answered: "I won't give you the gun. You are in a rage and will shoot."

This closed the evidence for the prosecution. Mr. Cochrane said that as he had no hope of securing a conviction on the charge of abduction against the two men if the case were carried to a higher court, seeing that the mother had no legal custody of the child, he would recommend that the Magistrate dismiss there complaints.

The court then took a recess until 1.30, when Marshall Lauder was called to the stand by Mr. Wilmott, who asked that the evidence in the revolver case be not used against him in the hearing of any other complaints.

Lauder said that Pallister had

COLD WATER INTO HOT BOILER THE CAUSE OF CHEESE FACTORY WRECK

Three Men Killed at Bishop's Mills, Near Brockville. Three Injured.

TERRIFIC FORCE.

Boiler Tossed Two Hundred Feet. Dairy Instructor A Victim.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. W. E. Storey, of Kemptville, opened an inquest yesterday upon Stanley H. Watts, Frederick M. Murray and George Morrison, killed Tuesday morning in the explosion of a boiler in the cheese factory at Bishop's Mills, owned by Watts, and adjourned it to meet again in Kemptville on Thursday evening. Stewart Thompson, of Bishop's Mills, the most seriously injured of the other three upon the casualty list, is expected to recover.

The disaster occurred at a time when patrons of the factory were delivering their morning milk, and all who were either in the establishment or in its vicinity sustained fatal or other injuries. Those who were inside the factory were: Watts, the cheesemaker; Thompson, his assistant, and Murray, who was visiting the works in his capacity as instructor.

Work was commenced about 4.30 o'clock in the morning, when the fire was lit. Through carelessness on the part of some member of the staff, it is believed that the boiler was allowed to become hot, and when cold water was injected into it, the explosion occurred. Thompson is the only man living who might be able to offer an explanation, and his condition is such that he cannot be interrogated.

Factory Wrecked.

The force of the explosion wrecked the frame structure completely. The boiler itself was hurled a distance of 200 feet into a neighboring field, where it lies, a flattened mass, and in its path was strewn debris from the building—rafters, lumber, piping, bricks and stone. The building itself collapsed, and only the front portion remains standing uncertainly, and is propped up to enable it to continue to occupy an upright position. Where the three men, Watts, Murray and Thompson, were, is almost inconceivable confusion, a mass of broken timbers and lumber in which is mingled the broken and twisted machinery.

The roof extending over the weighing stand collapsed with the rest of the building, glass from the windows is strewn about the place, and the force of the explosion was such that it broke the windows in the neighboring houses.

Where Bodies Found.

At the time of the explosion the proprietor and cheesemaker, Watts, appears to have been in the act of entering the building from the weighing stand, where he had attended one of the patrons, Levi Robinson. When he was found, his body was devoid of clothing from the waist up, and it was evident that he had suffered terrible injuries. He was able to ask to be removed, but died 15 or 20 minutes after he had been taken from the wrecked factory.

Murray was found lying dead in a vat, and was no doubt instantly killed. Nearby was found an agitator, with which he had been stirring the milk.

The position of Stewart Thompson was the most difficult. It was necessary to remove considerable wreckage before he could be removed from the separator room, and his injuries were founds to be confined largely to his head.

George Morrison, the third victim, was upon a wagon driven by Joseph Thompson, which was standing at the whey tank ten yards alongside of the factory. The little boy was evidently instantly killed when struck by one of the iron flues of the boiler, and that its condition

Ten Degrees Of Frost In Northern Manitoba

WINNIPEG, August 13. Frost was experienced in northern Manitoba on Monday night, the mercury registering 10 degrees of frost at The Pas. Several other districts in Central Manitoba report low temperatures, the mercury at Swan River, Plumas and Glenella dropping to freezing point. The sudden cold wave according to reports is sweeping over the province from the north and is moving southeast. The frost was not sufficiently severe to damage crops, but the garden stuff around The Pas was slightly nipped.

PICTOU N.S., Aug. 13.—The Boston II., the substitute airplane that is to be used by Lieut. MacDonald, senior officer and Victor E. Bertrand left Eastport, Maine, at 10.40 in the morning and for forty miles flew through light fog, but after reaching St. John, N.B., had ideal weather. The trip from Eastport to Pictou, 230 miles, was covered in exactly three hours.

The Boston II came into harbor practically unnoticed but it was but a short while before pronounced welcomes were extended to the United States fliers by the Mayor and citizens of this town.

A band concert was held last night in honor of the visiting aviators.

Colonel Scott, head of the Canadian Air Force, Ottawa, and three of his staff, are expected here to welcome the United States world-encircling aviators, according to word received here last night.

"OUR MAGGIE" TO VISIT CANADA

Margaret Bondfield, M.P., to Investigate Condition of Children's Immigration.

A TRADES UNIONIST

LONDON, Aug. 13.— (Canadian Press).—The Canadian Press learns that Miss Margaret Bondfield, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Labour and member in the House of Commons for Northamptonshire, leaves for Canada with Mrs. Harrison Bell, who represents Labour on the Overseas Settlement Committee, on the Empress of Scotland on September 13. They are going on the invitation of the Canadian Government and will enquire into conditions ruling in the Dominion concerning the immigration of children. They will be accompanied by C. F. Plant and Lieut. Gurnett of the Overseas Settlement Board. The journey will extend as far as Winnipeg but it is not likely that they will spare time to go further west.

Miss Bondfield is known affectionately to the trades union world as "Our Maggie" and is more of a trades unionists than a politician. Had she not accepted the office in the government she would have been the first woman president of the Trades Union Congress which meets at Hull immediately before the Canadian journey. Instead of presiding she will address a meeting of women trades unionists.

Miss Bondfield, who is fifty-two years old, taught school at the age of thirteen and subsequently became a draper's assistant. She is a forcible speaker, using almost perfect English. She attended the Washington conference of the International Labour Office. Her whole-hearted enthusiasm for women's cause in Labor matters causes her sometimes to disdain a tactfulness which possibly might prove all her fiery ardor she can take a joke with even more zest if it happens to be against herself and can mangee men on trades congress committees even better than their own wives.

THOS. H. RACE DEAD

Former Port Hope Man Was Noted Horticulturist.

STRATFORD, August 13 (Canadian Press). — Thomas H. Race, aged 76, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home in Mitchell.

Anoted horticulturist, Government official and publisher, the late Mr. Race filled a prominent place in the public life of Canada.

The deceased man was born in Port Hope, and as a young man fought in the American Civil War.

For a time he was in business in Arthur. Forty-nine years ago he moved to Mitchell and established the Mitchell Recorder, which he retained until 1904.

In 1904 he was appointed Canadian Exhibition Commissioner by the Laurier Government, and in that capacity had charge of the Canadian Government exhibits at the various world's fairs.

During the past five years he had been engaged as travelling secretary for the Muskoka Sanitarium. He was a writer of note, and contributed many short stories and articles to newspapers and magazines.

LASHES FOR THIEF.

MONTREAL, Aug. 113.— Found guilty of theft with violence, Robt. Hughes, 27, was condemned by Judge Perrault in the court of sessions here Tuesday afternoon to two years in the penitentiary with ten lashes. George Perron, his confederate was given one year in jail with five lashes, it being his first offence.

The favorite pet of the poet Burns was a sheep, while Rossetti leaned toward woodchucks, wombats, armadillos, kangaroos and chameleons.

RUHR DECISION FINAL PROBLEM OF CONFERENCE

Report of German, French and Belgian Delegates Expected Today.

SETTLEMENT DESIRED

London Conference May Not Be Concluded Until Next Week.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The decision of the German, French and Belgian delegates on the Rhur evacution problem will probably be communicated to the Reparation Conference today. Announcement of this was made by Premier Herriot of France to the "Big Fourteen" Tuesday afternoon.

It is this question which has bought negotiations to a standstill and until the problem is solved by the three directly interested powers and the British there can be no progress towards closing up the programme for the inauguration of the Dawes plan.

Private meetings are going on constantly betweeen the Germans, Belgians, French and the British Prime Minster, and there are rumours of many trades being made behind the scenes in an effort to satisfy the French demands, which are being advanced as the price of moving the military forces out of the Rhur.

The Belgians are not supporting the French in their efforts to prolong the occupation of the Rhur. Premier Theunis plainly states he does not want to continue holding Belgian troops in the Rhur, as the Belgian people are tired of the expense.

The German industrialists, especially the dye manufacturers, are bitterly opposing the French demands for deliveries of dyes beyond 1930, and there are many other questions in connection with the proposed deliveries of goods under the report of the third committee which the "Big Fourteen' considered this afternoon.

The French are endeavouring to get assurances as to the terms of the new commercial treaty to be negotiated with Germany at an early date, and there is a battle royal between the delegates and experts of the two countries. Predictions that the conference will be concluded Thursday have given way to forecasts that Friday is the earliest possible time of settlement and many of the delegates believe that a settlement cannot come this week. There is a general feeling however, that the points of difference between the French and the Germans now have been brought within negotiable limits. Both countries want a settlement so badly that no delegate believes the conference will break up without action.

U. S. Represented.

The United States Ambassador, Frank B. Kellogg, announced at a meeting of the Allied delegates on Tuesday afternoon that the United States Government desired to be represented at the meeting of the Finance Ministers to be held shortly in Paris to discuss the allocation of the monies receceived from Germany.

The United States Ambassador to Germany, Alanson B. Houghton, will leave early to-morrow morning for Berlin. He expressed confidence to-day that the conference was progressing favorably.

Dr. Stresemann, the German Foreign Minister, is eager to get back to Berlin. He had hoped to be able to lay the results of the conference before the Reichstag for its approval early next week.

The mill will be built directly opposite the village of St. Joseph D'Alme, on the far bank of the river.

New Political Party Is Planned From U.F.O. Ashes

WOODSTOCK, August. 13. — Whether or not the United Farmers of South Oxford will line up behind the new political party which is expected to spring from the ashes of the U.F.O., at a convention to be held in Toronto in October, is to be decided at an open convention for the riding at Mount Elgin on the evening of September 25th. This course of action was adopted by the executive at a meeting held at Oxford Centre. The Mount Elgin convention is to be an open one, no delegate being appointed, but all classes of people being invited to attend and take part in the discussion. The chief discussion will centre on the formation of a new Ontario political party, and if the convention expresses itself in favor of this move, then ten delegates will be elected to attend the Toronto convention in October.

POTATOES ARE PROMISING CROP

Canadian Acreage Smaller, But Not in Eastern Provinces.

PEACH CROP FAIR

OTTAWA, August 13 (Canadian Press). — Approximately 532,400 acres of land are under cultivation in Canada for potatoes this year as compared with 655,900 acres last year, according to estimated figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

In British Columbia indications point to a lighter crop than last year. In the Prairie Provinces, it is expected that the vegetable crop will be almost normal except in Alberta, where lower acreage and general dry weather will reduce the crop.

Eastern Crop Big.

Ontario reports an increased acreage of potatoes over last year, according to a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture. The reports state: "Vegetable crops generally are looking fine."

Reports received from Quebec indicate that the early potato crop will be light, but late varieties promise the best crop in years.

In Nova Scotia the acreage is about the same as last year for potatoes, and there is every prospect of an excellent yield.

In New Brunswick the potato acreage is from 15 to 30 per cent. greater than last year and a full crop is anticipated.

Small Fruit Crop.

Small and tender fruits have practically all been marketed in British Columbia. While there was not a large crop of cherries, the marketing conditions were generally satisfactory. The tender fruit crop is short owing to frost at blossom time.

Weather conditions in Ontario have been favourable for all tender fruits, and in some districts the crop in general will be an average one.

The raspberry crop promises to be 125 per cent. of last year. The plum crop will probably reach 70 per cent. of last year.

The peach crop will vary in some districts, but will not exceed last year, though it will likely be of exceptionally high quality with favourable conditions.

MOTHER HANGED HER TWO GIRLS; CUT OWN THROAT

Triple Tragedy in Home of George Fanning of Ops Township, Victoria.

MOTHER MAY RECOVER

Two Children Strangled in Cellar and Carried to Bed While Father Absent.

(Special to The Examiner).

LINDSAY, Aug. 13.—The whole countryside is shocked over the horrible tragedy on the Fanning farm, Lot 3, Concession 3, South Ops, on Tuesday morning,when Mrs. George Fanning killed her two children and then attempted to take her own life by slashing her throat with a razor. The Fanning farm is not on the main highway leading to Clabo Station, but is situated in an isolated position and is fronted by a wood.

Mrs. Fanning was formerly Miss Pearl Aldred, of Little Britain, and is in her twenty-eighth year. Three years ago she was ill for a time, and her friends say that she did not fully recover. Her condition at no time was such as to cause uneasiness or concern, although of late she appeared at times to be melancholy and depressed. She visited relatives on Scugog Lake recently, and visited Janetville on business a few days ago.

Left Normal Household.

When Mr. Fanning left home in the morning for Janetville his wife was about as usual, and there was not the slightest hint or indication that a terrible tragedy would be enacted before his return. When he entered the kitchen on his return from the village he noticed blood on the floor, and on going to his wife's bedroom found the door locked. He finally gained entrance and found his wife saturated with blood from having slashed her throat with a razor. He asked her where the children were, and she replied that they were both dead. Mr. Fanning immediately 'phoned for a physician and then went in search of his children. He was horrified to find the little girls dead in bed.

Children Strangled.

It appears that the unfortunate mother had carried the tots to the cellar, and, placing a stick across a bin, hanged them with a piece of twine from a sugar bag. She then cut them down and carried them upstairs to the bedroom. Sections of the twine still encircled the children's throats when the Coroner arrived on the scene.

An inquest will be held on Friday evening.

Inquiries at the Ross Hospital last evening elicited the information that Mrs. Fanning's condition was quite favorable, and that there was a chance for her recovery. She has given no reason for her rash deed.

Mr. and Mrs. Fanning are well-known and highly respected in the district. Mrs. Fanning was very much attached to her children and was in good spirits when her husband left home in the morning.

The two victims are named Lois and Bernice, and their ages are six and eight years respectively.

Returned at Eleven.

Following breakfast the father left for Janetville, a few miles south, to procure some flour and provisions. About eleven o'clock he returned home, accompanied by his uncle, Mr. Geo. Pogue. They had intended to draw in some rye, which was in stook.

Mr. Fanning's apprehension was at first aroused when he saw no signs of his children, who usually ran out to greet him. On entering the rear door, leading to the kitchen, Mr. Fanning noticed some blood on the floor. Passing hurriedly into the living-room of the house, he saw that the breakfast dishes were still on the table. He called and received no answer. Then the worried man noticed one of the bedroom doors closed, and on trying it discovered that it was locked. This door he forced open and was horrified to find his young wife sitting on the bed, blood flowing from an ugly wound in the neck.

"Where are the children?" Fanning hurriedly enquired.

"They are dead," was the cold, emotionless answer received.

It was learned that there had been no domestic trouble in the Fanning family.

COBOURG HORSE SHOW NOW OPEN

Large Crowds in Attendance Big Day Yesterday With dance. More Horses.

COBOURG, August 12. (Special.)—The Cobourg Horse Show opened to-day at 2 p.m., with ideal summer weather to grace the occasion, and every indication of its being a bigger and a better show that ever before. Certain it is, if numbers are an indication of this, it will be so. With about one hundred more horses than usual, with every afternoon crowded with events, and with a large number of exhibits in many classes the Horse Show is off to a fine start. The work of the judges is by no means an easy task, as the finest horse flesh from the best stables in Ontario, is here, and there are a number of entries from Montreal.

Upon arriving in Cobourg this morning the 48th Highlanders Band paraded the main street, and played at the four corners. With the Royal Canadian Dragoons and a large stream of autos they led the procession to the park to-night also.

Miss E. Viau, Montreal, who was deeply interested in the show some years ago, is here again with her fine string. Mr. Stafford is another Montreal exhibitor. Strathrobyn Farm, Toronto, has sent a fine string; Grimshaw Bros., Toronto, are showing hunters and jumpers. H. L. Hees, Captain S. C. Bate, Major R. S. Timmins, H. C. DISCOVERY OF THE USE OF GLYCERINE

In Many Cases Glycerine Takes the Place of Insulin With Good Results.

BALTIMORE, Md., August 13.—Important discovery of the use of glycerine supplementing insulin in the treatment of diabetes, and in some cases substituting for it, has been made by the Johns Hopkins hospital physicians, who are conducting a clinic and research bureau, in advance cases of disease.

The discovery, officially announced to the medical world, is a result of experiments, and to some extent the result of chance. The element of chance entered when it was discovered that the patient being provided with insulin for daily injections under terms of the $10,000 gift made personally to the clinic by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was neglecting the treatment, but made a prompt recovery after taking glycerine.

The report is given to the medical world as one of the fruits of a nation-wide study of diabetes treatment.

The John Hopkins report avoids sweeping conclusions and merely reports on actual results obtained.

WHEAT SPROUTING WHILE IN STOOKS

Too Much Rain Will Cause Heavy Losses To Bumper Canadian Crops.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Heavy rains in many parts of Ontario to-day renewed the difficulties of the farmers of this Province, many of whom have been unable to get ahead with their harvesting owing to the unusual precipitation during July and August. Big acreages of over-ripe wheat are still standing, and in some districts farmers have not been able to get in their complete hay crops. Reports have come in from some districts of wheat in stook sprouting. It is expected that there will be heavy losses in this connection. For the growth and fullness of grain crops of Ontario in many localities were never better, and the agriculturists are praying to be permitted to reap them. On the other hand, the dairying and root crop branches in Ontario are in excellent condition as a result of the rains. Small fruits have been plentiful, although the prices are low. The prospects for apples are excellent in most districts.

THE ATABARA AFFAIR.

Railway Battalion Has Been Called Back To Egypt by Government.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Aug. 13. — (Canadian Press).—An official communique issued to-day regarding the Atbara affair says the soldiers of the Egyptian Railway Battalion, committed a considerable amount of sabotage within the railway works, destroying automobiles and machinery with long iron bars, and also setting fire to the railway offices. They refused to respond to the moderating counsels of their officers and senior officials of the Sudan railways, it is declared. The court of enquiry has been established by order of the Sirdar. It appears, according to the communique, that the order to fire was given by a lieutenant of the Soudanese Arab Mounted Rifles, who instructed the sergeant to make the men fire over the heads of the Egyptian soldiers who were attacking them.

An agency despatch from Cairo to-day says that according to the local press, the Egyptian Government has decided to recall to Egypt the Railway Battalion which caused the disturbance at Atbara in the Sudan.

AVIATOR STOPPED.

Italian World Flier Forced to Land on Account of Dence Fog.

STROMNESS, Orkney Islands, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator, left here this morning in the continuance of his Transatlantic flight in the wake of the U.S. world aviators, but returned in less than an hour on account of bad fog conditions.

FLIGHT DELAYED.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 13. — (United Press).—Tire trouble on his airplane caused Major Petro Zanni, Argentine flyer ,to postpone the resumption of his world flight to-day. Zanni attempted to take off, but one of his tires burst. After this had been repaired and had blown out four times more, the airman gave up for to-day.

Bon Ami

is made in both Cake and Powder Form

Made in Canada

Do you know that Bon Ami comes in two forms—cake and powder? Both are made from the same ingredients—both have the same wonderful gift of cleaning and polishing without scratching.

For some purposes you'll want the Bon Ami powder in its handy, sifter-top tin—it's so easy to shake out on a damp cloth. For other uses you'll prefer the solid Bon Ami cake that you can rub on the cloth like soap.

Most housewives keep both the cake and powder always on hand. These two "Partners in Cleanliness" are unequalled for cleaning and polishing many things about the home.

EXHIBITION FOREWORD.

A month hence Peterborough's Exhibition will open its buildings to a display of the products of the industries of this district.

The factory will vie with the field in concentrating for a few days the attention of the thousands of visitors to the fruits of the soil and the shop, things brought forth and fashioned and developed by the labor of our neighbors, farmers and mechanics.

And it is this local aspect, overlooked or deprecated by the thoughtless and indifferent, that should most forcibly present itself to the people of the counties interested in Peterborough's Exhibition. It is ours. It has developed under the efforts of farmers and townspeople whose faith and loyalty through trials and vicissitudes and reflected in the imposing and steadily enlarging plant comprising Exhibition Park.

Peterborough's Exhibition is everybody's business. It belongs to the community; but is managed by the directors representing those who enrolled themselves as members realizing that everybody's business is generally nobody's, unless some workers and promoters assume the burden and responsibility.

The directors look to the residents of this district for active and generous support, and that local loyalty should be stronger than ever this year. Given that measure of co-operation, there will be no chance of comparison between Peterborough's Exhibition and any other in Central or Eastern Ontario.

FIRE FIGHTERS ARE WELCOME.

Being named as convention city is an honor to any community, and the influx of delegates is an asset that is deeply appreciated. Bodies of men, whatever the object of their societies, do not choose as their gathering place a city that is noted for its lack of life or neglect of hospitality.

This is the week of the annual convention of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, and this body has chosen Peterborough as its rallying place. Peterborough is honored, and Peterborough will discharge its obligations as host in a manner befitting the impotance of the city and its traditions for hospitality. The Motor League will entertain the visitors to a tour of the beauty spots and industrial establishments; the City Council has made a grant to assist in entertaining the delegates, and the city fire fighting force is endeavouring to eclipse all previous conventions in features that make for the comfort and enjoyment of their brethern in arms.

Tradesmen who benefit indirectly through the temporary brightening of business, and citizens, who appreciate the feeling of good-will that will accompany the delegates to their homes to be spread by them all over Ontario, should need no urging to display flags and bunting that will brighten the city and add to the feeling of pleasure the fire-fighters have in visiting Peterborough.

The firemen are heartily welcome to the city, and every facility will be given them to become acquainted with the features it offers.

HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT.

It is always distressing to discuss taxation, says the Ottawa Journal. Yet to close one's eyes to it is sheer folly. The matter has got to be faced. To realize clearly the full extent of Federal liabilities is to discover the reason why last year $254,377,875 was taken from the pockets of the people by means to which we had been entire strangers up to 1916. These special measures of adding to the public revenue are the war tax, the income tax and the business profits tax. They drew $144.75 from each statistical family of five in 1923. As a matter of fact, they took thousands from some and nothing whatever, directly, from others.

The chief danger in the situation is that those who did not pay anything directly may assume they were therefore wholly exempt. No mistake could be more egregious. The merchant who pays in business tax tens of thousands per annum on his imports, himself contributes merely on such goods as he consumes. His customers are the actual payers of the customs duties on all that the merchant sells.

And so it is with much of the special taxation. The income tax which the landlord pays directly is, in the final reckoning, added to the rent; so that it falls wholly upon the tenant. The point to be remembered is that, no matter by what means the taxes are collected, everybody in the long run pays his share. There is no escape from it. Therefore, everybody is concerned in such measures as will tend to reduce the general burden.

It is perhaps easier to talk about reducing the burden of taxation than to do it. The people have fallen into the habit of looking to Government for a great deal they could well do without, and it has come to be a political axiom that a free spending administration is popular. At all events, there is invariably an outcry from certain quarters the moment a serious effort is made to retrench. So long as that situation persists, and so long also as there is indifference on the part of a majority of the people at large, we shall probably receive no relief from the pressure of taxes. We are likely to see that pressure become more acute. The pinch has certainly been increasing during the past three years.

TALK IS NOT REALLY CHEAP.

Parliament has become a very talkative body. The average member of the Commons does not believe that so far as he is concerned—actions speak louder than words, says the Financial Post. In practice he proceeds more on this rule—you can't speak too long or too often.

It is difficult to say just how many words were spoken in Parliament during last session, but those who have attempted to figure it out have about come to the conclusion that a word was said for almost every man, woman and child in the country.

Here is how this is arrived at. The House of Commons Hansard for the session has 5,050 pages. Set solid it contains about 960 words to a page, which means about 4,850,000 words. Of course, all the pages are not solid, but on the other hand, some of the type is very small. So it about evens up. On the same basis of estimating the members of the Senate uttered about 960,000 words.

But these figures, which account for 4,850,000 words, make no allowance for the words spoken in committees. As some of these are in session sometimes for between two and three months, it is easy to see how the volume of words in these mounts up. Both Houses have their committees, and their number is increasing.

Senator McCoig has suggested that radio be substituted for Hansard. The proposal will not be popular among the members, for among other things it would do away with that veritable mine of information in the form of old speeches contained in Hansard, which are a never-failing inspiration, especially to those who are not prolific in ideas.

Talk is said to be cheap—but it costs money at Ottawa.

THE EVANS MURDER.

The dastardly murder of Mrs. Evans, with its suspicions of horrible torture, affords yet another proof of the ineptitude and criminal inefficiency of the present system of government in Mexico. Mrs. Rosalie Evans for many weeks before her death had been fighting heroically against the agrarians, who have been plotting with devilish ingenuity to seize her property near Pueblo. She herself said but three weeks ago that she would face death rather than surrender the ranch which her British husband delighted in and which he bequeathed to her.

Mrs. Evans, according to the statement of Mr. Cummins, who has supported her so loyally, originally owned 2,614 acres, but oppressive laws and unconstitutional seizures of her land without payment during the last two years have robbed her of some 500 acres, and during the whole of that time Mrs. Evans has been the object of a series of malicious persecutions and irritating violences, amounting on more than one occasion to physical attacks on her property and hacienda and culminating in her murder.

With praiseworthy patience Mr. Cummins, the Minister in charge of British interests in Mexico, protested the injustice of these attacks on Mrs. Evans and made himself exceedingly unpopular in the process. He stuck to his guns even when physical violence was directed against him and withdrew from his post when it would have been undignified to remain. Mr. Warren, the American Minister, who was on terms of more personal relationship with President Obregon, stated a few weeks ago just before leaving for his home in Detroit, that he had investigated the affairs of Mrs. Evans and that her case would now be made the subject of renewed negotiations under Presidential decree. Three weeks later Mrs. Evans was murdered.

Britain went to war with a country five thousand miles away from her base for an insult to one of her nationals which was less revolting than this. British people all over the world will feel just as keen resentment against the Mexicans who can allow the persecution of a woman to continue, the robbery of her property to go unchecked, and her death to be demanded when she continued to take her heroic stand. But there is a difference in the case of the Mexican incident. Mexico borders upon the United States and the United States by its promulgation occupies a special position on the two American continents. Britain would not go to war with Mexico because it would be difficult to explain the necessity for such a drastic step to the friendly Government of the United States with its Munroe Doctrine, and by so doing she would be virtually telling Washington that a country over which she exercised so personal a suzerainty and so immediate a guardianship was so badly governed that Britain had no other recourse for the protection of the lives of her nationals than to issue a war ultimatum.

Much has happened in Mexico since the overthrow of Diaz. It has not merely been a change of political parties caused by a military conflict, but a social revolution. Madero came in on the swing of the pendulum, but his weakness invited another change in violence and Huerta who succeeded let his chance slip through his fingers only to be followed in turn by the long headed Carranza, who promulgated the history-making constitution of 1917. The foreigner who today sighs for the golden days of Diaz will be dolorous in vain. The money of a few of the rich oil groups has robbed some of the decrees of their harshest characteristics, but the concessionaire is not the power in the land he was in the old days. Britain will not, however, allow such an insult of her nationhood to pass unnoticed. When Mr. Cummins was recalled the protection of the British nationals was left to Mr. Warren and the United States. We cannot think for a moment that they will not be most carefully guarded.—Montreal Star.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 13 (Canadian Press).—Active buying based largely on the Canadian Government crop report brought about a decided advance in the value of wheat yesterday.

The wheat market, helped also by corn strength, closed firm at 2 1-8 to 2 1-2 cents gain, with corn 1 1-2 to 3 3-4c up; oats 7-8c to 1c higher; and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 12c.

Although most of the private estimates here regarding the probable yield of wheat this season in Canada were much smaller than the amount indicated by the Government report, it was deemed significant that official recognition of the damage had been made to the extent shown.

There were also misgivings about reports of freezing temperatures in Manitoba, especially as the Winnipeg market showed more strength than was the case in Chicago, and forecasts pointed to the likelihood of more frost last night.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Standing Field Crops Judged in This District.

PERSONALS

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 12. — J. J. Virtue of Hampton, representing the Fairs branch of the Agricultural Society of Ontario, who is judging the standing field crops in the Central Ontario district, completed the judging of oats in Percy Township yesterday and arrived in Campbellford last evening. This was the first competition of the kind ever held by the Percy Agricultural Society.

Formerly the names of the prize winners were given out as soon as the judges had completed his totals but Mr. Virue says that a new ruling provides that the list of prize winners will be made known only after J. Lockie Wilson, head of the department, has passed on the figures.

Seven prizes are awarded, $20, $15, $12, $10, $8, $6, and $4 and two winners of these will be found among the following 11 farmers who competed: Lorne Evans, Roy Walker, George Broadworth, J. F. Newman, Richard Honey, H. S. Aylsworth, W. J. Ross, I. Isaac, W. Atkinson, A. Merrill, George Poole.

The crop judged in Percy was oats and the prize for corn will be held six weeks later.

Mr. Virtue will begin the judging of the crops in Seymour township to-day.

FIRE FIGHTERS' CONVENTION OPENS IN PETERBORO TODAY

DOUBLE ALARM HERALDS CITY'S BIGGEST FIRE

Twenty-two Lives Lost when Quaker Oats plant Burned Down After Explosion.

$2,250,000 LOST.

Small Fire Fighting Force Fought to Exhaustion To Save The City.

A double alarm, by telephone and box, at 10.15 on the morning of Dec. 11, 1916, heralded the most disastrous fire in the history of Peterboro, a conflagration that cost a score of lives, and caused damage estimated at over $$2,250,000.

Workmen in the Quaker Oats Co. plant on the bank of the Otonabee River, at Hunter street bridge, noticed the odour of burning Vim feed, while the plant was in full operation. They investigated, but before much could be done in the way of extinguishing the smouldering mass an explosion of terrific force blew out the north and the east walls of this building, and the plant was wrapped in flames. Fire doors were ripped from their fastenings and admitted the blast to sweep the fire into the mill, and so powerful was the explosion that other doors, 130 feet distant, were also wrenched off.

The concussion had already warned the firemen that something unusual had occurred, and when the alarm was received the teams were harnessed and ready. On arrival at the plant the fire fighters found the officials and employees of the plant working frantically to rescue the scores of girls who were working on the second floor of the building.

It is a matter of pride that in those first hectic moments, with the valuable plant threatened, all efforts were directed towards the saving of the lives of the employees. In this work the city firemen played a gallant and no inconspicuous part. One man who was forced to hang by his hands from a hinge outside an upper window, was saved by the firemen, who dashed under falling walls and braved smoke in their work of rescue.

Later when thoughts were turned towards extinguishing the fire, it was found that owing to the destruction of a sprinkler riser in the explosion, the pressure was reduced so much as to make it useless.

Fanned by a northeast wind, the warehouse was for many hours a flaming torch held by the breeze at threshold of the buildings on Hunter, Sheridan and Brock streets. The fire brigade of 16 men made a gallant fight to prevent the spread of the flames into the business heart of the city.

When the buildings collapsed at 5.30, a solid sheet of flame, hundreds of feet high, shot over the crest of the hill, and seemed about to wrap itself around the buildings. The court house roof caught fire from flying embers and was burned off.

A SLIGHT FROST.

Wheat is 40 Cents a Bushel Up on Last Year's Price.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13—(Canadian Press).—Frost line was touched at some points in Northern Manitoba on Monday night, but on the Grain Exchange yesterday it was reported that no damage had been done. The weather is slightly warmer, and the outlook is more promising. Cool weather with occasional showers, is prevailing in the three provinces.

The Manitoba crop is coming along nicely and only needs two weeks more of favorable weather, to give the farmers the best returns they have had since 1915.

The wheat advanced 2 cents on the Winnipeg market yesterday, due largely to fears of frost.

Wheat is 40 cents a bushel up on a year ago.

It is claimed that practically everything made in Canada from a fountain pen to a locomotive is on display at the Canadian National Exhibition. There are over 15,000 exhibits in all.

GARDENS INSPECTED BY HORTICULTURIST

Demonstration for Benefit of Firemen and Others.

Peterborough lawns and gardens passed under the observing eye of H. J. Moore, horticulturist of the Department of Agriculture of the Provincial Government yesterday, and his verdict was favourable on the appearance of the city as a whole.

"It is surprising," he said, "that there are so few ragged-looking places in the city.

In order that he might incorporate in his report some hints and suggestions for the gardeners who entered in the competition, Mr. Moore refrained from announcing the decision to-day, and will consider his report in Toronto.

The result will be announced, it is expected, on Friday, through Leon Frazer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The genial horticulturist, who has become so well known to citizens in the city, was delighted with his trip around its streets, and with the evidences of gardening activity that brightened every home.

Mr. Moore drew up the plans for the planting and laying out of the memorial park on Armour Hill undertaken by the Women's Patriotic League of Oshburnham, and a few months ago planned the now splendid grounds at St. Peter's Cathedral.

He mentioned yesterday the improvement in the appearance of the city caused by the planting of shrubs and flowers on small vacant plots such as that between Brock and Murray Streets on George Street.

SESSION OPENS IN CITY TO-DAY

Fire Fighters From All Parts Of Ontario Visit Peterborough.

EXCHANGE IDEAS.

There are more fire fighters in Peterborough to-day than ever before in its history, probably, nineteen branches of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters having sent delegates to the annual convention that opened here this morning. And these do not make up all the number.

It seems as if every fireman in Ontario who could escape duty has come to Peterborough as a visitor.

The sessions of the convention are open to delegates and visitors alike, and discussions which range all the way from fire prevention to methods of salvage after the fire will be joined in by all.

For the executive business of the Federation, three delegates from each affiliated branch are entitled to vote.

The convention was held last year in Hamilton.

Officers for this year are:

S. B. Blackler, Ottawa, president.

P. S. Herd, Toronto, immediate past president.

J. J. O'Kelly, Ottawa, first vice-president.

W. O'Rourke, Sault Ste. Marie, second vice-president.

D. H. Lamb, Toronto, secretary-treasurer.

J. McGrattan, Brantford, C. F. McCarthey, Hamilton, and R. Lyons, Toronto, executive board.

TEACHERS CONVENTION

Vision a Federation of the Teachers Of The British Empire.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—"We vision a federation not only of the teachers of all Canada, but of the British Empire," said H. G. Lister, president of The Vancouver Teachers' Association, at the banquet given in honor of delegates and teachers arriving today from all parts of Canada to attend the convention, Canadian Teachers' Federation opening Tuesday in Victoria.

CITY OFFICIALS GREET FIREMEN IN CONVENTION

Fire Fighters Is In Same Class With Doctor and Nurse, Mayor Said.

FIRE PREVENTION

Educational Work Of Chief Gimblett Is Approved In The City.

Promptly at 10.30 and with a vigor that promised well for the success of the convention the Fire Fighters this forenoon opened their sessions in the Chamber of Commerce. The first session was given over to addresses of welcome, delivered by Mayor J. J. Turner, J. Wells Fraser, Alderman W. Stocker, Chief George Gimblett and V. S. Carr.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Mayor J. J. Turner

Mayor J. J. Turner was given a hearty reception and expressed the happiness he felt in welcoming the fire fighters to Peterborough. The citizens and council will do everything possible to give a good impression of the city.

"I have always classed firemen with doctors and nurses as angels of mercy, who are endeavoring to make the ills of the world lighter on the shoulders of humanity," His Worship said.

"We have been educated of late by Chief Gimblett along the idea that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. I heartily agree with that principle."

His Worship assured the firemen that the city is theirs for the convention period.

Chief Gimblett

Chief Gimblett, as chief of the focal department welcomed the delegates on the occasion of the fifth annual convention and told of the preparations made for their entertainment by the Peterborough department.

The chief announced the programme for the week, including a tour of the city and district, fire fighting demonstrations and musical entertainments. He was given an ovation by the delegates.

J. Wells Fraser

J. Wells Fraser, president of the Chamber of Commerce, expressed the pleasure of that body in the presence of the fire fighters. The firemen are to be congratulated on their choice of Peterborough, as a convention city and the citizens of the city are to be complimented.

"There is no more important feature of modern life than that of the protection of property and life from fire," he said. "I believe that in every city there are firemen on duty 24 hours a day doing work as important as that of the doctor, nurse and similar public benefactors."

Mr. Fraser referred to the clean-up prevention campaign instituted by Chief Gimblett, which has the approval of the merchants.

Speaking to the younger men, Mr. Fraser said, "You cannot get too much information about the work to which you have set yourselves. You young men are the potential chiefs of the years to come. The thing to do is to be prepared and that is the object of your convention."

Alderman W. Stocker

Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee said: "We have a Chief here we are proud of (applause) and a brigade we are proud of. We are not yet in the highest class, but we are getting there and making steady progress."

Regarding the value of conventions Alderman Stocker said more can be learned by the interchange of ideas on such occasions as this than in any other way.

V. S. Carr

V. S. Carr, President of the Peterborough Branch extended a welcome on behalf of the branch he represents and handed over the chairmanship of the convention to Ontario President S. B. Blackler.

J. McGrattan Replies

J. McGrattan of Brantford Executive Officer of the Federation, replying to the addresses of welcome said the delegates have received a more hearty welcome here than at at any other gathering. The message of goodwill will be carried back to their communities.

"You have one of the finest chiefs in Ontario," Mr. McGrattan declared. "He is a graduate of the Federation of Fire Fighters."

Referring to remarks made by Mayor Turner, the speaker said: "The fire fighter has not only a profession in life but a mission. We go out into the country to save the lives and property of the people by teaching fire prevention.

Our business here is to teach modern methods and seek new ways of not only fighting fire but spreading the gospel of prevention."

MARKET SQUARE SCENE OF FIRE

H. J. Moore Completed His Task Last Night. Remarks On Beauty of Peterboro.

The Johns-Manville Company of Toronto, manufacturers of asbestos roofing, are making a unique demonstration in the city this week, for the express benefit of the delegates in attendance at the Fire Chiefs' Convention. They will build a miniature house, six feet by eight feet in diameter, on the Market Square, the roof and sides to be covered with their special brand of asbestos protection. On Friday morning, at half-past nine o'clock, a fire will be built around the little house to demonstrate the flame-resisting qualities of the material. Fire Chief Gimblett will be present, with visiting delegates to the convention.

Fire, Alarm Box Thirteen Wasn't Uulucky Last Year.

Thirteen was not an unlucky number last year for the firemen. Box 13, at Lock and Gladstone, in common with several others, did not call the department out a single time in 1923.

The greatest number of alarms received from any one box was three, and six boxes rang in the maximum. They were 18, at George and Dalhousie; 43, at Edinburgh and Bethune; 52, at Burnham and James; 54, at Hunter and Mark; 57, at Concession and Hazlitt; and 175, at the C. G. E. Company.

OILY RAGS MAY CAUSE A BLAZE OF THEMSELVES

Idea is Laughed at by Janitors And Other Wiseacres In All Districts.

ACTUAL EXPERIENCE.

Engineer Tells of How A Darkey Was Shown and Put Rags Outdoors.

That oily rags will on occasion burst into a blaze when segregated from heat and flame was proven to a negro porter in a United States hotel recently when Harry K. Rogers, an engineer in the Western Actuarial Bureau, took a run with the fire department. Here is the story in Mr. Rogers' own words:

On March 7, 1924, the Wichita (Kan.) Fire Department received a still alarm for the Pacific Hotel. The party putting in the alarm stated that he had been smelling smoke for some time but had been unable to locate its origin. I rode over with the chemical crew and on entering the building found the office and store-room directly back of it filled with a gas apparently coming from scorching varnish or paint. Thorough search was made of the lobby and also of the wareroom, firemen going over the floors and walls searching for a hot place. It was my good fortune to discover, finally, the source of the fire. It was a furniture polish cloth that had been padded up by a negro porter and stuck up on the ledge of a highly varnished partition. On discovering it I called the members of the crew to see a positive case of spontaneous ignition before I disturbed it. When I attempted to pick up the cloth we found that the core had been entirely consumed and the varnish underneath had burned sufficiently to give off this gas. The woodwork was so hot that it would have been but a few moments more until it would have flashed. The next morning the porter was told what he had done, but he, like many others, discredited the theory of auto-ignition and to satisfy himself, saturated a similar cloth with the same polish and placed it on a wooden work-bench and then awaited results. This cloth burst into flame in just one hour and twenty minutes. Needless to say, the negro was convinced and immediately took the can of polish to the alley.

HOME SPRINKLER

After much excitement the Smiths had at last managed to catch the train.

Now, when they could sit quietly for a while, they began to wonder if they had left anything behind.

Mrs. Smith gave a shriek.

"Oh, Harry," she gasped, "I forgot to turn off the electric-iron!"

"Don't worry, darling," he replied, "nothing will burn. I forgot to turn off the shower-bath."

FOUR HUNDRED ALARMS SOUND IN FIRE HALL

Year's Work at the Peterboro Fire Station Includes a Call Every Twenty Four Hours.

ALWAYS READY.

Biggest Losses Through Fire Were in 1916 and 1918—1923 Third Highest.

Last year the big fire gong in the station called the force into action oftener than in any year since the passing of the volunteer force and the innovation of records of calls. Four hundred and twenty-seven times the faithful horses and ready men were galvanized into action by the now common but always startling sound, and four hundred and twenty-seven times they rushed into the noonday light or into midnight blackness with the same sang-froid, unknowing whether the call was due to the prank of some boy or to the devastating force of a terrible fire.

Whether resting in their cubby-hole of a sitting-room on the second floor; scrubbing the wheels or polishing the brasswork on their engines, or asleep in their big dormitory, the firemen are always ready for the call that may take them to rescue lives and save property. In 1922 they answered 253 alarms; in 1923 they answered 427, and this year, up to the end of July, they had answered 264. The big motor combination truck last year ran 273 miles, the new motor hose wagon ran 89 miles, the Chief's car 518 miles, and the horse-drawn ladder truck covered 207 miles.

Several times of late the lives of the firemen themselves have been jeapordized, as when Captain W. Jones was overcome by smoke in the junk store fire on Bethune Street. Minor accidents have occurred, as when Chief George Gimblett's axe slipped and cut his foot. But these are all in the day's work of a fire fighter, and the men on the Peterboro department will carry on serenely, whether at a chimney fire where the principal danger is that of spilling chemicals on a citizen's best rug or at the conflagration where lives are threatened.

The alarms and fire losses in the city from 1908 up to the date of the convention with the annual fire losses, are as follows:

TWO CARD SHARPS ARRESTED IN N. Y.

Transatlantic Slickers Skin Man of $2,500 In Short Time.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press). — Two transatlantic card sharps, lightly equipped with only hand baggage to enable them to make a hurried flight from the pier, arrived yesterday by the White star liner, Majestic, after making what they supposed was a fine clean up of the saloon of the big ship, carrying 565 cabin voyagers. But they did not count on Eddie Mallen, chief of the pier detectives, who went down to quarantine on the wireless tip especially to greet them.

They boarded the ship at Cherbourg at the last minute, and got their names on additional list. They selected as their most conspicuous victim Pui Ji Chient, chinese head of the East Indian Rubber Company millionaire, with bank accounts in nearly every money mart in Europe and credit unlimited everywhere else.

The two trimmed him of $2,500, and he gave them cheques of $2,000 and $500 respectively and then promptly told the purser of his misadventure.

The Canadian National Exhibition is now in its forty-sixth year. It started in 1879 but really dates back to 1846 when the Association of Ontario Arts and Agriculture was formed, an institution that had its start with the first fair in Canada, established at Niagara in 1793 when the future settlers decided to grow flax for the purpose of furnishing the raw material for the canvas that provided the motive power for the British Navy and Mercantile Marine of that day.

AT MASQUERADE

Judges' Tastes and Fancies Taxed by Art and Beauty at Island Dance.

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 12.—The annual masquerade dance of the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association was held on Saturday night in the Pavilion at Juniper Island, which, with its decorations of multi-colored crepe paper streamers and cedar boughs, was in gala attire for this, one of the big events of the season; in fact, probably the most popular dance of the season. The floor and music were both first-class, and were enjoyed to the utmost from nine o'clock till almost midnight, when the dance broke up, leaving behind many happy memories of the evening in the hearts and minds of young and old. The music was in charge of Ken Blood's orchestra, of Peterboro, and included some of the very newest selections which were enjoyed by the dancers and the onlookers alike.

To estimate the crowd would be a difficult task, but the number in costume numbered nearly one hundred and fifty, and there were at least as many in mufti. The costumes varied from classic to the jazzy styles so much in vogue to-day. One man, representing the "Spirit of Stoney Lake," was evidently an idealist, as his costume, simple and woodsy, was a representation well worth while. The dandy of the Pickwickian period was a reminder of Victorian era, while the lady representing the barometer, which affirmed "It ain't going to rain no more," deserved a prize for her optimism. A gorgeous rajah, recalling what we have heard of the durbars; Chinese mandarins in richly embroidered coats and long pig-tails; Robin Hood, a dragon fly and night moth, and Spanish girls tripped the light fantastic in happy indifference as to the contrasts which their costumes often made. The real sensation of the evening was the "chain gang" in charge of a policeman, who kept tab on his charges and marched them up and down the floor in the "lock step," so familiar in convict stories.

The judges were allotted a very hard task as the choosing of the prize-winners was extremely difficult. The committee had provided three prizes each for ladies and gentlemen, and one each for the most original costume, and the work was finally completed by a process of elimination. Several extremely good costumes also quite worthy of a prize, were noted, among them Queen Rlizabeth, Christmas Cracker, both Chinese Mandarins (the mandarin coat worn by Mr. Culver was looted from Pekin at the Boxer rising by American troops and bought by Mr. Culver in Hong Kong), the young lady in the costume of oak leaves, the dragon fly, Eastern lady, Huck Finn, the Parrot in the Cage, the Eton boy, and Cleopatra in a most striking costume, and lots of others. The judges, who were Mrs. Laurence Grahame, Miss Morrow, Mrs. D. M. Hamilton, finally decided on the winners, and the prizes were presented by Mrs. Grahame.

First ladies' prize—Miss Grace Leeming, as a night moth; second ladies' prize—Miss Phyllis Cumberland, as a Russian princess; third ladies' prize—Mrs. J. M. Gouinlock, as an old-fashioned lady.

First gentleman's prize—Mr. Caid, Herald of Shakespear's Time; second gentleman's prize—Mr. W. Willoughby, Monk; third gentleman's prize—Mr. J. C. Strickland, Rajah.

The prizes for the most original costumes were given to Miss Winifred Culver, who represented a flower pot with a plant blooming in it, and to Mr. Roslyn Russell, who represented a scarecrow. A special prize was given to the chain gang, who certainly deserved it.

After the presentation of the prizes, Mr. Gouinlock announced the postponed flotilla for Thursday night, and asked for co-operation from everyone and also the old-timers' re-union on Saturday next.

The rain kept off till most of the crowd arrived and then descended in such force that some one said that one would not think it had never rained before; but the damp weather outside did not dampen the spirits of the merry crowd who enjoyed the fun inside, and the 1924 masquerade passes into history as quite one of the best in the history of the lake.

MADAME DOROTHY, ANIMAL TRAINER, HANDLING STEVE, THE UNTAMABLE FOREST-BRED FIGHTING LION, COMING TO PETERBORO, WITH SPARKS' CIRCUS, THURSDAY, AUG. 14.

Batty's fighting lions are one of the many feature arenic displays which will be seen with the Sparks' Circus, in Peterborough, on Thursday, August 14th.

There are five of these Nubian monsters in the act. At each meal each lion requires fifteen pounds of the choicest fresh meat, so Madam Batty's seat would probably not be so comfy as it looks if the lion suddenly got hungry.

While the performance of the Sparks' Circus this year features to some extent the most marvellous wild animal displays ever presented to an audience it also presents a great variety of stellar arenic numbers by performers of world wide fame.

Tickets can be secured on Circus Day at Payne's Drug Store, 362 George street, at the same price as at the show grounds.

FELL OVERBOARD

Lindsay Man Drowned in Thunder Bay—Employed By R. Sheehy.

LINDSAY, Aug. 13.—Further particulars are to hand concerning the death of Reynold Loucks, the Lindsay young man who met his death in the waters of Thunder Bay on Sunday. The deceased, who is employed by Mr. Richard Sheehy, of Peterboro, who has the contract for the erection of a new Catholic church at Port Arthur, left that city on Sunday with a number of young men on an excursion to Silver Island, ten miles from that city. While sitting on the rail of the steamer with his chum, G. S. Seaman, they lost their balance and fell overboard in 108 feet of water. Seaman was rescued after much difficulty, but Loucks sank from view.

HARRY PALLISTER

asked a mutual friend to drive him from Toronto to Millbrook in a car, as he was going out there to bring back his little boy and could not manage the car and take care of the child at the same time. This friend could not go, so Lauder went in his place.

Lauder then told what took place at the Hunter home when they reached there. To Mr. Wilmott, Lauder denied that he had made any threats or said anything about murder. He simply held the revolver in his hand and did not point it at anyone.

When they came to within two or three miles of Millbrook they changed the license plate on the car.

Lauder is now working with the Bell Telephone Co. in Toronto. He was brought up in Chapleau, and was educated at St. Andrew's College, Toronto, and the Chapleau High School. He understood from Pallister that they were going on a perfectly legitimate errand, and he took the revolver along, thinking that he might have a chance to shoot some game while they were passing through the woods along the road. He had nothing whatever to do with the abduction.

Helps His Chum.

Pallister took the stand and swore that what the boy said with regard to believing that the errand was a legitimate one was perfectly correct. When he went to the Hunter house he meant to take his son without force, as he believed that he had as much right to him as the mother had. All his testimony tended to show that Lauder was not to blame for what took place.

Acting on the advice of Mr. Wilmott, Lauder entered a plea of guilty to the charge of carrying firearms without a permit.

Boy's Father Testifies

Andrew Lauder, the boys' father testified on behalf of his son. His home is in Chapleau where he has lived since 1886 and where he has been fireman and engineer on the C.P.R. for the past 38 years. His son Marshall was born in Chapleau twenty one years ago. He got a position in one of the branches of the Standard Bank, when he left school and worked in different places. He lost this position when so many bank men were laid off last Fall. Some time ago he secured a position in Toronto with the Bell Telephone Co., where he is at present employed. In order to get this position he furnished testimonials signed by G. B. Nicholson, ex-M.P. of Algoma, a prominent lumberman of Chapleau. Another testimonial was from a school teacher in Chapleau. Marshall had been used to handling guns and to own them ever since he grew up. The young fellow had never been in any trouble before.

Asks For Leniency

Mr. Cochrane asked the magistrate to impose the maximum fine of $100 and costs as Lauder had pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying fire arms without a permit. He said it would be a pity to send such a young man to jail. After Magistrate Floyd had given the young defendant a fatherly lecture, he imposed the above fine.

Innocent of Abduction

Mr. Wilmott contended that no case of abduction or attempted abduction had been made out against either of the prisoners. Mr. Cochrane was of the same opinion adding that it would be useless to hold them, as he could not secure their conviction in a higher court. Finally after some discussion the Magistrate agreed to this course.

The Assault Charge

Mr. Cochrane offered to reduce the assault charge against Pallister to a case of simple assault and to let the Magistrate dispose of it forthwith, but to this Mr. Wilmott objected on the ground that there was no assault of any description. He asked for an adjournment and this was agreed to, Pallister to have a hearing before Magistrate Floyd on this charge on August 18th.

Lauder paid his fine and was released. The cash bail of Pallister to the amount of $2,000 was reduced to $1,000 at the request of Mr. Wilmott and the extra amount was returned to him.

The Auto Case

E. L. Pallister of Toronto, brother of the defendant and who owned the auto in which the two men rode to Millbrook pleaded guilty to the charge of changing the number on the car and paid a fine of $5.00 and costs.

AUTO SENSE — A NEW USE FOR TOBACCO — BY WILLIAMSON

Some drivers may disagree with Doc's tobacco theory. It has been subject to much discussion, but follow the directions Doc gives and test it out for yourself.

The surest way to keep your windshield clear on a rainy day is to be sure that it is clean. Particles of dust or other foreign matter stuck on the glass prevents the water from running off in a clear sheet. Be sure that the glass is clean before you rub the wet tobacco over it.

Anything that does not obstruct the vision and dissolves easily and evenly will serve the same purpose as tobacco juice. When a drop of water strikes the glass coated with nicotine it spreads quickly, and as others strike, the water begins to run off in a clear sheet.

One application of tobacco should be sufficient to keep the glass clear for several hours.

The temperature back of the windshield is always higher than the front when it is raining. The difference will cause the glass to sweat on the back or inside, making the glass cloudy. You will have to keep it clean on both sides if you want to see through it.

Some contend that it is possible to waterproof a windshield with glycerine. This may be true, but Doc has experimented with it several times without success.

SITUATION IN SPAIN.

King Afonso May Decide To Abdicate. Conditions Worse.

LIVERPOOL, August 12 (Canadian Press). — A grave view of the situation in Spain is presented by the special correspondent in Madrid of the Liverpool Post, who telegraphs his paper as follows:

"News available here to-day is of a contradictory character, but information from semi-official sources confirms the indication of the gravity of the situation in Spain. Besides an arrangement for Premier Primo de Rivera's retirement and the transformatoih of the dictatorship into a constitutional Government, I understand possibly the abdication of King Alfonso is being considered by the King and his ministers."

An abortive attempt was made yesterday evening at Lisbon to bring about a Radical Communist revolt here.

A few bombs were thrown, but they caused no damage, and several persons were arrested.

The police and military are now in control of the city and the conditions are normal.

ARTILLERY REGIMENT FAMOUS IN AMERICAN HISTORY RE-ORGANIZED

The Coast Artillery Historical Famous Fighting Unit First Saw Service in 1794.

RE-OPENED.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Reconstituted as the Third Coast Artillery, the Third Regiment of Artillery, historically famous fighting unit of the United States army which first saw service in July 1, 1794, recently reopened its history at Fort MacArthur, near here, under the command of Major George Ruhlen, Jr.

Battle ribbons won on home and foreign fields during the last 130 years fluttered from the color standards as "The Fighting Third" was ceremoniously reconstituted at the fort.

The Third Regiment of Artillery came into being following the Revolutionary War. It was recruited among the veterans of that war for service against the Indians in the conquest of the west.

It first became prominent among fighting units on Feb. 22-23, 1847, at the Battle of Buena Vista. General Santa Ana, commanding the Mexican forces, had swept all American resistance before him. Without infantry to support him, and at the expense of losing his own guns, Capt. Bragg, then commanding "The Fighting Third," brought his troops into action with a withering charge of canister. The first charge halted the Mexican advance. The smoke from the second and third salvos cleared away with the Mexicans in rout. Thus the regiment won its present motto, "Saved the Day," which was conferred upon it by General Zachary Taylor, following the engagement.

Through the War of 1812 and in the Florida peninsula campaigns the regiment served the colors creditably. In the California campaigns it was present at Monterey, Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo, Buena Vista, and the final engagement at Molino del Rey. It was present when the opening gun of the war was fired at Palo Alto, May 8, 1846, and took part in all major engagements.

On December 21, 1853, five batteries of the Third Artillery embarked from the east coast for station in California, via Cape Horn, aboard the steamer San Francisco. Of the 600 souls aboard 500 were men of the Third. On the day before Christmas the San Francisco struck a nor'wester that completely disabled her, and during which 175 men were lost overboard. A week later assistance was rendered the derelict by the American ships Kilby and Three Bells and the British sloop of war Antarctic. The latter vessel carried 142 survivors to Liverpool, the first American troops to land in England.

After a year's trials and misfortunes the Third was again assembled, and arrived in California, where it was actively engaged in marching and scouting until the outbreak of the Civil War, when its history was marked with distinction.

It served at the memorable capture of Manila, P. I., during the Spanish-American War, and was broken up into separate companies in 1901 to form the Artillery corps of the army. Parts of the famous Third saw action on all the fronts of France during the World War.

GYPSY AVIATOR CAMPS ON ROAD FOR HIS TRADE

Free-Lance Fliers Lead Roving and Adventurous Life.

TAKE PASSENGERS

Prophets of New Era Scout the Danger of Flying—All Experienced.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The mahogany-skinned, gilt-ringed, familiar gypsy of childhood who haunted small country fairs to tell fortunes or swindle the guileless farmer with spavined horse has all but disappeared. But he has left his name behind for descriptive use. There is the gypsy flier, knight of the air and free-lance aviator, who, in his restless activity and adventurous calling, typifies the better qualities of the "wandering people."

These aviators may be found in considerable numbers at camps along the Jericho Turnpike, Jerusalem Avenue, Hempstead Boulevard and the Merrick Road as far out as Patchogue, and at other points on Long Island. With their machines parked along the highway, they are ready to take up casual visitors to almost any height above the clouds for the trifling sum of $5 for a ten minutes' ride. A rate of 50 cents a minute is cheap enough, considering the thrills imparted by a first experience in hopping off the ground.

Pilots engaged in this business came to be known as "gypsies" because of the popular belief in their unsettled life—here today and gone tomorrow—and because of the American penchant for sticking a slang label to anything new or unusual. For business purposes the men themselves prefer to be known as "commercial fliers," but in the confidence of camp or hangar they call themselves "barnstormers." And a brave, healthy, fine-looking lot of young men they are. Pioneers in a new vocation, every last one of them believes he is blazing the way for an infant industry. He fondly hopes for the day when every city of any size will have public landing places, with through and regular passenger service by air between communities from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Expect Increase in Flying.

They do not approve of the appellation "gypsy" because it connotes carelessness and irresponsibility, which is far from descriptive of their business. They declare that they are trying, above all things, to overcome the popular belief that danger lurks in a trip through the air. Once the average sidewalk and highway citizen is convinced that flight into and above the clouds is as safe as a trip by railway—far safer, the gypsies contend, than a ride at thirty miles an hour in an automobile—they look for a considerable increase in flying for both recreational and commercial purposes.

"Risk? Nonsense," declared Russell Halderman, a commercial flier who keeps his machines at Rockaway Boulevard, Jamaica. "In seven years at this business, taking up thousands of persons who had never before been in an airplane, I have enver had an accident. Flying is just about ten times as safe, I should say, as automobiling.

"It's only when there has been an accident or some stunt flight that the public hears about flying. Nothing is ever said or printed about the thousands of times persons go up and come down safely. Of course, I realize there is no 'news' in safety; that it is only the unusual or the unexpected that attracts attention. But this advertising of accidents, with no word of the flights made in safety, is one of the things that hold back the more general use of the plane. But the day will come when we will have scheduled service by airplanes between the big cities."

Mr. Halderman suggested that workable flying fields suitable for starting and landing planes might be constructed in Central Park, Prospect Park, Brooklyn or at Governors Island.

"But the gypsy flier, Mr. Halderman; who is he, where does he come from, which way is he headed?"

"Oh, the barnstormers? Well I should say there are some twenty-five or thirty commercial fliers in the country. They go from one city or town to another, wherever the business is good, or there is a likely chance to create new business. In addition to taking up clients or customers who go for recreation, for the thrill they get out of it, these pilots take photographs of cities and towns or great stretches of country and also make maps. Many of them visit country fairs or other exhibitions likely to attract large numbers of people.

"Personally, I guarantee to refund to any one who goes up with me a substantial sum of money if the passenger is in any way discommoded or dissatisfied with his experience in the air. I've never had a complaint and don't expect to have any.

"There are probably more than a dozen free-lance fliers on Long Island ready to take up any one who comes along. These pilots are all experienced men. Most of them got their training during the war at Government stations. And, believe me, it cost the Government a pretty penny to teach them. Now, all this training is at the command of the public at a trifling cost."

"Do the pilots make a good thing of it financially?"

"The first year I operated as an independent flier," said Mr. Halderman. "I saved $10,000. But there are many more men in the business now and we are not making quite so much. I should say that a good aviator working on his own should earn between $4,000 and $5,000 a year. It is pleasant work and one always has the satisfaction, too, of knowing that he is teaching some one; making a convert to the art of aviation.

Free and easy as his life may be, the gypsy flier is a stickler for the law, and for mere law so far as the statutes relate to his vocation. Both Mr. Halderman and Thomas J. King, an associate of his, are loud in their demands for State and Federal control of pilots and a clearer definition of air regulations. There is no law requiring a pilot to take out a license, they say, and any one can learn to fly a plane and start right in taking up passengers. This they believe is all wrong. They think that men who are responsible for the safety of other persons should undergo a thorough test as to their ability before being permitted to do business with the general public.

A gypsy flier, in their opinion, is a public carrier and should be subject to laws as strict in their application as are railways, steam vessels and other public carriers. The skipper of a 30-foot motor boat who takes out fishing parties in Great South Bay or other waters is required to comply with certain Government conditions before he gets a license, but the barnstorming flier is footloose when it comes to Government regulation.

Teaching Brings Revenue.

Although the majority of the gypsy fliers are ex-army or ex-navy men with sound training behind them, there have of late been many new pilots turned out under the tutelage of these older aviators. And this teaching, too, is a source of revenue to the gypsies. After a young man passenger tastes the delights of aviation he usually wants to continue the experience. Encouraged by the pilot, he enrolls as a student flier. Pupils pay $30 an hour for tuition, and it takes about eight hours' flying time to make an aviator. Mr. King, who has just completed his flying course, remarked that the first flight in an airplane is subject for wonder; that it is on the second flight only that one begins to thrill to the delights of flying. He told expressively of his trip only a few mornings ago. Arising at 4 o'clock he and Mr. Halderman hurried to the plane at old Mitchel Field, outside of Garden City, and hopped off as day was breaking.

"At a thousand feet up in the air," he said, "we seemed to be standing still while all below was moving. We climbed higher and got above the mist and smoke of the city, bursting, seemingly, into a clearer, sweeter atmosphere with all the grime and dust and dirt of the earth far, far beneath us. Then a great blush overspread the sky in the east and we knew the sun was coming up. Oh, it was glorious! A sunrize such as one never could possibly see from the ground. I felt repaid at that moment for what trouble I had had in learning to fly. Every one should go through just such an experience if he wants to feel what it is to get away from all earthly, sordid connections. It is a liberal education in the emotions, if nothing else."

Mr. Halderman, by the way, tried to start a new fashion in honeymoon trips some three years ago. On the day that he was married to Miss Dorothy Harris of Jamaica, bride and groom climbed into a plane, flew to Atlantic City and from there to Florida. He recommends a similar trip to others instead of the customary tour to Bermuda or Niagara Falls.

"There," he exclaimed, pointing to a large powerful-looking plane taking off from the field, "goes the United States mail. That fellow won't stop until he gets to Cleveland. He's on time, too; just 11 o'clock. Do you know that the air mail has a record of being on time 99 per cent. of the time?

"And that other fellow at the far side of the field; see him? Well, he's getting ready to go up to take a series of photographs for a commercial house."

All over the big field were planes, some of them ,known as "Orioles" because of their red color, were marked "for exhibition." These were public machines which any one could hire for a trip. But the gypsy may use any kind or make of plane. He is not particular, provided the plane is well constructed and fitted with a dependable engine. Of one thing the passenger may be certain, the barnstormer is not only a competent aviator, but is also an expert machinist and a good navigator.

PREPARING FOR DRIVE AGAINST RUM SMUGGLING

Rum Row on Atlantic Ocean Is at Present In Immient Danger Of Raid.

PLAN BIG DRIVE.

Fleet Will Consist Of 20 Destroyers and 300 Motor Boats.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 13. — "Rum Row" is in imminent danger of being blown from the surface of the Atlantic Ocean, it was indicated Tuesday when it became known that a fleet of twenty reconditioned navy destroyers, two former navy mine sweepers, and three hundred fast motor boats, were being gathered for the greatest drive against smuggling yet undertaken by the government.

Just when the drive will begin the not been divulged but the coast guard officials stated that it is "imminent."

"It would not be wise for us to notify the enemy exactly when and where to expect us," said W. E. V. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard of the New York District.

The reconditioning of the destroyers turned over to the coast guard has been progressing rapidly at the Philadelphia navy yards.

It was learned on Tuesday that a combined attack upon liquor, narcotic and alien running along the Atlantic coast may be expected any day.

The fact that 1000 enlisted men were sent to the Philadelphia yard a week ago is thought to indicate that the work on the vessels is nearing completition.

SCIENTISTS AT PARTY.

Heavy Programme Greeted Scientists on Last Day of Sessions.

TORONTO, August 13. — In order to bring their sessions to a close to-day, the members of the British Association for the advancement of science, shostly after noon completed the heaviest half day programme set them since the opening of the annual gathering one week ago.

A strenuous wind-up is necessary in order that the sessions should not clash with the conferring of the degree of Doctor of Science, Honoris Causa, by the University of Toronto, on eight of the noted visitors, four from Great Britain, and the remainder from other European countries.

Following the convocation the scientists were entertained to a garden party by the Senate of the University.

EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN

No Severe Damage or Loss of Life Was Reported To-Day.

TOKIO, August 13. — A sharp earthquake centering near Nagoya, which stopped the clocks in the cities of Osaka, Kope and Kyoto, and sent people scurrying to the streets, in their night clothes, was reported to-day in a despatch from Osaka.

The tremor was sufficiently severe to throw dishes and other articles to the floor, but did no severe damage. No loss of life was reported.

Prof. Nakamura, who several weeks ago predicted the shock, announced his belief that the quake originated 200 miles southwest of Nagoya, in the sea.

The Community Sings will be continued in front of the grand stand at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. Over 25,000 people take part each night.

A 16 YEAR OLD GIRL SMUGGLER

Young Mrs. Nagey Smuggled Aliens Into U. S. For Big Returns.

WINDSOR, August 13. — At least 50 aliens have been smuggled into the United States from here by 16-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Nagey Johnson, the U. S. Federal Immigration authoritics charged yesterday.

The girl, who is but a bride of two weeks standing was arrested on a river excursion boat on Saturday, together with Louis Nagey, John Pachuta and Joseph Kupecz, aliens. Nagey is not related to the girl.

The men have confessed, it is alleged, that they paid Mrs. Johnson $30 each for attempting to bring them into Detroit.

Her mode of operation, and that of several other smugglers, according to the immigration officials, was to buy round trip tickets for Boys Blanc Island boats at the Detroit office. These she would sell to aliens at exorbitant rates.

Boys Blanc Island, being Canadian territory, the aliens could cross from Amherstburg without molestation, and the return half of the round trip ticket would enable them to board the boat for Detroit.

NEW COMMERCIAL PLAN

Spanish and German Government Plan to Trade with Each Other.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The Spanish Government has just concluded with the German Government a new commercial arrangement which is expected to work greatly to the advantage of Germany's export trade to Spain in competition with that of Great Britain and the United States.

A Guaranteed Remedy
All druggists here or every druggist in Canada, as a matter of fact, is authorized to sell Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes on the positive guarantee that if it does not give almost instant relief and even more, if it is not found absolutely the best remedy ever used for Bronchial Asthma, difficult breathing or the asthmatic symptoms accompanying Hay Fever, money will be refunded by them without question.
Sufferers who have not already tried these remedies can rely on the genuineness of this guarantee, as well as depend on its fulfillment in view of being backed up by their own druggist, in case it should fail. The more severe, violent or obstinate the case, the more will Asthmador be appreciated and prized, after its first trial. The percentages of failure to relieve promptly are so small that the manufacturers have no hesitancy in announcing this guarantee and are willing, desirous and anxious to refund to the infinitely few sufferers who do not obtain relief, as neither they nor the druggists who sold the package want your money, if not relieved. Read the guarantee on the label.

Most Important Amendment Passed Was Eight-Hour Day for Laborers.

By HENRY WOOD.

GENEVA, Aug. 13.—The rapid progress that is being made all over the world in the matter of labor legislation has been summarized in a statement issued by the International Labor Bureau.

Since the creation of the International Labor Bureau under the terms of the Versailles treaty, the various international labor conferences that have since been held, including the original one at Washington in 1919, that of Genoa in 1920 and the three successive ones at Geneva in 1921 ,1922, and 1923, have drafted thirty-six international conventions and recommendations relating to the adjustment of labor conditions.

To date these thirty-six conventions, of which the most important one is that of the eight-hour day, have received a total of 133 ratifications in the various countries.

There is now virtually no country in the world, belonging to the International labor bureau, that has not ratified and put into force from one to half a dozen of these international labor conventions.

Considers Unemployment.

The International Labor Bureau by a series of investigations in the leading countries of the world has demonstrated that the financial policy of a government is one of the greatest factors in the question of unemployment.

The general principle that has been deducted from the investigation is that countries that have inflated their currencies suffer less from unemployment than those which seek to bring their currency back to the pre-war basis.

The most striking example of this is declared to be England where the government's effort to re-establish the pre-war value of the pound, necessitating a deflation of currency has resulted in industrial conditions that have left a million people out of employment.

The same phenomenon was noticed in Poland where the efforts of the government to rehabilitate the national finances resulted in unemployment which attained in some industries as high as 40 per cent. of all the workers.

Czecko-Slovakia also passed through a similar experience when the government undertook to deflate the currency, but since then the industrial situation, including the element of unemployment, has adapted itself to the new basis of a stabilized currency.

Society Women Of London Same as Those of Central Africa.

LONDON, Aug. 13. — (United Press). — The modern society woman of civilized lands have much in common with primeval women of Central America according to F. A. Muchall-Hedges, explorer who is about to return to Honduras to look for prehistoric cities.

"The primitive women of the San Blazkas and Shucunanie in British Honduras have bobbed and shingled hair—just like the women of London," he said.

"The women of those central American tribes wear all kinds of bangles. London women have a craze for glass bangles of the very similar kind." The tribe women have highly painted faces ditto in London."

FABLES ON HEALTH

GET OUT OF DOORS.

Summer spells the coming of vacation; week-end holidays; more out-of-doors; hills and trails and trout streams!

"This is the time to get acquainted with your legs!" they told Mr. Mann of Anytown, and this is good advice for everyone.

It's a good time to learn sleeping in the out-of-doors.

It's a good time to learn how to wear light, loose and porous clothes.

Doing these things; getting away from the city to the hills; sleeping out; wearing clothes about which the air can circulate—

Doing these things is a great help toward self-education in simple health things.

Such things will help the red-hot days to seem pleasanter and will build up vitality for better weathering the heat.

Ventilate the rooms and sleep out-doors, if possible.

Breathe deeply and don't let the city imprison you.

Get to a lake or bay or ocean and swim.

THREE CEREMONIES TO SECURE RUSSIAN PRINCE HIS BRIDE

Million Dollar Heiress Undergoes Triple Service in London

TITANIC ECHO

Miss Astor Inherited Fortune From Father Drowned at Sea

Three wedding ceremonies were necessary to make Miss Alice Astor, the £1,000,000 heiress of John Jacob Astor, the wife of Prince Obolensky, descendant of an ancient Russian family:—

(1) At the Princess-row registry office, Buckingham-gate;

(2) At the Chapel Royal, Savoy;

(3) At the Russian Church, in Buckingham Palace-road.

The Prince is the divorced husband of Princess Catherine Alexandrovna Barcalinsky, and the bride's mother is Lady Riddlesdale.

Great efforts were made to keep each of the three ceremonies as quiet as possible, and most of the guests were invited to one only.

At the registry office, where Lady Ribblesdale and Mr. Russell H. Rhodes were witnesses, the bride wore a black tailored costume, from which she afterwards changed into a wedding gown of ivory georgette for the Chapel Royal ceremony.

HALF-A-DOZEN GUESTS.

Not more than half-a-dozen friends were in the little church, where Lord Astor gave the bride away. The Rev. Hugh Chapman in his address expressed the wish that "each had met his and her affinity."

The third ceremony at the Russian Church was performed with much ritual. Now a Russian princess as well as the richest girl in the world, the bride carried a sheaf of arum lilies as she passed up the centre of the church to meet her bridegroom.

The high altar was bright with candle lights and flowers, and the priest was dressed in the gorgeous robes of the Eastern Church.

The guests admitted by strictly scrutinized tickets, included Prince and Princess Nicolas of Greece, Lord and Lady Astor, Major the Hon. John and Lady Violet Astor, Lord and Lady Lovat and the Earl and Countess of Westmoreland.

LADY RIBBLESDALE'S RECEP.

Prince Paul of Serbia was the best man, and Lord Astor again gave the bride away. Lady Ribblesdale subsequently held a reception at 18 Grosvenor square, after which the Prince and Princess left for the Continent.

Miss Astor was brought up in England, and when the will of her father—who was drowned in the Titantic disaster—was proved it was found that she had inherited £1,000,000. The bride is 22 and her husband 33.

Financier Gets First Square Meal After Serving Jail Term

Ernest Terah Hooley, the financier, who was sentenced to three years' imprisonment early in 1922 for conspiracy to defraud in connection with the Jubilee Cotton Mills, Ltd., has been released from Parkhurst Prison.

He breakfasted at an hotel in Yarmouth, where, he said, he had "a good square meal—the first for two and a half years."

He then boarded a boat at Lymington, journeyed to Southampton, and thence to Derby by way of London.

KING REFUSES AID FROM GREEK GOV'T.

Royal Visitor Shows Preference for English Clothes When Shopping

The small suite with which King George has come to London—one aide-de-camp and two valets—is explained by the fact that he has only a small private income. The acceptance of a financial offer from the Greek Republican Government would mean a formal declaration of abdication, but the King has strong hopes that he will soon return to his country as its acknowledged king.

The absence of an imposing staff led to an amusing incident in the steamer in which he crossed the Channel.

King George was about to enter the cabin he had reserved when he was stopped by a steward, who said, "Sorry, sir, you cannot stay here. This cabin belongs to somebody else."

"Who?" asked the King.

"The King of Greece," replied the steward.

"But I am the King of Greece," came the answer. The steward collapsed, but the King treated the affair as a joke.

ENGLISH CLOTHES.

The King went shopping yesterday morning and ordered a number of suits, and boots and shoes.

"He likes the English style of clothes better than any other," said Capt. Levidis, his aide-de-camp.

The King has a number of social engagements to fulfil in England. He will be joined shortly by the Queen of Greece, who is now staying at La Borboule, in the Auvergne. They will return to France in about three weeks' time.

JAPANESE STUDENT WALKING ARSENAL

Described as a walking arsenal by the Dover magistrates, Tutsuo Kikuchi, a Japanese, was fined £90 and costs yesterday for importing three pistols, eight revolvers, and 577 rounds of ammunition. All the weapons were fully loaded.

The man said he collected pistols and that he was a student at the School of Economics at Birmingham, and was staying in London.

The magistrate told him that the collection was against the laws; he replied that he was not aware of the fact.

The fine was paid, and the firearms and ammunition were kept by the Customs authorities.

POLICEMAN'S LOT IS NOT A HAPPY ONE IN LONDON STREETS

Eighty-one London policemen were bitten by dogs while on duty during 1923, says the Chief Commissioner in his annual report.

Altogether, 1,429 officers were injured while in the execution of their duty, and 804 were accidentally injured.

JAMBOREE

Scouts From All Over Empire Were Gathered at Wembley

Six hundred Boy Scouts, representing 20 States and Dependencies of the Empire, were reviewed by the King in the riding school at Buckingham Palace. The Scouts came in motor charabancs from Wembley, where they were encamped in readiness for the Great Jamboree.

Passing down a "corridor" of boys in their bright-colored uniforms, the King was received with a Royal salute.

He shook hands with each Scoutmaster, and stopped to chat for a few moments to typical Scouts representing the various Dominions.

He was especially interested in a group of five cubs who had arrived a few hours earlier from Rhodesia.

Then, taking his place in the centre of the building, the King made the Scouts a delightfully informal speech of welcome.

THE KING'S SPEECH.

"I have been having a very busy time lately," he said, "but I could not think of leaving London without having seen you. I wish to congratulate you on your smart appearance and on your excelent discipline.

"I feel sure that your visit to England will be of great interest to you in after years, and that during your busy week at Wembley you will learn more than you would learn at school in a whole year."

"I started to go round the world," the King went on, "when I was only about the age of some of you. I was only 14.

"Once a Boy Scout, always a Boy Scout"—those words were used by Lord Kitchener on one occasion when inspecting Boy Scouts. I think you know what I mean—that the promises you made when you joined the Boy Scouts you ought to keep for the rest of your lives, and that will make you better citizens of the Empire to which we are all so proud to belong."

CHIEF SCOUT'S ADVICE.

The King concluded by wishing them all "the best of luck."

Afterwards, standing with the Duke of Connaught, who opened the Jamboree, the King watched the Scouts march past him, and took the salute.

Before returning to the Palace the King spoke a few friendly words to a group of Japanese Scouts who were present as guests.

Later, Sir R. S. Baden-Powell, the Chief Scout, addressed the gathering, advised them during their stay in England to make chums with British Scouts, and not keep to their own groups.

"Remember," he said, "the comradeship formed by your fathers with soldiers from this country during the Great War, and followed that example, not for bloodshed in the future, but for brotherhood."

LINK WITH FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE LIVING

In the little village of Chandler's Ford, near Romsey, Hants, lives Dr. Arthur E. T. Longhurst, who served as surgeon-major in the Crimean War and in the Indian Mutiny.

Dr. Longhurst was the superintendent of the Scutari hospital in which Florence Nightingale worked. For his courage and devotion he was more than once commended and was mentioned in despatches.

At ninety-three, Dr. Longhurst is hale and hearty, enjoying long walks and attending unaided to a large garden.

NEW PEST ADDS TO MOTORISTS' TROUBLES

The motor-slasher has succeeded the window-slasher in London.

One of the leading motor insurance companies has just received two claims for malicious damage done to motor-cars left standing in the street.

The paint work of a new car left outside a house in Golders Green at 11 o'clock at night was scratched almost its full length in about 8 distinct places, apparently with a knife.

The owner of a car who left it for a short while outside a house in Wembley, also at night, found on his return that the hood had been cut almost to ribbons.

SEEK TO BROADCAST PICTURES BY RADIO

An attempt is to be made in September to broadcast a cinema picture from New York.

A number of inventions dealing with the transmission of photographs by wireless will be demonstrated at the "First Radio World's Fair," to be held in Madison Square Garden from September 22 to 27. The effort to broadcast moving pictures will be made on the opening night.

Many feats of long-range concert transmission will be carried out during the exhibition, and the leading part in the musical programmes will be taken by Miss Edith Bennett, an American singer.

PREACHES SERMONS FOR HIS HOLIDAY

To preach eight sermons in six days was the strange holiday arrangement of an energetic New York minister visiting London. He is the Rev. John McNeill, of the Fort Washington Presbyterian Church, New York City, who has held pastorates in Edinburgh, London, and Liverpool.

He preached five sermons at the City Temple, and spoke twice at the British Empire Exhibition for the religious services committee.

Mr. McNeill described his visit as a vacation, and people are wondering what he does when he is really hard at work.

COMMUNISTS SEEK TO CREATE SEDITION IN ARMY AND NAVY

Editor Arrested After Publication of Open Letter in Periodical

SHOOT OPPRESSORS

Soldiers Urged Not to Use Firearms Against Strikers

The Communist Party of Great Britain, acting on the instructions of the Communist International, is now attempting to organise Communist propaganda in the Army and Navy.

In the current issue of the Workers' Weekly there is published an "Open Letter" to sailors and soldiers. The letter is of a very sedious and treasonable nature, and as a result of its publication the Editor, John Ross Campbell was arrested this week. A few exerpts from this Open Letter will indicate its purpose.

The men are told that "Once in the Services, you are subjected to a military discipline that bears down upon you in an ever-increasing manner. Repressive regulations and irksome restrictions are intentionally imposed upon you. And when war is declared longing to beat the enemy! The enemy consists of working men, like yourselves, living under the same slave conditions. But the Government not only organizes the Services for war, it always keeps them fully equipped to be able to crush their own workers when the need arises."

The Letter goes on to describe the employment of soldiers in industrial disputes, and concludes with the following "Appeal to Soldiers":

Soldiers, sailors, airmen, flesh of our flesh, and bone of our bone, the Communist Party calls upon you to begin the task of not only organizing passive resistance when war is declared, or when an industrial dispute involves you, but to definitely and categorically let it be known that, neither in the class war nor a military war, will you turn your guns on your fellow-workers, but instead will line up with your fellow-workers in an attack upon the exploiters and capitalists, and will use your arms on the side of your own class.

Form committees in every barracks, aerodrome, and ship. Let this be the nucleus of an organization that will prepare the whole of the soldiers, sailors, and airmen, not merely to refuse to go to war, or to refuse to shoot strikers during industrial conflicts, but will make it possible for the workers, peasants and soldiers, sailors and airmen, to go forward in a common attack upon the capitalists, and smash capitalism for ever and institute the reign of the whole working class.

Refuse to shoot down your fellow workers.

Refuse to fight for profits.

Turn your weapons on your oppressors.

PARLIAMENT BIG RIVAL TO WEMBLEY

Three Thousand Visitors a Day to Empire Legislative Halls

Next to the British Empire Exhibition the Houses of Parliament are at present the most popular show-place in London.

More than 18,000 people have passed through the lobbies on a single Saturday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., this being a "free" day on which it is not necessary to obtain the escort of an M.P.

On other mornings M.P.s are almost overwhelmed with requests to take parties of constituents and school-children round "The House" before they go on to Wembley.

On one morning eighteen parties were booked to arrive by motor-coaches. Some parties were at least 400 in number. At one time 30 motor-coaches were standing in Palace Yard. The total number of visitors was more than 3,000.

To every 50 visitors there must be attached one M.P., and one policeman in their tour of the premises. Viscount Curzon is the member most in demand as a guide.

All records for the famous "tea on the Terrace" have also been broken. At 1s. 3d. per head more than 700 teas have been served on many occasions, the daily average being above 500.

Midnight Raid on Castle in Clare is Costly to County

For the looting of Lydican Castle, co. Clare, in 1922, the judge at Galway County Court awarded £4,107 to Mr. and Mrs. John Greated.

Twenty armed men went to the castle at midnight one Saturday in September 1922. A man, whose face was blackened, entered the bedroom, carrying a gun, and warned Mr. Greated not to stir, at the price of his life. He then locked the room, and the raiders stripped the house and destroyed pictures and other valuables, which were thrown out of the window.

The castle, with the contents, was afterwards burned to the ground.

Lady Wallscourt, widow of the late Lord Wallscourt, was awarded £2,700 for damage to Ardfry Castle, from which numerous articles were looted.

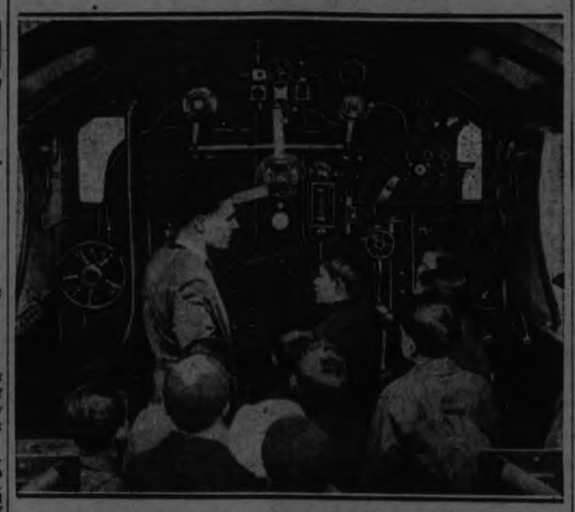
"EXAGGERATED"

Gunner Reported Killed in War is Itinerant Matmaker

An ex-gunner of the Royal Field Artillery named McDonald, who was reported killed in France in January, 1917, has been found at Kirkconnel, Dumfriesshire, and has been identified by his brother, James McDonald, of Mauchline, Ayrshire. He was travelling about at a matmaker when he was recognized by a woman who knew him previously.

His mind is almost a blank, but he remembers being buried by a shell explosion and taken prisoner.

Modern Railway Engine is Big Magnet



The Palace of Engineering at Wembley, a regular treasure-house of mechanical marvels where all sorts of wonderful modern machines are demonstrated every day, is the ideal haunt for boys of all ages who are interested in mechanics. Our illustration shows an engineer demonstrating to a group of boys how the new type of express locomotive works.

LIGHTING HOUSES BY WIRELESS IS LATEST BRITISH INVENTION

Remarkable Experiments at Leigh Forecast Abolition of Cables and Widespread Use of Electrical Waves From Central Generator.

Remarkable results have followed the test of an invention by which, it is claimed, electricity can be transmitted for light and power without cable or wires. It has been made by J. J. Dawson, of Leigh-on-Sea, and F. G. Milner, of Southend, and it is stated that by this system, electricity could be generated at a station in Wales and sent by wireless to Scotland.

A large firm has now agreed to develop the scheme on the financial side following a demonstration at Leigh.

TEST IN A YACHT.

During the demonstration a transmitting apparatus was placed on Mr. Milner's motor-yacht moored to the shore, and a dinghy was rowed some distance with a receiver on board. There were also electric lights, fans, dynamos, and bells in the boat. Immediately the dinghy began to move the current was switched on. The lamps lit, the motors revolved, and the fans and bells worked. The dinghy was rowed round in circles, and the current still had effect at a distance of 250 yards.

Mr. Milner, in an interview, said:—

"By our system it will be possible to have a central generating station that will provide electricity in the ordinary way. The electric current will then be sent by means of an aerial into the air, and can be received at any building wired in the ordinary way, by using a special receiver, which must be 'tuned in.'

CURRENT "INNOCUOUS."

"The current is absolutely innocuous in the air. We have proved, too, by placing a Marconi wireless within three feet of our apparatus that it has no effect whatever on the wireless current.

"Our invention is worked by means of direct current, and not alternating current. On the apparatus there is nothing moving, nothing glowing, and there are no valves.

"We have already transferred current from one room to another and in less than six months it should be possible to supply from a generating station having a radius of three miles enough current to light all the houses and work the machinery in a town. I can guarantee that the cost of light and power in the home by our system will be 33 1-3 per cent. cheaper at least than by any other system at present employed.

"There are no costs of cables. The only wiring is within the house and on the aerial. The receiving box is only six or eight inches square in a small set, and the receiver itself acts as meter. The saving on cables and maintenance would more than compensate for any loss of current through the air.

"At the present moment, if I erected a station on Canvey Island I could light and run all the road traffic by means of wireless electricity.

"It was just by accident that we hit on the whole system. Experts who have seen it state that it is contrary to all theories of electricity."

The technical director of the firm who have taken up the scheme was enthusiastic.

"If what the inventors claim is correct," he said, "it will be possible to light the whole countryside almost by means of radiating electricity."

Many electrical firms in Britain and also the Australian Government are stated to have been in communication with the inventors during the last month. Mr. Dawson, who is the originator of the system, is only twenty-six years old.

LEADEN STATUES REAL TREASURE

Unusual Discovery in London Garden Brought Wealth to Two

Hidden treasure in an unusual form has been discovered in an old Georgian house in Holloway which was recently sold for conversion into a garage.

In the garden were eight statues, apparently of stone or plaster, very much in the way, and far from beautiful. The purchaser of the property received an offer from a workman engaged on the premises for one of them, representing a cupid, and said he might have it if he took it away.

The man, however, found it too heavy to move. An examination of the statues was undertaken, and it revealed the fact that they were made of solid lead covered with several coats of paint. Each of them weighed many tons. With lead at about £33 a ton, the owner received more than £2,000 for the lot, and £200 was given the workman.

Many years ago the house was the private residence of a builder.

INCOME OF $50,000 YEARLY GAMBLING

Robert Standish Sievier stated in the London Bankruptcy Court that he had made as much as £100,000 in one year by betting and gambling.

This is Mr. Sievier's fourth failure. In his statement of affairs he estimated his liabilities at £129,000, against assets of £31,000.

At one time "The Winning Post," which he founded, brought him in £10,000 a year, he said, but now it brought in nothing, and actually owed him about £18,000.

His expenditure recently had only amounted to £2,000 a year, although it had once been between £8,000 and £10,000. He would not agree that he had been extravagant.

The examination was concluded.

Miss A. Dale, a New Zealand Government matron, who began her 55th voyage to New Zealand in the White Star liner Ionic, from Southampton travelled in the vessel on her maiden voyage more than 20 years ago.

The cartoon originated in Holland.

GIRLS BAPTIZED IN SUMMER FINERY

Religious Revival in Wales May Bring Evan Roberts Out

There are indications of another religious revival in South Wales, and it is thought that Evan Roberts, the famous Welsh revivalist, may be induced to come from his retirement to lead the new movement.

Remarkable scenes were witnessed at Ebenezer Baptist Church, Abertillery, last week. The chapel, which is one of the largest in Wales, was crowded, and when the minister made an appeal to the congregation to make a profession of the Christian faith, no fewer than twenty-one persons came forward and were baptized.

The candidates included girls in flimsy summer dresses and collliers, one of whom took off his coat and vest on the steps of the baptistry, in which the water is three feet deep. All the candidates were completely immersed.

WHAT HAPPENED TO SWANSEA BROTHERS?

One Body Found on Seashore, But Other Missing

Startling discoveries have followed the finding by a Swansea dairyman of the dead body of a man wedged between rocks at Hunt's Bay, on the Gower coast, about 12 miles from Swansea.

A railway season ticket found on the body bore the name, "A. P. Jones, Mansel street, Swansea." Inquiries elicited that Mr. Arthur Palmer Jones, a well-known stockbroker at Swansea and Neath, had been missing since Saturday.

The body had no sooner been identified than it was discovered that Mr. Herbert Jones, his brother and senior partner, who carried on the business at Neath, had not been seen since Friday.

No trace of his whereabouts has yet been found.

Both were well known on the Swansea Stock Exchange. They were bachelors, and lived with their father and other members of the family at Mansel street.

THIEF ON FOOT WHEN CAUGHT BEWAILED LACK OF MOTOR CAR

Raided Bond Street Jeweller's Shop and Raced Away

TOOK A CHANCE

Carman Porter Disregarded Plea of Runner and Grabbed Him

Society sauntercrs in morning coats and top hats, messenger boys and commissionaires were among the 50 people who joined in a chase of a man, said to have raided a jeweller's shop in Old Bond street.

The man is alleged to have smashed the window of Messrs. Holmes and Co.'s premises in the Royal Arcade, and to have seized a diamond and emerald bar brooch worth £1,250. The suspect dashed down the Arcade followed by E. Goodyear, the florist, who shouted, "Stop thief!" and a medley of police and civilians.

The man led his pursuers by way of Stafford street, Dover street, and Hay hill into South Bruton-mews, where on their arrival they found he had been captured by H. W. Askell, of Ranelagh road, Pimlico, carman-porter employed by Messrs. Gunter's, confectioners, Berkeley square.

"I was in the stables," Askell told the "Daily News," when I heard a hue and cry. I came out and saw a man running. As I ran forward to tackle him he said, 'Don't stop he!' I grappled with him and we fell. I pinned him to the ground. Mr. Goodyear then came up and helped me."

Later in the day the alleged thief, Daniel Leonard Davis (40), a bookmaker's clerk, was remanded on a charge of stealing the brooch.

The detective alleged that on arrest Davies said, "I was hard up and desperate. I just took a chance. I am dead unlucky; others use motor-cars and get away with it."

SAYS PROHIBITION LAWS ARE TRAGIC

American Woman Lawyer Visiting London Makes Comparisons

"I like England for its tolerance. I do not believe in the Prohibition spirit, which is coming into disrepute in America," said Miss Nellie Carlin, of Illinois, a vice-president of the National Women Lawyers' Association of America. "As a woman lawyer, I know the tragic results of intemperance, but I prefer these evils to the greater ones brought about by so unnatural an enactment as the Prohibition law. Your women are more free from restrictions than ours. Take the case of cigarette-smoking among women. No Englishman betrays any aversion he may have to the practice, but in America there is by no means so general an acquiescence in the right of women to make their own choice in such matters."

Miss Carlin, who has been a member of the Chicago Bar for twenty-five years and is the first woman in America to be appointed Assistant State Attorney, represented Illinois State in the Court of Domestic Relations.

"There is a great need of women lawyers in such a court," said Miss Carlin, "to assist unfortunate young women. Your law is much more just in this respect than ours. You provide for a regular payment by fathers of illegitimate children. In America a small sum is paid to the woman and no adequate provision is made for the child.

"I like your women lawyers," she added. "They have fine ideals of the task they have taken up."

THE VIVID EYE IN LONDON TOWN

A "brighter eyes" movement is on foot in London, which may attract the attention of the Society of Bright Young People. The distinguishing mark of its devotees is a pair of spectacles with rims of the most vivid greens, oranges, heliotropes, light blues, or scarlets. And these are not round or oval, but hexagonal, octagonal, and other queer shapes.

"Spectacular spectacles" is believed to be the slogan of these pioneers.

CALLS SANATORIA 'LOUNGERS' PARADISE'

In a paper read to the Royal Sanitary Institute Congress at Liverpool, Dr. J. Johnstone, the Leeds medical officer of health, said:

I am absolutely convinced that employment for the tuberculosis subject is essential to his recovery. The idleness of the present-day sanatorium patient is demoralizing and has become a byword.

Many of our modern sanatoria might well be named the loungers' paradise, where men eat and sleep, drink and smoke, and now and then, when they can muster sufficient energy, play a game of cards or indulge in that favorite pastime of the sanatorium patient the abuse of doctors and nurses.

Under such conditions mind as well as body is bound to degenerate and men and women become mere cabbages.

JAIL AT 75

Old Man Has Spent Most of Life Behind Prison Walls

In the Court of Criminal Appeal, Gwilym Griffiths asked for leave to appeal against the sentence of five years' penal servitude which he received at Carmarthenshire Sessions for stealing the property of fellow lodgers.

Mr. Justice Sankey said Griffiths was 75, and his case was despairing to those who took an interest in the welfare of prisoners. There were 35 convictions against him, the man having, in all, spent 58 years, four months, and two days in prison. There was no ground for interfering with the present sentence, but he regretted that the old man must go back to prison.

The appeal was dismissed.

CHILDREN'S HOWLERS

Boy Thought Omnipotent Public Body Laid Sand on Seashore

Stories ranking with the best "examination" howlers were told of London children at the recent Conference of Education of the League of Empire.

B. M. Allen, deputy education officer to the L.C.C., (London County Council), related how a youngster whose only holiday experience had been in the parks and open spaces of London, was taken for the first time to the seaside.

The boy's first remark was, "Lor,' fancy the L.C.C. laying down all that sand."

Mr. Allen also told of an American woman who visited a London school. She noticed a look of disappointment on the children's faces. It was afterwards learned that they had expected her to appear in war paint and feathers!

RAILWAY GHOSTS MEET AT WEMBLEY

Former Fireman Sees Engine He Stoked Seventy Years Ago

Mr. John Cowley of Hartlepool, aged eighty-three, who was a fireman sixty-nine years ago on the first locomotive which ever hauled a passenger train, visited his old engine yesterday.

The crowds who swarmed round the little locomotive—it is in the Palace of Engineering at Wembley—saw only an old man with a flowing white beard gazing first at the antique engine and then at the latest addition to the London and North-Eastern Railway's rolling-stock, the Flying Scotsman, capable of an easy eighty-five miles an hour.

Those who knew who the old man was saw rather a tragic picture as he fingered the rails he held nearly seventy years ago, and then clambered into the driving cab of the modern engine.

LIKE A PALACE.

"It is a palace compared with my old engine," said Mr. Cowley to a "Daily Express" representative. And then he went on to talk of the ancient locomotive, which was built by Stephenson in 1825 and pulled a load of passengers from Stockton to Darlington.

"It took her two hours to go five miles," he said. "She puffed smoke all round; everything was black with it. I was only on the train when she was hauling stones in Durham; but when she was carrying passengers, why, people used to run away from her when she came along. When she puffed out steam every one thought she was going to burst.

"I was only fourteen when I stoked her up. She looks cleaner and nicer than she did in 1855."

Ancient Latin Bible From Famous Library Brought Hugh Sum

At Messrs. Sotheby's rooms, New Bond street, W., the sale began of books from the library at Ecton Hall, Northants, sold by order of the owner, Col. H. G. Sotheby. Many of these books were purchased by James Sotheby towards the end of the 17th century.

A beautiful example of the finest illuminated work of the early 14th century, a Bible, with the Latin manuscript on thin vellum, beautifully written in clear Gothic characters, was sold for £8,300 to Mr. Muller, of Amsterdam. Other prices included:

First editions of "Chronicles of England" and "Descriptions of Britain," bound together, £3,100 (Rosenbach). They bear the imprint "Westminster, W. Caxton," and the dates "10 June, 1480" and "18 August, 1480" respectively.

Walter Bigges, "A Summarie And True Discourse of Sir Frances Drake's West Indian Voyage . . . with geographicall mappes. . . . Imprinted at London by Richard Field, dwelling in the Blacke-Friars by Ludgate 1589," £1,550 (Quaritch).

The total on the day was £15,876.

SUFFICIENT FUNDS TO REPAIR CHAPEL

Most Famous Edifice in England Saved From Collapse

A large sum of money has been given by an anonymous donor towards the restoration of St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, and it is understood that there are now sufficient funds to complete the scheme.

The work has been going on for more than two years, during which time the financial position has caused anxiety owing to the slowness with which donations were forthcoming.

It will probably take two or three years to complete the work in hand.

Dr. A. Baillie, Dean of Windsor, appealed in 1921 for funds, and stated that the work would probably cost between £80,000, and £90,000. The roof of the chapel was in danger of collapsing, and had to be shored up.

St. George's Chapel is one of the oldest and most magnificent buildings of its kind in England, and contains the tombs of Henry VI., founder of Eton, of Henry VIII., Charles I., and Edward VII.

It has been the chapel of the Knights of the Garter since the time of Edward III.

GALWAY MANSION BET ON HORSE

A romantic story is told in connection with the fine Galway mansion, Castlehackett House, for the destruction of which by armed men Colonel P. J. Bernard was awarded compensation by the county court.

Mrs. Kirwan and her husband, great grandparents of the present owner, kept racehorses, among them Friar. A stable boy, named Sean Boy, who was to ride Friar in a big race at Tuam, told Mrs. Kirwan that if, when he appeared at a certain corner in the course, he put the rod of leather (then used as a riding whip) in his mouth she was to back the horse heavily.

Sean Boy rode well, and made his sign, with the result that Mrs. Kirwan immediately backed her horse with the estate and everything else she was worth.

Friar was ridden to victory, and Castlehackett was secured to the Kirwans.

'FORTY THREE' CLUB IN SOHO HAD LONG RECORD OF FINES

Constable Bought Champagne for Dancing Instructress to Make Case

CONSTANT TROUBLE

Over $5,000 Paid in Fines By Woman Who Ran Night Club

A woman proprietor's remarkable record of night club fines was disclosed by Mr. Muskett when he appeared for the Commissioner of Police in what he described as a case concerning "one of the worst class of night clubs."

He was supporting before the Bow street Police Court magistrate summonses against Mrs. Kate Evelyn Merrick, Walter Frank Bertie, and Leicester Gardiner, secretary, for selling intoxicating liquor without a licence and after permitted hours at Proctor's Club, Gerrard street, Soho, W.

Mr. Muskett said the club was supposed to be run by a company called the Forty-three Club, Ltd., but he regarded that concern as a bogus company, registered solely to try to evade the licensing laws.

On June 25 Police-Constable Coote was admitted to the club at midnight by Mrs. Merrick on payment of 7s. 6d.

In the basement dancing-room he was introduced to a dancing instructress, for whom he purchased drinks. Intoxicants were served up to 3 a.m. The charge made for a bottle of champagne was 35s. On leaving the constable paid the instructress 30s, and gave her a 10s. tip.

The club was raided early on July 4, when about 50 persons were present, two of them being drunk.

Mrs. Merrick held the premises on a seven years' lease at £650 a year, and sub-let them to the company at £20 a week. Bertie was a builder of Hanway street.

Mr. Muskett added that this establishment had caused much trouble to the police for many years. It had been run by Mrs. Merrick as the "Forty-three" Club, but ultimately a company was formed, doubtless with the object of trying to relieve her of responsibility and diverting suspicion from herself. Mr. Muskett detailed the following fines imposed upon her:

January 1920, £25 for permitting women of ill-repute to frequent Dalton's Club, Leicester square.

February 1922, £250 and £36 costs for illegal sales of liquors at the "Forty-three" Club.

May 1922, £100 for permitting dancing without a licence at the "Forty-three" Club.

May 1923, £90 and £31 costs for supplying intoxicants after hours at the Folie Bergere Club.

August last, £450 and £40 costs for a similar offence at the Folie Bergere Club.

The total fines and costs imposed on her in connection with night clubs in the West End amounted, said Mr. Muskett, to more than £1,000.

£400 PENALTIES.

Mr. Walter Frampton, who defended, urged that there was no evidence of selling intoxicants against Mrs. Merrick, as she was not present. Mr. Bertie became a director of the club to have some security for money owing to him by Mrs. Merrick for work done.

Mr. Graham Campbell, the magistrate, said that if Mrs. Merrick was convicted before him on a similar charge again he would send her to prison. He ordered her to pay fines amounting to £390 and £10 costs: Bertie £100 and 35 guineas costs; and Gardiner £40.

Fines of from 40s. to £5 were imposed on five persons for illegally consuming drink in the club. Capt. Henry Saville, of Priory road, Hornsey; James Erskine Harper, barrister, of Lincoln street; Chelsea; and John Duncan Laird, Victoria street, S.W., were each fined £5; Charles Gardiner, floor manager of the club, £3; and Violet Kaplin, professional dancer, 40s.

Notice of appeal was given on behalf of Mrs. Merrick.

An order was made for the club to be struck off the register and the premises to be disqualified for use as a club for twelve months.

CARRY ON

Record for Solicitor's Family is Established in England

One of the successful candidates at the recent solicitors' preliminary examination was Mr. John Grenado Chester, who belongs to a family that has carried on a solicitor's practice for over 140 years.

Mr. J .G. Chester is the son of one of the partners in the firm of E. G. and J. W. Chester, of Newington Butts, the other member of the firm being his uncle, Mr. E. G. Chester.

"The practice of this firm," says the "South London Press," was started in 1783 by the then Mr. Henry Chester, and has continuously since that date been carried on exclusively by one or more members of the Chester family."

This is believed to constitute a record of its kind for the whole of England.

LORD DARLING AND THE DRY WITNESS

A peanut-seller caused much amusement in giving evidence in an action before Lord Darling in the King's Bench Division for damages for personal injuries. Sir Henry Maddocks, K.C., who was cross-examining, could not understand the witness's replies.

"What do you say?" asked Sir Henry when the peanut-seller mumbled an answer.

The witness (moistening his lips): I am dry. (Laughter.)

Lord Darling: What do you think would do you good?

The Witness: A Mann and Crossman. (Laughter.)

Lord Darling: What is that?

The Usher: He means beer. (Loud laughter.)

The Witness: "That's it; four-ale. (Laughter.)

Lord Darling: Would you give evidence any better if you had some?—I could do with a drink, my lord. (Laughter.)

"PRO" LEAGUE IS THE PROPOSAL OF "KNOTTY" LEE

Kingston Ponies' Present Manager Plans Revival of Old Canadian League.

EIGHT-TEAM GROUP

Three or Four of Ponies Ready for "Pro" Company? —Peterboro Included.

KINGSTON, Ont. Aug. 13—Kingston will have a professional baseball team next summer of the plans of "Knotty" Lee materialize, and there is every indication that the plans will be carried through as he expects. Lee is planning to revive the old Canadian League, a class D organization, and to have Kingston as one of the teams in the circuit.

According to the plans, if suitable grounds can be assured, Kingston will be in the pro league next year, affiliated with the National Association. Lee plans an eight team league including Toronto, Peterboro, Hamilton, Ottawa, Montreal, Watertown and Ogdensburg, making the circuit an international one. This would mean that in four of the cities Sunday ball will be played, the Ottawa games being in Hull. The schedule would call for 120 games, 60 on the road and 60 at home and each team would carry 14 players. Knotty thinks that he already has three or four players in Kingston ready to jump to the "pro" class.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

This is a big year for southpaws in both major leagues.

There appears to be a decided falling off in the ability to hit left handers in the last two or three years.

There doesn't seem to be any plausible explanation for the situation. It just exists. One of those happenings that are a part of baseball, thereby lending to its uncertainty.

"If you can throw left-handed you are almost certain to be a winning pitcher in the majors," is the way "Lefty" Leifeld, former star southpaw puts it.

Leifeld, now assisting Manager Lee Fohl at Boston, is anything but egotistical yet, he bemoans the fate that he wasn't born about 10 or 15 years late.

"Why, there are left handers going big in the majors this year who wouldn't even be allowed to pitch to the players in batting practice in my day," continued Leifeld.

"A lot of stuff doesn't mean a thing any more. If you can throw the ball with your left hand, success is almost assured."

The unusual success of veteran and rookie southpaws this year has been one of the extraordinary features of both major league races.

The season of 1924 is a southpaw year, if the pitching records are to be given any credence.

Rookies little figured, and veteran southpaws doped as through, are going over big.

If the New York Yankees lose the American League pennant this year, it can largely be attributed to a steady diet of southpaw pitching by opposing clubs.

Since then most American League managers have been taking advantage of that fact. The New York Americans look at more southpaw pitching than any other club in the majors.

A number of clubs try the stunt of repeating against the Yankees in the same series. Pitcher Whitehill of the Detroit club has been unusually successful in this respect against the world champs.

Southpaw pitching certainly seems to have their goat.

Why southpaws should be so troublesome to left-handed hitters is one of the mysteries of baseball?

Right-handed pitchers have no particular edge on right-handed batters. The left-handed pitcher, however, is one the enigmas of the game.

The power the southpaw exerts over the left-handed batter appears to be a psychological one. It is a baseball precedent that is accepted by the players as true.

AFTER FIFTH CHAMPIONSHIP

"Big Bill" Tilden, national tennis champion, will seek his fifth consecutive crown this summer. Tilden first won the American honors in 1920. He has held them thus far, winning with comparative ease in 1921-22-23. It ranks as a modern record for the classic.

MOVIES OF RUGBY

Slow Pictures to Illustrate Plays Will Be Queen's Stunt.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 13.—Queens University rugby team will have some thing new in the way of coaching when the team assembles this fall for their preparatory work for the season. Coach Bill Hughes of Montreal, will inaugurate a slow motion picture code of coaching for the players. Several films of rugby plays have been secured and these will be used for the team during their training season. The slow pictures will consist of plays done right and plays done wrong, so as to show the players the mistakes of others and derive benefit from these.

CURLERS NOSED OUT THE LEAFS

Victory Puts Both Teams Even for Second Half of Schedule.

PLAY OFF THURSDAY

The Curlers, winners of the first half, tied up the Maple Leafs for the second half last evening when they nosed out Charlie Curtis' team by 6 to 5 in a closely-fought but rather ragged ball game played at the Exhibition Park diamond.

The final game for second half honors will be staged on the same diamond Thursday evening at 5.45, and it should be the "berries" with both teams on their toes and feeling running high.

The game was expected to be a pitchers' battle, but it was anything but that, with both twirlers, Wood and Bradley, being off color. Wood was the worst in this respect, walking five and getting himself into a couple of holes from which he did not escape scathless. Wood walked five and Bradley gave three passes and hit one.

On the other hand it was not a free hitting affair, and long clouts were conspicuous by their absence, with not one extra base hit by either team. The Curlers managed to collect eight hits, but most of these were shady safeties, slow rollers to the infield or pop flies behind it. The Manle Leafs were good for only three hits.

The Curlers manufactured a run in the first inning, when Jack Baird walked, and came home on Wood's clout. Delahaye started off with a clean hit for the Maple Leafs, but nothing came of the rosy outlook. The Curlers didn't have a chance in the second, and the Leafs took the lead with two runs on a bunch of walks, a wild pitch and some good base running. The Curlers raised the total to five in the third, getting four runs on four hits, some scratchy, and an error. The Leafs got two runs in their half, in which an error figured, and also two hits. Neither team scored in the fourth, but "Jaky" Hall made a sensational one-handed catch of "Ab" Delahaye's high fly. One run was the portion of each in the fifth. The pitchers were beginning to hit their stride about then, and in the sixth Bradley retired three in succession on strikes. Only three batters faced Wood in the sixth, and he struck out two of them. The Curlers could not score in the seventh, although they had men on third and second, with but one down. The Leafs rolled out in turn in the last frame.

LOCAL SOCCER TEAMS CHOSEN FOR PLENTY CUP

A Team and B Team Will Play Trial Game on Tuesday, Aug. 19th.

NO ONTARIO CUP

Phelan Charity Cup Semi-Finals on Saturday.

During the last few years Peterboro has been represented in the Ontario Cup, but this year, so far, no club has taken any initiative, although the Vets have been considering entering a team to represent the city in the Ontario Cup. Last year, the G.W.V.A. and the Thistle played off a deciding game to see who would be the district representative, which brought the Vets up against Brantford to be eliminated, after a drawn game in the Telephone City.

Plenty Cup this Year.

This year the senior executive are very enthusiastic in the Plenty Cup series. They consider that the local talent is par excellence in every department, and they think that a team can be picked from the G.W.V.A., Thistle, Canadian Woollens and the Quaker Oats that will uphold the city's good name as a sporting centre, and more especially in soccer.

Teams Chosen.

A select committee was appointed to pick two teams: A Team and B Team, that will play a game on Tuesday evening, August 19th, at the Oval. They placed their report before the executive last evening, and the chosen players were:

A Team—Griffin, goal, (Vets.,) Rae (Thistle), and Chambers (Woollens), full backs; Jackson (Thistle,) Dawson (Thistle), and Blowers (Woollens), half backs; Clark (Bets) Hutton (Thistle,) Richmond (Thistle,) Wilson (Quakers,) and Burgess (Thistle), forwards.

B Team—Curtiss (Thistle), goal; Cridland (Woollens), and Anderson (Thistle), full-backs; Read (Woollens), Monkman, (Woollens,) and Ross (Thistle), half-backs; Mayette (Quakers), Wyllie (Quakers), Mitchell (Woollens), Dyer (Vets), and Craig (Quakers), forwards.

Although these two teams have been chosen it does not necessarily mean that they will be selected because the executive may have some other hidden talent who do not need a trial game, but have a creditable league performance during the season.

Mr. Alex. McGregor has been chosen as the official referee.

The draw for the Plenty Cup will take place on August 30th.

Phelan Semi-Final.

The semi-final of the Phelan Charity Cup between the Thistle and the G.W.V.A. will be played on Saturday afternoon at the Oval. Kick-off at 3.30 prompt. Referee Jack Clark.

The Quaker Oats are now in the final of the Phelan Charity Cup.

At 2.30 prompt on Saturday afternoon, the Quakers and the Woollens meet in a league game at the Oval. Kick-off at 2 o'clock prompt. Referee A. Mitchell.

Hodgson, who turned out for the Canadian Woollens last Saturday, played for the same team many seasons ago.

Local soccer is losing two valuable players in Wilson and Soutar, who contemplate going west in the near future.

Peck Cup Game.

The Thistle and the G.W.V.A. meet in semi-final of the Peck Cup on Saturday, August 23rd at King Edward Park. Canadian Woollens got a bye.

Quakers and Woollens play a league game at the Oval, Sautrday, August 23rd, at 3.30 prompt.

It was with regret that the Association heard the report of Mr. Jack Cairns, who notified them that the Nomads had gone out of the game for the rest of the season, owing to the other teams approaching their players. In future, clubs must take the proper procedure, according to the rule.

A junior player in Toronto got fined $10 and ten days in jail for striking an opponent; also if the fine is not paid will receive an additional ten days. The magistrates throughout Ontario are doing all in their power to keep all sports clean.

DOURO TEAM WON.

Vacation Season Brings Many Visitors.

DELORO TROUNCED HAVELOCK TEAM

Railroad Village nearly Blanked On Home Lot.

MARMORA, Aug. 13. — Deloro overwhelmed Havelock in their last away fixture, in the Trent Valley League, by the score of 13-1.

With two more home games in hand against Havelock, it is anticipated that they will fulfil all the League fixtures, without defeat, and gain the right to meet Picton for higher honors.

AS RELIEF PITCHER

Hoge Workman, former Ohio State football star, has been used solely as relief hurler since joining the Red Sox staff. Thus far he has enjoyed only fair success and the general opinion is that unless he develops more stuff he will not be able to stay up this time out. Johnny Stuart, another ex-Buckeye brilliant, on the other hand, is twirling winning ball for the Cardinals. He stacks up as one of the best gunners Rickey possesses. Stuart came to the Cards about a year ago.

LAMAR LOOKS GOOD

Connie Mack seems to have picked up a real star in Bill Lamar, hard-hitting outfielder, obtained from the American Association. Lamar has already broken up several games by his proclivities with the stick. He has made the Quaker fans forget all about Strand who came so highly touted.

MONEY DOESN'T WORRY GIBBONS

Had a Royal Time in England and Expects to Get Full Proceeds.

PROMOTER IS ILL

LONDON, Aug. 13. — (Canadian Press). — Tommy Gibbons, the United States boxer, who defeated Jack Bloomfield here last Saturday, is leaving for home, sans about $35,000 he claims is still due him from the box office receipts of the fight, but with his optimism still unshaken and with the greatest admiration for English sportsmen.

Gibbons announced his departure for the United States after declaring he had been unable to locate Arnold Wilson, the fight promoter, who was said to have gone to Liverpool under physician's orders. It was stated that the promoter is suffering from a nervous breakdown, brought on by the strain of managing the Gibbons-Bloomfield contest.

The American fighter said he had received only £3,000 of the £11,000 he had expected from the proceeds of his meeting with Bloomfield. What receipts there were from the fight, however, are safe in the bank, and a chartered accountant who has been installed in Wilson's office to figure up the proceeds will disburse them in a few days. In the meantime the Gibbons end of the case is in the hands of the boxer's lawyers.

Gibbons has insisted that the fighters who took part in the preliminaries of Saturday's show be paid the small amount due them before his share is taken out. Some of these preliminary boxers from the English provinces are marooned in London without carfare home.

"I've nothing but the greatest admiration for English sportsmen as a whole," he said. "Everywhere I've had a royal time. I'm an optimist. If the £8,000 comes along to me later, it'll be welcomed. If it doesn't—well, it can't be helped."

ANIMALS WERE DEFENDANTS IN SUITS AT LAW

Character Witnesses in Behalf of a Dog Recall Strange Trials.

ONE DOG HANGED.

Chimpanzee Broke Anti-smoking Law of One State—Fined $5.

In this year of grace 1924, the law has bent its head and lent its ear to the testimony of character witnesses called in behalf of a dog. The incident is a faint echo of a sort of trial that can be traced back 1,100 years—the trial of animals.

In the latest instance there is this difference, that the defendant was not the dog, but the dog's owner. It was not so in the Middle Ages. There is, indeed, a modern American example in which the accused was the beast itself—a chimpanzee this time. The chimpanzee was part of a show. He had learned to smoke. He came to a one-night stand in Indiana and smoked a cigarette, as the program promised. He was arrested for violation of the State anti-cigarette law, and was fined $5. He did not have the money, but his manager paid.

Animal defendants did not escape with a fine in the good old days. Often the penalty was death, and at the best it was banishment. Occasionally there were extenuating circumstances, as in the case of the sow and her six piglets, haled before a French court for killing a child. The sow was adjudged guilty, and was hanged, but her offspring were treated leniently because of their youth.

Robbers Jailed, Dog Hanged.

In the course of centuries of such cases a considerable procedure was built up. Between the years 824 and 1906 there were 191 animal trials, according to the tables given by E. P. Evans in his study of the subject, "The Criminal Prosecution and Capital Punishment of Animals." The greatest number fell in the fifteenth to seventeenth centuries, with nine in the nineteenth.

The list does not include the Indiana chimpanzee, which came after Evans brought out the book, 1906, but it does include a case in that year—a Swiss trial. Two robbers had a gigantic dog. They set upon a traveler. The actual slaying was done by the dog. The robbers were tried and sent to jail, but the dog, as chief offender, was sentenced to death.

Turtle doves were brought to trial in Canada two centuries or so ago. Connecticut saw one of the biggest trials of all. Cotton Mather tells of it. The trial took place in 1662 at New Haven, when feeling about witches was running high. The defendants included a cow, two heifers, three sheep and two sows. To find a larger group in the prisoners' dock one must go back to 1452, when sixteen cows and a goat (the last presumably the ringleader) were turned over to a European's care.

No sort of domestic animal seems to have escaped coming to such an end. There was the ass at Nismes, in 1768, which wandered into church precincts, drank holy water, and was hanged and burned for sacrilege. There was the he-goat banished from Russia to Siberia. Dolphins were tried at Marseilles, caterpillars in Italy. Eels, gadflies, snails and serpents have appeared in court.

A Felonious Rooster.

One of the most famous of them all is the rooster of Basel that laid an egg. That was in 1474. No proper rooster would do such a thing: rooster's eggs were in demand among necromancers, so the conclusion was obvious, and the sentence was the stake.

The Greeks tried sticks and stones that had caused death. A stick once raised a nice point in law for Athenians: it was a javelin, thrown by a youth. Accidentally it killed a boy. Was the boy killed by the stick or by the thrower? A fine dispute.

Among the precedents in the case of animals there is Exodus xxi., 28-30: "If an ox gore a man or a woman, that they die: then the ox shall be surely stoned, and his flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be quit. But if the ox were wont to push with his horn in time past, and it hath been testified to his owner, and he hath not kept him in; but that he hath killed a man or a woman, the ox shall be stoned and his owner also shall be put to death." This rule held in the Middle Ages. Both the animal and the owner were executed if the owner had known the beast to be dangerous.

As early as the ninth century it was customary to try domestic animals in the criminal courts and wild creatures in the ecclesiastical courts, the latter court frequently decreeing banishmen for exorcism. The summons was read three times at a place frequented by the accused, when they were wild. If they did not appear to defend themselves, the judgment went by default.

Elusive Defendants.

Often the courts showed no haste: it has been suggested they did not relish being shown up as unable to enforce the decrees. They had the undeniable right of anathema, however. It was established, for example, in the proceedings against the snout beetles that ravaged the vineyards of Mont Cenis in the sixteenth century. The case dragged forty-three years and filled twenty-nine books of proceedings, and in the end a plot of ground was set aside in perpetuity for the beetles, for it had been proved that they had the right to live.

Many an ingenious plea came from the appointed counsel of such defendants. One is still spoken of admiringly in legal periodicals. It was the defense conducted by Bartholomew Chassenee, and it made him a reputation that carried him to the first Presidency of the Parlement de Provence.

The trial was at Aumt in 1552. The accused were rats. They did not appear at the first citation. Clearly they had not been properly summoned, said Bartholomew; they would have to be summoned in every parish.

Granted, and still no rats in court. But, said their counsel, to obey meant, for the rats, virtually a migration; they would need time. Done—and once more no defendants. Bartholomew rose: "Your honor, many of my clients are aged and infirm, and many are sick; they need more time." Another score for the defense.

When the appointed day arrived, the advocate spoke again: "My clients are eager to come, but the cats have heard of the order and are lying in wait; the rats are entitled to the protection of the court in obeying the summons."

Ergo, the court ordered bonds put up for all the cats. But the cats were owned by the plaintiffs in the action, and the owners would give no bonds. So the case went to the defendants by default—and Chassenee was a made man.

Fact is, they stand a good chance to get as high as sixth, something unusual for the Quakertown gang. Fletcher has his men playing the best brand of pastiming they have exhibited in quite some time.

AT THE SCIENCE CONFERENCE

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press) —The upper layers of the earth are still floating on a semi-plastic or semi-solid foundation. This is the conclusion reached by Prof. A. P. Coleman, of the University of Toronto, who told of sea beaches in Canada which have been pushed up by the action of slow, steady forces from beneath. The observations which Prof. Coleman reviewed, furnish confirmation for the geological theory of isostasy, according to which the level of any particular part of the earth's crust is determined by the weight which it is supporting at the time.

Abundant evidence exists to show that surfaces of land do actually sink if more load is added, and that the normal level is regained as the tracts float up when the load is removed. The loading with which Dr. Coleman's studies deal concerns the oppressive influence of mountains of ice piled about on the north American continent during the glacial period, and he demonstrated to the geologists that the sinking and subsequent recovery of areas in Canada is just what might be expected from the isostatic formula.

The surveys of the geologists indicate that glaciers thousands of feet thick were heaped up on Labrador, while lesser sheets amounting to a few hundred feet only, pressed down in the Central States. River valleys, lakes, and sea beaches were marked out by the icy streams flowing from the glaciers when large areas were burdened down in this way, and the result was that, after the removal of the load when the ice melted, the margins of the watercourses were pushed up, frequently hundreds of feet.

"The amount which the beaches have been elevated above sea-level is roughly proportional to the thickness of ice removed at the end of the glacial period," said the scientist, in showing that the theory of isostasy is upheld. Figures were presented for raised beaches in Ontario and Quebec, Newfoundland, Labrador and the Maritime Provinces.

The recovery is still going on, although the ice has long since disappeared, it seems. This explains why the mouths of the Don and Humber Rivers in the Toronto district tend to become flooded. It turns out that the eastern end of Lake Ontario is rising more rapidly than the western end, with the result that the water invades the estuaries on the western end.

FORCE THAT MOLDS

Surface tension, the force which makes raindrops round instead of jagged, and which gives the elasticity to a soap film which permits it to withstand an appreciable air pressure, may round off the sharp edges of metals in similar fashion, at temperatures much below the melting point, according to the report of C. H. Desch, professor of metallurgy at the University of Sheffield, given to the Physics section of the British Association. In conformity with the latest theories of crystal structure, whereby the uniform arrangement of the atoms results in giving a definite geometrical form to solid substances, as in the case of sugar or the diamond, Prof. Desch points out that enormous forces are at work between the atoms in the interior of solid substances in order to mold them into their characteristic shapes. This influence is lopsided at the surface of the crystal, however, since there are atoms straining inwards, but no corresponding force exists pulling from the outside. The result is the effect of a skin surrounding the outside of the crystal. This force is easily appreciated in the case of liquids, where it may reach high values. The floating of a needle on the surface of water showing how the cohesive power between the individual molecules was opposed by the effect of surface tension tending to round off the structure as a whole.

"With increase of temperature, cohesion and the surface tension in general diminist, but not necessarily at the same rate," he stated. "At high temperatures, the surface tension may be sufficient to cause rounding of the sharp angles of a crystal.

"This is evident from experiments with gold. Beads of gold, slowly cooled from the liquid state, have a skin which has properties like those of a film of gelatin, the normal structure being exposed when the film is removed by etching.

"The sharp 8-surface etch figure on a large crystal of gold, or the angles of a minute crystal prepared by precipitation, become rounded at temperatures several hundred degrees below the melting point," said Dr. Desch, in explaining why the phenomenon is most easily observed in the case of small particles. The explanation here is that the smaller the particle in question, the greater the amount of surface in comparison with the volume, and hence the preponderance of the surface tension effect over the cohesive force. This is in accord with a well-known mathematical law which states that volume increases much faster than surface, when objects of similar shape are concerned.

Thus the corners of tiny crystals are drawn in by the skin, and the edges of minute pits produced on the surface of larger crystals by acids are deformed from their normal rectilinear relations when the surface tension is given the preference by an elevation in temperature.

"Other metals display effects of this kind," Prof. Desch saidconclusion.

STUDY OF CANADA'S ROCKS.

The investigation of the rocks and rock formations of Canada has been, according to Dr. M. E. Wilson, of the Geological Survey, hitherto confined to a relatively small section of that vast area. This was brought out in a discussion of the Pre-Cambrian Rocks of the world in the Geology section of the British Association today.

Almost the whole of the northern part of Canada, and parts of the United States in the vicinity of Lake Superior and northern New York, belong to the Pre-Cambrian era, in which are placed the oldest rock formations on the continent.

Investigators have confined their studies of this huge tract to careful investigations of four distinct areas, Dr. Wilson pointed out. This line of attack has been selected as more productive of results than a general onslaught on the entire field, in which only a general survey would be possible. While concrete information is revealed by the more concentrated method of attack, difficulties are experienced when it comes to correlating the results of the observations in the different regions. Three areas in the vicinity of Lake Superior, and the Ottawa Valley, in the region of the St. Lawrence, are the points about which the investigations have centred so far, and remarkable differences have been observed in the geographical and geological features of the four areas, although they have a common origin.

Various theories have been developed as to how the results of the different investigations should be correlated, and further evidence in favor of certain older hypotheses was presented by Dr. Wilson for the consideration of the scientists.

Y. GIRLS DEFEATED FRASERVILLE CREW

Game Was Featured By Three Home Runs.

The Fraserville ladies' softball team motored to Peterboro last evening and played an exhibition game with the Y. W. C. A. ladies' softball team, the Peterboro aggregation taking the big end of a 28 to 21 score. The city team piled up their winning margin in the first few innings, grabbing off 18 runs in the first two frames. The visitors polled theirs in slowly, the last inning being their lucky frame.

Both teams were evenly matched. The Fraserville nine made a few errors, but later got down to business.

The pitchers on both teams pitched good ball.

A few circuit clouts were made.

The line-ups were as follows:

PHYSICAL TASK IS B.R. AND P. GREAT PROBLEM

President Noonan Says Expense Would Not Halt Car Ferry Project.

PRAISES CITY.

Representative Citizens Entertained the Visitors Who Will Return.

W. Noonan, president of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway, was the most surprised man in Peterboro yesterday. He was surprised by the hospitality of the citizens, the multitude of large factories, the magnificent schools and the number of plate glass fronts on George Street, but most of all by the beautiful homes.

"I have never seen more beautiful homes," the President said, and Mr. Noonan is in a position to speak with authority, having just returned from a ten thousand-mile trip through the finest cities in United States. The houses here, in their settings of emerald lawns and most of them embowered in luxuriant flowers, reminded him of Florida, and the fact that such houses could be obtained at a rental of $30 or even $25 a month astonished him.

Mr. Noonan and his party were taken under the auspices of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce to all points of interest around the city, including the factories, parks, schools, the Hydraulic Lift Lock, Chemong floating bridge and Chemong Silver Fox Ranch. The tour was made by way of some of the residential streets, and the splendid homes elicited exclamations of delight from every visitor.

On returning to the city, Mr. Noonan had a conference with Mayor J. J. Turner, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., J. Wells Fraser, president of the Chamber of Commerce, J. J. Duffus and J. Juby, representing the Motor League, and Leon Frazer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in which the proposed automobile ferry from Cobourg to Rochester was discussed. "The question to us," he said, "represents itself as one of physical practicability, not of expense." A graded roadway or an elevator, giving access to the loading wharf from the heights above, is necessary.

Being in other railroads' territory and on a vacation, President Noonan did not care to enter into a formal discussion of the matter, but his remarks were construed as showing that he is interested in the project and sympathetic towards it. The Peterboro representatives pointed out clearly the mutual advantages to be gained by the connection.

Dropping again into praise of Peterboro as his special B. R. and P. coach was coupled on the Lindsay train, President Noonan remarked on the number of factories that should, he thought, make for healthy growth and prosperity and lack of unemployment. "It is not only the industries you have that impresses a visitor," he said, "but their character and their clean surroundings." The city's industries are not such as to attract foreigners, who disrupt a community, he pointed out, but are essentially family-building.

A bouquet of flowers was presented Mrs. Noonan with the compliments of the city, and Mr. Noonan, as he stepped on his car, replied to Mayor Turner's invitation, "I'll come back."

Among others who helped to entertain the visitor were A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal, who supervised the trip over the Lift Lock, and explained its mechanism; J. Patte, of the Chemong Silver Fox Ranch, who conducted the visitors through the establishment and told interestingly of the industry; R. B. Rogers, engineer in charge of the construction of the Lift Lock, and A. McNab, C.N.R. station agent, whom Mr. Noonan thanked personally for his attention to the party while in Peterboro.

YOUNG GIRLS AT PETTING PARTIES

Five Girls Between Ages of 11 and 14 Tell of Wild Nights.

WINDSOR, Aug. 13. —(Canadian Press).—Following a personal investigation by Mayor Mitchell and Local Social Service officials Tuesday, five girls between ages of eleven and thirteen years of age who are alleged to have taken part in wild beach parties recently, were returned to their homes.

The investigation was started following complaints by the mother of one girl. When rounded up the girls told the Mayor of the "wild petting parties", which had occurred on the shores of Lake St. Clair, where they had been driven by young men, whose names were learned by the authorities.

Full details of the affair have been handed to the Children's Aid Society and prosecutions are expected to follow.

FOUND A WATCH.

A curious incident occurred at Chemong Park on Monday, when the members of the Caledonian Club were holding a picnic in the Park. One of the ladies in the party, on picking up her hat from the grass, where she had placed it some time before, discovered a lady's gold watch beneath it. The owner of the lost property may procure information as to the watch's whereabouts from the secretary of the Caledonian Club, Mr. George Low, at Mr. Cumming's house, 554 Chamberlain street

CONFERENCE IS AT STANDSTILL

Completion Of The Direct Negotiations Will Be Held On Thursday.

LONDON, August 13 (United Press). — "I think the conference will be successful on all points," said Chancellor Marx of Germany to-day in an interview granted the United Press.

"This is the most important conference since the Treaty of Versailles was signed," Marx stated.

"And for the first time—I repeat, for the first time — the Allies are treating us on equal terms."

The German Chancellor seemed to consider this the most important factor in making for a successful outcome.

"I am very glad to say," he continued, "that Premier Herriot, notwithstanding great opposition in certain politic ' circles in France and even in his entourage, has stood firm. The majority of the French people want peace and quiet."

Asked concerning the all-important question of the military evacuation of the Ruhr, Marx said:

"It is essential, so far as we are concerned, and it is closely united with the application of the experts' plan.

"We hope to sign the treaty tomorrow, or at least by Friday morning, but this agreement is only a preliminary one for future conferences between Germany and the Allies singly."

The commercial treaty to be consummated with France, the Chancellor said, is of the highest importance to both countries.

"If the Committee Des Forges, which represented the highest political factor in France, is willing to come to an agreement, the treaty will be one of mutual reciprocity," he added.

Marx, however, evaded the question of whether France would be treated as a most favoured nation. He contented himself with saying: "Germany can never grant free entry of ore and potash into the Ruhr, nor can she expect to grant concessions in the matter of delivering dyestuffs, etc."

The German loan, he said, would be discussed 'at the next conference,' as he thought the present conclave would not treat the question.

Marx thinks the proposed loan to Germany and the question of mutual reduction of the Inter-Allied debts are closely combined, and that the best way to restoration and reconstruction in Europe would be for the United States to relinquish claims for the sums borrowed by the Allies.

THE END IN VIEW.

LONDON, August 13 (United Press). — With the French seeking trade concessions in exchange for the evacuation of the Ruhr, the international conference was held at a standstill to-day, while Premier Herriot and the German delegates talked business.

The completion of these direct negotiations by Thursday night and the close of the main party on Friday is now predicted.

Pending the consummation of direct agreement by the Germans and the French and Belgians, everything else is in a state of suspense.

When these two Allies have obtained the best possible terms in exchange for the withdrawal of their troops, there will be nothing left for the delegates to do but to sign the protocols and go home.

Then Great Britain and Italy probably will inspect the trade advantages obtained by France and Belgium and make deals of their own with Germany.

The British press is urging Herriot not to jeopardise the conference by failing to withdraw the troops.

WAVE OF LIQUOR OVERFLOWS CITY

Washington Scandalized By Drunks. Officals Unite To Dam The Stream.

WASHINGTON, August 13. — By Paul R. Mallon, U. P. Staff Correspondent. — A rising tide of liquor has hit the nation's capital and the officials from Commissioner Haynes down are scandalized.

More than 100 drunken persons have been arrested on the streets within the last few days.

Fifteen citizens have been corralled in a rum ring round up and scores of arrests have been made in fashionable hotel roof garden dancing places.

The rum wave has spread such alarm that the police and detectives have been made U. S. deputies so that they can begin, according to an announcement to-day, in a big drive to dry up Washington.

ALBERTA CROPS.

From Farmer Reports One Would Thinks There Was No Crops.

CALGARY, Alta., August 13 (Canadian Press). — From reports that have been circulated one would be led to believe there was nothing to be expected in Alberta at all, so far as a crop is concerned, remarked Charles Murphy, general manager of the Western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in the course of an interview in Calgary on Monday.

"I have not been out here since May," he continued, "and on this trip I expected to have found everything burnt up in Alberta. I am very greatly surprised, however, in face of the reports mentioned to find the country looking very well."

12 p.m.—The Sparks Circus Train leaves Peterborough for Smith's Falls.

For two solid hours the performance of the Sparks Circus makes the spectator live again those joyous, care-free days of the Land of Make-Believe, when we all had "Castles in Spain," which is the reason for the tremendous popularity of this big three-ring show in all parts of the United States and in the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

A scene of great pictorial beauty called "An Egyptian Fantasy" is the introductory number on the programme. With its harmony of colours, its lustre, brilliance, and magnificence, its swelling chorus of trained singers, it has been conceded to be the most entrancing spectacle and pageant ever presented under canvas. Taking part in it is a big chorus of pretty girls in gorgeous costumes, and there are also beautiful thoroughbred horses, sage elephants, insolent camels, and gentle llamas, in trappings and accoutrements of dazzling splendour.

Immediately following 'An Egyptian Fantasy" comes a whirlpool of amusement that fills the spectator with delight. In rapid succession novelty follows novelty in the three rings, on the two stages, on the hippodrome track, and in the air.

Thrilling displays of daring alternate with sensational comedy acts.

In the menagerie will be found a splendid collection of the most ferocious beasts of the jungles of India and Africa, and there are strange looking animals from South America and China. A visit to the menagerie of the Sparks Circus affords unusual opportunities for practical studies in natural history.

Children under nine years of age are admitted for 30 cents. On circus day the seats may be bought at Payne's Drug Store for the same price as at the Show Grounds.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

JACK DEMPSEY SERIES ..... PROMISED FOR CAPITOL.

Jack Dempsey, world's champion, promises a lightning-like series of fights, and amusing adventures in his "Fight and Win" series, coming to the Capitol Theatre commencing tomorrow, which he made for Universal.

The stories, essentially comedies, written by Gerald Beaumont, famous writer of sport fiction, are, however, crammed with thrills. The champion is seen in action in spectacular ring battles; he does a thrilling rescue of a boy from a railroad trestle, a sensational dive into a raging torrent, and many other remarkable feats.

Two directors worked on the Dempsey series, Jess Robbins and Erle Kenton alternating on the plays, and between scenes, Dempsey trained at improvised training quarters at Universal City for his Labour Day fight.

A notable cast supports Dempsey, the most prominent being: Hayden Stevenson, who played the fight manager in "The Leather Pushers," Esther Ralston, Carmelita Geraghty, and Chuck Reisner.

STORMS GALORE .... MADE TO ORDER.

Film Director Stages Typhoon and Tidal Wave.

Thunderstorms, a typhoon, and a tidal wave took place in Hollywood, Universal City, and on nearby California beaches.

This isn't a weather report—just the engineering schedule for the new play which Harry Garson directed with ...ssive mechanical and scenic effects as a Universal-Jewel feature, "Thundering Dawn," coming to the Capitol Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The director chose for the leading roles in his cast J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Q. Nilsson.

The story, written by John H. Blackwood, is one of a man's regeneration through disaster, and the climax is a disastrous typhoon and a tidal wave located on the Malay Peninsula. The action of the play starts in Back Bay, Boston, and proceeds to Java during the "Six Months' Rains" of the tropics. The title of the play indicates the dramatic character of the tropical storms.

Garson spent twelve weeks in photographing the play. Part of it was photographed at the Garson studios in Edendale, and the big effects and storm scenes were staged at Universal City and on the coast. The work involved enormous special sets and mechanical details.

Director Garson has had personal experience with typhoons, having been an ensign in the navy during the Spanish-American War, and a senior lieutenant during the World War. His vessels fought off several of these deadly storms during his service career.

One of the biggest casts in months was assembled for the film.

AT THE ROYAL.

BUSTER KEATON'S BIG COMEDY CLOSES TO-NIGHT AT THE ROYAL.

From the opening subtitle to the final fadeout, Buster Keaton's new Metro picture, "Sherlock Jr.," which closes its three-day engagement tonight at the Royal, is a corking good feature comedy. It is a sparkling gem of humor, abetted by a keen appreciation of life as it is lived in a small town. It is the story of a movie operator who, after taking up a $2 correspondence course to qualify as a detective, gets fame and the girl when he falls asleep as he is showing a Hollywood melodrama. Joseph M. Schenck produced the picture, which was directed by Buster Keaton.

ROYAL TO SHOW GLADYS WALTON IN NEW COMEDY

Parental whims do not mean much to the youth of to-day, according to a few of the wiseacres who were educated to the rules of a generation or so ago, as is depicted in "The Near Lady," a Universal attraction starring Gladys Walton, which comes Thursday to the Royal Theatre.

Youth to-day is rash, impulsive and self-centred, giving little thought to others than itself; the "honor thy father and mother" idea is a forgotten art, many old timers aver.

Whether their opinions are based on careful observance of the present generation or whether they have neglected to keep pace with the times is a matter of conjecture. At least those who voice such ideas speak freely, emphatically, as a matter of fact.

Consciously or unconsciously the Universal Pictures Corporation has released a film that is a strong negative answer to the expressions that the dads and mothers of to-day have no place in the thoughts of their children.

It is a screen version of the popular magazine story by Frank R. Adams and presents the story of a young couple who did not even like each other, but who pretended to be engaged to please their parents whose motives for wishing the marriage of their children were extremely selfish.

The picture was directed by Herbert Blache, who also directed Miss Walton in "The Untameable" and "The Wild Party."

Supporting her in the cast are Jerry Gendron, Otis Harlan, Kate Price, Emmett King, Henrietta Floyd, Harry Mann and Florence Drew.

The co-operative movement was inaugurated in 1444 by 28 flannel weavers of Rochdale, England, as a means of relief from existing unemployment and high prices.

DEVELOP LIGNITE COALS.

Co-ordinated research will develop the brown coals of the Empire into a product of first importance commercially, according to W. A. Bone, professor of chemical technology at the Imperial College of Science, who addressed chemists at the British Association to-day. Brown and lignite coals, which take a prominent place in Prof. Bone's classification of the sub-bituminous fuels, are found in extensive deposits in the various colonies and dominions, he indicated, in throwing out the suggestion that research by chemists and engineers will make it possible to utilize many of these reserves, which are at present receiving little attention.

"Progress has been made in disposing of the difficulties which are in the way of using these fuels on a wide scale," said Prof. Bone, in describing experiments which have been made to improve them by drying, heat-treating, and carbonizing.

Mastodons Roved Ontario In Not Too Distant Past

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Evidence that mastodons roamed about Ontario within relatively recent times was offered for the consideration of geologists at the British Association by Prof. J. W. Russell, of the University of Western Ontario. Numerous mastodon remains have been recovered from deposits of pre-glacial age at many places in Ontario, but most of these have been found in peat bogs, or imbedded in the marl of ancient or existing lakes. Both the peat and the marl act as preservatives, and will keep the bones in good condition indefinitely, thus the finding of the skeletons in such deposits indicates nothing more than the fact that mastodons roamed about the province after the glaciers passed away.

Prof. Russell has surveyed three of the newest discoveries of mastodon remains in Ontario, and finds that one set, located near London, Ont., was not protected with preservative material, and in view of the fact that the relics are in good condition, it is permissible to conclude that, geologically speaking, it is only a very short time since the last mastodon ceased his wanderings in this locality and curled himself up to die. "Under the condition in which the remains were discovered, they could last only a short time," the speaker said. "They are of relatively recent date."

CANADA NEEDS STRONGER NAVY

Every Year Since the World War Both Soldiers and Navy Have Been Falling Away In Canada.

HALIFAX, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—"Your minister of defence has said that the navy was the best form of insurance," said Captain Henry W. Parker, C. B., commander of H. M. S. Repulse, in addressing the Halifax Rotary Club yesterday. "I wonder how many times he has said that before and I wonder what he is going to do about it. But that is his business and your business not mine."

If something is not done, though, time will come when there will be no "O Canada," about which to sing. No navy had ever won war, he declared; it was foot soldiers who did that, but naval defence was a form of insurance worth paying for.

Convoys must use Halifax, and they must be protected. Because of the Washington agreement for the limitation of armaments, Britain could not send out guardian ships as she had in the past. If the British ships were in the east and the trouble arose here, it would be many months before they could arrive and they might not arrive at all.

"That is the problem confronting the Dominions, and the question is, "what are you going to do about it?" if we are not prepared, we are going down the drain."

Major General Thacker, C. M. G., D. S. O., officer commanding military district No. 6, addressed the gathering in equally vigorous terms. Since the end of the war he said, the active militia, and permanent forces of Canada had been on the down grade; year after year there had been less money to spend.

"To-day when we are singing O Canada, we stand on guard for thee we might add—at smallest per capita cost of any nation except Bolivia."

These attractions will bring many visitors to the city, and in view of the temporary depression in trade, His Worship considers that every advantage should be taken of the business that offers.

TEACHERS SEEK HIGHER STATUS OF PROFESSION

Longer Training and Legal Establishment Urged By President at Convention.

SHOULD BE EXPERTS

Accorded Standing Similar to Other Professions With Salaries Corresponding.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—"The greatest task of the Canadian Teachers' Federation is that of professionalising the field of education," stated H. C. Newland, M.A., LL.B., of Edmonton, president of the Federation, in his presidential address at the opening business session of the fifth annual convention here yesterday.

The Canadian people must have a stronger belief in the paramount importance of education, he continued. They should accord the teachers a really professional status. To a far greater extent than ever before would it be necessary for teachers to assume the leadership in dealing with educational problems and in framing educational policy. If the people really believed in education as they believed in medicine, dentistry or law, they would expect expert guidance from teachers as from doctors or lawyers, and would also pay the cost of education far more willingly.

Teachers themselves must receive training in scientific education which compared in intensity and duration with a course in medicine or law, he asserted. The day should be looked forward to when no person would be granted a license to practice teaching in Canada without having first taken a five years' course in education at a university.

Should Be Incorporated.

Many teachers and educationists were coming round to the view that teachers' organizations could not accomplish their full purpose until teachers became an incorporated body, given legal existence by special statute. As first steps toward setting up a Canadian Teachers' Council it would be necessary to form a teachers' registration council, similar to that in England and in Wales.

He emphasized as a preliminary to the successful functioning of a teachers' professional organization that there should be an official publication similar to the Law Times and Medical Journal.

Mr. Newland pointed out that the cardinal principle which had guided the association during the year had been to clear off financial obligations reported at the Montreal convention. He was now able to state that all outstanding obligations of the federation in the way of arrears of constituent expenses at Saskatoon and Montreal had been paid in full.

Bureau of Information.

"A central bureau of information and educational statistics is beginning where it will be possible for teachers in any part of Canada to obtain accurate and up-to-date information by letter or telegram as to school law, teaching conditions, educational administration, salaries and contracts in any part of Canada," he said. "In this way it may be possible through constituent Provincial organizations to have the school acts or ordinances of the various provinces so amended that the law relating to the rights, duties and obligations of teachers may be standardized throughout Canada."

In alluding to the effort to enlist the supnort of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, the president said the difficulty seemed to centre around financial terms of affiliation.

Secretary's Report.

In his report to the convention, Harry Charlesworth, secrteary-treasurer, said that causes for congratulation during the year were that the federation had passed without serious trouble in any province, that a settlement of the Brandon dispute had been brought about through the work of the Manitoba Teachers' Association, and the members of the Brandon School Board; and that the Federation had successfully managed two special trains with delegates to the convention, and there had been an increase in membership in the Provincial associations.

Mr. Charlesworth reviewed at length the financial position, showing that it had subsequently improved since the Montreal meeting of 1923, and now all outstanding obligations had been met. With more fees to be received, the bank balance is $4,278, out of which has to be paid the cost of the Victoria convention.

Tratter and Raphael Horticanni, passengers on the truck, who were charged with vagrancy. The truck carried 121 dozen pints of beer in cartons.

Twenty destroyers of the world war type, some with the star on their smoke stacks that marks them as having sunk a German submarine, comprise the battle-line of the Coast Guard fleet.

The secondary squadron is composed of two mine-sweepers, while scout work and near-shore patrol duties will fall to the motor craft, of which three hundred are expected to be utilized.

Cost Of Franks Trial Will Exceed Million

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. — —Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, because they turned criminals instead of remaining precocious college youths, will have cost the taxpayers somewhere around $75,000 or $100,000.

Not counting the money spent on them before the commission of the crime, they will have cost their parents an estimated $300,000 to $500,000.

Taxpayers and parents can congratulate themselves that it is not more. The fact that the hearing before Judge Caverly is without a jury saved the country and boys' families $500,000, it is estimated.

STATE'S EXPERT DECLARED BOTH SLAYERS SANE

No Evidence of Mental Disease Unless Deliberate Murder is Such a Sign.

RELATIVES TESTIFY

Loeb Well Supplied With Money—Ransom Was Not Needed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—Relatives of the young defendants who kidnaped and killed Bobby Franks were called to the witness stand Tuesday in the hearing to fix their punishment. Jacob M. Loeb, former president of the Chicago Public School Board and uncle of Richard Loeb, was called first. Allan Loeb, brother of Richard, followed.

It was the first official appearance of any members of the family of Richard Loeb or Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., his co-conspirator in the murder of the Franks boy.

Forman Leopold, brother of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., was more extensive. He testified on direct examination that Nathan would be twenty years old next November, had been exceedingly interested in churches at an early age and as to the practice of Nathan, Sr., providing his namesake with funds.

Allowance Liberal.

Forman said that Nathan had received $125 a month as an allowance and extra money whenever he wanted to take a trip, that Nathan paid no board, bought no clothing from his personal funds, and paid for no laundry nor school books. The older brother looked first at Nathan, Jr., and then at the newspaper men as he answered.

Forman Leopold explained that Nathan had bought an automobile but did not have to pay for it, its upkeep, nor for gasoline.

Nathan planned a $3,000 trip to Europe, and Nathan, Sr., had promised the money. Nathan was to have left June 1 and to have returned in October, his brother said.

There was no cross-examination and Forman left the witness box inside of ten minutes. The three relatives were heard in twenty-five minutes.

Mrs. Katherine B. Fitzgerald, for fifteen years secretary to Albert Loeb, father of Richard, testified that for eight or ten years she had supplied Richard Loeb with money, usually giving him $250 each time he asked for funds.

She denied that Loeb had a specified allowance of $125 amonth and said that the amount varied from time to time. Loeb obtaining whatever he asked if it was not unreasonable.

Moth'r's Side Told.

How Mrs. Albert Loeb, mother of "Dickie" Loeb, tried to speak a mother's sympathy to Mrs. Jacob Franks, mother of the slain boy was told outside of court proceedings.

It was shortly after Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb had confessed that Mrs. Loeb had went to the Franks home. She was told that Mrs. Franks could see no one Again she went on the same mission and received the same reply.

A third visit and Mrs. Franks's mother bade her enter and took her to the room where Robert's mother reclined. What passed has not been revealed, except that Mrs. Franks was reported to have said:

"I'm sure Bobby will be coming back pretty soon."

This unusual statement was in accord with the mother's testimony in the court room, where Judge Caverly will decide the fate of Leopold and Loeb, when she avoided mention of her son's death.

The theory of functional disorders of the endocrine glands advanced by Dr. H. S. Hulbert, alienist for the defense, as responsible for the "mental illness of Leopold and Loeb was the subject of attack by Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney. The prosecutor also pounded on the idea of the emotional age of the defendants, termed by defense alienist as below twelve years.

Pursuing his objective, Mr Crowe began his rebuttal by offering several witnesses who testified that Loeb had displayed emotion before he confessed upon learining of various findings that served to pin the crime upon him and Leopold.

From Dr. Hulbert, the State's Attorney got the admission that endocrinology is not generally subscribed to in the medical profession and that the new "chemistry of character" is as yet in the disputable stage.

Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, Chicago, former President of the American Neurological Society and the Mississippi Medical Association, was the first state alienist called.

"Have you an opinion as to whether Loeb was suffering from mental disease?" Dr. Patrick was asked af-

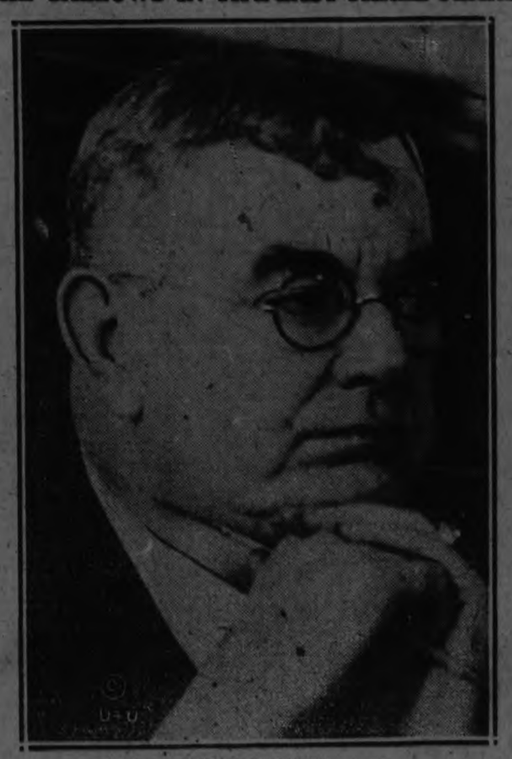
JUDGE CAVERLY HAS CONDEMNED FIVE TO THE GALLOWS IN THE LAST THREE YEARS



JUDGE CAVERLY.

(BY GEORGE BRITT.)

CHICAGO, August 14. — Out of 12 death verdicts returned and sentences pronounced in the criminal court here in the last three years, five have been before Judge John R. Caverly.

This record may or may not be significant as the world waits for Judge Caverly to give his verdict in the case of Richard A. Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., confessed slayers of Robert Franks. But it is at least something to think about. This is the sort of "friendly judge" the defense drew.

Out of the half dozen judges in the criminal court, Judge Caverly has uttered the fatal formula of the extreme sentence more than twice as often as any other. Under the Illinois law the jury fixes the penalty in returning the verdict, but by coincidence or otherwise juries in Judge Caverly's court have tended toward hanging.

In 1922 he pronounced only death sentence imposed. In 1923 he sentenced two of the nine men condemned. This year he has already sentenced two, the only death verdicts returned.

Back in his old days in the municipal court, Judge Caverly was known for his rigid impartiality and severe sentences. "Fifty dollars and costs" was a tag phrase with him.

The judge was born in England in 1861. He was no pampered childhood. He worked for what he received and was not graduated from night high school until 36 years old. He had been in public office almost continuously since then, as assistant city attorney, city attorney, police magistrate and judge.

DOMINION FIRE CHIEFS MEETING

Education of Public in Prevention Methods Stressed By Chiefs.

PROPOSE CAMPAIGN

QUEBEC, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—The convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs was continued this morning when a business session was held in the convention hall of the Chateau Frontenac. The greater part of the time of the delegates is being taken up by a discussion of fire prevention methods, the recommendation of certain improved types of fire apparatus, and the education of the public in fire prevention methods.

This last aspect of the question is receiving the particular attention of the delegates and it is expected that at some time in the near future a nation wide campaign of education will be launched with a view of bringing about greater cooperation between the public and the men whose duty it is to prevent fires as well as to extinguish them after they have broken out. The question of drawing up laws which will lead to greater care in the use of inflammable material was one question discussed this morning.

The delegates motored to St. Anne de Beaupre and Montmorency Falls. A reception has been arranged to take place at St. Anne. While there the visitors went to the famous shrine.

FARMERS URGED TO CO-OPERATE

Picnic at Sherbrooke, Que., Addressed By Agriculturists —Mutual Aid Needed.

LIVESTOCK IMPROVING

SHERBROOKE, Que., Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. J. H. Grisdale, of Ottawa, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; J. N. Ponton, of Montreal, head of La Bulletin des Agricultures and George Rothwell, of Ottawa, Dominion Animal Husbandman at the Ottawa Experimental Farm were the chief speakers at the tenth annual farmers picnic held yesterday at the Dominion Experimental Station at Lennoxville.

All three speakers emphasized the value from an educational standpoint of the experimental farm to the community which it serves. Mr. Rothwell dealt especially with the livestock situation in Canada which he described as improving.

Unity and solidarity among the farmer class was urged by Mr. Ponton who pointed out that there were over one hundred and fifty thousand farmers in this part of the province who should unite for the mutual benefit, finance and commerce of all concerned.

MOTHER SILENT ON HANGING OF HER TWO GIRLS

Mrs. Fanning Apparently Tried to Hang Herself, But Failing Used Knife.

SHE WILL RECOVER

Children Carried to Cellar in Their Sleep By Demented Mother.

LINDSAY, August 14. — Did Mrs. Geo. Fanning first attempt to end her own life by hanging herself, after she had hanged her two babies and failing this then cut her own throat?

Some of the first witnesses at the Fanning homestead following the terrible tragedy state that everything goes to show that the demented woman attempted to hang herself.

When she was first noticed she had a short piece of sugar bag rope tied around her neck, similar to the ropes around the necks of her two little girls. It is thought that after committing the rash deed, that she deliberately tied herself up to the board whereon she had hanged her little girls, but there was not sufficient room in which to swing, and that she cut herself down, and then secured her husband's razor and cut her throat. At present her condition is favourable, and she will recover.

In preparing for the gruesome act, Mrs. Fanning carried a chair down to the cellar and also a couple of pillows. It is believed that she laid the children on the pillows while attaching the string around their necks. She then stood the two on the chair, put each rope over the board (from bin to bin), tied the rope together, and hanged the children at once, when she took the chair from under their feet.

The demented woman then carried the little bodies upstairs and placed them on their bed, where they lay as if in sleep.

Beautiful Children.

There they were found by the grief-stricken father and his uncle and by the doctors who arrived later.

They were two lovely children, beautiful, pink-cheeked, fair-haired girls, the picture of health. Their faces bore no signs or traces of having suffered in the least, but rather showed that they had peacefully slept away. Two little angels in robes of white could not have looked prettier or more peaceful.

Cannot Understand Motive.

Neighbours cannot understand any reason for the rash deed. Mrs. Fanning was neighbourly, but not a visitor. She lived a considerable distance from her neighbours. She, however, was on friendly terms with everyone and on 12th July attended the big neighbourly picnic held at the lake. Friends recall, however, that at this time she was backward and reserved and did not enter into the amusements as the rest were doing.

A week ago she spent a day with her husband and family at her aunt's at Cesarea, and seemed to enjoy the outing. A few days ago she went to the village store and purchased her groceries as usual, but the storekeeper remarked afterwards that she seemed to be very quiet and did not talk to anyone at any length.

Lately, according to a brother of Mrs. Fanning, she had been very quiet. However, no one suspected or dreamed that she would be capable of committing such a rash deed.

Three years ago, it is stated, Mrs. Fanning was quite ill, and it was feared that she would lose her reason.

Good to the Children.

According to neighbours and the friends of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Fanning were good to their children, clothed them well, and fed them properly. The two kiddies were the picture of health.

Mr. Fanning is a highly respected young man of about thirty years of age. He has resided in the neighbourhood practically all his life, and is a hard working, industrious young farmer.

Mrs. Fanning was in a very weakened condition when taken to the hospital, because of the loss of blood, and extra precautions had to be taken to prevent death while under the anaesthetic when having several stitches placed in the wound in the neck.

During the night a special nurse was in attendance on the patient.

As yet Mrs. Fanning has not given one word to explain such a gruesome deed, nor has she attempted to defend her action.

It is felt by some that she possessed an hallucination that some ill was going to befall the children and that she was doing the right thing in taking their young lives.

When her husband and his uncle, Mr. George Pogue, found the dazed woman, she was sitting on her bed, behind a door that was locked.

In answer to their questions she simply stated that the children were dead.

Later on when Dr. McCulloch arrived, he found the unfortunate woman sitting on the steps of the dwelling, with her head between her hands and gazing furtively at the neighbours and others who had arrived. She was barefooted at the time.

Dr. McCulloch, who knew both Mr. and Mrs. Fanning well, ap-

THE APPOINTMENT SYSTEM TO CHANGE

Drastic Changes to Take Place in Ontario's System of Appointments in The Civil Service.

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Ontario's system of making appointments to the Civil Service, fixing their salaries and granting increases of salaries, is now under revision, and some drastic changes are looked for.

Representations have been made to the Government regarding the number of inequalities by officers of the Civil Service Employees' Association, and it is understood the Government has found plenty of reasons why there should be a change in the methods now in vogue. The system which went into effect during the Hearst Government is now said to be pretty well scrapped.

The Government, it is understood, recognizes the patronage system by allowing Toronto presidents of the ward associations to name the men for positions paying less than $2,000 a year, the Government retaining the right to fill positions paying more than this salary. Hon. W. F. Price, member of Parkdale and Provincial Treasurer, deals with all patronage matters affecting this city.

BANK CLEARINGS.

A Decrease of $54,833 Is Shown When the Weeks Clearings Were Compared With Last Weeks Total.

The Bank Clearings for the week ending to-day showed a slight decrease when compared with last week. Last week they reached the high mark of $765,244 while this week the total was $710,411. For the corresponding week one month ago the amount totaled at the clearing house was $725,503, and for the same week one year ago the total was $724,335.

OVER A MILLION ON MOVIE STAR

(The Insurance Field)

"Insurance is just as good as money in the bank, in my opinion, and as a protection against the many vicissitudes of life that come to us, it has no equal."

So declares "Buster" Keaton, the motion picture comedian, who has taken out $1,050,000 life insurance, $300,000 of which is personal and $750,000 in favor of the Joseph M. Schenck productions. He is now taking steps for the issuance of 20-year endowment policies for his two sons, Joe and Bob, the policies to mature in 1945 when Joe will be 25 and Bob about 21.

"I intend to see that the boys have a little nest-egg to start out with in life," Buster says. "There's nothing like insurance. I am now carrying many kinds—automobile, accident, fire disability and death, and each year I am taking on just a little more."

Famous artists of the silver screen have manifested especial approval of life insurance as a means of personal thrift and their managers in equal measure have turned to life insurance to protect their business interests.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Three Italian Mountain Climbers Hung by Rope For Five Hours.

CHAMONIX, France Aug. 14. — (Canadian Press. — Three Italian mountain climbers underwent terrific experience yesterday of hanging for five hours from a rope over a precipice before being rescued. Unaccompanied by guides, they had reached the summit of the Aiguille De Grepon, an 11,000 foot peak, without a mishap, and were on their way back when one slipped dragging the others with him down the side of the mountain. The rope between the second and third man, however, caught on a rock as they went over the edge of the precipice. The trio were pulled up with great difficulty.

NEW PUNISHMENT.

Whiskey Smugglers Will Be Dealt With Under The Tariff Act.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press). — Decision reached and announced yesterday by the department of justice that from this time on whiskey smugglers would be dealt with under the tariff act instead of the Volstead act, is considered a drastic step by the administration to enforce prohibition in a business likeway. It relieves Roy A. Haynes, prohibition commissioner, of part of his responsibility and turns it over to Ernest W. Camb, division of customs. The reason assigned for this change is that Volstead law provision on smuggling is "toothless."

DROWNED IN PAIL.

10 Months Old Baby Met Death In Five Inches Of Water.

ST. GEORGE, N. B., Aug. 14. — (Canadian Press). — Laura Julia Wright aged ten months daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Wright, was drowned in about five inches of water in a pail at the Wright home yesterday.

At the time of the accident, Mrs. Wright was working in another part of the house.

The child crept into the kitchen where the pail was. It is supposed that, in trying to reach the water with her hands the baby slipped into the pail, as she was found standing on her head in the water. Medical attention was summoned but without results.

COBOURG SHOW HAD A WET DAY

Yesterday's Horse Show Programme Attracted a Large Crowd.

COBOURG, Aug. 14.—(Special). —Although it rained yesterday there were a great many people occupying the grand stands when the show opened at 2 o'clock with a parade to the Horse Show Park, led by the 48th Highlanders Band and the Royal Canadian Dragoons. It takes more than rain to keep the people away when a horse show is on here. However, shortly after one o'clock the weather brightened, and the rain ceased. Again there was a fine programme of events run off.

The draught horses shown in the championship class yesterday were a credit to any district, and judging as far from easy.

Sir Clifford Sifton, Lady Sifton, A. O. Beardmore, Toronto, Strathrolyn Farm, Grimshaw Bros., Crowe and Murray, R. J. Fleming, R. A. Laidlaw, Capt. Bate, Major Timmins, H. L. Hess, Lieut.-Col. Norman Perry had entries in hunters and jumpers. Thomas Cowan, Orono; Arthur Wright, Picton; A. P. Pollard, Port Hope; Allan Mann, L. O. Ball, Peterboro; W. H. Rutledge, Port Credit; T. E. Allison, Port Hope; A. V. Tinney and J. P. Richards, Cobourg, were showing roadsters and pacers. In harness horses there was keen competition. Among those exhibition were: Miss E. Viau, Montreal; A. E. Fitchette, Blackstock; Crowe and Murray, Toronto; Gordon F. Perry, Toronto; S. P. Hagerman, Belleville, and many others. There was live competition in saddle ponies between a number of Toronto exhibitors. Marshall of Hamilton; Miss L. A. Livingston, Pontiac Stock Farm, and Jack Cook, Cooksville, also had entries.

There was one accident to mar an otherwise splendid programme. In the steeple chase, the fourth horse owned by Robins of Toronto and ridden by McAvoy fell at the first hurdle and broke a foreleg. It was a clean cut tracture and the animal had to be shot. This was done and it was taken from the grounds. The rider suffered injuries having ribs broken and being bruised and shaken up. He was helped from the grounds. The steeple chase resulted as follows:

1. McDorin owned and ridden by Fred English, Toronto.

2 Maxim owned by G. M. Beard more and ridden by A. Brodie, Toronto.

HOLD-UP HEARING HELD AT COBOURG

Men who Held Up Garage Man at Hoard's Station On Trial.

(By a Staff Reporter).

COBOURG, Aug. 14.—The celebrated case of the holdup at Hoard's Station last week, when Charlie Todd, a garage man, was relieved of $38 by a party of three men and a girl in an auto, was taken up here Wednesday afternoon in County Magistrate Floyd's court. Cecilia Fulton, the young girl with the bobbed hair, who was one of the party, was allowed to go, and Joe Sullivan, one of the men who took no actual part in the affair, was let off with a warning. The cases against Richard Measer and John Sanderson were adjourned until August 20th to give the police a chance to look up their records further. Measer, the Provincial officers who are handling the case say, is wanted in Lindsay on charges of robbery and theft, and he will be taken back there when the present case against him is disposed of.

Story of the Hold-Up.

When Sanderson and Sullivan were cantured in Stirling about two hours after the hold-up, Measer and the girl making their get-away in the car, only to be arrested in Ottawa, they were taken to the Belleville Jail, where they were detained on a nominal charge of vagrancy. While in custody in Belleville, Sullivan made a statement to the police, telling the whole story of the joy ride which ended so disastrously for those who took part.

Sullivan said that he and Measer left Lindsay and motored to Toronto on August 1st. On their arrival they 'phoned Cecelia Fulton, whom they had met when she was working in a hotel at Bobcaygeon, but who was then living at her home, 92 Carleton Place, Toronto. Next day, accompanied by the girl, they returned to Lindsay, where they met Sanderson at Tommy Carey's shoe shine parlor. Sanderson joined the party, and the four of them motored to Toronto on Sunday. The men stayed alone at 11 Pembroke Street until the next day.

The joy riders left Toronto, and, travelling all day, arrived at Bobcaygeon at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. A few hours later they left that town and arrived in Peterboro at noon. They had to spend $3.90 for repairs to their car in that city.

Went to Campbellford.

From Peterboro they went to Campbellford, arriving at 6 p.m., and after autoing around that town for a few hours, left, and in due time arrived at Hoard's Station.

They were out of gas and Sanderson woke up the proprietor of a garage who supplied them with 5 1-2 gallons. The garage man was asked if he could change a $10 bill and when he took out his money to do so Measer, who was driving the car, said, "Come across and come clean."

Sanderson took a revolver out of his pocket and pointed it at the garage man who handed over his roll, $38 which Measer and Sanderson divided between them.

After holding up William Hutchins who was taking his milk to the cheese factory at Menie, and getting a pail of milk as the farmer had no money, the joy riders proceeded to Stirling where they stopped to have some repairs made to their car. Sullivan and Sanderson went for a walk and were captured, Measer and the girl getting away in the car.

No Evidence Taken

When the four prisoners came up for examination yesterday they were defended by J. O'Flynn of Belleville while the case for the crown was conducted by Acting Crown Attorney A. Cochrane. No evidence was taken and Mr. Cochrane recommended that the case be dropped against the girl who is only 20 years old, good looking and with raven locks artistically bobbed.

Cecilia Weeps

"The Crown," said the Magistrate with official severity addressing the girl, has dealt most mercifully with you in not pressing the charge against you. Why did you leave your parents and home in Toronto to go with these men?"

"Because I could not get employment in that city," replied the girl who was in tears.

"It strikes me forcibly," continued the Magistrate, that you have got in to peculiar company when you gy rate through the country at all hours of the night. If you lose your character you lose everything. Why did you act as you did?"

"Joe Sullivan and I are going to be married," replied Cecilia.

"You should leave such companions alone."

"I certainly will," was the answer.

The charge was robbery and to this all three men pleaded guilty.

Although Sullivan was allowed to go he may be arrested at any time on this charge if he gets into any trouble in the future.

Measer and Sanderson are held in jail without bail.

The horses threw down their heads. In doing so they pulled over the seat. Fortunately no one was hurt.

FORMER BOXER KILLED WOMAN HE WAS TO WED

Kid McCoy, Married Nine Times, Killed His Tenth Wife to Be, Yesterday.

CONFESSED CRIME.

Wounded Three Others When He Attempted To Rob Brokerage Office

LOS ANGELES, August 14 (Canadian Press). — Norman Selby, known to professional boxing as "Kid McCoy," confessed the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mors to his sister shortly after Mrs. Mors was shot here early yesterday, it was announced last night by Assistant Captain of Detectives Herman Cline.

The ex-boxer, nine times a husband, and who, a common report said, was planning to make Mrs. Mors his tenth wife, in the first hour or so after his arrest would make only one statement, and that was, "I killed the only woman I ever loved."

Shortly after the body was discovered McCoy, brandishing a 45-calibre pistol, and shouting incoherently, appeared in the residential district brokerage offices run by Samuel Schapp and his wife, Ann.

William J. Ross, New Yorker, was standing by the counter.

McCoy proceeded to rob them, and ordered the men to disrobe, apparently to block pursuit.

Ross attempted to disarm the former boxer, and received two bullets in the thigh.

McCoy fired four more shots and slightly wounded Schapp and his wife, then departed, running.

Mrs. Mors and her husband had been divorced recently. Then she charged Mors with robbing antique store of $50,000 in securities and valuables, while a property settlement was being arranged.

CATTLE DOING WELL ON GRASS

Summary of Crop Situation Throughout Ontario.

AVERAGE GOOD

The following is a summary of the returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The feature of the weeks has been the fine conditions of live stock on the grass. Beef cattle are thriving, and dairy cows are giving a comparatively heavy flow of milk. Mid-summer pastures were never better.

All over the Province an increased interest is being taken in the preparing of land for fall wheat. More fields than usual at this date have been plowed, and the prospects are that the acreage sown this year will be larger than that of any of the last three years.

The midsummer rains are helping clover fields that are being kept for seed, and the present outlook is encouraging to growers.

Some oats have already been cut in a number of western counties.

The Hastings representative reports that oats are being attacked by red rust, but that the injury is largely confined to fields that were sown late.

Reports from some other counties speak of the appearance of smut in some fields of oats where the seed had not been treated for that trouble.

While pastures, roots, etc., have been greatly helped by the recent rains of the last two or three weeks, a good deal of cut hay and wheat has been kept lying in the fields. The former crop, while heavy, will not be up to the general quality of that of last year, as much of it will not have the generally first-class curing then realized. Several representatives state that considerable sprouting of fall wheat in stooks has occurred.

Most of the barley has been harvested, and is turning out a fair crop.

Corn is tasseling, and is promising much better than early in the season. The chief drawback to the crop now is the weedy condition of the fields owing to the frequent rains keeping the land too wet for cultivation.

The season so far has not been so encouraging as usual to growers of small fruits and vegetables, prices as a rule having been under expectation.

Perth—There are still a great many complaints both from the local and Toronto dairies about the low test of milk. Many farmers are going to the trouble to have individual cows in their herds tested, and in this way try to raise the standard of their milk.

Glengarry shippers of milk to Montreal are netting about $1.60 a cwt.

Shipments of lambs in North Simcoe have been larger than usual during the last two weeks.

Timiskaming—The most interesting feature about live stock industry in this district is the increased interest being taken in the sheep industry. Messrs. Chillerhose Bros. are preparing to erect a woollen mill here, something which we trust will give the impetus to the industry. Outside buyers have been through the district, during the past two weeks, buying lambs, and a number of carloads have been shipped out. I believe that the lambs are of much higher standard this year than that of last year, more docking and casturating having been done.

Hastings reports an unusual demand for young pigs.

Fewer hogs than formerly are coming into the market.

Kitchener plant were paying $9.75 for thick smooths, with a premium for selects. Grass cattle are being marketed.

Perth—This year a great many more than usual of the pure-bred male calves have been made into steers, and only a few of the very best in each herd are being retained for sires.

South Simcoe—There was a fair sized shipment of stock from the County this week. Some 22 cattle were shipped from Alliston. These were rather common butcher cattle, netting the farmers 4¼ cents per pound. 25 calves were also shipped, 12 real choice ones bringing 8½ cents, 45 good lambs sold from 11 cents to 12 cents per pound. 50 hogs were sold at $9.25 per cwt.

Leeds—Cattle and livestock in general are in fairly good condition as a result of good pastures. Prices of hogs have advanced sharply and hog producers are more optimistic as to the future. There is also a good demand for spring lambs at prices ranging from $10 up to those 80 to 85 lbs. The quality of those being marketed is very good, most ram lambs have been castrated this year in anticipation of the $2 cut on rams.

STATE'S EXPERT

tor he had detailed his lengthy qualifiitations and his study of the youthful defendants.

"Yes," replied Dr. Patrick. "I think not, unless we assume every man who commits a deliberate cold-blooded murder is disordered mentally. There are no statments the boys made and nothing in the examination showing mental peculiarities except a lack of sufficient impression of the enormity of the crime they had committed."

No Evidence of Disease.

There was no evidence of mental disease in Richard Loeb on May 21st. Dr. Hugh H. Patrick, state alienist, stated positively in court yesterday.

Striving to break down the defense case of "diseased functioning of the mind," the prosecution took Dr. Patrick carefully along the line of the defense evidence in an effort to disprove every statement put forward "in mitigation of punishment.'

"Aside from the commission of the crime, I see no evidences of mental disease," he said.

Normal Attributes.

Hypothetical questions as to a man of Loeb's intellectual qualities and as to a man of Loeb'a impulsiveneds brought the reply that they were attributes of normal people.

"They are perfectly normal reactions," said Dr. Patrick, "everyone at times is more or less depressed."

"I apprehend that there is no one who does not have phantasies regarding the thing he is interested in. Air castles in Spain is the more common term. It is a normal procedure. Some persons indulge in it more than others. This thing of having phantasies for thirty minutes before going to sleep is not a pathological condition at all."

Doctor Had Phantasy.

Dr. Patrick remarked "night before last I had a phantasy of appearing on the witness stand, and of the questions that might be asked me."

"I saw nothing in my contact with the gentleman," said Dr. Patrick in reference to Leopold, whom he had studied soon after arrestfor murdering the Franks boy, "to lead me to suppose he had any mental disease.'

Loeb and Leopold sat with stoiid unchanging faces as they heard the witness proclaim them sane. Occasionally as has been their habit throughout the hearing they held whispered conversations.

One of Prisoner's Answers.

Dr. Patrick said that in an interview with the youths Loeb ahd said: in reply to a question as to the motive::

"God, I don't know."

Previously, however, testified Dr. Patrick, Loeb had said in effect that it was for the thrill, the experience and the money.

"Leopold stated first that he thought he did it because Dick wanted it done," said Dr. Patrick. "I asked him whether it was an idea of matching his wits with those of the police, and Leopold said, "Yes, that might have had something to do with it."

"Ransom had something to do with it," declared Dr. Patrick. "That is explained by the way they had planned to dispose of it and the arrangements they had made to hide it and how it was to be spent. The ransom was to be divided fifty fifty the boys told me."

MOTHER SILENT

proached her and said: "Well, you had better get dressed and come with me till I attend to that ugly wound you have there."

Mrs. Fanning got up and went into the house, followed by the doctor, who waited beside her while she dressed. She then accompanied him to his car, without a murmur or even a glance around the house, and was brought to the Lindsay hospital.

By this time the bleeding in the neck had stopped. When slashing her throat she had cut the wrong way, simply gashing an artery, but not touching the windpipe.

The Fannings live on the old Naylor homestead, the former home of Mr. Robert Naylor, of Lindsay. It is situated on Lot 3, Concession 3, Ops, a few miles south of West Cross Creek's bridge, on the left hand side of the road. The farm is hardly noticeable from the road, because of a bush, and the buildings are a considerable distance from the road and through a laneway that does not show very much signs of being used. The nearest neighbour is a Mr. Henry, who lives some distance away.

Immediately following the tragedy a coroner's jury was empanelled as follows:

James Sandiland, George Allan, Allan Irwin, Edward Meagher, John Lynch, Leo Lynch, Robert Jordan, and William Lynch.

Dr. Logan, coroner, and the jury viewed the bodies, and the inquest was adjourned until Friday night at 7.30 o'clock, the same to be held in Murphy's school house.

MANDARIN RED CREPE.

Mandarin red crepe is very attractive as a lining for coats of black or navy blue. It is also used with great success as a trimming for dark frocks.

HOW ACCIDENTS HAPPEN.

Accidents are being reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board of this Province at the rate of two hundred for each working day. Many people have the impression that accidents in industry involve contact with machinery, but the statistics along this line do not bear out this fact.

One of the organizations of the Province interested in the question of accident prevention has made a survey of compensated accidents covering a twelve-month period, and their information shows the following causes of accidents: 1, handling objects; 2, falls of persons; 3, falling objects; 4, hand tools; 5, mechanical; 6, dangerous substances; 7, stepping on or striking against objects; 8, flying objects; 9, physical failures; 10, moving vehicles, and 11, all others.

These causes are listed in their order of precedence. It will be seen, therefore, that the mechanical accidents are greatly outnumbered by the various other types, handling material being the outstanding cause of most accidents.

These facts naturally suggest the thought that a little more care on the part of those engaged in industry would mean that each year we should have a smaller crop of accidents. This would surely be a good thing for the people of Ontario.

LONG, LONG AGO.

Night-riders, attention: Tarring-and-feathering was invented by Richard Coeur-de-Lion, King of England, about 750 years ago. He ordered that any sailor convicted of theft should "have his head clipped and hot pitch poured upon his pate, and upon that the feathers of some pillow or cushion shaken aloft."

You use the expression, "That's a feather in his cap." Do you know what it means? Some 500 years or more ago, the Hungarians had a custom by which a man couldn't wear a feather in his cap unless he had killed a Turk. A feather for every Turk, like notches on a gun.

In 1791, French slangsters coined an expression, "What will the frogs say to this?" Spread like wildfire, the public applying it to all ridiculous or absurd proposals. That's the origin of calling the French "Frogs."

In olden times, when a man lost his right arm in battle he was so incapacitated that he had to have a servant accompany him to take the place of the lost hand. This originated the saying, "He my right-hand man."

Heels were put on shoes to prevent a horseman's foot slipping in the stirrup. Buttons on the coat cuff date back to Frederick the Great, who put sharp buttons there to stop soldiers using their cuffs as handkerchiefs. The wedding ring originally symbolized a chain.

So it goes. Thousands of the things we use and things we say and do are remnants of a long-forgotten past. Habit keeps them alive, even though their real meaning is as obscure as their origin.

DANCING FIATS.

That autocratic body known as the International Association of Masters of Dancing has decreed that fantastic dances such as the Wildcat Whirl must give way to "a rhythmic, slow foxtrot known as Raggedy Ann." Thus is the most burning question in the breasts of the youth of today settled by an order, and the anxiety of the fair sex is removed. Dancing has gained such a hold upon youth that it seems almost foolish to suggest anything is as popular. From a calisthenic viewpoint, the exercise of the limbs and body along certain lines makes for gracefulness of poise and of deportment. But modern youths do not worry much about grace, and not at all about deportment. All that concerns youth is to move in whatever manner and under whatever stimulus the music of the moment provides; if the motion indicated is gauche, or even worse, that concerns youth not at all.

But the parents of youth are much concerned. They, therefore, will doubtless hail with intense relief the fiat of the International Association of Masters of Dancing, which seems to indicate a desire on the part of that august organization to eliminate some of the less desirable features from modern dancing. There is certainly a great deal that needs elimination, much that ought to be made as impossible as throat-cutting on the sidewalk. But International bodies move in a mysterious way, and it would perhaps be unseemly to suggest that they hurry or work faster. It might be advisable, however, in the case under discussion, to suggest the appointment of an international arbitration committee to decide for or against new types of dancing; and if their decision could have the force of law, much shame would be saved the rising generation.—Montreal Star.

PREVENTION IS BETTER.

The best chance firemen have to conquer flames is during the first five minutes after they start. A fire will double itself every five minutes after it has broken out.

But a new and a better way has been forcing itself on the attention of fire fighters and is now in full sway, as was evidenced at the session of the Federation of Fire Fighters held yesterday. It is to fight the fire before it starts. Fire-prevention is better than fire-cure, these practical men say. The day is gone for ever when a fireman's sole training was in battling with smoke and flame. He is now taught the dangers of collected rubbish, the menace of oily rags, and the result of a carelessly emptied scuttle of ashes, he understands, may be a conflagration that all his science cannot halt.

This knowledge he is endeavouring to pass on to the public, and in this way he is rendering a service that is past reckoning.

The efficient fire department, a speaker remarked, is not the one that is constantly on the run, but the department that has cleaned up its city so well that only a few calls are received for assistance with an actual blaze.

That the fire insurance companies appreciate this is indicated by the divergency in premiums charged to policyholders.

That citizens value the service at its true worth is shown by the efforts made to clean up dangerous conditions when the firemen point out the menace.

And that prospective industries look for the efficient force may be read from their inquiries directed towards ascertaining the losses and the opinions that underwriters hold of the situation in the city where they intend locating.

Provincial Fire Marshal Heaton and Fire Chief George Gimblett yesterday voiced the principle in the same words: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

HOW ANDY MADE HIS MONEY.

Forty years ago a young fellow named Anderson, without a penny to his name, drifted into a hopeless looking village in central Ontario.

He was among strangers. His pocketbook was empty. And he didn't have much in the way of education. The village he started to work in was one of those backwoods communities which seem totally lacking in opportunity.

Anderson's first job in this place was feeding cattle at the railroad stockyards—cattle driven in by farmers and awaiting shipment.

Today the village still is a village—about 800 people. Anderson's hair is whitening. He shows the marks of hard work. But he is rich enough to spend his winters in Florida. He owns a general store he started. He owns timber land, also houses that bring him a steady income of $250 rent a month.

He's worth about a quarter of a million.

That's not a tremendous fortune, compared with some of the men who are known all over the Continent.

But Andy has all the money he needs. He's happy. His life has been useful, helping his community. He has raised to manhood three fine boys, and they are taking his place as he rests on his oars. All around, he's a real success.

Now, when Andy arrived in this village, he met a lot of other young fellows. Some got out. Some stayed. They had the notion that there wasn't any opportunity locally. And they were right, as far as they themselves were concerned. Most of them are where they started. They haven't gotten anywhere. Andy is the only man in town who has made money.

And he made it in a community, buried in the woods and rocks, where summers are short and winters 50 below zero—in short, a community that would look hopeless to nearly every man ambitious to get ahead.

The answer is that opportunity is not found, it is made.

It isn't the town or the job that counts, it's the man.

Natural ability and luck may enter into the matter to considerable extent. But that doesn't alter the fact that opportunity is everywhere—for the right man.

WHEN IN HEALTH, SEE A DOCTOR.

"It must no longer be said that 'the man was so sick he had to send for a doctor.'"

This is the slogan for the new war on disease given forth in his inaugural address by Sir David Bruce, President of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. He insists that medicine should aim at prevention rather than at cure. It is the healthy man that needs the doctor—to keep him healthy.

This theory is as old as Chinese civilization; but—for the Western world—as new as Pasteur. As the striking sentence with which we opened is the slogan of the new movement, so Pasteur is its hero and pioneer. That patient, undaunted, keen-brained and sure-footed Frenchman was the man who—defying discouragement and ignoring criticism—tracked the arch enemy of mankind, the germ, to its fetid lair, and then put into the hand of science the weapon by which it might be slain. He was worth a hundred Napoleons. As France looks back upon her past, literally crowded as it is with towering sons about whose brows the legitimate pride of her race clusters, she will find none more worthy than the plodding biologist. The routing of rabies was a greater victory than Austerlitz.

Pasteur taught medicine to take the offensive and no longer to await in impotent dismay the attack of the foe. Under his inspiration, medicine has already captured several Verduns—Rabies, Tuberculosis, Typhoid, Diphtheria. Others still resist our onlaughts. The deadliest of these strongholds of the forces of death is Cancer; but our determined armies of the test-tube and the culture are pressing in on all sides.

* * * *

Life is very much safer than it was before Pasteur.

We do not realize, perhaps, how much gain has been made because we do not know how much to allow for the wide-spread weakening of human resistance caused by increasing luxury and indulgence throughout classes that were compelled to live hardily ——and healthily—in an earlier day. If medicine had stood still while smothering "comfort" made the advances it has, what would have been our death-rate? If we knew this, we could tell better how much intelligent and explorative medicine has done for us.

While we "have been digging our graves with our teeth," medicine has been pulling us back from them—it has been bettering our bodies at every point, even the teeth with which we do our deadly "digging." It has been building inner fortifications against the diseases which indulgence has let through the outer walls. It is not, indeed, the fault of medicine that indulgence has breached the outer walls. Medicine is always warning us that we must live the life nature decrees if we are to keep in harmony with nature's laws.

The world has been made safer for even our wealth-ridden democracy; and the individual man has been armed in a hundred new ways for the irrepressible conflict. That much preventative medicine has achieved already.—Montreal Star.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. — Highest prices yet this season were reported in the corn market by all new crop deliveries. Unseasonable cool weather and too much rain, together with backwardness of growth, led to a notable broadening of demand but the top prices failed to hold, corn, closing quotations being unsettled 3-4 to 1 3-4c net higher. December $1.08 5-8 to $1.08 3-44. Wheat finished unsteady at 11-2c to 7-8c decline, with oats ranging from 1-4c off to 3-8 and 1-12c advance and provisions showing 7c to 32c gain.

Advices were at hand that to a remarkable extent the corn crop was tasseling on short stalks and that there would be large abandonment of acreage, especially on bottom lands where cultivating had been rendered impossible by persistent rains. It was said also that in much territory the crop would only mature if frost was delayed very late.

STERLING PRICES.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day:
Demand 4.5400.
Cables 4.5488.

ELECTRIC SHOCK FATAL

QUEBEC, Aug. 13.—Ovile Landry was electrocuted at Sherbrooke last evening, when he came in contact with a transmission wire of the Shawinigan Electric Company, as he climbed up his haystack. He was terribly burned and was taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where he died later.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 113.—Absence of frost and forecasts of warmer weather throughout the Canadian west imparted an easier tendency to the wheat market to-day, the final quotation being 7-8 to 1c lower than Tuesday's close. The trade volume was not large and the pit operators were inclined to the bearish side, although considerable support came out at times from the bullish interests who are still firm in their belief that higher prices will yet prevail.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13.— Arrivals —1,784; cattle 225 calves; 11,708 hogs; 370 sheep and lambs.

Trading on the cattle market today was generally steady with prices firm on practically all butcher classes. Stockers and feeders continue active at prices fully steady with yesterday.

The hog market opened unsettled. Prospects are that thick smooths will sell from $9.50 to $9.60.

The sheep and lamb market was firm, best lambs bringing from $10 to $12 with sheep from $4 to $6.

GARDEN PARTY WELL ATTENDED

Afternoon Train at Lakefield Did Not Affect the Evening Crowd.

MANY VISITORS

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 14.— The garden party held on Wednesday evening under the auspices of St. John's Church, Lakefield, was a great success despite very threatening weather. It was held on the grounds of Mrs. L. H. Grahame's residence, Queen street, and was attended by a very large crowd of people, including a number from Peterboro, Stoney Lake and McCracken's Landing.

The grounds were lighted by electricity for the occasion and presented a most attractive appearance. The various booths were well patronized, and in spite of the fact that the heavy shower of the afternoon was followed by a decided drop in temperature the affair was most successful. Financialy the returns exceeded the dreams of even the most optimistic members of the committee. The Citizens' band was present, and rendered a good programe during the evening. From nine until eleven o'clock there was dancing in the house, which was very popular with the young people.

Mrs. Morson and Mrs. Stuart were in charge of the dancing and Hendren's orchestra provided the music. Those in charge of the booths were as follows: candy table, Mrs. Langley and Mrs. L. H. Grahame; home cooking table, Mrs. James Mahood, Miss S. Hetherington and Miss Everett; the "Aunt Sally", Mrs. C. C. Stenner and Roger Stenner; the apple tree, Miss Margaret Mackenzie; the hidden treasure, Misses Yvonne Stuart and Angela Osborne; the flower table, Miss Lileon Stuart, Marian Muir, Billy Mackenzie, Maxwell Hamilton and Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald; the ice-cream and soft drinks, Mrs. Trude Waldon, Miss Gertrude Summers. Miss Lily Summers, Miss M. Hampton, Verna Payne, Helen Watson and Ida Webster.

Others who assisted were Miss Alice Sawtelle, Miss Constance Stuart, Miss Dorothy Langley, Miss Helen Everett and Grace Dell Watson. Rev. Mr. Cox and Mrs. Cox generally supervised the arrangements.

The "hidden treasure" which was a five dollar gold piece, was found by Mrs. J. W. Todd; the Costa Rica table runner was won by Mr. G. Morson; the man's sweater by Miss Florence Mackenzie. The basket which was the prize for guessing the number of beans in a jar was won by Mr. G. A. Charlton who guessed the exact number 1700. The fancy chain was won by Miss Florence Mackenzie; the large framed picture was won by Mr. G. Morson.

A large measure of the success of the garden party was due to the interest and very material help of Mr. Morson.

LIQUOR BILL ADVANCES

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Aug. 14. — (Canadian Press).—The liquor bill which has been before the house the last few days has passed the committee stage. No strenuous opposition is anticipated from the upper house and it is expected the measure will replace the present prohibition act during the present session.

A THOUGHT

LORD, MAKE A REGULAR MAN OUT OF ME.

This I would like to be—braver and bolder,
Just a bit wiser because I am older;
Just a bit kinder to those I may meet,
Just a bit manlier taking defeat;
This for the New Year my wish and my plea,
Lord, make a regular man out of me.

This I would like to be—just a bit finer,
More of a smiler and less of a whiner,
Just a bit quicker to stretch out my hand
Helping another who's struggling to stand.
This is my prayer for the New Year to be,
Lord, make a regular man out of me.

This I would like to be—just a bit fairer,
Just a bit better, and just a bit squarer,
Not quite so ready to censure and blame,
Quicker to help every man in the game,
Not quite so eager men's failings to see,
Lord, make a regular man out of me.

This I would like to be—just a bit truer,
Less of the wisher and more of the doer,
Broader and bigger, more willing to give,
Living and helping my neighbor to live;
This for the New Year my prayer and my plea,
Lord, make a regular man out of me.

DOURO SIDE OF RIVER SCENIC

Road Along East Bank Of Otonabee to Lakefield Appeals to Tourists.

STRIP OF BEAUTY.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 13. — This year there hase been even a stronger demand on the part of motorists touring the country than usual for the improvement of the road from Nassau to Lakefield via Douro which, following the Otonabee river as it does makes the scenery much prettier than on the Smith side of the river. In these days, every town must advertise itself to keep a place on the map and one of the best modes of advertising and the most employed is the exploiting of the natural beauties in the locality. The road is ideal as regards scenery, nature, has done so much that it is no wonder, tourists ask why doesn't some one get busy on that pretty road. The fact that the Smith road is better is not saying that its surface is as good as might be and as money must be spent before long, why not make a highway on the Douro side.

Farm and Garden

All summer we have heard the reply to the complaint of too much rain, that "farmers need it," but apparently the farmer is satisfied as he too joins the chorus "Enough, enough." Peas are a very light crop but beans are doing well. Corn is growing better and if the remainder of the season is hot and dry should be almost normal. Tomatoes are late and the prices are still very high at a time of the season when the supply should be plentiful and the price moderate. Potatoes are good but the later varieties need heat and less moisture. The harvest is partially in but has been held up with wet weather.

The berry crop is good but they, too, need dry weather as the raspberries especially, become mouldy very quickly and are not fit for the raspberry jam which is the standby of every good housewife.

Bridge Progressing

Work at the new county bridge is progressing very rapidly and the structure will be completed probably in October. It will be an ornament to the village and will be a credit to both village and county.

The Black Knights Preceptory marched to the Methodist Church on Sunday evening attended by the citizens' Band. Rev. P. L. Jull was the preacher. There was a large turn out

Mr. T. J. Wood had the misfortune to break his arm on Thursday last when engaged in milking a cow. The accident is a serious inconvenience in the harvest season.

Dust In The City's Air Excludes Most Sunlight

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Ten thousand million particles of smoke weigh one milligram. And it takes 450,000 milligrams to make a pound. That particles of dust which pollute the air of cities are in this remarkable fine state of division was brought out in the physics section of the British Association by J. C. Owens, authority on smoke pollution, who told of the measurements which he has made with special devices on the smoky atmosphere of London. Appalled at the start, with the prospect of keeping tab on this stupendous quantity of floating specks in the air, Dr. Owens began his researches by devising a counting machine for anlayzing the smoke content of the atmosphere, and combined this with an automatic recording device which kept tab on the amount of soot disgorged on citizens of London during every hour of the day and for many months at a time.

The amount of light obstructed is directly proportional to the quantity of suspended matter, the scientist has found. "The size of suspended dust particles is fairly uniform," he said. "They tend to get larger during fogs, probably due to their rapid formation not giving sufficient time for their grading by settlement."

KIDDIES LIKE THE PARK POOL

Attendance Increased At The Jackson Park Camp. The Dinner Bell.

"Yes, the water is not cold," said a small girlie as she slipped into the swimming pool at Jackson Park yesterday morning. Emblazoned on the chest of her brown bathing suit was the large round "O" that is a distinguishing mark of the bathing suits worn by the little boys and girls who splash themselves and the spectators as they frolic in the nice new pool. On the brink stands the little Irene, the small creature who was a puny wee thing when she came to the Camp at the Park this year. She has not developed overmuch flesh since then, but she is ever so much brighter, and wears a perpetual cheerful smile under the brown skewjee braids that are done up carefully with yellow string. Irene can't swim yet, but she essayed a dive day before yesterday in the presence of unexpected visitors that brought her a bruised knee, so her courage was not as high as usual yesterday morning.

Water-wings are the prize for which several small ladies contend vigorously. There are not enough of these to go around. One damsel is quite pernickety, and demands the mauve-colored ones, discarding the blue and white, before she will venture into the vasty deep that has a depth of about two feet at the pool's edge.

Another bather is the small boy who has had a slight scalp wound carefully patched up with a piece of white plaster that glows in the midst of his dark hair.

Sturdy small Sidney, five years old, is an ardent advocate of cold water. He makes peculiar flat dives into the water and joins the other children who lean over the miniature rapids to get a drink of the fluid in which they splash like little fish. Cries of "look, nurse," are everywhere audible. Miss Ann Long is putting in her second year at the Park, and is apparently very popular with her small charges. They give her their cents to keep safe until they come out of the swimming-pool, and there is much rivalry for one of her discarded rubber caps.

At the Camp this year, attendance has increased once more. The daily average has been in the neighborhood of fifty-five children since the opening in June. Some of the youngsters stay for two weeks, others for as long as four of five weeks, when their condition warrants the protracted stay in the pleasant camp under the trees.

Along with the new pool that has proved such a boon and a pleasure to the children there are half a dozen new swings, which are occupied most of the time. And there is a brand new Union Jack that floats over the kitchen. Here there were beef stew and green beans and mashed potatoes getting ready for dinner yesterday, with the pudding whose ingredients aroused much interest among the diners, as they proceeded with their meat and vegetable course. "Is it taffioca or corn starch?" enquired one small eater anxiously looking relieved as she saw it was the latter. Garnished with a maple-syrup sauce that was supplemented later by jelly when the supply of syrup ceased, it finished up a wholesome meal whose consumption brought out in the children all the table characteristics that distinguish their elders. Here was a small, dark-haired lady getting away with her portion in double quick time and then asking and receiving a second helping, while a muffled reproach of "greedy" came from somewhere in her neighborhood, and the-tiny, white-faced lad die at her side, laboring through his dinner at a very slow rate, regarded with admiring eyes her prowess as a trencher-woman. Cries of "me next, Dorothy," follow the progress of the little girl who dispenses the dessert and who has a system peculiar to herself, serving those first who happen to catch her eye at the moment. Assistance to the housewife at the Park has been dispensed with this year, as the older girls make themselves useful in the way of setting the table serving the food and washing up later.

As they wait for the dinner bell to summon them to the long pleasant room where the table is first laid for the breakfast of porridge or corn flakes, with bread and butter and milk, and later for the wholesome dinner, the children congregate under the trees where they enjoy their afternoon lunch, which consists usually of sandwiches, or bread and butter and jam, with cake and milk and an all-day sucker to top it off.

Paddy entertains one group. He is a small round-headed child, with a wide grin that outlines his toothless state, and he is a voluble talker. Just as the arrival of a flock of women in a man's group scatters the male speakers and forces them to sit on the fringes, listening and silent, so the little girls who swoop down to entertain a visitor crowd out the small boys who have been having a wonderful time pointing out various red and white scars on knees and faces, that mark the spots where they came into rude contact with divers things. One sturdy knee bears a triangular mark that, it is asserted stoutly by its owner was healed by a man putting a "blood-sucker a thing with red marks on its stomach" on the the wound and thus stopping the flow of gore while Paddy himself discourses at length on the occasion when a speedy stone missile nearly put his right eye out. Not to be outdone by such honours the other small lads join in the chorus and nearly overwhelm the listener with recitals of bloody accidents until the little girls take the stage. Lost at first in contemplation of the beauty of the visitor's bracelet these proceed to gossip of various things including the reported lack of salt and pepper in the viands served at the Park one upholder of things as they are making the assertion that such a lack is scandalous, while another child says it's much better to do without such seasoning on your food. Then they proceed to a discussion of various types of hair-do, just like their older sisters, and entertain the listener with the thrilling recital of the lady who was dissatisfied with her Titian-hued locks and essayed to change them, resulting in an unfortunate green shade to her tresses. Where their several parents buy their shoes is another favourite topic, and, still running true to form, they gradually work around to the number and condition) whether living or dead, of the children in their own houses, and to recitals of the brothers with which they all seem to be plentifully supplied. "I'm an aunt," declares one proudly, citing the arrival of a girl baby to her married sister as a proof of the relationship. "I'm an uncle," declares her neighbour, not to be outdone, and mentions the boy baby that adorns her brother's home. In the meantime, the gradually diminishing circle of little boys sits around and glowers, unable to get a word in, edge or otherwise.

Donald and Sadie are the only casualties of the day. They come to the dining-room to show their wan faces and prove just how sick they are, and are allowed to depart once more to the seclusion of the rest-room, where they lie limply on cots. Outside, on the broad verandah, is the rocking-chair chorus that surrounds the long-suffering gramophone, never allowed to rest, grinding out high-pitched tunes from morning until night, with a universal favourite in the twangy "College Life" record.

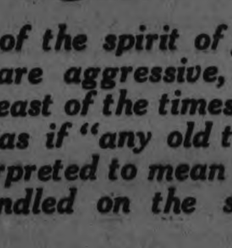
The remains of a lately-constructed playhouse are on the roadside further down, the smaller children play in the two big sandpiles and bury still further in the heap the broken doll that tops it, while some of the older ones explore for berries in the farther reaches of the Park.

As the bell rings for dinner, a tragedy of childhood enacts itself under one of the big trees. Here is a little boy who has two brothers at the Camp, but does not belong himself this year. The 'bus had failed to call for his small brother, so he brought him along, accompanied by a packet of sandwiches, to serve for his own dinner, so that he might make a day of it in the Park with the other children. His mother had given him eight cents for carfare and a candy stick, but the car brought him along for three cents, so he had five coppers left, which he divided among the other children, as long as the supply lasted. When dinner-time approaches, he becomes more sorrowful, and finally bursts into enigmatic tears. His small brother comes along and sits down to add his weeping to that of the older boy, and the small things shed briny, inexplicable drops as the other children race to the dinner-table. Undismayed by the admonition of his brother to "run along, you big sap," and the advice that the sandwiches "won't be enough for the two of us," the little lad sticks to his determination to stay with the other, and refuses to go and eat until the nurse appears and commands his attendance at the table. A second invitation summons the brother also, and, drying his eyes, with the parcel of sandwiches securely held under his arm, he at last consents to take part in the mid-day meal. But he refuses firmly to sit down between two small ladies who make way for him, and is escorted to a more manly neighborhood at the farther end of the table.

In 1893 there were only 300 autos in the United States and no motor trucks.

Making wash day pleasant—

Just use Rinso where you used to use bar soap—for soaking, boiling, or in your washing machine.



THE hardest part of wash-day, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing, has given way to the new method of soaking the clothes clean with Rinso. This wonderful new soap gently loosens the dirt and a thorough rinsing leaves things white and glistening as you never could get them before.

Only spots where the dirt is ground-in, such as neck bands, cuff edges, and the like need a light rubbing, and a little dry Rinso rubbed on these spots quickly makes the dirt disappear.

Rinso is sold by all grocers and department stores

NATIVE MAPLES DEDICATED FOR OMEMEE'S BRAVE

Living Memorial Set Apart to Preserve the Sacrifice of Men From District.

ON DERRY DAY

Celebration by Royal Black Preceptors of the Orange Order.

It was a historical occasion in Omemee on Wednesday, when people in all walks of life were brought together in the common brotherhood of bereavement to witness the dedication of a small grove of maple trees in honour of the unreturning brave of Omemee and district.

The service was impressive, and as Trumpeter Brooks of the Guard of Honour sounded the Last Post following the call of the Honour Roll, discernable throughout the immense gathering were parents, brothers, sisters, and children, who with pride in their eyes, listened to the heartening addresses.

It was a memorial occasion, an occasion for pride and for sorrow. An occasion for pride to think that their sons had fought and died that Justice and Liberty might live; an occasion for sorrow when the magnitude of the price that Omemee paid to help save the world from the menace of Prussianism was realised.

King Edward Lodge of the Royal Black Preceptory ,who had set the day aside for the celebration of the Relief of Derry, joined in the dedication service.

Visiting lodges from Peterborough, Lindsay, Millbrook, Norwood, Blackstock, Pontypool, North Verulam, and Dunsford, as well as brass bands from Bethany, Oakwood, and Peterborough aided in the celebration.

About seventy-five from R. B. P. Lodge 261 of Peterborough attended as well as the concert band from Duke of Manchester Lodge 50.

The O.A.O. had aranged an extensive sports programme, but because of a brisk shower abo ut 3 o'clock, was forced to abandon that feature, with the exception of the baseball tournament.

Fololwing the Perceptory parade, the Black Knights marched in a body to the Athletic Grounds at 2 p.m., where amid refreshment tents and decorations a large crowd had already gathered.

Throughout the village streamers were to be seen on business shops and private dwellings, as well as large Union Jacks flying in conspicuous places on the main streets. It was the occasion of Omemee's Civic Holiday, and everyone seemed part and parcel in the celebration. The holiday spirit was running fever high ad seldom if ever had Omemee been the scene of so much excitement in the course of a single day.

Last night the air was filled with the strains of several fife and drum bands, frequently enriched by the melody of the Oakwood Concert Band playing in another section, while in all quarters of the village could be heard the shouting throngs, cheering their favourites on to victory in the clash between Mt. Horeb and Mt. Pleasant, the finalists in the baseball tournament, in which the former triumphed.

As a sequel to the day's activities, Omemee residents and visitors packed Coronation Hall to witness the play "What Happened to Jones," staged by representatives of the Oakwood Dramatic Society.

The dedication address was delivered by C. E. Weeks of Lindsay, and other speakers were Hon. W. F. Price, Provincial Treasurer, Rev. R. G. Patterson, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, Bailieboro, Rev. J. A. Black, Omemee, A. J. Patterson, S. Kt., M.P.P., South Victoria, and Rev. A. T. Weir, Omemee.

Rev. Mr. Black presided over the memorial service, which opened by the singing of the National Anthem, led by the Oakwood concert band. Chapter 4 of Ephesians was chosen as the lesson, and was read by Rev. A. T. Weir.

Next came one of the most touching parts of the service, when the great gathering, with bared heads, joined in the singing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," followed by a prayer delivered by Rev. R. J. Patterson. The great open space seemed to add to the sacred intensity of the service, and as the minister in thankfulness prayed for the young men and women who so unselfishly and courageously laid down their lives, the realization came to a dead silence, and it was evident that the fire in the heart of every man and woman was reached.

Dedication Address.

Recalling the month of August, 1914, the blackest month in the calendar of time, Mr. C. E. Weeks, in the dedication address, observed that a few weeks before the fateful month men were merry-making and money-making ,with no thought of the awful catastrophe so soon to fall upon them.

Continuing, he said that Germany in her lust for world domination and believing her long looked for opportunity had come, hastened to declare war on France and Russia, and a few hours later her fully equipped armies were on the march.

Then came the insolent demand upon Belgium, declared the speaker, a demand to open her gates or take the consequence of a hostile invasion.

To this demand and threat Britain said "No. A solemn treaty signed by the representatives of Germany and Great Britain and involving the honour and good faith of both counties stands in pour way."

Germany's answer was defiant and challenging, and the treaty, they declared, was "only a scrap of paper, and would not be allowed to interfere with her imperial plans."

Britain at once accepted the challenge in the defence of her own honour and scantity of treaties, and to safeguard her own people and the people of the world, she entered the war.

Speaking of Canada's quick response to the colours, Mr. Weeks pointed out that in few weeks 30,000 were on the sea, and ploughs were deserted and books left open, never to be seen by their owners again.

They were not trained soldiers, but they were patriots and the stuff that heroes are made of. Contingent after contingent followed, until 450,000 of the flower of Canada's young manhood were under arms.

Observing the many famous battles won by the Canadians, Mr. Weeks declared that our boys contributed in no small degree to the winning of the war, and they have added a brighter lustre to the name of Canada and will ever be regarded as great mountain peaks in Canadian history.

"Of the 450,000 Canadians who went overseas, 55,000 never returned, but are bivouacking still near the the great Battlefields of Flanders and France, which their valour made illustrious and immortal, and no bugle call, until the last trumpet shall sound, shall raise them from their sleep, for theirs is the Bivouack of the Dead. Of this number are the boys you are honouring to-day."

Turning to the little clump of trees at the rear of the platform, the speaker stated that these trees we are dedicating to-day are our own native trees, just as these boys are our own native sons . These trees will continue to grow in beauty and strength as the years go by, and your people will more and more go to them for shelter and rest. So should we feel towards our boys anl the great sacrifice they have made on our behalf.

In conclusion, the speaker stated that we can honour our boys by keeping faith with them. They died that liberty and justice might live and flourish here in Canada. If we allow injustice and intolerance and oppression to exist and spread their evil influence throughout our country, then we are breaking faith with our boys and dishonouring their memory.

Read Honour Roll.

Mr. Weeks then furled the large Union Jack that hung at the entrance to the circle of maples, and Thomas Rice, Worshipful Perceptor and Grand Censor of Ontario East, read the Honour Roll, calling the following names:

Earnest King, Roy Post, Robert Bestard, Frank Smith, James Hoskins, William Gallagher, Fred Muns, George Pollett, Alphonse Gosselin, Frank Lucas, Pte. McLaughlin, William Balfour, and John Murray.

The Guard of Honour consisted of Sergeant William Brockley, Corp. E. Marsh, Trumpeter Brooks, and Pte. Joseph Stone.

The Last Post was sounded, and Corp. Joseph Poyser sealed the precious memories that will for ever live and be evidenced by the standing grove of Canadian maples, in acknowledgment of the supreme sacrifice of Omemee's thirteen native sons, by placing a shovelful of earth at the root of each tree.

A brisk shower of rain made it necessary for the remaining speeches to be delivered in Coronation Hall. As a result the crowd separated, some crowding the refreshment tents and every other place of shelter, while a a great number braved the shower and followed the speaker's car to the Hall.

A. J. Patterson, M.P.P., received rousing reception when he took the platform. In a few words he welcomed the visiting brethren and gave expression to the wish of Omemee and residents in the vicinity to dedicate the grove of maples into a memorial park as they reach maturity to keep for ever green the memory of those in whose honour they were dedicated.

Rev. R. G. Patterson.

In a stirring address Rev. R. G. Patterson, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, compared the dedication of the group of trees to the biblical reference to the pile of stones placed on the bank of the Red Sea by the tribal leaders of the Israelites, after they had crossed the Red Sea, resulting in their deliverance from bondage, to the Promised Land. The Lord ordered that a representative of each tribe should go back to the bed of the sea and place a stone on the bank.

When succeeding generations asked "What mean ye by these stones?" the pile stood as a memorial to the blessing and forgiveness of the Lord in freeing the children.

These trees, said the speaker are memories of thoughts ,and actions, and when succeeding generations ask "What mean ye by these trees?" they will bear testimony of the Omemee boys who laid down their lives for their country. The generations, opined Mr. Patterson, will not forget the sacrifice and devotion of that occasion.

"While we give honour to these boys to-day, we must not forget that there is a God in Heaven, Who rules the world. To Him, above all others, we give the glory for the deliverance of the British Empire and her Allies. Coupled with the grace of God was the blood of our boys. It was due to our faith in Jehovah God and our faith in the blood of the boys who carried the Empire's colours and who went out proudly and heroically in defence of our country."

Introducing a new line of thought, Rev. A. T. Weir, who said he was a representative of the Church, without any frills, declared that all worth while things were founded on a religious basis.

Continuing, he said that we should with open minds, not to be impeded by difficulties, search for the truth, for although all things are founded on a religious basis, the very basis of religion itself is truth.

Chairman Rev. T. A. Black, before introducing the Hon. W. E. Price, the last speaker, paid a tribute to the Provincial Treasurer, remarking that it was a privilege for the brethren to be favoured by his presence, and assured his audience that he was a worthy Orangeman.

Relief of Derry.

In beginning, Hon. Colonel Price declared it most appropriate that the order should combine the celebration of the Relief of Derry with the memorial servic.

Alluding to his own observations in France he stressed the courage and valour shown by the Canadian and Ulster divisions, pointing out that loyalty to Canada and the Empire had always been upheld and embodied in the traditions of the order.

He further stated that the Orangemen had always stood for equality, and on that solid ground, it must make for good citizenship and those things in life we hold dead; those things in life that protect women. The boys who died gave their lives for the protection of women and children. The main spring is down in the heart of citizenship.

"To-day, as you commemorate what your boys have done in the Great War and the Black Knights of Ireland celebrate the Relief of Derry, we are celebrating much the same thing."

Concluding, he said we must consider the living, as the Almighty will look after those who have gone, and it should be our aim to give to those who made great sacrifices, every comfort posible.

You can't devolve responsibilities on those who have returned. We must carry forward those liberties for which our men have fought and died. We have got to martial character, based on sacrifice.

TWO BURN IN BARN

Harvester and Brother Were Sleeping in Hay.

EDMONTON, N.B., Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Antoine Albert, a married man, and the father of two children, and his younger brother, aged 14 years, all of the parish to St. Hilaire were burned to death in their sleep. They were harvesting on a farm a few miles from home and were staying in a small barn on the farm. During their sleep a fire started in the hay on which they were sleeping and they perished. Two other farm hands were able to escape by jumping from an upper window but were unable to save their companions.

REPORTS PRESENTED AT THE FIRE FIGHTERS' CONVENTION

LEGISLATION

The Executive Committee appointed the following members from the committee to deal with our legislative wants, Bros. J. McGrattan, R. Lyons, P. Herd, and D. H. Lamb. This committee tried hard all through the last session of the Legislature to bring forward different pieces of legislation, but without success. The past session was one that was so different of any of its previous sessions that not only were the Ontario Fire Fighters disappointed, but were kept company by many other organizations who were dealt with in a similar manner.

On account of the pressure of investigations, etc., it was impossible to gain any headway while the sessions were on, but just as soon as it was completed your committee met with the Hon. Mr. Nickle and presented to him the following agenda:

SUGGESTED FORM OF ACT OF CONSOLIDATION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENTS TWO PLATOON ACT AND ONE DAY OFF IN SEVEN ACT.

BILL

An Act respecting the Consolidation of the Hours of Labour Act, 1920, and the Fire Departments Two Platoon Act, 1921.

HIS MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

1. This may be cited as the Fire Departments Hours of Labour Consolidation Act.

2. Where in any city or town having a population of not less than 10,000, there is a permanent fire department, the officers and employees of which are regularly employed as firemen and paid by the municipal corporation, it shall be the duty of the chief, superintendent or commission, as the case may be, to divide the members of said fire department into two platoons who shall work according to one or the other of the two following systems, namely:

No. 1 System—The said chief of the fire department shall not keep a platoon on duty for more than twenty-four consecutive hours, after which the platoon working the twenty-four hours shall be allowed twenty-four consecutive hours off duty.

No. 2 System—One platoon shall work day work of ten consecutive hours, while the other platoon works night work of fourteen consecutive hours, each platoon to alternate every seventh day from night duty to day work and vice versa.

3. Every officer and employee of such named fire department shall be off one full day of twenty-four consecutive hours in every calendar week, and the twenty-four hours' release at the change of platoons under the two platoon system shall not be regarded as a day off duty for the purposes of this section and Act.

4. The provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding any regulations or by-laws of a municipal corporation relating to a fire department.

5. Every fire chief, superintendent, director or officer of every such fire department who requires or requests an employee of the fire department to be on duty in violation of the provisions of Sections 2 and 3 shall incur a penalty of not less than $10.00 nor more than $100.00, for every such offence.

6. No deduction shall be made from the pay or the holidays of the employees of a permanent fire department by reason of the provisions of this Act applying to and being in force in any such municipal fire department.

7. The penalties provided by this Act shall be recoverable under the Ontario Summary Convictions Act.

8. This Act shall come into force and take effect one month after it receives the Royal Assent.

Allow us to point out, Honourable Sir, that since Ontario passed these two named Acts other Provinces in Canada have done likewise, and what we at this time ask, is that the two Acts be consolidated so that they will be more simplified in arriving at their proper definition. Both of the Acts were in the first place introduced into the Legislature by private members and received the support, we may safely say, of the majority of the members of each party that were sitting in the House at that time, and further the Leader of each party was counted among the Yea votes in favour of same.

RIGHT OF WAY FOR FIRE APPARATUS ON CITIES

The Province of Ontario is becoming more densely populated with motor vehicles each day, month and year, and especially in the cities the congestion of motor vehicles of a private nature are such that fire apparatus is obstructed from responding to fire calls as promptly as what might be, were a law placed on the Ontario Statutes in conjunction with the Motor Vehicles Act, giving fire apparatus a right of way over other vehicles. There is no Act of the Ontario Legislature at the present time that gives fire apparatus a right of way over other vehicles, excepting that fire apparatus is allowed a greater speed, and that is not exactly what is needed, for a speeding fire apparatus that has no right of way over other vehicles is a dangerous monster carrying considerable weight behind it.

What we have in mind is not the being allowed to speed along the streets to fire calls, for in our mind we are opposed to fire apparatus going at an excessive rate of speed that not only endangers the lives of the firemen on the apparatus, but also the lives of the citizens on the streets and in other vehicles. Our idea is that fire apparatus will make better time were an Act placed on the Statutes compelling other vehicles to pull into the curb and stop and give fire apparatus the opportunity of continuing on the way to the scene of the fire, for our active experience with fires has taught us that in each case were we to be at the scene of the fire within the first five minutes of such fire starting we could more effectively curtail the loss. The fire loss of Canada has now reached such proportions that it must be dealt with and heeded, for it is only at a recent meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association that they themselves see the growth of the fire loss and are asking that more effective steps be taken to keep down the fire loss. We think that were an Act passed of a similar nature to the following that is in effect in a couple of the States to the south of us, it would be the means of helping to cut down somewhat in the fire loss.

> On the approach of any vehicle or apparatus of the fire department answering a fire alarm or emercengy call and sounding a siren or bell, the driver of any vehicle other than that of an ambulance answering an emergency call, shall immediately drive as close as possible to the right hand curb and stop so that it will not interfere with such fire apparatus turning the corner of the intersecting street, if the need be, or continuing right along the street; and shall not follow after the said fire apparatus until the same shall be at least three hundred (300) feet away. No vehicle shall approach or park within six hundred (600) feet of any fire apparatus responding to an emergency or fire call, after the said apparatus shall have come to a stop at the destination of such fire or emergency call.
>
> The provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding any regulations or by-laws to the contrary and shall come under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Motor Vehicles Act.
>
> Any person who shall violate or fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this Act shall be liable to a fine or penalty of not less than $10.00 nor more than $250.00.

It is a common practice with a certain type of motorist to try and race along the streets with the fire apparatus, and this not only stops the fire apparatus from making proper time, but still what is of great consequence, it enhances the chances of killing or causing to be hurt many citizens. The majority of the Ontario Fire Departments, the chief of such have set down a speed limit of 22 and 25 miles per hour, and which we as firemen think fast enough for apparatus of such weight to travel, but what good even is a speed of 22 miles per hour, when other vehicles do not have to give you a right of way?

DEALING WITH FIREMEN BEING PROVIDED FOR IN CASE OF BEING SERIOUSLY INCAPACITATED OR PROVIDING FOR FAMILY IN CASE OF DEATH DUE TO THEIR DUTY.

In view of the fact that there are still a majority of the fire department (permanent) of Ontario who have no pension or superannuation fund, or any insurance from the corporation that they work for, and also that no civic fireman is covered under the Workmen's Compensation Act, we think that the firemen should be protected and covered under the Act to the extent that the municipality employing such fireman should provide for them to the following extent or else be compelled to enact a Pension or Superanuation Fund that will protect the fireman and his dependents.

That where there is a permanent fire department who have no pension or superannuation fund, that they be covered under such sections of the Wormen's Compensation Act, or else new sections be provided for, that provides for employees of a fire department who are so injured in their duty that they are incapacitated to such an extent that they cannot earn the living they had been earning; and where an employee is killed or dies from the results of injuries, etc., due from doing his fire duty, that his widow, family or such of those dependent on him, will be provided for by reasonable pension or compensation, so that they will not be compelled to seek charity by reason of the wage earner being incapacitated doing work for the citizens as a whole.

We think though that it would be more practical for fire departments of a municipal character, that such municipalities where there is no pension or superannuation fund, be compelled by Legislation to put into operation such a fund that would meet the above requirements.

This does not affect the larger centres, such as Toronto, Ottawa or Hamilton, as such municipalities have such funds now; but touches more so the wants in cities such as Brantford, Peterborough, Kingston, etc., and it cannot be said these cities are too small for such a system when it is recalled the case of Stratford, who have a pension system in operation.

All these items as stressed above are asked for by the Ontario Fire Fighters after considering same for the past two years, and you may rest assured are the opinion of not only the majority, but we can safely say practically every fire fighter of Ontario. We ask the pleasure of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario to our wants as we think that the same are within reason, and practical.

The Honourable Mr. Nickle gave your committee a fine reception and said that he would turn these items over to the law clerk for advice as to how the same would affect the present Statutes and the municipalities.

Less than ten days previous to this Convention your committee were again closeted with the Hon. Mr. Nickle, and he read to us the report from the Law Clerk. We hope to have a communication from the Attorney-General advising us as to the attitude of the Government towards the recommendations now that the Law Clerk has passed opinion on same.

Taking into consideration that in event of our not getting the communication in time to present at this Convention, we will try and convey to you from our memory the different phases of the Acts that were pointed out by the legal department of the Government.

1st—In dealing with the Act of Consolidation, it was pointed out that such an Act would be wise, and that there was nothing in it that would be of a derogatory character to the Acts as they now are construed. This means that the legal department would recommend to the Ontario Cabinet that the Acts be consolidated. This is an advancement in our work.

2nd—Respecting the Right of Way, the law clerk points out that at the present time there is an Act that gives the municipalities power to enact by-laws that will give fire apparatus a right of way in such municipalities. But he goes further and says that he thinks that this would be more practicable were the same to be embodied under the Motor Vehicles Department. This does also give us some hope.

3rd—In going into the Fire Departments Pension, or Superanuation Funds Act, or amending the Workmen's Compensation Act, he says that this is an altogether different matter, as it embodies a large situation that would need to have much thoughtful consideration by all concerned. He does mention, though, that the municipalities should be placed in a position where the employees on the fire department should be cared for. He also points out that the municipalities have power to cover their employees if called for by the Compensation Act, but Hon. Mr. Nickle himself does not think that this would be advisable.

Now as you understand, we have to prepare this report some few days previous to the Convention; between now and then it may be just possible that we will be in receipt of a communication from the Hon. Mr. Nickle advising us as to how the Government will entertain the Legislation. If, though, this communication does not come through, we do not think it would be fair to the Attorney-General for us to cite his own personal opinion relative to these matters, but we will go this far, and say, that we have great hopes of meeting with such success that will be the means of giving satisfaction to those concerned.

OLD AGE PENSIONS ACT

Your committee instructed the Secretary-Treasurer to draft and forward a copy to each of the following: Mr. T. Moore, President Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, and to Mr. J. Gibbons, Chairman of the Ontario Executive Committee of the Trades and Labour Congress, covering the points as brought out in resolution endorsed at the Hamilton Convention. The following is copies of communication sent out and reply to same:

Tom Moore, Esq.,

President Trades and Labour Congress of Canada,
Ottawa, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—I have been instructed by our Executive Committee of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters to convey to you our support in regards to the Old Age Pension Act in Ontario in the following form of resolution:

"Be it Resolved: That we, the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, pledge ourselves to labor for the enactment of the Old Age Pension Law in the Province of Ontario, and be it further resolved that we will give whatever help we may have the opportunity to, in making this named Act successful."

I have the pleasure to remain,

Fraternally and sincerely yours,
(Signed) D. H. LAMB,
Secretary-Treasurer.

The following reply was received to the above:

Mr. D. H. Lamb, Secretary-Treasurer,
The Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters,
Toronto, Ontario.

Dear Sir and Brother,—This will acknowledge receipt of your resolution relative to Old Age Pensions. The Trades and Labor Congress is pressing for Federal legislation on this important subject and a committee of the Dominion House has now been appointed to report upon the same though I have no knowledge that any action has yet been taken by the Provincial Legislature of Ontario.

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) TOM MOORE, President,
Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The communication was also sent Mr. Gibbons along the same lines as that sent to Mr. Moore, but no reply was received to same.

ESSAY PRIZES

It was decided by your Executive Committee that it would perhaps be of some good to offer for competition prizes for school children who would enter into a competition of writing essays on the subject of "Fire Prevention." Since then though we find that the Department of the Ontario Fire Marshal does cover this matter already, and what we now propose to this Convention is—that the Executive Committee be empowered to co-operate with the Department of the Ontario Fire Marshal and give two prizes in such contests arranged by the named department, one for the East and one for the Western portion of the Province, these named prizes to bear the name of our organization as donors. That the winning essays also to be read at each Convention of that year and spread on our minutes.

The cost of the prizes not to exceed $50 annually.

CHANGING EXECUTIVE NAME

In view of the fact that many other bodies have followed a change in the name of their executive body and also on considering that it appeals far more to a person of business for one of your officers to say that he is a director of the Federation rather than an Executive Officer, we would recommend for your consideration, that

The constitution be so amended that where the word Executive Committee appears throughout the same, that the same be changed to read "Board of Directors, or Director."

SPARKS CIRCUS ARRIVED TODAY

The Morning Parade Was A Brilliant Spectacle. Many Thrillers.

Fond and loving parents experienced no serious objections whatever last night when little Jimmy's bedtime arrived- in fact there were many little Jimmies who did not even await the usual bedtime call, all seemingly anxious to retire early and dream of roaring lions, rubber-skinned elephants and chalk-smeared clowns, for to-day is circus day in Peterboro and younger Peterboro is having his innings in full. During the morning the huge steel trains of the Sparks Circus rolled into the city on the C. N.R. and by nine o'clock the myriads of wonders had been hauled away to the Exposition grounds where the flags on the "big top" were already in the air and the vast army of employees were being fed in the "cook house."

The morning parade was a brilliant spectacle scintillating with colorful schemes afforded by the beautiful tableaux waggons, cages and trappings and the countless units of parphernalia which go to make up a real big up-to-the-split-second circus After seeing the beautiful specimens of horseflesh in the Sparks parade lineup, one's memory goes back to the era when automobiles were in their infancy. The opening number of the circus proper employs a cast of several hundred human and animal participants featuring Bessie Harvey, a soprano with a wide range of voice, a large ensemble of premier dancers, weird musicians, gorgeously blanketed horses, camels, elephants and zebras and was especially rich in costuming. From this time on there was not a dull moment in all three rings, center arena and hippodrome track, all being occupied by a maze of clever animal and arenic displays. Trained wild animals predominated and they included four highly sensational groups of lions, tigers, leopards and polar bears with great dane dogs intermingling with the bears in a fearless manner. Other animals displays included the Capt. Tiebor talking and rope-walking seals, Tom Burns' white collies and several others of distinction. Bessie Harvey with her trained pigeons and splendid voice proved a fetching novelty and drew rounds of applause, as did the large elephant groups worked by Francis Widener and Stastia Carray who injected modern jazz in the working of their huge charges. Sparks circus can well feel proud of its trained horses for their equal has never been seen in this city and probably never will. The troupe of sixteen "rotation" thoroughly worked by their original trainer Prof. Kloske, of the Stellinghen Germany Trained Wild Animal Farms displayed almost human intelligence. Every animal knew his place and returned to it without a world of command from the trainer. The artistocrats of the horse-world-Sparks Ten Dancing Horses featuring Lady Fashion, billed as the worlds' most beautiful ainimal and Baron de Bell, ridden by Florence Harris, daring lady rider of wide Horse-Show fame also drew many ohs and ahs from the large audience. The Ballerina troupe of Spanish dancing and bareback riders offered a clever and artistic "rosinback" number in the center ring that was most beautifully costumed. Interapersed with the trained animal offerings were a number of unusual arenic displays-the featured ones being dainty Naida Miller, high-wired danseuse of rare skill and personality the Flying Walters on the aerial bars the gymnastic work of the European Boston Bros, and the Mardo Trio, the Koban troupe of Japanese aerobatic and balancing marvels and many others of equal merit. The real "thrillers" were presented by the Boston Brothers in a highly sensational hand to hand catch over the heads of nine men and the great Sakata who does a thrilling rope slide from the top of the tent to the ground. The world's greatest lady juggler, pretty Rosita Boston also proves a decided novelty in her peculiar art. Dainty aerial offerings were presented by a bevy of pretty girls, including Kula Yorks, Babe Pope, Gertrude West, Minnie Rooney, Gwen Carsey and Eva Miller. Good clowns are the life of any circus and Sparks has them in quality and quantity. Under the directorship of Paul Wenze, a veritable young army of funmakers were on hand at al times with new and laughing conceits. Another performance of this splendid circus is scheduled for 8 o'clock to-night with the doors opening at 7, during which period a one hours' musical concert will be rendered by the Jack Phillips Circus Band, augmented by Prof. Del Vacho world's master pneumatic calliopist.

UNWRITTEN INSURANCE.

Statistics—speculative statistics, especially—are good for hot weather.

One statistician in a magazine shows you where the regular waste of crime, such as swindles, thefts, forgeries, fraudulent bankruptcies, cold cheques, stock deals, murder, etc., and the costs of their prevention and punishment, causes an annual loss of ten billion dollars.

Another points out where the waste of unconsidered detail and by-product in manufacturing, merchandising, domestic consumption and transportation costs another ten billions annually.

Applying these figures life-Insurance-wisely, we find that by eliminating crime and waste wholly, we should as a nation save $20,000,000,000 a year. That sum devoted to life insurance and thrift would keep in force annually $714,285,000,000 of life insurance, or $6,400 upon every man, woman and child.

If your hands become badly stained, rub them with a slice of lemon dipped in salt.

Citizens of Peterborough Are Willing To Help In Firemen's Aim.

The delegates attending the fifth annual convention of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters spent a busy afternoon and evening yesterday in receiving and discussing reports of committees and officers. Many of the reports, notably that on the prevention of fire, provoked a great deal of discussion that brought out the progressive ideas of many of the delegates.

President S. S. Blackler, who has just completed his second term as chief executive of the Federation, presented his address and was given a hearty vote of thanks for his ardent labors in behalf of the Federation. He mentioned among the activities of the body, the affiliation of a branch in the city of St. Catharines.

Appreciates Editorial.

One of the first speakers at yesterday afternoon's session was J. McGrattan, of Brantford, an executive officer of the Federation. Quoting the editorial comment in Tuesday's Examiner, Mr. Grattan said: "In reading this last night it came to my mind, having been present, I think, at every convention of this association, that it was the best and most apropriate editorial comment that we have ever had at any of our conventions. The editorial of the Peterboro Examiner expresses a realization of the hazard and risk involved in fire fighting, and takes into consideration also the fact that the fireman's job is not appreciated as it should be. I move that this association go on record as conveying a hearty vote of thanks to the Editor of The Peterboro Examiner for his splendid editorial regarding this convention." W. O'Rourke, of Sault Ste. Marie, seconded the motion, which carried amid applause.

Explains Insurance.

W. G. Campbell, of the Mutual Life and Citizens' Assurance Co. of Australia, spoke on behalf of the scheme of insurance carried out by his company. He was heard for ten minutes, and answered many questions, after which the matter was referred to a special sub-committee.

Essay Prizes.

In discussing the proposed grant of $50 towards the establishment of two prizes for school children to be granted for the best essays on "Fire Prevention," Fireman R. Rollo of Peterboro suggested that the prizes take the form of shields. E. P. Heaton, Fire Marshal of Ontario, said that about 1,000 buttons are distributed throughout the Province in the interests of fire prevention, and co-operation by the Federation of Fire Fighters in this work of educating children would be welcomed by his department. On his suggestion, the report was adopted, the details as to the awards being left for decision with the executive board.

Standardize Hose.

W. O'Rourke of Sault Ste. Marie, speaking to the report on the platform of the National Fire Protection Association, suggested that the standardization of hose couplings should be taken up vigorously, and Mr. Heaton promptly seconded his remarks, declaring the problem one of great importance. The fire chiefs, Mr. Heaton said, will not agree on a standard thread. "If we could adopt your principle to press one or two important issues to a decision that would be of vast assistance. The Fire Chiefs' Convention has fallen down on this point. If you can make up your minds to tackle this earnestly, and sincerely follow it up, you will be earning the gratitude of the entire province."

True Efficiency.

That firemen in a city where calls are not repeatedly bringing the apparatus out to a fire are referred to as having soft jobs, was the statement of a delegate who believed this a mistaken outlook. The fire department that is constantly on the run is not doing the fire prevention work it should, and is not keeping the city clean. Several delegates remarked on the assistance received by their departments from the Fire Marshal's department in this work of cleaning up cellars and fire traps.

Mr. Heaton said the principle of his department is co-operation, and told of how his officers implement the work of the local forces by supplying the authority where intractable citizens refuse to obey the request to clean up their premises.

Captain W. Jones of the Peterboro department spoke of the progress in fire prevention in Peterboro, especially under the regime of Chief George Gimblett. Citizens in Peterboro, he said, are willing to co-operate with the department in making their premises fire-proof by cleaning up dangerous rubbish.

J. A. Fenton, of Hamilton, remarked on the service rendered by fire prevention work to the insurance companies, and thought the companies should appreciate the service.... Other delegates suggested that the companies might contribute through a surtax to the maintenance of widows and children of firemen.

SAILORS TELL A SNAKE YARN

Six Boa Constrictors Run at Large on Board Ship.

NEW YORK, August 14. — Sailors may shudder at pirates bold, at typhoons and wrecks, and even sea serpents, but 32 none too jolly tars of the good ship Bolivar from the West Indies, docked here yesterday, with a desire to make affidavit that there is nothing more disconcerting at sea than having six 10½ foot boa constrictors loose on board of a ship.

The Bolivar on its way up took on board 19 crates at Cartagena ,on the west coast of Colombia. The crate contained 22 boa constrictors, 56 monkeys and innumerable birds. All went well until the waves rose high in the Carribean Sea. A storm tossed the ship and loosened the crates.

Plunging into the hold the sailors arrived just in time to see the last of six truant boas slipping through the hole. For four days the tars searched high and low. The presence of the reptiles loose made sleep or recreation impossible. Four of the boas were found but the other two continued to hide. Finally on Aug. 5th a further search disclosed the other two reptiles in an awning and at last all was well.

SCIENCE MEETING WAS BIG SUCCESS

Ninety Second Meeting Of British Association Is Held As the Greatest in History.

TORONTO, August 14. — Described by numerous speakers at the concluding meeting as one of the most successful gatherings in the history of the organization, the ninety-second meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, came to a close yesterday afternoon.

Late yesterday afternoon while some of the members played cricket outside and others enjoyed a garden party given by the University, the final meeting of the British Association was held in Convocation Hall. The chief business was the moving of a vote of thanks to the parties who have entertained the 1924 gathering. Although, said Sir David Bruce, the president of the Association, it was really invidious to pick out any individual names among the local men who had made the meeting a success, he did not refrain from mentioning Sir Robert Falconer, Prof J. C. Fields, Prof. J. C. McLennan, Dr. F. A. Moure, D. B. Hanna, H. B. F. Jones, Dr. W. G. Miller, Prof. W. A. Parks, Prof. Hardolph Wastenys and Major Wood.

SUN-SPOTS DISTURB MAGNETISM.

While scientists are sure that some connection exists between the prevalence of spots on the fact of the sun, and disturbances in the magnetic field of the earth, the exact relation between the two has not yet been worked out, according to the paper of Rev. A. L. Cortie, presented at a discussion on "The Scattering of Light," in the British Association to-day. In summarizing the present state of knowledge bearing on the two factors, this speaker said: "A sunspot of very great area is always accompanied, at some stage of its life history, by a magnetic disturbance, but there is no parity between the size of a sunspot and the violence of the accompanying magnetic upheaval.

"Terrestrial magnetic disturbances are more numerous after the maximum phase of sunspot activity, than when the cycle is at its height. "Magnetic disturbances of considerable activity may occur at a period of solar calm, when no spots are visible, the scientist stated, in showing that the relation between the two forces has still to be worked out. Under these circumstances, however, the disturbance has been found to occur when a particular surface of the sun is exposed to the earth. "Areas on the sun which have been previously disturbed by sunspots remain intermittently active, so far as their relation to terrestrial magnetism is concerned, even after the spots have disappeared," Rev. Mr. Cortie said.

FIRE HAZARDS INCREASED BY MODERN NEEDS

Every Step Upward In Invention Is Attended With New Menace From Fire.

FIREMEN MEET.

Fire Marshall Heaton Urges Federation of Fire Fighters To Go Forward.

Deprecating the lamentations over Canada's fire loss, which amounts to $4.92 per capita per year, Provincial Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton this morning told the Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters at the third session of their fifth annual convention, that such a condition is the natural result of the progress of the world. When flint locks provided the only means of starting a fire there was not so much danger as when matches are ready to every hand; before Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the practice of smoking to the British people there was not the same hazard as to-day; and before curling tongs, and electric percolators became common household utensils, subject to the frailties of human nature, there were not the dangers that now attend them. The way to combat these growing perils is through intensive education in their use.

As though to provide the Fire Marshal with an object lesson, a city resident yesterday struck a match to ascertain the quantity of gasoline in the tank of his car, and as a result is to-day suffering from burns.

Other business at the forenoon session to-day was the consideration of resolutions submitted by branches, some of which were provocative of much discussion.

Delegates were in attendance today from Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Brantford, Kingston, Belleville, Galt, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie and Kitchener.

Lauds Organizaiton.

"This organization," said Fire Marshal Heaton in opening his address, "has commanded the sympathy and respect of my department and its usefulness will increase as its power grows." Telling of Canada's national fire waste, he said the United States has the record of being the most profligate country in respect of fire losses, and Canada is worse. If that is so, then it is time Canada realized the needs of the occasion and rose to meet them. "I am not prepared, however, to acept that statement," the speaker hastened to add. "The comparison has been made between the per capita fire loss in the United States and Canada. Is that fair? In a bulletin issued the other day by the United States Board of Census there appears the remarkable statement that every man, woman and child in the United States is possessed of an actual wealth of $2918, and of that sum $1500 is in personal property, in created wealth. To obtain a fair computation, we should strike the per capita wealth of Canada.

On December 31 last there was carried by the insurance companies reporting to the Dominion government on created property a total sum of nearly seven billion dollars insurance. I think that I am safe in saying that in Canada we have a per capita wealth of around $1000. Is there any European country that can lay claim to such per capita wealth in property that must be insured and is subject to fire losses? I am not speaking of stocks and bonds, but of created property that is liable to fire hazards. Is it any wonder that we in Canada show a loss of $4.92 per capita, when according to this computation we have a wealth in property subject to fire of $1000 per capita?

I am tired of getting this drummed into my ears: 'You people in Canada have gone fire mad. Your waste is altogether inexcusable. In Great Britain our fire loss is only 72c per capita and in Canada it is 4.92 per capita.'

While I am prepared to admit that in Canada our fire waste will be a total amount that is almost staggering I am not prepared to admit that we are meeting conditions beyond what should be expected of us, considering our age and our per capita wealth.'

Mr. Heaton pointed out that in 1900 the per capita wealth of Canada was $185 and the per capita fire loss $2.05, while in 1923 the per capita wealth had increased to $735 and the per capita fire loss to $4.92. More significant than these figures, he thought, were those showing the insurance rates. In 1900 the average rate of insurance over Canada was 1.25, and in 1922 this had dropped to 1.06. If the fire loss had been going up by leaps and bounds the insurance rate would have kept pace with it, but a reduction is shown.

"Every development, every invention for the convenience and happiness of our people has been achieved at the expense of our fire waste," the Fire Marshal declared. "For our convenience we have invented machines that have produced fire hazards that no one ever imagined or appreciated. Pipes, cigarettes, and matches are responsible for 25 per cent. of the fires. We have to realise that this is an evil we have with us, and it produces a fire hazard. Take the days when our homes were lighted with candles and we developed into gas. It produced an element of hazard of its own.

Then take the electrical step. With all the carefulness and talent and safe electrical instructions we have still the accessories with us that contribute to the hazard because of human frailty. This is a very serious thing to contemplate. Then the tremendous use to which gasoline is being put contributes to our fire hazard. Every invention and every labour-saving device also produces its own fire hazard."

Summing up all of these modern developments, Mr. Heaton declared that the last thing thought of by the inventors is the fire risk. "We would be laughed at if we tried to stop it," he said. "Let us realise ,then, that while we on this continent have more conveniences than probably any other continent, we have accomplished it at the expense of our fire waste."

Fires Decreasing.

"This year we have had in the Province of Ontario 1,500 less fires than in the first seven months of 1923 and a less number of fires than in any other year since probably 1916 and yet we have this year had some 6,000 odd fires. Of that number, ten account for 25 per cent. of the fire loss, and forty more account for another 25 per cent., so that fifty fires have given us one-half of our fire waste. The outstanding problem is the big fire. Six thousand fires have been subdued by our fire departments, with the exception of fifty that got away from them. Can you imagine what would have been the result if those other 5,950 fires had got away? When you think of that you can sit quietly and thank God that He has given you the work you are doing."

Mr. Heaton cited chemists as breeders of fire hazard, mentioning the case of a German chemist who substituted a compound of naptha, benzine and another chemical for the ordinary moth balls, camphor being expensive and difficult to procure. In a recent fire in Hamilton, it is believed these moth balls distributed through a store spread the flames and carried the fire out of control. The flash test of these balls shows 185 degrees Fahrenheit and the explosive test 232, equal to coal oil.

In the homes of the people a certain mop "has had a fair share in causing fires and fire alarms," the Fire Marshal said.

Expressing the hope that wise legislation would insist that where large values are at stake means must be taken to avoid large losses, the speaker drew a moral from the command given to th Children of Israel at the Red Sea, urging the Federation of Fire Fighters to "Go Forward."

"Notwithstanding all the difficulties we meet in our work; notwithstanding that every modern device is being used at our expense and that people are careless, yet I want to say, let our motto be 'Go Forward.'"

In the vote of thanks which was heartily accorded the Fire Marshal was incorporated an appreciation of the fire fighters for the assistance rendered them by his department.

A Demonstration.

Chief George Gimblett told The Examiner to day that the demonstration to be given on the Market Square to-morrow morning will be of interest to every merchant and manufacturer in the city and to the property owners generally.

The demonstration of the fire-resisting qualities of fireproof building materials is being given for the benefit of visiting firemen, but the general public are invited to attend.

GREAT CROPS PREVAIL ALL OVER CANADA

Country Will Reap Greater Profits This Year Than Last Season.

NO MORE DANGER.

Grain Is Now Well Under Way And Will Not Be Affected By Frost.

VANCOUVER B.C., Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—"It is fair to predict that the country will reap greater benefits from this year's crop than from last year's," said Charles Murphy, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, western lines, who reached Vancouver this morning from Winnipeg.

"Three or four weeks ago" Mr. Murphy said "conditions on the prairies did not warrant estimates any more optimistic in tone than were given out at that time, but since then the beneficial rains and highly favorable weather have developed the grain to such an extent that until it has actually turned and got beyond the frost damage stage. There will have to be new estimates made that will be much larger than those made heretofore. At present there is every indication that the wheat will mature before it receives any frost damage."

"The way it looks now, the farmers will get as much if not more actual money this year because prices are so much better and for the reason that the crop will be less expensive to handle on account of shorter straw. At all events, the Canadian Pacific has sufficient confidence in the crop outlook to be fully prepared to handle the maximum loads," Mr. Murphy said.

"Vancouver, of course is particularly interested in Alberta," Mr. Murphy said, further; "the conditions in that province have come back remarkably well in the last few weeks and if they continue Alberta may have nearly as much grain to take out as last year."

Speaking of the criticism which has been launched against the permit system of handling grain, through this port, Mr. Murphy explained that this system does not affect the volume of the port. The permit system, he pointed out, was put into force to keep Vancouver free, because if it became congested, as it undoubtedly would, with the present facilities, the port would receive a 'black eye' that it would not get over for many a day.

Miss Viola Neil, of Toronto, is spending her holidays with her mother here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Morrison and daughter, Miss Mabel, and Mr. and Mrs. Downs, were among those who attended the Cobourg Horse Show on Wednesday.

Miss Audrey Cathcart is visiting her cousin, Miss Jane Cathcart, of Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Josh. Swain are in Fergus attending the wedding of their son Clark, which takes place to-day.

There are several fields of fall wheat out yet owing to the recent heavy rains. The rain has helped the root crop, and is keeping the pasture in good condition. Corn is growing rapidly. Threshing has commenced already.

WHEAT INCREASE

Recent Increase in Price of Wheat Benefits Only a Few.

Western Canada has been benefited to the extent of not less than $5,000,000 on the portion of the 1922 wheat crop remaining under the control of wester farmers and dealers through the recent advance in prices. Figures show that there remained in farmers' hands, in country elevators, en route and at terminal elevators, about 53,000,000 bushels, and it was declared that on wheat of all grades sold at various times through the ensuing months there had been an average advance from mid-June prices of about ten cents. Owners of coarse grains also have profited largely.

MARKETING PLAN

By This Way City Consumers Get Fresh Country Eggs.

In Southern California a market plan has been started with the aim of reaching consumers direct. Only producers of high quality eggs are associated in the enterprise. The eggs are picked up by special trucks, in a way similar to cream gathering in the dairy sections of the middle and western states. The eggs are taken to a central point in Los Angeles and there carefully graded and packed in card boxes holding a dozen eggs each.

These egg-filled boxes are then delivered over special routes in the city to customers. The price is, of course, top for extras, and nal eggs are sold under a trademark of this association. It is thought that this plan will enable the producers to secure full value for their eggs and give the consumers the sort of high-quality eggs they want. While many egg producers are doing this type of marketing, the collection, grading and retail delivery on a large scale are still too recent to provide figures as to how economically the proposed service may be performed.

WHEAT CUTTING STARTS.

The Yield in South Western Alberta Is About 25 Bushels to the Acre.

LETHBRIDGE, August 13.—Canadian Press. — Spring wheat cutting was started on a 320 acre field at Coaldale yesterday. The yield is estimated at 25 bushels an acre. Cutting has also started at other points in Southwestern Alberta, and will begin next Monday, except in districts close to the mountains where the crop is very heavy

B. C. APPLES DEMANDED

Europe Wants Carefully Selected British Columbia Apples.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 13.—Carefully selected and packed B.C. apples on Covent Garden market for sale in the open market in half-boxes, containing forty-eight apples, and full boxes containing ninety-six apples, consisting of Spitz, Newtons and Winesaps, have brought the highest prices ever recorded—half-boxes at 22 shillings and boxes at 40 shillings. These are last year's apples, and the prices compare favorably with the 18 shillings a box for this year's New Zealand apples.

They were sold by F. R. R. De Hart of Kelowna, B.C., who staged the British Columbia fruit exhibit at Wembley for this province.

A dealer wrote to the department of the Canadian Exhibition Fruit Commissioner that he would take all he could get of this quality of fruit and same packing, and guarantee the highest prices.

Hamburg dealers have offered to purchase 500,000 boxes of Canadian apples at a premium of $5 per case, while a Stockholm fruiterer has offered to pay transportation and a week's expenses if the Canadian fruit expert will go there and arrange for a shipment. It is pointed out-however, that Canadian fruit men must adopt a uniform grade, pack their apples in boxes, and not attempt to crowd the packing unduly, as the slightest bruising would mean a small price and damage the reputation of the whole pack.

About 90 per cent of all commercial grape production is in California.

United States will have a yield of 343,000,000 bushels of winter wheat this season and 197,000,000 bushels of spring wheat.

DEADLOCK OVER EVACUATION OF GERMAN TROOPS

Hope for the Breaking of the Tangle Depends on Meeting of MacDonald and Kellogg.

EVACUATION DATE.

Meeting of Heads of Various Delegations Was Called This Morning.

LONDON, August 14. United Press —The deadlock over the date for the military evacuation of the Ruhr continues. The conference on the Dawes report again to-day turned to the Anglo-American mediation to iron out the situation.

Hope for the breaking of the tangle which revolves about the demands of France and Germany, today depended upon a meeting between Prime Minister MacDonald and Ambassador Kellogg of the United States. Optimists were confident that this meeting would provide the solution.

The present deadlock lies in the French and German divergency upon whether the Ruhr is to be evacuated in a few months or at the end of a year. Germany demands a fixed date (preferably six months.) France has been unable to give a definite time

A meeting of the heads of the various delegations was called at No. 10 Downing street at 10 a.m. to-day. They met for an hour when the German delegation was invited in. The meeting broke up in 30 minutes, and when they came out one of the Germanconferees was asked whether there was any chance of a rupture. "I cannot see who can afford to break," he said.

SUCCESSFUL PIPE BAND CONCERT

Large Crowd Heard The Kilties In Piping, Singing And Dancing.

The Peterborough Caledonian Kilties Pipe Band rendered an excellent concert in Victoria Park last evening, before a large attendance of the public.

The band under the direction of Pipe-Major J. Smith, was very snappy in their new tunics, and the rhythm of the bagpipes, accompanied to the precise beat of the small drums and fancy twirling beats of the big drummer, held the attention of an appreciative audience until the last note.

Miss Doyle sang "My Ain Folk," in a very pleasant voice and had to sing an encore.

The main attraction of the evening was the superb dancing by the Misses Mary and Emily Hemphill, who danced as their first number the "Highland Fling," and as an encore the cute little Emily responded with the sword dance in a faultless fashion. Their other numbers were "Shewn Trews" and the Irish Jig and the Irish Reel together.

This turn appealed to all as a smart performance of two well known high class dancers of this city.

Mr. J. Japp was heard to advantage in his first public appearance in "MacGregor's Gathering," and "Flow Gently Sweet Afton."

A clever piece of piping was given by Piper Alex. Milne, who played the great Scots' march "Barren Rocks of Aden," also furnishing by smart finger manipulation in competition strathspey and reel.

By special request, Messrs. Hendry and Smith sang "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon," one of Burns songs.

The local Harry Lauder—Mr. Bob Hendry—was up to the height of his ambition last evening when he was called upon time and again to give more of his real Scots character songs in the dialect so necessary to finish them.

Miss Calder and Mrs. Hemphill were the accompanists. The Kilty Band express great thanks to the manager of Heintzman Hall for the use of the piano.

FARM NEWS

FARMING IS A SCIENCE

(By ALEX. McGREGOR)

Another Moses has arisen to guide the country out of the agricultural wilderness in which it finds itself and, as usual, this self-constituted leader is a man who lacks the necessary qualification of experience, having only a theoretical knowledge of the problem which he assumes to solve. A well-known manufacturer of Toronto, in an address at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of St. Thomas, ventured the opinion that the only way to induce people to settle on the farms was for the Government to extend financial assistance to those who are now stranded, or who at the best are making a precarious living in the cities.

The Fundamental Error.

The trouble with all these suggestions is that they are based on the delusion that farming is an occupation that requires neither skill or experience, that anyone can make a living on the land, that any person who fails to make good in the cities, untrained workmen of all kinds, should hire themselves to the farmers of the country.

Farming is an occupation that calls for a high degree of native intelligence and business ability. Close figuring is required in order to make both ends come anywhere near together, let alone causing them to meet. The high-priced machinery now used on the farm demands skilled labor for its operation. The farmer's hired man is entrusted while at work with more valuable implements that are the majority of so-called skilled artisans in the urban centres. If careless or inefficient, as so many of them are, he can easily do as much damage in a day to his employer's property as would pay his wages for six months in a year.

The day laborer in a town can do little injury to the pick and shovel with which he works. The case is different with the man who drives a team of horses worth $200 or $300, wearing a $90 set of harness, and attached to a machine that costs anywhere from $50 to $300. Which of the two should be classed as a skilled laborer?

The farmer must, in nearly every case, take his hired man into his own home to associate with his children. The employer of the town laborer knows nothing of how his helper lives, and probably cares as much. The character of the latter is something that seldom enters into the consideration.

While farming itself and working on a farm by the day or month is held in so high esteem by the theorists in the cities, whether these theorists be journalists or manufacturers, the basic industry of the country will never hold in Canada the high place which it has attained, say in the southern and western sections of the United States, where the working owner of the land constituted the aristocracy of the country, and where the intelligent wage worker is regarded as an important asset in the community.

A policy of assisted immigration has failed to a great extent to bring to this country a class of the more desirable residents. Housing schemes have fallen far short of expectations. Assisting the inexperienced to make a start on the land has been already tried out in Canada with indifferent success. The bonusing plan suggested by the Toronto manufacturers would, if given a trial, fall far short of expectations.

Farming as a vocation will become more popular with owners and wage earners alike when the city people cease to hold it up as a resort for the incompetents who have failed in other branches of the industry.

Ontario had a farmer premier who, in point of education and as a public speaker, is the peer of any public man in Canada today. Leaving out of consideration the question of his administration, carried on under circumstances in which no other prominent prime minister ever found himself, his personal integrity is above reproach, and his sincerity of purpose is recognized. He is a man who would be a credit to any class or calling.

While he was in power the cheap and snobbish cartoonists on the Toronto papers took a morbid delight in picturing that premier as a lout, sucking nourishment from a straw, wearing cowhide boots that are relics of a past age, and wearing a dilapidated pair of overalls, indifferently held in place by one suspender, cartoons that were as untruthful in design as they were clumsy in execution.

Who can blame the unsophisticated city dweller if, from the study of such lampoons of a leading type of agriculturists he arrived at the conclusion that the farmer of Ontario belong to an inferior and backward race, and that the calling is one to be avoided.

DEADLOCK DANGEROUS

German-French Deadlock Is Imperilling Success Of Conference.

LONDON, Aug. 14. — (Canadian Press).—The deadlock between the French and the Germans on the question of the time limit for military evacuation of the Ruhr is imperilling the success of the International Conference, it was indicated to-day after a hurried meeting of the French, Belgian and German Premiers at Downing Street early to-day had failed to produce tangible results. The delegates to the conference hope and expect, however, that the British intervention may save the programme which the Allies have agreed upon for instituting the experts' reparation plan.

STRIPPED BY MACHINE.

William Otto lost Everything But His Boots When His Clothing Became Entangled.

ALGOMA, Wis., Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—William Otto, engaging in a battle with a manure loader on a farm near here, emerged victorious but sans everything except his shoes and one sock. William was tinkering with the mechanism, endeavoring to find a knock, when his pants caught on the set screw of a swiftly revolving shaft. As his clothing left him, one piece at a time, William clung desperately to the brace, meanwhile making welkin ring with shouts to stop the infernal machine. The loader was his own invention.

ON WAY TO RANGOON.

Argentine Airman Left Calcutta To-Day For Rangoon.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 14. — (United Press).—Major Zanni, Argentine airman, who is attempting an eastward flight around the world, hopped off from here at 8.30 a.m. The next hop in the flight will take Zanni to Rangoon. He attempted to make the flight Wednesday, but was forced to call it off owing to some tire trouble.

WHO'S WHO

Maybe you're not in the "Who's Who" book, and it's likely you never will be. That fact is so sure that it's useless to look 'cause your name is not one you will see.

And why should you care if you've been overlooked? Why crave with the noted to sit? It means very little what people are booked 'cuse "Who's Who" cannot change them a bit.

If you can just treat all your fellow men right and play every game on the square, you're just as well off, by a heck of a sight, so, honestly, why should you care?

The smile you keep forward will build up your friends and make you amount to a heap. The Who that you are really greatly depends on the sort of a spirit you keep.

We all feel right proud of the fellow with pep, and the man who is keen and true, who plugs right along till he gathers a rep, though he never appears in "Who's Who."

FARMERS CAN'T MAKE OWN RAIN, SAYS A REPORT

Prof. Humphreys, Weather Man, Declares Artificial Downpour is a Myth.

CONFERENCE ASKED

Sir John Russell Suggests That Problems on All Farms Might Be Solved.

TORONTO, Aug. 14.— (United Press).—Rainmaking, on a commercial scale, is an unadulterated fake. This is the opinion of W. J. Humphreys, professor of metrological physics at the United States weather bureau. Dr. Humphreys, who reported his research to physicists at the British Association here, has investigated the more persistently urged schemes for producing rain from the point of view of the underlying scientific principles they involve, and they have also been subjected to quantitative experiments in order to try them out practically. The outcome of the study is the conclusion that artificial rain is a magazine cover myth.

Agricultural Conference.

"The Empire has already its Conference of Premiers, why should it not have its conference for agricultural science and practice?" This suggestion was thrown out here by Sir John Russell, F.R.S., president of the agricultural section of the British Association, in his annual address before this section. After tracing the problems confronting the agriculturist and pointing out the great value of combined co-operation between the great institutions devoted to agricultural science in the various countries of the world, could such be accomplished, Sir John said there were certain great problems which are common to all parts of the British Empire where the experience of one part would be of great value to the rest.

BURNBRAE HAS A GOOD YIELD

Barley Threshed Out 200 Bushels From Four Acres —Oats Good, Too.

CROPS EXCELLENT

BURNBRAE, Aug. 13.—The first threshing of spring grains in this district puts a rather favourable outlook on the prevailing situation. On Saturday last Mr. Bert Hay threshed 200 bushels of barley from 4 acres and 35 bushels of oats from one small load.

With the recent heavy showers buckwheat and millet are making great headway, although sown rather late in the season. The wet, late spring increased the acreage of these crops and if they are good, the crop conditions will be much improved.

FARMERS SMILE AT FULL BARNS

Keene Crops Nearly All Harvested and Yield is Above Expectations.

BERRIES PLENTIFUL

KEENE, Aug. 14.—The harvesting season is nearing at an end in this section, the crops are stored in well filled barns and the farmers are wearing broad smiles, for the yield of all grain has exceeded their expectations of the spring. The recent rains have brought along the garden vegetables, and what seemed very discouraging a few weeks ago are very promising now. Wild berries were a poor crop in this section but the tame ones are a good crop and a splendid quality. Prices range from fifteen to twenty cents a box.

Market prices this week are: Dairy butter, 30 cents per pound; creamery, 37 cents per pound; eggs, 24 cents per dozen; young chickens, 22 cents per pound; old hens, 18 cents per pound; new potatoes $2.00 a bag.

CUTTING NEARLY DONE

Trent River Farmers Are Well on With Their Harvest.

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 13.—The farmers in this district have about finished cutting rye which has been an excellent crop. Everything is growing fine especially the potatoes which are promising an abundant crop.

Garden raspberries are on sale at 2 boxes for 25 cents and new potatoes are selling at 40 cents a peck and expect the price to come down this coming week.

A few huckleberries have been offered but the best ones have not come to maturity yet.

Settlers Of Australia Must Submit To Nature

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Geological formation of Australia molds to a large degree the development of the Continent, according to O. H. T. Rishbeth of University College, Southampton, who addressed geographers at the British Association yesterday. The surface cover of Australia, which is determined directly by its geological history, is the determining factor in the water supply, and consequently, exerts a controlling force on the activities of civilization, the geographer indicated. "The nature and conditions of water supply, and consequently of settlement in Australia, offer striking contrasts with those prevailing in such countries as Europe and Canada," he said. The water resources would appear less subject to modification by human hands, in the case of the antipodes.

RAINS HINDER WHEAT HARVEST

Millbrook Farms Have Still Grain in the Fields.

PRODUCE PRICES

MILLBROOK, Aug. 14. — The frequent and heavy showers during the past week have hindered the wheat harvest in this district, many fields which have been cut for some time being still out because of the continued wet weather. Other fields which are ready for cutting, both of wheat and barley, are awaiting the binder for the same reason. The hot, moist atmosphere after the rains makes the danger of sprouting quite real, and the cooler evenings are welcomed on this account. A suggestion from one of the experimental farms to the effect that the thorough mixing of new wheat, which is frequently damp, with dry, old wheat from the previous year thus absorbing the excess moisture and improving both kinds for milling purposes, will be welcomed. Put into storage for a few days to give the dry grain sufficient opportunity to "drink in" the dampness from the new wheat.

Keep Roots On.

In carrying out the suggestion given recently regarding keeping large, old lettuce plants in a dark cellar to get rid of the bitter taste and toughness, it should be stated that the roots must be left on, and the leaves dampened.

Produce Prices.

New potatoes last week were 40 cents a peck, or 10 cents less than they were one week before. Cauliflowers, large, white firm vegetables were 20 to 25 cents each according to size and cabbages were 12½ cents each; beans and peas are 5 cents a pound.

Raspberries are selling at 15 cents a box, and red and white currants at 20 cents a quart. Tomatoes, brought in from the Niagara district are 20 cents a pound; green apples sell at 25 cents a peck, a generous quantity being on the market but the size small.

Dairy butter is 30 cents and creamery butter 38 cents a pound. Twenty-three cents is being paid for eggs, the selling price being 25 cents a dozen.

BETHEL HARVEST

Hay is All Stored Away and Fall Wheat is Falling Before the Binders.

BETHEL, Aug. 13.—The farmers of this district have finished their crop which was a fair crop with the most. They now are harvesting their fall wheat which seems to be a splendid crop. The spring crops are beginning to ripen but is rather light and also seems to have considerable smut.

The raspberries of this district have been a splendid crop, especially at Mr. Armstrong's swamp. A large number come from a distance and spend the day picking and always take their pails home full beside the scores from this district. Red and black currants were also a splendid crop.

People who have used their early potatoes report a very good sample and the gardens are looking splendid.

OATS GIVE GOOD YIELD

Norwood Farmers Have Started Cutting—Threshing Soon.

NORWOOD, Aug. 13.—Huckleberries were selling in the village on Friday at $2.00 for a ten quart pail, raspberries were being offered for two boxes for a quarter, cherries at 85 cents for an 11 quart basket, new potatoes are being offered at 40 cents a peck, carrots and beets at 5 cents a bunch.

Many of the farmers in the vicinity of Norwood are cutting their oats and report a good yield.

The hum of the threshing machine will soon be heard.

PITY THE WEED WHEN FLAPPERS USE THEIR HOES

Maiden of All Ages and Matrons Discard Silk Hose for the Garden Tool.

GREAT REDUCER

Ready Cash and a Graceful Figure Follow Battle on Pesky Herbage.

By MARIAN HALE.

MT. KISCO, N. Y., Aug. 14. — The man with his hoe may be found in any rural region, but to see the flapper with her hoe you should come to Mt. Kisco.

Here you can see this much-exploited young person making her triumphant way between long rows of the 400,000 tiny evergreen trees that cover the 1,000-acre estate of Dr. Charles V. Paterno.

She is grooming these charges to become the Christmas trees of the year 1930 or thereabouts.

The workers include college girls, school teachers, ex-factory workers and even wives who are not averse to earning $3 a day with board and keep thrown in.

Though the July run pours forth its most ardent rays, they stick to their task clad in overalls, soft shirts and huge straw sun hats.

The hosing begins at 8 and continues until 4 or 5, depending on the time they take for lunch.

Already they have collected a fine assortment of blistered hands and feet, varying degrees of sunburn and tan and have to a large extent conquered their aversion for earthworms and the small bugs that inhabit the earth.

And they rise in a body to give three rahs for the farm.

Perhaps the real secret of their application lies in the simple confession of Anna, a Vassar sophomore.

"It's the most wonderful reducer on the market, salt baths and rubber corsets notwithstanding," she declares. "If you bend over a hoe all day in the hot sun, you can't retain your hips or encourage an abdomen to develop further. The flesh melts off so fast you can almost feel it go. And you can eat all you want to of good country food.

"Before the summer is over I expect to have dislodged 20 pounds as well as a million weeds—and I'm being paid while I lose."

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING

Want Condition of Park St. South Restored by Commission.

The regular monthly meeting of the North Monaghan Council was held in the Peterboro Court House on Tuesday of this week, all of the members being present. Reeve H. B. Rye was in the chair.

Mr. W. C. Follis reported that residents on the north side of Lansdowne street were dumping cans and rubbish along the show-grounds fence.

By-Law No. 853, to regulate the work of the township scavenger, was introduced, regularly read and finally passed. Mr. Archie Moore, sanitary inspector, was present, and reported with regard to the sanitary condition of the township.

Permission was granted to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to lay a gas main on Lock street, from Lansdowne to McGill street, and on McGill street, from Lansdowne to Park street.

Mr. R. A. Dobbin brought up the question of allotting the statute labour from township lots 7 and 8 in the 11th concession, toward the maintenance and upkeep of the road running through the property. This matter was left in the hands of the road commissioner, Mr. J. M. Lillico.

A committee composed of the following members: Reeve Rye Deputy Reeve Lillico and Councillor G. A. Wood was appointed to meet the sub urban area commission and press North Monaghan's claim to have Park street put back in as good condition as it was before the city laid the new outfall sewer.

A letter and bill was received from Mr. R. Fair with regard to supplies purchased by the Big Sisterhood. The clerk was instructed to return Mr. Fair's bill and to state that no authority had been given by the North Monaghan Council and that they will not be responsible for the payment of this account.

The clerk was instructed to notify the C.P.R. to have the crossing at the Henry Hope Company's plant repaired.

The following bills were passed and ordered paid: W. J. Byers (charity) groceries, $10.68; L. Minocolo, (charity) groceries, $0.90; S. L. Purdy, timber for covering Sucee's bridge, $45.75.

The meeting then adjourned. The next regular meeting of the Council will be held at the Court House at 2 p.m. on Monday, September 8th.

The nickel portions of your range should be polished occasionally with a paste of whiting and alcohol.

SALTS IMPORTANT IN FIELDING STOCK

Scientists Finds Mineral Salts Form Big Factor in Progress.

TORONTO, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press) —Mineral salts are important factors in the food of farm animals. Not only is their presence essential to the diet but the different mineral constituents must be present in definite proportions. This was pointed out by Dr. J. N. Orr and Mr. W. Godden of the University of Aberdeen, in a paper presented to the Agriculture Section of the British Association.

Dr. Orr drew attention to the importance of the functions performed by mineral salts in the animal body and the extent to which farm animals may suffer from a lack of them.

He also discussed the effect of salt deficiency on the rate of growth and the onset of disease in animals.

"It is not sufficient," said Dr. Orr, "to consider only the absolute amounts of one or more of the mineral constituents of a ration, it is necessary also to secure a definite proportion of each."

The scientist stated that the amount of salts utilized by the animals, particularly the calcium and phosphorous, is affected by the other constituents of the food.

It is also necessary to pay attention to the mineral constituents, such as iron or iodine. These, Dr. Orr pointed out, although only present in traces, are of the greatest importance to the health of the animal.

EUROPEAN DAIRIES INCREASE EXPORTS

United States Farmer is Being Pushed Out of Newly Won Fields.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—European dairies are beginning to win back the dairy markets they had before the war. The United States dairy farmer is gradually being pushed out of the field.

This is the word brought back by rural economists who have been studying the farming and marketing situation in Europe. They expect the renewal of stiff competition by Russia and Denmark with the American dairy farmer.

"Russia used to be the source of much of western Europe's food," explains R. F. Taber, extension specialist in rural economics at Ohio State University. "Last year she had a material influence on the grain market. This year, judging by present indications, large quantities of butter will reach western Europe from northern Russia and Siberia.

"In 1918 and 1919 we exported around 30,00,000 pounds of butter each year. Last year Denmark not only eliminated American butter from the English market, which took nearly half our export the previous year, but shipped enough butter to the United States to have a real influence on the price."

Competition from Russian and Danish dairies can be expected for some time to come, he adds.

AYRSHIRE CLUB PICNIC

BONAR LAW, Aug. 14.—The Menie District Ayrshire Breeders' Club will hold a field day at the home of Mr. Charles McCoun's, Seymour West, four miles north-west of Campbellford, on the Trent Bridge road, on Friday, Aug. 15.

Judging demonstrations, conducted by prominent agriculturists, including George B. Rothwell, Dominion live stock husbandman, Ottawa Experimental Farms, will speak. The Ladies' Institute have arranged for a Toronto lecturer to provide entertainment for the lady guests.

The day will be in the form of a picnic and it is expected that it amass one of the largest gatherings of the season. Light lunch will be served on the grounds; also ice cream and soft drinks.

POLITE MOTORISTS

One Car Tried to Knock Another One Into the Ditch.

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—When Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor were going from Warsaw to Carmel a car signal led to pass. Mr. Taylor pushed on as rapidly as possible until he reached a place to turn out and gave the passing car nearly all the road. When alongside Mr. Taylor's car, they deliberately turned into his car and swore at them, Mr. Taylor's fender was bent and the car was thrown so that Mrs. Taylor's arm was hurt.

Threshing Started

Two threshing outfits, started out this week, Ed. Payne and Sid Watley are in charge.

Ed. Payne brought home his engine from stone-crushing in Douro to-day. He put between three hundred and three hundred and fifty yards of crushed stone on the Lake field road between the corner at Garrett McMurrays and William Hayes, Starting at Wm. Hayes he put stone on down past Mr. Whibbs around the jog, over the culvert as far as the elm trees, and through the swamp by sugar-loaf, nearly to the corner. The road had been graded before he went on it.

In different parts of Dummer he had put over two thousand yards of stone. He did the grading in Dummer.

Crop Report

Much of the wheat is in some is still in the stooks and a little is still to be cut.

Some have their barley in others have not started to cut. While it is generally good, some early sown fields are poor.

Some oats are cut, some are still quite green.

Pea-fields, generally are a depressing sight.

A good deal of rye is out yet.

The raspberry season has been a little short but good while it lasted.

A Flower Service

Sunday evening was a Union Flower Service in the Methodist Church. The Church was prettily decorated with home grown flowers, among which appeared a few of our beautiful wild flowers. Each Sunday School scholar had been asked to bring a contribution. There was suitable music. Scripture lessons were Psalms 95 and 67 also Matt. 6 24-34.

Mr. Atkinson spoke on some of the lessons we might learn from the flowers. They are often mentioned in the Bible and Christ himself had looked upon the flower-laden land of Palestine and drawn lessons therefrom. Some things he noticed were—that they show God's care for us and all his creatures. They are fragile; they develop spontaneously; they show the uselessness of worry; the flowers do their duty in their place, sometimes an almost insignificant flower just fits in and makes a dark corner beautiful. They lift their little faces up to God, their roots go down into the dark and secret places; flowers stand inspection; use a microscope and more and more beauties are seen; use a microscope on any man-made fabric and it becomes coarser.

Mr. Weir spoke of the wonderful way the flower is made and the wonder of its growth; then told the story of the prisoner in France, who loved and tended the little plant that grew in his cell and the Empress thought that such a man could not be bad and got his release. Any one who loves God's flowers must have some good in him. Also, he told the story of the young girl, to whose sick mother some beautiful flowers were sent. The girl was thoughtless and wasting her life. The nurse said she would put the flowers away for a few days until they faded and then give them to the mother. The girl was surprised at the idea of giving faded flowers to her mother. The nurse showed her that she was wasting her life and the young girl took the lesson that we must not waste and idle our youth.

The flowers were distributed among the sick and shut-ins. It is the first service of the kind held in Warsaw. Mrs. Taylor sang "Flowe: Service Day".

Held a Picnic

Despite the rain the Union Sunday School picnic on Wednesday afternoon was a success, a good crowd was there. Most of the children from the different Sunday Schools were there. The harvest kept some of the grown-ups home.

Regular Picnic Tables Were Set

There was lots of fun over the games and sports Besides ordinary races for men, boys and girls. There were crab, coat, wheel-barrow, sack three-legged and partners races.

Carmel held a Harvest dinner on Tuesday evening. There was a very large crowd and a splendid supper. Some who were to have helped in the program failed to appear.

Methodist Woman's Missionary meeting was held last Thursday. It was decided to make two quilts and give them to where needed near home. The ladies are asked each to make two block eighteen inches by eighteen inches and bring or send them to the next meeting.

Two new teachers have been secured for Warsaw school and we are to have one year's High School work taught here.

Mrs. Robert Tighe and little son are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson.

Mrs. Kidd and two children are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sneider.

Rev. Hugh Brown is visiting old friends in the vicinity.

Miss Jean Atkinson spent Wednesday with her father.

Grover Choate Toronto, is spending the holidays with relatives here.

Mrs. Warren Stamford, is visiting Miss Ella Dewart.

Joseph Madill, Peterboro, spent the week end and holiday with his sister, Mrs. John Dewart.

Thos. Clements has returned to his store after an absence of seven and one half years.

Mrs. Digweed spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clements.

HORSES KILLED FOR FRACTURES NEEDLESS LOSS

Veterinary Surgeon in Campbellford Shows That It Is Possible to Reset Bones.

NARROW ESCAPE

Valuable Animal Owned by Seymour Farmer Rescued in Nick of Time.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 14. — It has for years been the custom among farmers when one of their horses, no matter how valuable, broke its leg to destroy it, in spite of the fact that it is within the possibilities of veterinary science to save the animal for a long life of usefulness. There have been in recent years advances made in this branch of human knowledge, just as in other lines.

When a valuable horse, belonging to Milo Lynch, of Seymour West, ran away in this town recently and falling on the pavement broke one of its forelegs at the fetlock, 90 per cent. of the crowd that gathered, sitting as a self-constituted jury on the case, ruled that the only course was to destroy the animal, and the owner, much as he regretted the loss, was inclined to agree with this view.

Police Chief Duncalfe, the only man in town who can legally keep firearms in his possession, was notified by telephone that he was wanted as executioner, and arrived on the scene. After looking over the situation he gave it as his opinion that a veterinary should first be called, and Dr. G. A. Hay was sent for.

The doctor at once decided that the horse could be saved and his instructions were at once carried out. The shoe on the foot of the leg that was broken was removed by a local blacksmith and replaced by another of special make. From the point of this shoe an iron band reaching to the horse's knee and fitting closely to the leg, was fastened, and this was bound like an ordinary splint. Thus equipped the horse was able to walk several blocks to the market-place where it was loaded on a truck and removed to its own stable. As soon as it reached its stall it began to eat as if nothing had happened. It is expected that the animal will be ready for work again in about six weeks, and a large number of farmers and others are watching with interest the outcome of the treatment.

Some years ago a trotting horse belonging to Mike Dunham, while racing at a Victoria Day celebration in Campbellford, fell on the track and broke its leg. Dr. Hay treated it as he did Mr. Lynch's horse, and the following year the horse, showing no signs of lameness, raced on the same track again.

Whites In Tennessee Cut Off From World

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Colonies of whites, geographically isolated in the Tennessee mountains, still use the same methods of agriculture, tanning of leather, spinning, weaving and cooking, which were in vogue when the district was settled over a century ago. This was shown in the anthropology section of the British Association yesterday by Miss Isabel Gordon. Although these activities have remained practically stable, well marked peculiarities have been developed in certain directions due to the prolonged isolation from contact with advancing civilization, it was shown.

FRANK WHITEHOUSE SHUT OUT BELLEVILLE JRS. WITH NO HITS

Lakeviews' Southpaw Pitched Perfect Game and Had Three Hits in Three Up.

FANNED SEVENTEEN

Lakeviews Clouted Belleville Pitchers for Eleven Safeties —Game Was Snappy.

Frank Whitehouse's no hit, no run game against the Belleville Juniors yesterday evening gives Lou LeBarr's boys an encouraging start on their way for the Ontario championship. With the field in a muddy condition the fans who faithfully turned out to see the Lakeviews perform were served up a fairly good game. Whitehouse was in the best of condition and although the ball was rather greasy at times he managed to send seventeen of the Belleville boys to the dugout by the strike-out route. His teammates were right on their toes and had but two errors registered against them neither causing any damage in the run column as the Lakeviews won handily by the score of 7 to 0 in the nine innings, played in one hour and twenty-five minutes.

Lambert Collins who was hurt in Saturday's game against the St. Christopher team from Toronto was unable to play yesterday. He was replaced by Harry Halliday who turned in an excellent exhibition behind the bat, not a man stealing a base on him. He worked well with Whitehouse and called for them like an old veteran of the caged position. He has the markings of a first class catcher and he also has the ability to hit.

A Great Finish.

In the last six innings nineteen men faced Whitehouse and fourteen of them went away from the plate by strike outs. The crowd went wild over Whitehouse's pitching, and as the game grew older the better he pitched, especially in the last two innings when the Belleville manager began to rush pinch hitters into the fray and try and pull the game out of the fire.

Out of the three pinch hitters that went in to face Whitehouse none of them smelt the ball, the big ones as well as the small ones.

Hunter started on the mound for the loosers but was continually in trouble and in the four innings he pitched he was touched for ten hits and seven runs, while his teammates had but one error behind him. He fanned but one man, issued four passes and hit one batsman. He was yanked in the fifth inning and replaced by Gerow another right-hander.

Gerow Was Better.

Although Gerow turned in a great pitching battle in the last four innings, the Lakeviews only getting one fluky hit off him, it was too late to pull the game out of the fire as Whitehouse was dead on and never got into a hole at any stage of the game.

The Belleville aggregation are a snappy fielding bunch but as hitters they looked bad against Whitehouse and he should have no trouble in doing away with them, as he faced a much faster team on Saturday when the Lakeviews trouced the fast Toronto Junior team.

In the last eighteen innings Whitehouse has pitched, he has been touched for but one hit, that one being registered on Saturday when a ball was dropped between first and second base, far enough from each base to foil the fielder. It was a fluky hit and robbed him of a no hit, no run game on Saturday as he well deserved to have it.

The Belleville fielders were right there with the goods and reaped in everything that was possible. Hibbard at third base and Latchford behind the bat were the best for the loosers while every player on the team turned in a good game.

Whitehouse Hit Well.

Whitehouse beside his brilliant pitching performance hit well. He led his team at bat with two singles and a double in three trips to the plate. Lou Lebarr also garnered in two nice hits, one of them going for a double. Harry Halliday behind the bat was the fielding star for the Lakeviews.

Wightman of Boston, her first round doubles match.

GRAND TRUNKS KNOCKED FROM LEAGUE STAGE

Kingston Ponies Won Last Hight's Fixture by Score of 12 to 2.

NOTHIHG TO GAME.

Kingston Played Good Ball. . . Bill Mills On Casualty List.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 14. — This was the unlucky thirteenth for the Trunks, and marked their exit from this league for 1924, for they received the soundest beating of their career at the hands of "Knotty" Lee's Ponies by the lop-sided 12-2 score at Agricultural Park. From the drop of the hat the visitors had an edge on the locals, who were without Bill Mills, the hard-hitting receiver, who is out with a fractured hand. Hagerman caught and Alec Weir replaced him at left field. Six runs were slipped over in the first frame, the others coming singly except the last pair in the ninth.

In the first, Batstone singled to shallow left and went down on Oulette's low throw. He went to third when Nichol beat his scratch hit to Meagher for a life. Compeau promenaded pilfering the sacks. Sommerville scratched to Oulette, who threw Batstone out at home for the first, but big Del Cherry busted a bounder at Williams, which took a lucky hop over Williams' head and into left field. A Weir, in recovering the ball, threw it against the corner of a soft drink booth, and it bounded back further than ever. The result was a home run for Cherry and four runs for the Ponies. Rice lined over Williams' head and Purvis clouted out a triple to the right garden, scoring Rice. Teeple and Gallagher each grounded out to Mills. Nine batters made six runs with five hits.

In the second Batstone was hit and was sacrificed to second and third by Nichol and Compeau. Then Sommerville lifted and scored 'Red,' but went out at second himself.

In the fourth Batstone lashed out a home run to the cars in centre.

In the seventh Batstone walked, stole second, and scored on Compeau's clean cut single.

In the eighth Sommerville singled and Cherry was knocked down by a pitched ball which hit him hard on the right fore-arm. Sommerville going to third on Rice's lift to Ross, who muffed, but caught Cherry going down. Then came the bungle. Purvis hit to Williams, who threw to Meagher for a double, but Meagher muffed. All safe, and "Sommer" scored. Teeple rolled to Williams, who forced Rice off at third, but when Gallagher missed the third strike and Hagerman missed it too, and Ted filled the bases again. Batstone fouled out to Williams to end the agony.

In the ninth Compeau beat a hot one past Meagher and scored when Sommerville drove a three-bagger to deep right. Cherry rolled to Williams, who threw the ball over Mills' head, scoring Sommerville.

The Trunks got one in the sixth and another in the eighth.

Oulette was not so effective yesterday, allowing eleven clouts, two homers, one triple, and Gallagher went the route for the visitors, and held the Railroaders to seven safeties, though in the eighth frame it looked as though he would be driven to the shower. Kingston played nice ball and hit the ball hard. The Trunks were weaker in every department yesterday.

Below you see Luis Angel Firpo in the first picture taken at his camp at White Sulphur Springs, N.Y., where he is training for his fight with Harry Wills, the Ebony Flash, at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, Sept. 11. The man in the front ofthe boat, doing nothing, is Carbone, his manager. On the left you see Mr. Wills starting his training in the surf at Southampton Long Island. Now, ladies'n gen'lmen, gaze upon the picture at the top. Commissioner of Immigration Husband, Canon Wm. S. Chase and his attorney, Bernard Sandler (left to right) are conferring on Canon Chase's demand that Firpo be deported before the fight. He bases his demand on the fact that immigration officials deported Blanca Lourdes, the Wild Bull's lady friend who accompanied him here. In view of this the Firpo-Wills fight faces a very large MAYBE.

MT. HOREB WON BALL TOURNEY

Defeated Little Britain and Mt. Pleasant Teams at Omemee.

DERRY DAY GAMES

Although rain prevented the Omemee Athletic Association from carrying out their extensive sports programme yesterday, the baseball enthusiasts undaunted by threatening skies successfully wiggled through with their schedule, Mt. Horeb winning the tournament in which Omemee, Mt. Pleasant and Little Britain also figured.

The first fixture between Mt. Pleasant and the Omemee teams was played before the first shower and the other games resumed later in the afternoon, finishing before darkness slackened their stride.

Omemeee saw their homeguards go down in defeat in a lively tilt with the Mt. Pleasant outfit. The visitors started off with bang corralling five runs in the first two frames. But, with a double play by Syer and Corneil in the 3rd putting the batter out at first and catching H. Lowes out coming home, it turned the tide for a time. This was followed by a three bagger by Pogue, the Omemee twirler in the third. The losers amassed three runs in this frame.

I. Lowes the visitors left fielder made a hit, three bases on a beautiful drive to centre, in the fourth. Lou Adams, holding down the third sack for Omemee kept this bat busy getting two nice hits in the pinches.

The final score was 9 to 6, Omemee failed to regain the early lead of Mt. Pleasant, Jameison and H. Briens were both used by the visitors and they pitched steady ball.

Mount Horeb Won

Mt. Horeb and Little Britain staged an exciting game, the former winning by a score of 3 to 1.

It was a close and hard fought fixture, Mt. Horeb scoring their three runs in the first innings and Little Britain their lone tally in the last frame.

Starr the loser's moundman socked them across in great style, and if his team mates had accepted their chances in the first, the score would have been reversed.

The finals between the two Mounts Horeb and Pleasant was not just as pleasant as it might have been for the easteners.

This game had a crowd on edge all the way, especially in the last frame when, with two out and one on Boyd, a mere youngster clouted the pill for two bases bringing in Fee

The finish saw Mt. Horeb out on top, the final score being 7 to 5.

H. Jackson pitched both games for Mt. Horeb and was going strong on the finish. Although, inclined to be a little wild he has plenty of steam.

Syer caught for both Mt. Horeb and Omemee. His work was a feature of the tournament. He couldn't handle the throws to second, but proved himself a real backstop and is handy with the willow. The teams lined up as follows:

Omemee—E. Corneill, 1b; F. Bowker, 2b; E. Pogue p; B. Syers c; B. Corneil, rf; C. Mackey cf; A. Stephenson ss; G. Morton cf; and L. Adams 3b.

Mt. Pleasant—H. Jameison p; ss; I. Lowe lf; A. Briens p ss; B. Briens c; N. Fee cf; R. Boyd 1b; A. Bland 3b; H. Lowes 2b; D. Hayes rf.

BELLEVILLE HERE ON SATURDAY

The best game of the season will be staged at Riverside Park Saturday when the scrappy Belleville outfit meet the Petes. The fans have been waiting for over a month for this game and indications point to the largest crowd that ever witnessed a Central League game here. Visitors from all over the district will be here Saturday to see the old rivals in action. Belleville are out to win Saturday and to show the Petes that they are the better team of the two. The Solomon aggregation will be out to make it three out of four and show Belleville that they are entitled to second half honors. The Petes are anxious to take another fall out of Belleville on account of the rough treatment, accorded them in the Quinte City. Belleville were peeved at losing their game and gave the Petes a rough reception.

Heckman, after a week's rest, will do the gunning for the homesters while Oulette will shoot them in for Belleville. Heckman should go great guns Saturday after a weeks' layoff. The Petes pitcher is in the best of shape and can be counted on to turn in a great game. This will be the last appearance of the Belleville crew at Riverside Park this season and the fans will undoubtedly take this opportunity to see them perform. They have provided some of the best opposition witnessed on the home diamond this year. A great crowd should turn out to see these two teams battle.

The game is called for 3.00 o'clock sharp with Hallinan and Benson of Toronto in charge.

PECKINPAUGH, NEARING END OF STRING, TURNS IN GREATEST PLAYS OF CAREER

BY BILLY EVANS

In Roger Peckinpaugh the Washington club has one of the greatest shorstops that has ever graced the game.

Peckinpaugh, having one of the best years of his long and brilliant career, is perhaps the most valuable shorstop in the major leagues this year.

Always a sensation fielder, Peckinpaugh's work in this respect has simply been uncanny this year. At the bat his hits have invariably been timely. In the pinch he does his best work.

In figuring a player's value, consideration must be given to the hits he takes away from the opposition by some brilliant play. If the hits Peck robs the opposition of were added to his batting average, his mark this year would be well over .400.

During the month of July I umpired 22 straight games with the Washington club while it was making its sensational dash to the top of the American League race.

Helps Winning Streak.

No player did more to help that winning streak than Peckinpaugh. In those 22 games I feel that I am conservative in saying I saw him make 40 seemingly impossible plays Peckinpaugh is a veteran. A few years ago some of the critics had him slipping fast. It is hard to tell how many more big years he has in his system. When an infielder breaks he goes quickly.

Despite the fact that the star of Peckinpaugh is waning, the club hasn't the slightest worry as to his successor. In Osee Bluege, now playing third base for the Nationals, Stanley Harris feels he has just the man to succeed the clever Peckinpaugh.

Peck Praises Bluege.

"He is one of the greates fielders I have ever seen," is the tribute Peck plays Bluege. "Fast on his feet, owning a good arm and the possessor of a wonderful pair of hands, Bluege has a great future as a hhortstop. I would like to be starting my major league career with his chance to become a star," says Peck.

Bluege is doing well enough at third but prefers shortstop. However, with Peckinpaugh at his best, Bluege will probably be assinged to third until the veteran starts to slip.

"I have the two best shortstops in the business," says Manager Harris. "For the next 10 years Washington, barring accidents, should have no worries about that position."

The pashing of the brilliant Peckinpaugh merely means the arrival of the sensational Bleuege.

AT THE ROYAL.

GLADYS WALTON IN DELIGHTFUL COMEDY

The Royal has a production tonight and the balance of the week that cannot fail to please 100 per cent. of every audience—that is, if the critics in all the prominent newspapers can be believed. The Royal management assures us that "The Near Lady" is as near perfect as a comedy can be. It has class written all over it. Truly, a sparkling romance, starring rollicking Gladys Walton, who so closely resembles Mary Pickford. Ladies of all ages should turn out in forces as "The Near Lady" has a special appeal for each and every one of them.

Do you remember Kate Price? Kate Price deserted the legitimate stage for the screen at the very beginning of the movie industry. She was with the old Biograph company fifteen years ago and is now one of the best known members of the film colony in Southern California. She appears in "The Near Lady," this week at the Royal Theatre, which is starring Gladys Walton in the role of a manicurist who gets into society.

AT THE CAPITOL.

DEMPSEY HAS SCREEN ROLE.

Staging the thrilling rescue of a small boy from a railroad trestle, hanging, with the youngster, by one hand as the train passes overhead, then dropping into a roaring river, is one of the exciting experiences of Jack Dempsey, world's fight champion, in his "Fight and Win" series. Dempsey stages this thrill as one of the big punch scenes in his new Universal picture plays, coming the last three days of every second week, commencing today, to the Capitol Theatre.

The champion scorned the use of a "double" and did every part of the dangerous and difficult scene himself.

This is only one of the thrills in the new pictures. A great ring battle is among the opening thrills; there is a desperate fight, later on, in an orphanage, a thrilling rescue from fire, and many other bits of excitement, also many laughs.

A splendid cast supports Dempsey in the new series. Hayden Stevenson, the fight manager of "The Leather Pushers," Kate Price, famous for her character work in "Fools Highways," Carmelita Geraghty, noted screen beauty, Esther Ralston of "Blinky," James O. Barrows, veteran character artist, Chuck Reisner and George Ovey, celebrated comedians, are in the cast. Jess Robbins, who directed "The Law Forbids" and Kenton, who directed the Andy Gump comedies, collaborate as directors of the champion.

PETERBORO ON BASEBALL MAP

Will Have Six Entries In the Ontario Championship.

The Maple Leafs, who have not been playing up to form for some time, must come across with a win against the Curlers this evening, or join the also-rans. The Leafs have been getting good pitching, and they have been using the willow freely, but the infielding has been poor. In the Juvenile series Curlers have won three close games from the Leafs, and have dropped two, and in all five games the Curlers' infield has shown up prominently. Jack and Alex. Baird give good support at the corner sacks.

Bob Mackey threatens to put over a pair of champions. He is one game up against the Cognawagas in the East Peterboro loop, and is well away with his entry in the Bantam series, having won the first half, and a leading position in the second half. The second game in the play-off series for the East Peterboro gonfalon will be played at the Exhibition Park on Friday evening. The winner of the series plays Bethany in the O.B.A.A. Intermediate race.

Baseball fans and league officials, who have been inclined to turn a critical eye on the doings of the amateur baseball moguls in Toronto and their system of returning winners for the O.B.A.A. play-offs, will be interested in an announcement from the T.A.B.A. headquarters which says:

"All senior and intermediate championship teams must file a list of their eligible players, and in the junior, juvenile, midget and bantam series a birth certificate must accompany this list. The above is to be in the hands of the executive by Thursday night, when they are calling a special meeting to deal with the same. Championship teams failing to comply with the above notice will be barred from competing in the coming city championships, which opens in all series on August 23."

With the senior Petes going through to the Central League pennant, Peterborough will have six entries in the Ontario championships. Every O.B.A.A. series is represented and the Intermediate series stands out in front with two—a mighty big showing in spite of all the squabbling, which after all must be taken as part of the battle.

The Leafs and Young Cops will hook up in a bantam game at the Exhibition park to-morrow evening, at 6 o'clock. The fifteen-year-olds have had a lot of fun in the games of this series. The fielding by the players in several of the games has not been surpassed by the older players in the Midget series. An age limit of sixteen years would seem to be more advantageous in the building up of strong teams. The backstopping suffers under the new limit of 15 years.

four recruit twirlers, has kept the Detroit team up in the race. Likewise the failure of some of the vetetans has proved a great handicap The Tigers have a powerful offensive. Usually give their pitchers a pretty good working margin. Despite this, several pitchers banked on by Manager Cobb to be very helpful have failed to come through.

With the race two-thirds over, the St. Louis Browns have stepped to the front in the Johnsonian organization.

This year is just one thrill after another in the American League. The Browns are now having their inning.

In the first half of the season St. Louis suffered from lack of pitching.

The great Shocker just couldn't hit his stride. Dixie Davis was troubled with his old fault, wildness, Van Gilder was unable to win.

The sensational work of the rookie, Wingard, and the fine showing of Dave Danforth saved the club.

With the arrival of warm weather the veterans on the St. Louis staff seem to have struck their stride.

The Browns cannot be overlooked i nthe home stretch of the American League pennant derby.

A pitching revival has put the club back in the running.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

The American League race of this year is offering ample proof of what pitching means to a ball club.

Pitching, or lack of it, has been the dominating factor in the success or failure of the eight contending teams.

When Washington made its sensational spurt to the top of the American League standing, it got air tight pitching.

The team presided over by Stanley Harris hasn't a batting punch like the Yankees; it must get good pitching, and make the most of it.

The Nationals backed up the good pitching with a strong defense and did just enough timely hitting to give them the edge.

Pitching put the Washington club in the race.

Lack of consistent pitching has kept the Yankees three times pennant winners, from being far out in front.

Father Time is beginning to slow up some of the veteran Yankee hurlers. No doubt it's a good thing for the American League race as a whole.

1. With runner on first base, batter hits a ground ball that strikes the base umpire and bounds into the shortstop's hands. A double play was completed and umpire allowed same.

The ball went directly from the bat to the umpire, no play being made on it.—J. E. D.

2. Batter hits the ball to deep center field and beats the relay to the plate for a home run. As the runner rounded third, the coacher slapped him on the back. The team in the field insisted that the coacher pushed the runner, thereby making him try for the plate.

The umpire called the runner out for interference on the part of the coacher. Please explain the coaching rule relative to this play.—S. R. E.

ANSWERS

1. When a batted ball on which no play has been made hits the umpire, the batsman is entitled to first base. No runners can advance unless forced.

The umpire erred in allowing a double play. Batter goes to first, runner on first to second.

2. Coacher must not come into contact with baserunner rounding third on a hit where there is a chance for a play.

When a home run is made on a ball hit over the fence, no attention is paid to any act of the coacher, as no play is really possible.

However, when ball remains in field of play, any act of the coacher in touching the runner rounding third can be construed as interference by the umpire.

QUESTIONS

1. How many home runs had Ruth made in the majors prior to the start of the present season? Please give the figures for each year.—A. R.

2. There is a runner on first. Pitcher is standing in his position on the rubber. Runner breaks for second. The pitcher backs off the rubber and then throws the ball to the second baseman who covered, retiring the runner. The umpire ruled a balk, contending the pitcher did not step toward the base, and was not facing second directly when he made the throw. —A. I. R.

3. Runner on third. Batter hits high fly which strikes hands of left fielder and bounds out as fielder stumbles and falls to the ground. Centre fielder, who came over on the play to back up, catches the ball before it touches the ground. Runner on third holds his base and starts for the plate the moment ball strikes hands of left fielder. Team in field contends he should not have started until ball struck hands of fielder who finally made the catch. What is correct ruling?—D. A.

ANSWERS

1. Prior to start of 1924 race Ruth had 238 home runs to his credit, made as follows: Four, 1915; three, 1916; two, 1917; 11, 1918; 29, 1919; 54, 1920; 59, 1921; 35, 1922; 41, 1923.

2. Pitcher in backing off the rubber made the play properly. The moment he gets off the rubber he can throw to any base as he pleases.

3. Runner on third had the right to advance the moment the ball struck the hands of the left fielder. He need not wait until it strikes the hands of the fielder who actually made the catch.

FOREST WASTE.

That as a result of fire, cutting and other destructive agencies, only 456 thousand out of over a million and a quarter square miles of Canadian forest land bears timber of merchantable size, was the report of Roland D. Craig, of the Dominion Forest Service, in a paper read before the Agriculture section of the British Association to-day.

One-third of the land area of Canada is essentially forest land, it was pointed out by Mr. Craig, and under good management this area would be capable of producing several times the present requirement of industry, but through fire and cutting it has been so reduced that only 456 square miles now carries timber of merchantable size.

Among interesting statistical facts mentioned in his paper are the average annual value between 1907 and 1921 of the primary products of the forests. This was stated to be $230,000,000, and to it is added $130,000,000, which is the value resulting from manufacture of primary products, such as pulp and paper.

"Canada's wood products are now second only to her agricultural products in value. The industry employs 56,000 workers, whose annual wage bill amounts to $70,000,000," the speaker said.

FORESTS DEPLETED.

"Forests in Canada have been damaged by insects to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars of value during the past 15 years," said J. M. Swaine, associate Dominion entomologist, in his address to the Agriculture section of the British Association to-day. Blame for this undermining of timber reserves can be assigned geographically to definite insects, as follows: The spruce budworm in Quebec and New Brunswick; the western pine barkbeetles in the pines of British Columbia; the spruce bark-beetles in spruce of Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan; the larch sawfly from eastern Canada to northern Alberta; and the white pine weevil in eastern Canada.

"The control of extensive epidemics of forest insects can be effected by direct methods in the case of outbreaks caused by bark-beetles and wood borers," the speaker stated.

"But there is no satisfactory method at present of controlling defoliating insects in large forest areas. Distribution of poisoned dust from airplanes may prove an effective remedy for this menace to forests. Entomologists and botanists, as well as technical and practical foresters, will have to cooperate if the annual loss to timber, as a result of the inroads of insects, is to be brought down," Mr. Swaine said.

AGED MARANDA AGAIN CHAMPION

Banquet in Carls' Rite Concludes Field Day of Toronto Policemen.

Judge O'Connel Speaks.

Toronto Police Athletic Association held their annual field day yesterday. The Island was alive with excitement as Montreal and Toronto battled for premier position in the track and field events.

Capt. Maranda, of Montreal, holder of 28 medals for all - round championships against all-comers, again won the grand championship, nosing out P. C. Dodds, of Toronto, by 1 point. The latter, young and virile, proved himself the coming Maranda, and in another year will probably outpoint the aged veteran, who reached his peak many years ago.

Toronto's young policemen promise to win many laurels for the Queen City in the years to come.

Sergeant Holmes, who for years held the record in putting the 56-lb. shot, had to bow to P.C. Boyd, a young Toronto protege. P. C. Dennison, another young Torontonian, gives promise of becoming a champion sprinter.

The feature event of the day was a tug-of-war between Montreal and Toronto. Toronto defeated Montreal on the latter's home ground some time ago, and proved their superiority yesterday, by winning two straight pulls in a walk away.

Chief Newhall Present.

Chief Newhall returned last night, foregoing the trip to Niagara Falls to-day, which is always included in the annual meet. The Firemen's Convention and the presence of a circus in the city made it necessary for him to return.

James Reid, known as the second Harry Lauder, provided the entertainment at last night's banquet at the Carl's Rite Hotel. He is a favorite of the Toronto policemen, and no outing would be complete without his presence.

Inspector William Dickson, president of the T.P.A.A., was toastmaster. Among the speakers was His Honor Judge Daniel O'Connel, who delivered an impressive address in replying to the toast, "To Our Guests." Gen. Williams and Lt.-Col. Harbottle, C.M.G., D.S.O.

Mayor Hiltz, Thomas Church, M.P., Magistrate Cohen, Inspector William Miller, George Ross and several Toronto Comptrollers also spoke.

Music was provided by the Toronto Scottish and Toronto Police Bands.

LURE OF ORIENT DEPICTED IN NEW FILM

Java—Pearl of the Pacific!

Also—melting-pot of the Orient, pitfall for souls and a country of modern lotus-eaters who, like the mythical people of Homer, absorb the tropic virus and forget civilization and all that it means!

This strange land of many nations and as many tragedies cloaked under the glamour of a brilliant cloak, is the setting for "Thundering Dawn," the Universal-Super-Jewel spectacle, opening at the Capitol today, directed by Harry Garson; a photoplay new to the screen, bringing to the pictures a kaleidoscopic array of humanity in a story startlingly real and daring.

"Thundering Dawn" tells the story of the downfall of the white man who yields to the temptations of the Orient—the peril of him who would defy Kipling's oft-quoted axiom that East and West can never meet. It is the story of a regeneration that follows the dregs of downfall, set in a rainbow-like whirl of color, gaiety—and sinister menace under the tinseled trappings.

The story deals with a white man, invading the tropical land of myriad charms, falling to the depths of degradation, but finally winning back his place among his fellows through the miracle of love. It is climaxed by an astounding typhoon and tidal wave, one of the biggest scenes of the kind and a triumph of cinema-engineering skill.

J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Q. Nilsson head the big cast, and others in the picture are Tom Santschi, Winifred Bryson, Edward Burns and Richard Kean. Extras of every possible nationality—several hundred of them—portray the varied type of the polyglot nation. Some of the scenes were actually taken in Java, on a special trip, others at Universal City, and several at the Garson studios.

RE-GROUPING CHINESE POPULATION.

China, as a whole, is not overpopulated. This is the conclusion of P. M. Roxby, professor of geography in the University of Liverpool, who discussed the distribution of population in China before the Geography section of the British Association yesterday afternoon. Prof. Roxby has travelled extensively in the Far East, and has made a special study of the political and economical aspects of China's natural conformation. "The large cities are overcrowded," he admitted. "But China, as a country, can support more people. There will be a migration from the big centres of population." The scientist indicated the lines along which the readjustment which he foresees, is likely to take place.

"The present grouping of population presents obstacles to political consolidation," he stated. "There will be a change."

DEVELOP ONTARIO FISH.

Commercial and game fisheries occupy an important place among the natural resources of the province of Ontario, according to Dr. W. A. Clemens, of the University of Toronto, who described fisheries research which have been carried out under the University in Lake Nipigon, in the Zoology section of the British Association today. Lake Nipigon, which is 1752 square miles in area with a maximum depth of 402 feet, has been open to commercial fishing for eight years.

Three lines have been followed in conducting the investigations, according to Prof. Clemens. These include a study of the physical features of the waters of the lake in respect of distribution of temperatures, oxygen, carbon dioxide, and the relation of these factors to the plant and animal life; the food supply of the fish, involving measurements of the life in the surface, and at the bottom; and a study of the fish themselves, in regard to their life histories, relative abundance, and rates of growth.

"The investigation has yielded much information respecting the general geological conditions existing in the lake, and to economic questions, such as competition for food among fish, correlation of age with length, weight and girth, size of fish taken in nets of various sized meshes, and rate of mortality," said Dr. Clemens. "Special consideration has been given to such commercial fishes as the common whitefish, the lake sturgeon, and the lake trout."

AMERICAN FLIERS TO TAKE CHANCE

Smith Is Anxious To Get On On His Homeward Trip.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 14.—(United Press).—An uncertain goal awaited the American flyers preparing to hop off from here to-day for the east coast of Greenland, near the port of Angmagsa'lik. After all plans had been made for the flight to be started at eight o'clock to-day, word was received from the Danish steamer Gertrude Rask that heavy fogs surrounded Greenland. The [illegible] had become worse and there was again some question of [illegible] fliers would be able to make a landing. Immediately after this word was received, Admiral Magruder, who is in charge of the flight, and Lieut. Lowell Smith, flight commander, went into conference. Lieut. Smith wants no more delay in his flight homeward, and announced that, provided everything seems safe around here, the flyers would attempt to get away some time to-day.

The flyers would be guided by the weather at Angmagsalik. If the weather permits the flyers will land in Greenland waters, re-fuel, and hop right on again. Otherwise, the flyers will attempt a landing at the Greenland port and await for better weather for the next leg of their journey.

Of the dead, three thousand perished in Maigan, Chihli Province, and the majority of the remainder in the Hunan Province, which suffered more than any other parts of the country in torrential rains.

Although it has been learned that about fifty men were in the barn when the fire started, only seven have reported to the officers that they escaped.

GASOLINE IGNITED.

Lights Match To Examine Gas In Tank, While Car On Hunter Street.

R. Collins discovered that lighting a match is a very poor way to examine the quantity of gasoline in a car. This method was resorted to by him last night while on Hunter Street West.

As a result, the fire alarm was rung and Mr. Collins suffered burns on the hand and arm.

The gas tank was situated at the rear of the car, and, fortunately, only a little gas lying on the ground ignited. However, it goes to show that gasoline is inflammable.

RANEY WRITES A HOT LETTER TO FERGUSON

States That Ferguson Is To Blame For Sale of Beer In Toronto.

BROKE PROMISE.

"You Cannot Be Blind To The Free Sale Of Beer In Saloons."

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press).—W. E. Raney, member of the Ontario Legislature, and former Attorney-General of the Province, in another open letter to-day, declares that there has been an open sale of beer in Toronto saloons all this year, and that the responsibility for this illegal situation is at the door of the Prime Minister of the Province, Hon. G. H. Ferguson, to whom the letter is addressed. "You will remember," says Mr. Raney, "that before the general election you pledged yourself to the strict enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act. You have failed to keep your promise. As you very well know, nearly all this year there has been an open sale of beer in Toronto saloons. Who is responsible? The responsibility, Mr. Prime Minister, is yours. You could have put an end to the open sale of beer in defiance of the Ontario Temperance Act at any time within twenty-four hours. If it is not an impertinent question, why haven't you done it?"

Mr. Raney says that for the past three months the amendment of 1920 providing for a $2,000 fine and a jail term of three months for offending "saloon keepers," has been a dead letter in Toronto and other parts of Ontario. Various measures taken by offenders to circumvent the law are detailed in the letter.

"You cannot," Mr. Raney goes on, "be blind to the advantage the free sale of beer in the capital city of the province will be to beer men on your coming plebiscite by giving people the impression, which is false, that the law is not one that is difficult or impossible to enforce against the saloon-keepers."

LOCAL BOWLERS REACH FINALS

T. C. Elliot Chases Namesake In an 18 End Fixture, Losing after Hard Struggle.

TWICE FINALISTS.

Peterboro bowlers returned from Bowmanville yesterday, each member of T. C. Elliott's rink carrying a camel hair morning coat under his arm.

The local rink didn't win the Good year Trophy, but they reached the finals and made the passage rough for Alex Elliott of Bowmanville, who triumphed after a hard fought 18 end game.

It was anybody's game until the fifteenth end when the winners secured the edge by making 4, which left the score 13 to 7, the final score being 15 to 7.

There were many anxious moments in the finals.

Great credit is due the local rink which lined up as follows—George Coleman lead, Nelson Routley, second, W. R. Fox, vice skip and T. C. Elliot. It is an accomplishment evidencing merit to reach the finals in a class of 40 rinks including entries from the oldest established Clubs in the Province.

Just one month ago the same rink reached the finals at the Whitby tournament and at present have a strangle hold on the R. M. Glover Trophy for the most points obtained on the local green.

Dame Fortune was not with them for it was not the best of luck to plough steadily through two successive tournaments only to be eliminated in the finals. There was no horse shoe hanging around the neck of the Peterboro bowlers at Bowmanville.

Skip T. C. Elliot is an old timer and has graced many foreign greens and experienced the competition of many a final in the years gone by. The other members are graduates of the kindergarten one of whom is bowling for his second year while the other two have just been nicely seasoned to the game, with three years to their credit.

Circus Dustless Sweeper.

Attracted Citizens By Gliding Down George Street At Fast Rate.

Citizens were attracted early yesterday afternoon by the presence of a small type of dustless sweeper on George street, Frequently ringing a bell to warn traffic of its approach the machine hurried down through the traffic, covering the path of the circus parade and left a clean path behind it.

The sweeper did its work well, but the feature of the machine, was the speed at which it travelled.

It did not however, cover a very wide stretch of roadway and would have to make at least three trips to cover the road on one side of the street car tracks.

The circus management caused no trouble to the street cleaning department, as a result of the long parade.

WHITE COAL TO TAKE PLACE OF ORDINARY FUEL

No Need of U. S. Power When We Have Plenty In Our Own Country.

MILLIONS WASTED.

Sir Adam Beck Says We Do Not Realize The Value Of Electricity.

QUEBEC, Aug. 14. — (Canadian Press).—An industrial renaissance is shortly to be experienced in the Dominion, and it will be brought about by increased production of electrical power, according to Sir Adam Beck, who reached Quebec, yesteday afternoon from Europe. "We do not yet realize the value of electricity," Sir Adam, continued, "or we would not be wasting millions of tons of coal annually when we are in a position to produce all electrical power necessary to successful and economic operation of all our industries. There is no need to go to the United States for power when wew have in Canada the greatest opportunities in the world for water power development."

Sir Adam treated of another aspect of the question when we spoke of the fact that most of the coal used in Canada was imported from the United States.

"It is absurb," he said, "to import thousands and thousands of tons of coal when we have at hand a source of power that is infinitely stronger than steam and which gives better service. In Quebec, as much as in Ontario, there is every need for greater power development We must double or triple our production of "white coal" if we are to develop our industries without placing ourselves under an obligation to the United States."

The scheme for deepening the St. Lawrenec waterways came in for some comment from Sir Adam but would not state whether he was in favour of it or not. For him political-economic future of country was wrapped up in a scheme and extreme care would have to be exercized in order that Canada might later prove to be nothing more than an utopian dream.
